JEWETT CITY

Morris Adelman and Samuel Cohen, both of Providence, R. I., doing business as Cohen and Adelman in Providence, were held by the authorities at Jewett City pending certain complaints that they had taken 42 hens from a Polish farmer at Jewett City, on May 9th. Upon a thorough investigation of this complaint, the charges of the theft of these hens were nolled against the said Cohen and Adelman. Upon the request of the police authorities of Jewett City and at their own free will they came from Providence to Jewett City to prove to the authorities that there were no grounds for this complaint.

A Hartford Sunday paper has the following to say in regard to Richmond Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Gardner of this place:

A bright future in opera is predicted for Richmond Gardner of Jewett City, one of the two music students from Connecticut selected nearly a year ago to have the advantage of the music scholarship at the French-American Conservatory of Music at Fontainebleau, France. For close on a year now he has been studying under the masters in France and is enrolled for the next summer course at Fontinbleau. During his studies abroad he has been heard by some of the foremost critics and all have unanimously praised his work and encouraged him to pursue his studies.

Mr. Gardner has a mass baritone voice of musual range, sweetness and power. He began his musical education under Frederick Weld of New York and later studied with William Wheeler, Ph. B., also of New York. When Mr. Wheeler became head of the vocal department at the University School of Music at Ann Arbor, Michigan, Mr. Gardner went with him, and last June completed the three year course, graduating with high honors and as president of his class.

After passing his examinations for the scholarship, he received most complimentary recommendations from Dr. Albert Stanley, head of the University School of Music, Albert Lockwood, acting director, Mr. Wheeler, his personal instructor, and also from Ex-Governor Everett J. Lake of Connecticut.

On June 14, he sailed on the "Paris" for France, and at the annual exercises at the conservatory at Fontainebleau, Mr. Gardner received honorable mention.

At the close of the term, on the advice of his teachers, he remained in France, where in Paris, he continued his study of the opera under the tutelage of Mlle. Demougot, who was head of the operatic department of the French-American Conservatory.

Mr. Gardner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Gardner of Jewett City and is a native of that place, where he was graduated from the public schools. Later he attended the Norwich Free Academy, and became affiliated with the glee club and orchestra of that school. Twice he was the soloist at concerts given by those organizations at the Slater Memorial hall and on one occasion was soloist at one of the Sunday evening musicals at the Central Baptist church. During his school days in that city, he was a member of the vested choir of Christ Episcopal church.

During his studies in Michigan Mr. Gardner was soloist in the choir of two of the largest churches in Ann Arbor, and his senior year instructed classes in Milan.

The Mothers' Day flowers at the Congregational church on Sunday were the gift of the Sunday school. Miss M. A. Burdick also gave flowers in memory of her mother.

Twelve candidates for membership in the Packerville church received the ordinance of baptism at the Jewett City Baptist church Sunday morning.

The conference of churches is to be held in Hanover on Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. A. M. Clarke has returned from a week's visit at her brother's home in Boston.

Mrs. Walter Marshall and Mrs. Dona Ballou expect to sail early in June for their former homes in Scotland. Mrs. Marshall has not been home for ten years and Mrs. Ballou in eight years.

Miss Frances Hurd of South Norwalk, who is connected with the Audobon society has visited the Griswold school the past week and talked to the children about birds, exhibiting a number of mounted specimens.

The class of '23 at the Riverside Grammar school held a social Friday evening. It was a May basket party, each member bringing a lunch in baskets. Misses Alice Brown, Alice Barnett and Irene Warner were the judges as to the prettiest basket, and Clara Richardson received the prize. The grand march was led by Superintendent Clement.

COLUMBIA

On Tuesday evening 19 members of Columbia grange visited Echo grange, Mansfield, at their invitation, and furnished the program during the lecturer's hour. The grange room was entirely filled by the members of both granges. The program was as follows: Song, Four and Twenty Sailors, James Johnson; reading, On Transportation, Ethel Blakeley; quartet, Sweet and Low, Edith Isham, Beatrice Collins, H. P. Collins and Raymond Lyman; sketch, Matrimonial Philosophy, James Johnson, William Wolff, Lawrence Hutchins, Philip Isham and Edith Isham; recitation, Poor Charlie Jones of Bashville, Esther Granstrom; solo, When the Curfew Bell is Tolling, Edith Isham; farce, Man's Confiateux Harmonica, Clayton Hunt and several young ladies; sketch, Buying Eggs of Mr. Perkins, William Wolff, Ethel Blakeley and Esther Granstrom; quartet, Sweetheart, Be My Fair Bride. Ice cream and cake were served, ending a very pleasant evening.

The annual meeting of the Columbia Improvement society, which had been twice postponed, was held on Monday evening at the town hall, 23 of those present taking part in the balloting. The reports of the secretary, Mrs. Cora L. Hutchins, and the treasurer, H. W. Porter, were read and accepted. The secretary reported that several whist parties and a bazaar had been held during the year and the proceeds turned over to the treasurer. The treasurer reported cash on hand at the beginning of the year, $501.76; proceeds from entertainments, $319.45; total, $821.21; sundry expenses, $76.91; cash on hand, $744.30. The election of officers, which was unanimous, resulted as follows: Edward P. Lyman, president; Cora L. Hutchins, secretary; H. W. Porter, treasurer. Regarding the election of the board of directors, Dwight A. Lyman moved that the chairman appoint a committee of three who should select four persons as members of the committee to co-operate with the president in the work of the society during the coming year. This was objected to by the chairman, Edward P. Lyman, and others, who maintained that the by-laws of the society required the election of the directors by ballot, which was sustained by the meeting.

The result of the election after taking several ballots was Rowland L. Cobb, William M. Wolff, Clayton E. Hunt and Mary W. Hutchins constituting the board of directors. The president made an address in which he spoke of improvements that should be made to the green and the town, and others which would be very desirable that would make the town more attractive to the residents and summer visitors. The meeting was then open for general discussion on the subject of improvements.

Miss Anna Dix of Brooklyn has arrived in town and is staying with Mrs. R. G. Proctor previous to occupying her cottage at the lake.

Luther Church, an aged person who has been a charge upon the town for several years, living recently at the home of Lawrence Holbrook on Pine street, became suddenly very ill on Monday, probably from a shock, and was taken to a hospital in Willimantic.

ATTAWAUGAN

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Nason entertained the following over Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Felix Labeau of Wauregan, Mrs. H. Labeau and daughter Emelia of North Grosvenordale.

Mrs. Cordelia Mongeau spent the week end in Southbridge, Mass., visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pechie, Sr., entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Gravell and family and George Strack of Oxford, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gladue and family of Danielson.

Mrs. John Perkins led the Epworth league meeting at Ballouville last Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ida Watson and sons, James and Frank, and Misses Florence and Marguerite Stott visited Elsworth Watson and family at New London Sunday.

Charles Kosmaler is confined to his home with a broken leg.

Mothers' day was observed at the M. E. church Sunday.

Delor Mondo of Ballouville has moved his family here.

Thomas Caffery attended a wedding at Thompsonville last week.

GURLEYVILLE

Wednesday, May 9th, was an epoch making day for the children of the higher grades of Gurleyville grammar school. The day looked anything but bright. Dary heavy clouds overcast the sky, and there were 20 little hearts beating fast, wishing Old Sol would look upon them, but no, the sun would not come out and the rain began to come down. Nevertheless, the principal of Gurleyville school said Wet or fine, we will go, and go they did.

Arthur Wood, Joseph Marshart and Mr. Ayotte had their autos ready and the merry crowd proceeded to Hartford, where they saw both houses in session and had the pleasure of shaking hands with Governor Templeton, who was more than delighted to see the youngsters.

Mr. Ayotte took great pains in describing to the children everything of an interesting character in the capitol. The supreme court and state library were then visited and a great interest was taken when the state librarian unveiled the old charter and described the Stuart portrait of Washington, the Riley portrait of Charles II and the portraits of our several governors; in fact, the children delighted to see so many things of interest connected with the history of their own state and general government.

About 1 o'clock a hot dinner was provided and the children enjoyed the repast.

At 4 p. m. the merry crowd started on their homeward journey and many of the lanes rang out with songs and laughter after one of the most enjoyable days of their lives.

The cost of this excursion was defrayed by the school children themselves through the medium of a minstrel show which certainly gave credit to the talent attending the Gurleyville grammar school.

Rev. F. Frye, a former pastor, has taken a charge in East Hartford and the local church is being supplied until a permanent arrangement can be made. Rev. W. H. district superintendent, preached a very interesting sermon last Sunday.

Prof. F. C. Smith is going to change his place of abode. He is contemplating [illegible] his house with his brother, E. L. Smith, of Willimantic.

E. A. Walker was a Willimantic visitor Friday.

COLCHESTER

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Lewis of Norfolk, Va., arrived at their summer home on Broadway Thursday afternoon. The trip was made here in their automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Baker, Miss Nellie Doane and James O'Brien motored to Norwich Thursday.

Miss Anna O'Brien returned from a few days' visit in Willimantic Thursday.

Mrs. Martha Williams has returned from several weeks' visit with her sons in Wallingford.

William K. Raymond of Westchester was a caller in town Thursday.

Wooster Star chapter, O. E. S., held a May basket social in Masonic hall Wednesday evening. A musical program was enjoyed. A sketch was given by Messrs. Curry, Jones, McCall, Thomas and Mrs. Jones. The orchestra gave several selections in a very pleasing manner.

Supt. C. A. Kramer and men are getting the state road between Colchester and Norwich ready for a coating of oil.

Leonard Siebert, Clayton D. Barton and brother of East Hampton were callers in town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Baker were guests of their son George in Meriden over Sunday.

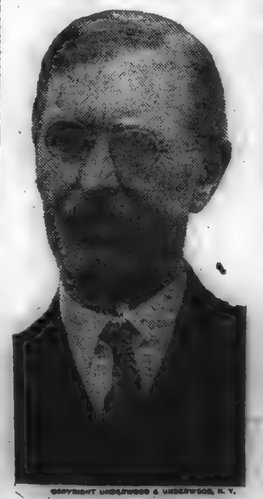
Episcopal services were held in the Baptist church Sunday at 3 p. m. Rev. T. D. Martin of Hebron preached.

Morton A. Taintor post, No. 9, G. A. R., held a meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Edwin R. Hills on Pleasant street. At one time the post was large in membership but the passing away of the old comrades has reduced it until at present only seven are left. Plans were discussed for the observance of Memorial Sunday, May 27, and Memorial day, the 30th. This year the post will go to Hebron in the morning and decorate the graves of their comrades in the Hebron cemetery.

The annual meeting of the Debating society of Bacon academy will be held in Grange hall Wednesday evening. The meeting will this year be of even greater interest than that of last year, as there will be a contest in a physical culture drill between two companies of girls of the academy as well as between two companies of boys. There will also be musical features, including numbers by the school orchestra. The question to be debated is: Resolved, That the United States should enter the world court unconditionally. The affirmative will be upheld by John Wallis, Rose Mint and Pauline Horowitz, and the negative by Morris Broder, Louis Minsk and Ruth Levine.

The members of the winning team will have their names engraved on the reverse side of the Edward M. Day trophy cup won last year by Misses Cecily Smith, Adele Slopak and Rachel Slopak. After this event, the cup will remain a permanent trophy of the school without further contest. The winning boys' drill company and the winning girls' company will each be presented blue ribbons. State Superintendent of Schools J. M. Davis, who recently visited Bacon academy, commented very favorably on the physical culture drill given by the students.

Authority On Ancient Civilization Of The Americas



GOVERNMENT MOVING PICTURES & UNDERWOOD, N. Y.

Professor Marshall H. Seville, authority on the ancient civilization of the Americas, has just returned from a study of the ruins in Yucatan, where the Mayan race—which once flourished in southern Mexico and Central America—reached its highest development of civilization, a civilization that dates back thousands of years. An intensive study of this rich archaeological treasure is being made by the Carnegie Institute in Washington and the Museum of the American Indian in New York.

CONFERENCE CONVENES IN MEXICO CITY TODAY

Mexico City, May 13 (By the A. P.).—The question of expropriation of lands, which is on the agenda of the mixed American-Mexican conference which will begin tomorrow, has been simplified through the publication of a presidential order outlining the method for handling claims for land expropriated before the present Mexican constitution became effective, May 1, 1917.

During what is called the pre-constitutional period—the period commencing at the fomenting of the revolution in 1913 and up to May 1, 1917—the military authorities of provisional state governments seized and divided among villages lands for which the owners were not indemnified. President Obregon in his decree orders that indemnification for lands seized during this pre-constitutional period be made according to the law of May 31, 1882, and the expropriation provisions of the federal code which were in force during the pre-constitutional years. After the amounts of indemnification are fixed those entitled will receive payment in bonds of the public agricultural debt created by presidential decree Jan. 10, 1920. The question of the expropriation of lands under the present agrarian laws, however, are not to be dealt with as far as is known.

PAINTERS IN NEW YORK HAVE VOTED TO STRIKE

New York, May 13.—A general strike of 10,000 union painters, effective Monday, May 21, was authorized today by the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, district council of New York, after a strike vote had been cast by the members.

The union demands, it was said, include a five-day week, restoration of collective bargaining and a wage increase of from $9 to $10 a day. The Painters' union will be given full support by the Building Trades council, according to Michael J. Colleran, president of the organization.

New President Of The French Senate

Gaston Doumergue, the new President of the French Senate, belongs to the same group in the Senate, the Democratic Left, which three years ago elected his predecessor, Leon Bourgeois, who resigned recently in order to give all his time to the affairs of the League of Nations. M. Doumergue has had a brilliant career in politics, beginning as a colonial judge, then becoming member of the Chamber of Deputies from Nimes. He entered the Combes cabinet as Minister of Commerce and held the same portfolio in the Sarrien and Clemenceau Ministries. In the Briand cabinet of 1909 he was Minister of Instruction. He has been a Senator since 1910, when he was elected from the Department of Gard, and from December 8, 1913 to June 2, 1914, he was Premier (President of the Council of Ministers).

TAFTVILLE

Wedding. Mr. and Mrs. John Krauss and Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and their daughter of New Bedford, Mass., were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Martin Krauss of Norwich avenue on Saturday, owning their touring car which was parked outside the Krauss residence, was crashed into by a Ford operated by a man named Alfred Tremblay of Norwich. The back of the Krauss car was dented badly, the gasoline tank damaged and the fenders smashed. The Ford was badly damaged about the radiator.

Saturday afternoon a Ford car, which was proceeding along the Ocean road near the Ponemah switch, became unmanageable and wandered all over the road until the front wheels collapsed and the car came to a stop near the trolley tracks where it was abandoned and later towed to a Norwich garage for repairs.

Mike Morin of Northampton, Mass., spent the week-end with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laramie of Palmiad were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Smith of North B street.

The flowers at the Taftville Congregational church Sunday morning were given by Mrs. Jesse Peloquin Miss Mildred Kloss, Byron Kloss and Howard Kloss in memory of their mother, and by Mrs. James Edwards and Mrs. Patrick J. Fogarty in memory of Mrs. Thomas Greenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Siguist of North B street were recent visitors in Baltic.

The dance at the Taftville Mountaineer club attracted a large crowd Saturday evening. The Crescent orchestra furnished the music.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cartier of South B street spent Sunday with relatives in Montville.

Ponemah Council, No. 34, K. of C., met Sunday afternoon at its rooms on Providence street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Barritt and Miss Isabel Barritt of Norwich avenue plan to spend the summer in Europe.

Mrs. Eva Owens of South A street has resigned her position with the Ponemah company.

The Young People's society of Christian Endeavor met Sunday evening in the Sunday school rooms of the Taftville Congregational church.

Arthur Dufour was host to a company of his friends Thursday evening at his home on South C street in observance of his 27th birthday.

The Scotland Road Social club has been newly painted and decorated, and a new electric lighting system installed.

Miss Helen Allard of South B street has been enjoying a few days' vacation.

The Ladies Rifle team of the German Shooting club surprised Mrs. Charles Vollman at her home on Norwich avenue Friday evening, the occasion being her birthday.

BOZRAHVILLE COUNCIL OBSERVES MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's day was observed by the Bozrahville Council of Jewish Women in conjunction with their last meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. James Berkman. The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Ann Gilman; first vice president, Mrs. J. Rosansky; second vice president, Mrs. James Berkman; secretary, Miss Ida Lankowitz; treasurer, Mrs. S. Schatz.

During the celebration the children gave several appropriate recitations and sang several songs. The feature of the evening was a surprise to the mothers when the children presented them gifts. A great deal of credit is due Miss J. R. Zachs in arranging the program.

Following the program refreshments of cake, selected cookies and sweets were served.

DR. HOWE PRESENTS RESIGNATION FROM PASTORATE OF PARK CHURCH

At the close of the Sunday morning service at Park Congregational church, Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., read to the congregational his resignation as pastor of the church. His letter of resignation follows:

To the Park Congregational church of Norwich:

Nearly four decades ago, I was honored by the offer of the spiritual leadership of this church by the then existing membership, which with a very few exceptions has now passed into the great silence. With them and with those who have succeeded them it has been my rare privilege to be associated in the fellowship of Christian worship and work over an unusual protracted period of service. To these older and newer generation of worshippers I never cease to be grateful for the opportunity given me here for doing my best for the extension of the Kingdom of God, and for their patience and toleration of my many limitations and imperfections, of which I am deeply conscious and regretful. It is hence with the profoundest gratitude and the sincerest affection for all who have wrought with me here that I return to the church the entrusted task and ask to be released from the bonds that have held us so long. With the highest hopes and confident expectation of a greater future for the church, believe me your warmly attached and grateful pastor.

SAMUEL H. HOWE.

Norwich, May 13, 1923.

Dr. Howe's Service Here

Rev. Dr. Howe preached his first sermon in Park church the second Sunday in May 1883, just 40 years prior to the date of his reading his resignation. He became active pastor of the church and assumed the pulpit as such the second Sunday in November, the 9th, 1883. From that time to this he has been actively associated with this church. His official installation occurred December 13, 1883.

During this long period Park church has been most fortunate in such a leadership, for during Dr. Howe's term of office, it has progressed in many ways. By his untiring efforts it has always taken an active and interested part in the religious affairs of Norwich and vicinity.

Perhaps the pleasantest feature of his pastorate is the fact that at all times there has been the most cordial and friendly feeling existing between himself and the members of his congregation. He has seen the older membership pass beyond and has ever been ready to assist any, and all in times of joy and sorrow.

Will Probably Complete 40 Years

At an informal meeting of the congregation held immediately after the close of the service, a strong sentiment was expressed that Dr. Howe should continue his pastorate until autumn and thus complete his full 40 years of service. An informal committee waited upon him at the parsonage following this meeting and Dr. Howe expressed to them his willingness to serve until that time if the church should request him to do so.

There is no doubt but that the church will hold a formal meeting within the near future to take action upon the resignation and it is expected that at this time Dr. Howe will be formally asked to remain until fall.

Dr. Howe is the dean of Norwich pastors and was 85 at his last birthday in December, 1922.

Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY RALLY WITH TALK ON "MOTHER"

The parlors were well filled at the men's hour at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday at 4 o'clock. Swahn's orchestra delighted the audience with several selections, and accompanied the singing of the popular hymns. The opening exercises included responsive reading and Ralph Marsh offered prayer.

Two reels of moving pictures of scenic beauty and educational value were shown and between the reels Secretary Hill gave a brief talk on Mother. The speaker said in part:

"In everything that is fine Jesus Christ set us an example; when he hung upon the cruel cross, suffering awful physical pain, he had the most kindly thought of his mother. He saw his mother and the beloved disciple, John, in the crown around the cross, and he said, doubtless with much feeling and thoughtfulness to his mother, "Woman, behold thy son" and to John, he said, "Behold thy mother." He evidently desired that his mother should be well cared for after his death and he knew that John would do this very thing, and the significant statement is made in the scripture, that "from that very hour, John took her to his own home." Jesus valued his mother, and I wonder if we value ours as much as we ought. When we were children how often when we were hurt or troubled we ran crying to mother, and how she loved the tears away with her wonderful patience. 'Tis said that woman was last at the cross and first at the tomb, showing her great sympathy, and so mother has always been the one to sympathize with her boy. If more sons would stop and think of mother's love there would be fewer prodigals in the world. It is strange indeed how many sons trample on mother's love. They do not stop to think. At this point the speaker quoted a verse as follows: "There's a dear and precious book, though, it's worn and faded now, which recalls the happy days of long ago when I stood at mother's knee, with her hand upon my brow, and I heard her voice in gentle tones and low."

Emmett J. Fritz operated the moving picture machine.

Health Talk by Radio.

The first attempt to give a health talk which will be heard from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf will be made on next Thursday, (May 17th). At that time Charles M. DeForest, one of the officials of the National Tuberculosis Association, will speak from the radio station of the Chicago Board of Trade, Station WDAP, and radio fans the country over will listen to his health message. His formal subject will be Health Armor.

The speech has been timed with special reference to the convenience of the Atlantic and Pacific coast and will be given exactly on the following schedule: 7.30 p. m., Pacific time; 8.30 p. m., Mountain time; 9.30 p. m., Central time, and 10.30 p. m., standard time.

The speech will require twenty minutes and will relate to the general health movement.

Near East Bundle Day.

The Near East Relief is planning a Bundle Day for every community in Connecticut during the month of May. Old clothing, overcoats, blankets, shoes—everything that has the power to keep out the cold or offer protection is wanted.

The only hope these thousands of sufferers have lies in this organization. Clean out the attic, go through the clothes closets and see if you cannot make up a sizable bundle to help these destitute people. As it will be impossible to place a personnel for this work in the smaller communities, it is suggested that donors send small bundles of clothing, by parcel post, to the Near East Relief, state headquarters, 750 Main street, Hartford, Conn., and larger bundles ship to the Near East Relief, U. S. Army Base, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Grammar School Athletes Preparing.

The grammar school athletes will be busy this week with the grammar school baseball league opening Wednesday afternoon and the outdoor athletic meet taking place Friday afternoon. The baseball games will be held on the Academy field, the first game being between Broadway and Greeneville.

The athletic meet will be held at the fairgrounds. Last year's Bulletin trophy cup was "copped" by the Elizabeth street school while the "Greenvilletes" captured the Evening Record pennant.

Temporary Receivers Appointment.

Upon the application of A. E. Andrews for a receivership for the Puritan Maid Bread Co. of this city, Judge Allyn L. Brown, of the superior court has appointed a temporary receiver and has set a date for a hearing.

Mathew Barr was given the appointment.

DOUBLE FUNERAL SERVICE IN PAUTIPAUG CEMETERY

Relatives and friends from Worcester, Mass., and Hartford, Middletown, East Hampton, Terryville, Montville, Willimantic and Norwich, also a large delegation from Clara Barton Tent, No. 7 Daughters of Veterans, and comrades from Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., attended the burial services in Pautipaug cemetery, Franklin, Saturday afternoon, of Mrs. Marshall Jewett and her father, Leander Brown, late residents of Norwich.

James McKee, chaplain of Sedgwick post, conducted the Grand Army ritualistic service at the grave of their comrade, Mr. Brown, and was assisted by Commander Orrin M. Price, and John Irish of Norwich, also Theodore Smith of Franklin, the latter a brother-in-law of Mr. Brown, all members of the post.

This was followed by the ritualistic work of the Daughters of Veterans, who conducted the service at the grave of their sister, Mrs. Jewett.

These members of Clara Barton tent officiated: Mrs. Lillian Whiting, chaplain; Miss Lillian Wolf, president; second council, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, who served on this occasion for the senior vice president, Mrs. Genie Evans; and Mrs. Jennie Newbury, who served as junior vice president.

There were several beautiful floral pieces.

The Henry Allen & Son Co., were the undertakers in charge of the arrangements, with Byron H. Evans officiating.

Attended Funeral in Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Evans of 23 Washington street, had as guests over the week-end, the latter's mother, Mrs. Rebecca Moriarty and Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Kelley and daughter, Miss Mildred Kelley, all of Worcester, who motored to Norwich, to attend the burial services Saturday afternoon, in Pautipaug cemetery Franklin, of Mrs. Kelley's sister, Mrs. Marshall Jewett and their father, Leander Brown.

Other relatives who went to Franklin to attend the services were Marshall Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Evans and Mrs. Ella Tucker of Norwich; George Wright and Henry Brown and the latter's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harry Brown of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. Allen York, of Middletown; and Mr and Mrs. Clark James and son, Roscoe James, of Willimantic.

Out of town friends included Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Terryville.

GLEASON AGAINST GROVER IN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

At least one contest is promised in the democratic caucus to be held this (Monday) evening for the nomination of a ticket for the city election in June and there may be others develop before the caucus is called.

At the solicitation of Greeneville friends, John T. Gleason of Seventh Street is to be a candidate before the caucus for the nomination for alderman against Anson R. Grover, who is to run for a re-nomination.

Reports were current Sunday that Mr. Gleason had withdrawn from the race, but these were denied by those in touch with the situation and it was stated on good authority that Mr. Gleason's name will certainly be presented in the caucus.

Miss Ruby Phillips of Wellesley, Mass. a student volunteer who is to leave for India this summer was the speaker at the Girls' Rally of the Eastern Connecticut Branch, WBM., held at 3.30 Saturday afternoon at the Community house, with Miss Helen Radie of Hanover, junior secretary, presiding. Miss Phillips gave an interesting description of the work which she expects to do. Miss Elizabeth F. Pullen, junior secretary, spoke upon Girls' Budget and devotional exercises were conducted in closing the meeting.

Among the 25 in attendance were representatives from the churches in Hanover, Colchester and Norwich Congregational churches.

Had Guests From Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan Williams of Washington street have had as their guests for a few days, Mr. and Mrs. William MacLane and little daughter, Gean MacLane, formerly of Portland, Maine, who left Saturday afternoon to visit relatives in New Haven.

The MacLane family which has been visiting Mrs. MacLane's father, Rev. William MacLane and other relatives in Leominster, Mass., before coming to Norwich, expect to sail from New York May 16, for Galveston, Texas, thence going by rail to Houston and on to San Antonio, where they are to make their home. Mr. MacLane having accepted a very fine position there.

Leaning town of Pisa consists of eight stories and is ascended by 330 steps, with seven bells in the tower.

WESTERLY LABOR UNION DEMANDS DATSON RESIGN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, May 13.—At an indignation meeting called by the Westerly Central Labor Union in the Bliven Opera House here this afternoon in protest of the way Senator Abraham Datson of Westerly voted on the 48-hour bill in the Rhode Island legislature, two resolutions were adopted by the meeting calling upon Senator Datson to resign. It is claimed by the labor factions that Senator Datson promised them his support of the measure and then when the time came he voted along party lines against the 48-hour bill.

The meeting was largely attended and had strong inclinations toward a political rally. The climax came after the meeting was over when there was a heated argument in the lobby of the theatre between State Representative Samuel H. Davis of Westerly and Senator Powers of Cumberland. Lieutenant Governor Felix A. Toupin, who was one of the speakers, was coming out of the theatre when Representative Davis chose to criticise Mr. Toupin's method of approaching the subject of the meeting. Senator Powers, who was with Lieutenant Governor Toupin, pushed the lieutenant governor aside and asked Representative Davis what it was to him anyway what the speaker had said and how he went about the matter. There was a heated argument and bystanders fully expected some fireworks but the men cooled off and went outside.

The chairman of the meeting was Edwin Sawyers and seated on the stage were C. J. Murphy, secretary of the Westerly Central Labor Union, and the following men who spoke at the meeting: Senator John H. Powers, of Cumberland, member of the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America; Lieutenant Governor Felix A. Toupin, Senator Robert E. Quinn of West Warwick, R. I., and other labor representatives.

Senator Power was the first speaker and spoke on matters of labor conditions and the matter of Senator Datson's voting against the 48-hour bill. Mr. Power spoke for half an hour.

Lieutenant Governor Toupin was the next speaker and he talked for nearly two hours during which he took occasion to criticise the republican party and his talk was so much along political lines that it made the meeting appear like a political rally, although the speakers denied that it was of a political nature.

The resolutions which were adopted came from the Westerly Central Labor Union and from the women and girl workers in the industrial plants in the city. Both asked that Senator Datson resign.

Another meeting was held in the evening at the Lyric theatre at which Thomas F. McMahon, international president of the United Textile Workers of America, was the speaker. Mr. McMahon spoke of the strike conditions in the Lorraine mills and also took exception to the press notices given the strike and labor conditions by Westerly papers and said that a committee would demand a fifty-fifty treatment on labor publicity. John Thomas, an organizer of the Textile Union, was also a speaker.

HANOVER COUPLE IN 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar S. Allen of Hanover occurred Tuesday, May 1st. The day was happily celebrated. In the afternoon they, with the immediate family, made a few calls in Scotland, visiting three places especially which vividly brought back to them the 1st of May, 1873. They stopped at Mrs. Allen's old home on Pudding Hill, where they were married 50 years ago. Then there was a double wedding for Mrs Allen's brother Caleb married Nellie Sullivan at the same ceremony. From there Mr. and Mrs. Allen visited the place where they first began housekeeping and finally they went to the old Allen homestead. They called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Anthony and the two couples spent a little while together recalling events of 50 years ago. A few moments were passed at the Scotland cemetery, the resting place of many dear ones.

The early evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen's daughter, Mrs. Everett Moulton where they were cleverly detained by Mr. and Mrs. Moulton, who knew that friends were preparing a May basket.

They had not been long in Hanover before they were lustily serenaded by the old golden wedding song, Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet. At the door was a huge, beautifully decorated May basket, presented by about 25 relatives and friends. It contained fruit, flowers, candy and many useful and pleasing gifts including several pieces of gold. A pleasant social evening was enjoyed.

Among the messages of congratulation that Mr. and Mrs. Allen received was the following chronicle, written and sent in by Miss Bunnie T. Allen, a lifelong friend of theirs:

A Brief Chapter of Chronicles.

And it came to pass in those days, even in the year of our Lord 1873, that there was a man whose name was Caleb, surnamed Anthony, with his good wife Asenath, lived in Scotland on a beautiful hill, even Pudding Hill. Now they had sons and daughters, the name of the oldest son was William, the names of the others, Gould, Jonathan and Caleb, and the daughters were Abby, Eliza, Mary and Asenath. Now it came to pass in the fifth month on the first day of this month, even May, that there was a marriage at this man's house, even a double marriage. For Caleb took for his wife Nellie whose surname was Sullivan and Asenath was betrothed to one Oscar whose surname was Allen. He was the son of Ezra which was the son of Asahel, which was the son of Joseph.

Now they were to have the marriage feast at Caleb's, and the minister came from Hanover, which is south of Scotland, with Little river on the east and the Shetucket on the west. This man's name was Luther, who was surnamed Barber. It was a great event when these two left their father's house to make a home for themselves. And it came to pass in the process of time there was a daughter born to Oscar and Asenath and they said, what is her name? They finally chose to call her after her two grandmothers, Susan after Susan the mother of Oscar and Asenath after her grandmother Asenath, the wife of Caleb. Now Oscar and his wife Asenath lived in several different places and they had another daughter, Elsie Amanda. And after some years a son Joseph was born, but he was a weak little one and all the days of his life were fourteen days, and he died and they mourned for him. And it came to pass in the fourth month in the year 1881 another daughter was born, even Ida, and her health was not good. Now these girls were quite large girls when another daughter was born, and they called her Carrie Eliza. Now it came to pass that Susie married one Everett whose surname was Moulton, and he was a traveling merchant. After a number of years Elsie was betrothed to Charles whose surname was Freeman, and he married her. And it came to pass after a time Asenath received word to go to Elsie's immediately, and she went quickly, and when she reached Elsie's home she found a daughter born to Elsie and Charles, but Elsie was not, for God took her.

Now Asenath took this little Elsie and they brought her up as their own child. And it came to pass that Ida, the daughter of Oscar and Asenath, had married one Clarence whose surname was Eldredge, and the name of their son was Cland. Now when he was a young child his mother, even Ida, passed away very suddenly and his father Clarence cared for him. Now Oscar and Asenath lived in their own house in Hanover, and all the years they had lived together were two score and ten, and they have reached that time in married life which so few live to see but is one of God's gifts to a favored few.

Although there have been shadows and darkness, there have also been many bright places, and the friends of these two hope the days which are coming will be full of sunshine, and their last days may be the best ones of all.

A long needed and much appreciated improvement is the filling in of some of the bad holes on the West Main street hill above the fire station by the street department.

RURAL CHURCH WORK IS DESCRIBED BY PASTOR

The Missions department of the Woman's Federation of Park Congregational church met Friday afternoon in the H. H. Osgood Memorial parish house, with president Mrs. Allen Latham in the chair. The devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Albert Van Wagenen after which Mrs. Henry T. Arnold made several business announcements. Mrs. George D. Colt paid tribute to two members of the department who have recently passed away, Mrs. Mary A. C. Norton and Miss Alice Clinton Dyer, both of whom, she said, will be greatly missed by the department. In memory of the departed members the following hymn was sung, All the Saints Who Far from their Labors Rest.

Mrs. Latham then introduced Miss Lydia Hartig, pastor of the Goshen Congregational church, who told of her work for the past 30 years among the rural people of the state, the aim of which was to bring hope to those who had been forgotten and to make good citizens of those who had been neglected. She officially engaged in this work 21 years ago when it was placed on an organized basis and had seen much good come of it. The Needlework guild of the Goshen church only last year, said Miss Hartig, won first prize for needlework at the State Exposition at Springfield.

After the talk by Miss Hartig the Camp Fire Girls of the church gave their sketch of a missionary meeting held in 1895, the sketch for which they had won first prize, a loving cup, in the recent interchurch meet.

LABOR MEN WANT HEARING ON COMPENSATION BILL

Labor men, it is understood, are making inquiry about a bill that was reported favorably in the legislature last week relative to the compensation commission about which they claim there has been no hearing and they voice the feeling that an opportunity to be heard thereon should be granted. In this position it is stated that they are also being joined by the manufacturer.

According to this proposed legislation the appointment of compensation commissioner is changed from that by the governor alone to a nomination by the governor that must have the approval of the senate.

The labor men are particularly opposed to the change and it is pointed out that the matter was gone over thoroughly ten years ago, at which time it was conceded that the present method of leaving the selection of the commissioners in the hands of the governor was the most efficient way. This leaves an undivided responsibility.

It is stated that this measure is one that originated in the judiciary committee which provided for no hearing upon it.

SOVIET REPLY TO BRITISH ULTIMATUM CONCILIATORY

Note Declares That Despite Misunderstandings Russia Greatly Appreciates Friendly Relations With Great Britain—London Officials Think Rupture Will be Averted—Lord Curzon is to Insist on Adequate Redress and Apologies for the Wrongs Alleged by the British in Their Note.

London, May 14.—(By The A. P.)—In British official circles the reply of the Russian Soviet government to the British note is considered as avoiding a rupture. Satisfaction is expressed at what the British consider an about-face on the part of Moscow in its attitude toward Great Britain. Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, will present the note to the cabinet this afternoon.

While the British government is ready to discuss the disputed matters with Leonid Krassin, another credited envoy, Lord Curzon seems determined to maintain all the points raised in the British note and will not tolerate long discursive explanations from Moscow, it is indicated. The foreign secretary will also insist, it is declared, on adequate redress and apologies for the wrongs alleged by the British in their note.

Expressing regretful surprise at the ultimatum, the Russian note proposes a conference at a time and place to be arranged with England, at which responsible representatives of both governments shall discuss not only the disputed secondary questions raised in the British note, but shall also regularize fully the relations between Russia and Great Britain.

The note sets forth what it declares are certain errors in the British charges with regard to propaganda by Russia in the East. While admitting that Russia naturally sends money to the Russian representatives in Persia, it says the British are over-suspicious in thinking that Russia has no use for money in the East other than for propaganda.

The note disavows responsibility for the Third (Moscow) International. It offers to settle by arbitration the questions raised by the Russian seizures of British trawlers and compensate the families of Charles F. Davison, an English civil engineer executed in Russia in 1920 and of another British subject in whose case a claim was made if the British will agree to give compensation for the long imprisonment of several Russians in England and India.

With regard to the two notes sent to England signed by "Weinstein," which Mr. Hodgson the British agent in Moscow returned, complaining that they were couched in offensive language, the reply says the first note returned by Mr. Hodgson was never sent again to the British government and therefore must be regarded as unsent, while the second letter did not contain anything offensive. These notes were in reply to Mr. Hodgson's protest against the execution of Monsignor Butchkavitch.

The note declares that despite misunderstandings Russia greatly appreciates friendly relations with Great Britain.

The document, of about 3,000 words is signed by Maxim Litvinoff, assistant commissar for foreign affairs, and is addressed to Mr. Hodgson.

Although European reaction to enmity toward the Soviet Republic has been growing during the past few months, the note begins, the British ultimatum nevertheless was a surprise "because of its sharp and unjustified hostility.

"Ultimatums and threats," it declares, "are not the way to settle private and relatively unimportant misunderstandings between states and in any case the establishment of correct relations with the soviet republic is not attainable by this means."

While appreciation is expressed of the value to Russia of the British agreement, nevertheless England has benefited also, the document points out, and Russian trade has been growing with consequent reduction in the prices of many commodities throughout Europe.

"Great Britain speaks of the numerous challenges which Russia has thrown to Great Britain," says the note adding: "The soviet government permits itself to assert the complete baselessness of such a statement."

Regarding the charges in the British memorandum of Russian propaganda in the East, the reply says:

"The extracts and quotations brought up by the British government are a combination of invention, with deciphered parts of telegrams manipulated and arbitrarily extended," together with "pure inventions which the government definitely declares bear no relation to any official documents within knowledge of the Russian government."

The reply shows a firm tone with regard to the Russian policy in the East, saying it is unlikely that any useful purpose can be served by further discussion of the accusations of propaganda.

"The accusations," it continues, "gives weight to the theory that it is the opinion of the British government that the Russian republic should have no policy of its own at all in the East, but should everywhere support English aspirations. The Russian government has taken no such obligation on itself, and no agreement to this effect between it and Great Britain has so far existed."

Concerning the recent seizures of British trawlers, which now have been set free, the note expresses the willingness of Russia to participate in any international conference called to decide on the limits of territorial waters and to accept the findings of such a conference.

Although the question of the churches is irrelevant to international relations, the reply says, Russia nevertheless desires to deny emphatically "the baseless charge that Soviet Russia is persecuting religion."

The present international situation is pregnant with militaristic possibilities, and Russia recognizes that the breaking of relations would be a menace to peace. Despite the recurring misunderstandings the soviet republic declares it highly values its present relations with Great Britain, and desires to preserve and develop these relations in the interests of general peace. It is ready, and most favorable, to a peaceful settlement of existing causes of conflict.

"Russia," the note goes on, "declares there can be no justification for the breaking off of relations. The majority of the questions in dispute are so insignificant in comparison with the possible consequences that, with good will on both sides, a satisfactory settlement at a conference of competent representatives of both states would not present great difficulty, and might be attained in a very short time. Russia sincerely desires this, and hopes Great Britain does also."

R. M. WILLIAMS TELLS OF DEALINGS WITH C. W. MORSE

Washington, May 14—Transactions between Charles W. Morse and his companies on the one hand and R. M. Williams of New York and the Williams Shipbuilding Company on the other, occupied the entire time today at the Morse trial. Williams told of unsuccessful efforts to have Morse help finance him in the construction at Tampa, Fla., of a plant for the building of wooden ships for the government and of how out of the conferences there came an agreement by which the Williams Company was to furnish 9,000,000 feet of lumber to the Groton Iron works, a Morse company, for the building of six wooden hulls for the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Under this agreement, the witness said, Morse was to supply $100,000 in cash and $100,000 in credit and the Williams company was to furnish lumber at $25 per thousand feet, with $5 for each thousand, feet obligated to pay off the debt to Morse. Later, Williams testified, he was instructed to bill the lumber at $35 a thousand. The government charged that Morse thus obtained a rebate of $10 a thousand, but on cross examination Williams said Morse not only did not receive any "rebate", but that he got only "memorandums of credit" under the agreement that $5 a thousand was to be devoted to the betterment of the money he had advanced.

Williams said only about 500,000 feet of lumber was supplied because Morse after advancing about $60,000, refused further financial assistance. He added that under the contract Morse still owed his company $40,000 which became due the day after the cnotract was signed. He calculated the price of the lumber furnished at a total of $12,500. Counsel for the defense undertook to show that since Morse had advanced $60,000 the timber actually cost him $112 a thousand feet, but the question was not allowed by the court.

Williams said that in September, 1917, Morse urged him to hurry up the timber shipments so that the Groton company could obtain progress payments on the wooden hulls from the emergency fleet corporation and thus be able to proceed with the construction of its steel ship plant at Groton, Conn.

Evidence also was offered by the government to show that after the contract was entered into with the Williams company for lumber at $25 a thousand, Morse had written to Eads Johnson, New York district officer for the fleet corporation, that lumber could be had at $51 a thousand feet and asked that this price be approved. The evidence did not show what action if any was taken on this proposal.

WHITFIELD SOUGHT FOR MURDER OF POLICEMAN

Cleveland, Ohio, May 14.—A shallow make-shift grave, between the ashes of three bonres in which the charred remnants of Patrolman Dennis Griffin's clothing were found near Chagrin Falls, east of here, today gave up the body of the murdered policeman, who had been missing since early Friday morning.

"Get him—dead or alive," was the grim order that went forth through the police department for the capture of John Leonard Whitfield, Griffin's abductor and alleged slayer, almost immediately after the body was found.

A warrant was issued late this afternoon formally charging Whitfield with the murder.

Three bullet holes, one through the right temple, another through the left side of the neck and the third in the left side of the abdomen marked the course of the 45-calibre bullets that ended Griffin's life.

His naked body was buried under wet clods of clay and stones evidently carried in from the roadway.

The grave was located by Cleveland police about 15 feet back from a road, in a desolated woods, 300 feet from the place where the first burned shreds of Griffin's clothing was found late yesterday.

PRESIDENT PREPARING ADDRESSES FOR TRIP

Washington, May 14.—Having virtually decided on the itinerary of his western trip, President Harding has begun to give considerable thought to the addresses he will make en route to the Pacific coast and in the coast states.

The itinerary as now arranged provides for speeches in about 12 cities, the first in St. Louis and the last probably in San Diego, Calif.

Although Mr. Harding has indicated that he regards these addresses as somewhat secondary to the real purpose of the trip—his visit to Alaska—he, nevertheless, proposes to prepare them with care. Through them he intends to report to the American people on the stewardship with which he was entrusted two years ago, and also to outline the future policies of his administration.

Sanford, Me., May 14.—When he received an order to vacate the little cottage in which he had lived for 39 years, Edward Robert Shaw, of this town, an aged man, could not find another house. He disappeared from his home early today and tonight his body was found in a brook near the town cemetery.

It was said tonight there was not a vacant house in Sanford to which the old couple could move.

Driven From Rum Row By Hunger and Thirst

Manager of Yacht Yankton Was Abducted and the Crew Left to Own Resources.

New York, May 14.—Victimized at every point of the compass, as they told it, a starved and robbed crew drifted with the tide into Quarantine today and after being taken ashore to eat their first square meal in a week or so, told federal officials a story that they regarded as the most important information received since it was decided to knock the pins from under Rum row.

The skipper told a story of deception, thievery, smuggling, piracy, starvation and helplessness that grew to greater proportions with every bite he took. Before he had dipped his digits into a finger bowl federal investigators were hunting for headquarters of a gigantic bootlegging syndicate he described as being in New York. He said it was the controlling factor in Rum row.

The full nature of the confidences was not revealed, but Assistant United States Attorney Clark, who questioned Captain C. Bidlon and three of his crew, said the vessel, the British yacht Yankton, would be libeled under the mercantile laws and sold, to pay the crew, who have been away from Havana, their home port, since early January.

Mr. Clark intimated that he would seek A. E. Corns, listed on the Yankton's manifest as from 129 N. E. 17th street, Miami, Fla., the supercargo, who left the ship a month ago with a party of rum runners who carried away 3,500 cases of grain alcohol. Corns told Captain Bidlon he was going a shore to get food and fuel and arrange for payment of the crew. Whether Corns disappeared purposely or was spirited away, Captain Bidlon would like to know.

Captain Bidlon of Nassau, B. I., recruited his crew at Havana shortly after New Year's for a quick trip to St. Pierre, Miquelon, with 8,000 cases of grain alcohol and a few bales of Cuban tobacco. The crew was informed, when the high seas were reached, that they could not correspond with anyone ashore nad could not leave the vessel until anchor was dropped in Havana. Again, that was the first "double cross," he said.

About Feb. 19th the Yankton sighted Ambrose lightship, when a man described as a representative of New York bootlegging interests—whose entry into the yarn was left obscure—ordered Captain Bidlon to proceed to Providence, R. I. That port wasn't touched, however, Captain Bidlon said, but in the vicinity of Block Island two motor launches appeared alongside and lightered away 2,000 cases of alcohol and 2,000 pounds of tobacco.

Captain Bidlon learned afterwards, he was represented as saying, that the consignees ashore reported never receiving the transshipment, so the navigator marked another "double X" in his log. For five weeks the Yankton remained hove to, then went to Montauk point under instructions and unloaded 3,500 cases of alcohol to the Cavalier, a British schooner. That was where Corns disappeared and where the next "double X" was entered in the log.

Still holding part of their original cargo, but shy of sea biscuit and steam coal, the crew broke up most of the wooden furnishings of the ship and headed for Rum row. Upon their arrival, said the captain, two tugs came alongside and forty armed men, swinging guns, briskly boarded the Yankton and took the remainder of its cargo. Captain Bidlon said one of the boarding party made some unintelligible reference to acting under orders of a New York bootlegging syndicate. He put down another "double X."

With the bunkers holding nothing but coal dust and the galley scraped of potato peelings, the crew decided to call it a day and helmed around for the New York bay, running up a yellow flag when they reached Quarantine, inviting the health and customs officers aboard. Guards were placed on the yacht and the crew taken to the Battery for "chow."

MISS MURIEL M'CORMICK TO CLOSE OUT BUSINESS

Chicago, May 14.—Miss Muriel McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick, and granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, who caused surprise comment in society circles when she opened a women's smart wear shop here, is preparing to abandon the project.

A "final clearance sale of gowns and wraps" was announced at her shop today in preparation for closing. It is understood that Miss McCormick, who is studying for opera, has no time for other interests.

AVERAGED 120 MILES AN HOUR IN 300-MILE FLIGHT

Washington, May 14.—An average speed of 120 miles an hour from Mitchel field, New York, to Langley field, Va., was recorded today by Lieutenant Charles B. Austin, flying a new type army seaplane and carying two passengers. The 300-mile air line trip was made in two and one-half hours, the war department announced, the ship being helped part of the way by a fifteen-mile favoring breeze.

FORMER BANK CASHIER SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Honesdale, Pa., May 14.—Charles A. Emery, for 17 years cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank of Honesdale, who was convicted of embezzlement and falsifying the accounts of the institution, was sentenced by Judge A. T. Searle today to not less than four years nor more than five years in the eastern penitentiary and to pay a fine of $1,000 and the costs of the prosecution.

VINDICATED ON CHARGE OF VIOLATING SUNDAY LAW

New York, May 14.—Charges of violating the Sunday law by presenting a special subscription performance, preferred against William A. Brady and three members of the cast of "La Flamme" were dismissed today by the grand jury which considered them. Judge Nott of general sessions then dismissed the bail of $25 in which each defendant was held.

Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in the federal court, New Haven, ruled that evidence obtained by state officers of violations of the prohibitory laws is admissible in the federal court even if such evidence is obtained without a search warrant.

Six Persons Killed In Airplane Wreck

Machine Caught Fire While Operating on the Paris to London Route—Two of the Dead Americans.

Conty, France, May 14 (By the A. P.)—Six persons, including two Americans, were killed in the wreck of a passenger airplane on the Paris-London route this afternoon at the village of Monsures.

One of the Americans was Laurence Von Post Schwab, of New York, and the other is believed to have been Miss Jnanita Bates, of 310 Aurora avenue, Ithaca, N. Y.

There appears to be no doubt about the identity of Mr. Schwab, but there is some uncertainty respecting the woman, the only means of identication being papers found in the charred debris, which were hardly decipherable.

Mr. Schwab was a member of the firm of Oelrichs & Co., wool dealers, of 11 Broadway. He had just completed a business trip to Europe and was flying to London with the intention of sailing from Liverpool Saturday on the Muretania.

The machine caught fire while traveling at its usual height on its daily trip, and then either fell or the pilot tried to make a hurried landing and the plane was wrecked by the fall and explosion.

The six victims were, besides Schwab, the French pilot, the machinist, the engineer, an Englishwoman and a second male passenger.

PLACER GOLD FIELDS ARE ISOLATED BY ICE

St. John's, N. F., May 14.—That part of the Labrador coast where discoveries of placer gold were reported late last season is isolated by ice fields, according to a report brought back today by aviators who sought to explore the northern gold fields from the air. The quest was unsuccessful due to the ice conditions said to be the worst in the memroy of the inhabitants.

A party headed by Major Cotton made the hazardous trip north in two airplanes. They left Botwood, on the east coast of Newfoundland, last week, and flew to Hawkesbury on the west coast. The next jump was across the straits of Belle Isle to Cartwright, half way up the Labrador coast. Here the party learned that further progress was impossible under prevailing conditions, and decided to return by the same route.

The gold discoveries reported last fall were on streams and creeks in northern Labrador, little known to the outside world. The air reconnaissance was undertaken to map the territory. Major Cotton said another attempt would be made later.

16 DEAD, 100 INJURED BY A TORNADO IN TEXAS

Colorado, Tex., May 14.—Sixteen dead and 100 injured were reported late this afternoon as a result of the tornado which tore through Mitchel county, south and east of here, early today. Some were hurt so seriously their deaths are expected.

The tornado descended in Mitchel county between four and five o'clock this morning and caught most of its victims in bed. It levelled buildings and left death and injury in its wake for 30 miles. Starting south of Westbrook, it continued for several miles through the county and passed just east of Lorraine.

All the deaths were in more or less isolated farms. Due to the distance between farms and demoralization of wire communication it was expected here that it would be many hours before the entire district could be heard from.

ENGINEER UNCONSCIOUS AS TRAIN WHIZZED ALONG

New York, May 14.—The Long Island express, from Greenpoint to Jamaica, one of the fastest trains on the Long Island railroad, whizzed by towns and dangerous grade crossings at a speed of more than a mile a minute last night with no hand on the throttle.

When Matthew Carrazza, the fireman, who was busy shoveling coal, failed to hear the customary whistle for the Central Islip station, he investigated and found the engineer, George B. Cunningham, unconscious in his seat from an attack of acute indigestion.

Carrazza threw the brakes and the train slowed dow. Gunningham was lifted from his cab and died without regaining consciousness.

New York, May 14.—Settlement of the reparations dispute between France and Germany by an international conference, to which the United States would be a party, was urged today by the world alliance for international friendship through the churches in a message to its 27 national councils. The councils were asked "to seek the cooperation of all representative persons, especially in financial, political, labor and journalistic circles, to bring about a solution."

OBITUUARY

John R. Perkins

Danbury, Conn., May 14—John R. Perkins, principal of the state normal school here for nearly 20 years died at his home this afternoon after a month's illness. He was 55 years old.

Mr. Perkins was born in Wells, Me., and was graduated from Dartmouth. He also attended Tufts. He was instructor in the New Britain high school for some time, later becoming principal of the Danbury high school from which position he went to that in the normal school. He was well known in educational circles throughout the state.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Miss Margaret Perkins, a student in the University of Chicago, and a son, Lieutenant John R. Perkins, Jr., of the United States army.

Arthur I. Street

San Francisco, May 14—Arthur I. Street, 54, author and former editor of Collier's Weekly, died today after a lingering illness. He was a graduate of the University of California. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Inez Street.

DECLARES THE BOMB CHARGE AGAINST LERNER A FRAMEUP

Counsel Claims It is a Move to Discredit the Value of the Testimony of the Accused in Defense of Officials of the Kuzbas Colony in Russia—Says it is the Work of the Political Enemies of Russia—Names the National Civic Federation, the Department of Justice and Samuel Gompers.

New York, May 14.—The charge that Noah Lerner, youthful electrician held on a murder charge in connection with the Wall street explosion of 1920, has been "framed" to destroy the value of his testimony in defense of the Kuzbas colony in Russia, indicted for grand larceny from Americans induced to join the autonomous industrial project, was made today by Thomas Reese, American representative of Kuzbas' managing board.

Lerner was arrested Saturday on a statement attributed to Mrs. Thomas Doyle, to the effect that Lerner had boasted in Russia that he either drove, or knew who drove the "little red wagon" that carried to Wall street the bomb that killed more than 40 people and wrought property damage running into millions. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle were the complainants on whose testimony Reese and P. Pascal Cosgrove were indicted in connection with the Kuzbas project. Lerner for a time was employed by Kuzbas in Kuzbas in Russia.

"We charge," said Reese's statement, "that the attempt to tie up Lerner with the Wall Street bomb explosion is a frameup, to discredit one of our best witnesses. Lerner returned because he has consumption. The Doyles knew he was an enthusiast for the Kuzbas project. They had a personal grievance, also, because he had been detailed to watch their movements in Kuzbas.

We shall demonstrate in due time the connections and influences back of the Doyles. It is clear that they are being used to the limit by the political enemies of all help to Russia —the National Civic Federation, the Department of Justice, Samuel Gompers and the New York city bomb squad, among others."

Reese's statement added that Assistant District Attorney Weller, who handled the Kuzbas indictments and now is handling the Lerner case, was "overworking his star witnesses, the Doyles, who returned from the Kuzbas colony in violation of their contracts and charged us with having sent them on misrepresentations of conditions there."

"That charge, like this against Lerner," he said, "is preposterous and ridiculous, as will be proved."

Mr. Weller had detectives out today checking up on the alibi Lerner gave for September 16, 1920—the day of the explosion. William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, who arrived here last night, said he was conducting a separate investigation of Lerner and that any evidence he obtained would be turned over to Mr. Weller. He admitted, however, that Lerner's name never before had been connected with any radical activities in the department of justice. The government has no record whatever on him, Mr. Burns said.

"The department of justice will never drop this case until it is solved," he declared. "We know who did it, and even know some of the individuals. They are at present in Russia. The explosion was planned and directed by the third internationale. Lerner was in Russia and may know something about it. At any rate, we shall investigate him."

Lerner, who is only 23, was in fine spirits in his cell at the Tombs today. He declared he was not worried about anything investigators might dig up concerning him and was confident he would be freed for lack of evidence when he is arraigned in homicide court Thursday.

His alibi for September 16 is that on that day, he was working at the polls in connection with a special election to replace socialist assemblymen who had been ousted at Albany.

C. M. PRATT DECLARED LEGALLY INCOMPETENT

New York, May 14.—Charles M. Pratt, 68, for years secretary and treasurer of the Standard Oil Company of New York, had been declared legally incompetent, it was learned tonight after members of his family and physicians had testified before a sheriff's jury in Brooklyn.

Mr. Pratt had been secluded in his home in Brooklyn for the last six months owing to his mental infirmity, his brother, John T. Pratt, said for years Mr. Pratt was one of the "big five" of the Standard Oil Company, the others being John D. Rockefeller, Sr., William Rockefeller, Henry H. Rogers and Henry M. Flagler. Mr. Pratt was formerly president of Pratt Institute, founded by his father, Charles Pratt. Until 1921 he was trustee of both Amherst and Vassar colleges.

Dr. Edward E. Hicks and Dr. Glenworth R. Butler, who attended Mr. Pratt after he showed signs of a mental breakdown, testified that he was not competent to manage his own affairs. Every effort was made to keep the fact and nature of the hearings from the public. None of the principals would talk of the case tonight except to admit that proceedings had been held and that Mr. Pratt had been declared incompetent.

Mr. Pratt was a director of the Boston & Maine, New York, New Haven and Hartford and Long Island railroads. He was also interested in a number of financial and manufacturing concerns.

Mr. Pratt established the first free library in Brooklyn. Among his donations were large gifts to Amherst college from which he was graduated in 1879, and to Vassar. In 1884 he married Mary Seymour Morris, the daughter of Governor Luzon B. Morris of Connecticut.

FOR SOLUTION OF RELIEF PROBLEM IN THE NEAR EAST

Washington, May 14—Great Britain, alone of the allied powers has replied to the American suggestion of April 2 last for concerted action to bring about a permanent solution of the relief problem in the near east.

The British, it was said, today at the state department, expressed willingness to participate in any sound plan for permanent relief measures but advanced no suggestion as to the form such measures might take. The British viewpoint was understood to be that no practical means of arranging for the absorption of the refugees "into the normal economic life" of the countries where they are now being cared for at this time.

DISPLAY OF ANTI-BRITISH FEELING IN VLADIVOSTOK

Vladivostok, May 14—(By the A. P.)—A huge anti-British demonstration was held here today, the crowds holding that British "imperialists" were responsible for the assissination at Lausanne of Vorovsky, the soviet delegate to the Near East peace conference.

The demonstrators demanded the detah of the British "imperialists". Local Englishmen were not molested.

ALL HOPE ABANDONED FOR MONTAGUE GLASS

New York, May 14—Practically all hope was abandoned today for Montague Glass, author and playwright, who yesterday underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Roosevelt hospital. The patient lapsed into unconsciousness this afternoon and doctors asserted he had only an outside chance to recover.

Results of Spanish Elections.

Madrid, May 14.—The results of the Spanish senatorial elections, announced today, show the following: Ministerialists, 103; supporters of former Premier Sanches Guerra, 46; other parties, 20.

STABILIZED PRODUCTION THE KEY TO PROSPERITY

New York, May 14.—Increased and stabilized production is the key to national prosperity in the opinion of speakers at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers today.

M. C. Rorty, president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, declared that three years' investigation of the present day economic problems of the United States had led the bureau to conclude that the primary need in for increased productivity.

An important proof of this conclusion, he said, was the fact that, even with an absolutely uniform distribution of national income, the total income per capita, which was $586 in 1918, is still too small to meet the requirements of many of the standards of living theoretically accepted as American. Incomes of $8,000 a year or over, he said, were shown to constitute only 14 per cent of the total.

"The necessary relations between wages and prices and the limitations on profit sharing, in the absence of increased productivity," Mr. Rorty said, "was shown by the fact that the survey showed that in the large and highly organized industries, from 60 to 72 per cent. of the net value product was paid to labor, while only 28 to 31 per cent. was paid to capital and management, including undistributed surplus."

Mr. Rorty declared that, while all ordinary economic signs pointed to the end of the business boom and the beginning of depression, the great care exercised by the average manufacturer and distributors against a repetition of the troublous times of 1920 and 1921, pointed in the opposite direction.

COUNTERFEITER ESCAPES FROM ATLANTA PENITENTIARY

New York, May 14—Mateo Gonzales, who was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for counterfeiting in 1917, has escaped, department of justice agents were advised today. He forged sixteen bank notes of a New York banking house.

Gonzales' real name is said to be Louis Deschelle, when captured in August, 1917. Gonzales made desperate resistance and tried to escape from a window in Brown Brothers' banking house in Wall street. Before he was subdued, he was shot in the leg.

About the same time, Morris Grosswald, a companion of Gonzales, was caught trying to pass other counterfeit notes at a broker's office. The two men, when lodged in Tombs prison plotted to escape and, with the aid of outside help, had obtained pistols. The plot, however, was thwarted.

Defeated in his efforts to escape, Gonzales obtained his liberty on a $2,500 bail bond, which he jumped, going to Havana. There he was recaptured and brought back for trial. He was sentenced to Atlanta for 10 years. Grosswald was sentenced to 7 years at Atlanta.

HUNDREDS OF I. W. W. MEMBERS ROUNDED UP AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Calif., May 14—More than two hundred alleged members of the Industrial Workers of the World were brought here from San Pedro late this afternoon and placed in a stockade at the Lincoln Heights police station pending a hearing on charges of criminal syndicalism. At the same time, it was said another hundred or so were on their way here from the same place. Bonds were provided for many.

The accused were arrested when four hundred Los Angeles police ordered the dispersal of 1,900 men taking part in a parade in support of the marine transport workers union strike at San Pedro. Most of the paraders dropped out when the police order came, but a number, variously estimated at from 200 to 400 stayed in the streets. These were surrounded by the police and marched to the San Pedro police station after which they were transported to Los Angeles.

Bonds of $15 in each case were called Monday morning by Judge Foss of the police court in the cases of John Sullivan 2d, Arthur Wydhemnia 19, William Donnell 12, and Howard Lynch 17, the four Holyoke, Mass., young men who were charged with intoxication. Their names were read but the men were not present. They were the quartette who were placed under arrest Saturday afternoon and released on bonds later in the evening.

Leo Hedrick of East Hampton answered to the charge of reckless driving and not having in his possession his driver's license. He pleaded guilty to both charges. The case was the result of an arrest made Sunday afternoon by Officer Bombria when Hedrick was seen driving at a fast rate of speed down Main street.

In court Monday, Hedrick produced his license. The minimum fine for reckless driving was imposed, $25 with a remittance of $15. The total assessment of $16.15 was paid.

The case of Albert Kelley, charged with reckless driving, which has been continued several times, was again continued because none of the state's witnesses were present at the court session. The defendant's attorney was ready to proceed with the case and he had a large number of witnesses on hand.

On April 4, last, a Hupmobile touring car owned and driven by Kelley, struck and fatally injured a boy on lower Main street. The child died about twenty-four hours later at St. Joseph's Hospital. The findings of the inquest by Coroner A. G. Bill have not been received by Prosecuting Attorney Samuel B. Harvey.

The members of the Twenty-First Connecticut Volunteers will hold their fifty-fourth annual reunion at the G. A. R. rooms in the town building Wednesday morning and afternoon. At 10.30 o'clock the morning session will open and Judge Lucien Burpee of Hartford will preside.

It is planned to have Mayor Charles A. Gates deliver the address of welcome to the veterans. The morning session will also be used to carry on the business of the reunion including the election of officers, roll call of companies, appointment of company committees, reading of the necrology list of the past year, selection of the place to hold the next reunion and reports of the secretary and treasurer.

The Woman's Relief Corps will serve the dinner, following which the afternoon session will be held with the present secretary, Dr. Charles W. Roberts of Hartford has issued an invitation to all members of the Grand Army, Women's Relief Corps, Sons and Daughters of Veterans and the public in general to attend the meeting which is to be in the nature of a "camp fire". Interesting reminiscences will be given out by the old soldiers.

John G. Peterson, who had been ill for a long time, died Monday morning at his home in North Windham. Mr. Peterson was born in Sweden, May 22, 1872, the son of Peter and Anna E. (Gustafson) Swanson. The deceased leaves a wife, four children, Richard of North Windham, Carl of Moline, Ill., and Robert and Florence and Florence of North Windham; and a brother Thore Peterson of Moline, Ill. Mr. Peterson was a member of Swedish Olive Lodge, I. O. O. F. and Viking Thora Lodge, No. 9.

The funeral services for Mrs. Emma Fifield McCready were held at Chapman Manse, 27 Church street, Monday morning at eleven o'clock. The services were read by Rev. Marshall Dawson. The remains were conveyed to Pawtucket, R. I., where burial took place in the Oak Grove cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery & VanZandt, successors to Jay M. Shepard.

This (Tuesday) afternoon speaking, spelling and athletic contests will be staged in this city. The contest is held in order to choose the district champion who will go to Hartford for the state contest. Participants will include children from Lebanon, Marlborough, Colchester, Franklin, Sprague, Hebron, Mansfield, Andover, Columbia, Chaplin, Ashford and Willington.

The athletic meets will be held on Windham Field on West Main street and will be in charge of supervisors Libby, Greer and Russell. The speaking and spelling contests will be held at the state normal school. Miss Ethel Freure of the Windham high school faculty will have charge of the spelling contest. Rev. Harry S. McCready, Miss Harriet M. Stone of the Normal School faculty and Miss Annie Bonney of the high school will be the judges for the speaking meet.

H. T. Pitts of Buffalo, N. Y., who has been in this city since last Wednesday and with his associates, S. J. Kidd and C. H. Brown has been engaged in exterminating the city of rats and mice, has secured good results. He will remain in town for a few more days.

Mrs. Alfred Bertrand of Main street was most agreeably surprised Sunday evening when her children presented her a large May basket beautifully decorated with pink carnations and rose buds. Mrs. Bertrand served an excellent supper to the members of the family. Included among those present were her two daughters, Mrs. Victor Gauvin and Mrs. Philemon Gauvin of Taftville.

On June 16 and 17, a demonstration will be staged here by Colonel William McIntyre and provisional staff to show the work that the Salvation Army has accomplished since the World War. The staff band from New England Headquarters in Boston will also be present. The affair is the greatest in the annals of the Salvation Army in Willimantic and will be staged at the town hall in a series of three meetings, one on Saturday afternoon June 16, and the other two on the following Sunday afternoon and evening. The Sunday afternoon meeting will be a mass meeting and it is expected that clergymen from every denomination in the city and town will be present. The entire party from Boston will number fifty-five and while they are in this city it is expected that they will be guests at the homes of public spirited citizens.

The May term of the Windham county superior court will resume its sessions Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock with Judge James H. Webb on the bench. The jury will be in attendance and it is expected that the following criminal cases assigned for the day will be heard: State vs. Bert K. Dow, (two cases) non-support; Anna DeMarco, aggravated assault; Bert A. Lewis, non-support; Charles Lavalley, violation of motor vehicle law.

The Willimantic Minister's union held its regular monthly session at Storrs Congregational church parsonage Monday morning. Rev. Arthur W. Clifford presided. Rev. F. F. Foshay of this city was to deliver the address was unable to be present. An excellent dinner was served at noon.

Local Union No. 825 U. B. of C. J. of A. held its first banquet and get-together Monday evening at Labor Union Hall. A number of the state officers of the carpenter's union and practically all of the local contractors were present. Remarks were heard from the various officers.

Sunday morning Mothers' day was fittingly observed at the Methodist Episcopal church. At the service one person was baptized and three were received on probation. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, the pastor, preached on Mother. The candlelight installation service was in charge of the Epworth league and the following officers were installed: President, Channing Morrill; first vice president, Mrs. Charles Maass; second vice president, Eunice Camp; third vice president, Mrs. Walter Griggs; fourth vice president, Dorothy Weeks; treasurer, Charles Haling; secretary, Marion Clough.

Sunday evening shortly before 10 o'clock the large cable in connection with the South Coventry trolley line fell from its support to the ground from the west line of the new Willimantic cemetery to the residence of John Hopkins at The Ridges. There was no damage done by the accident and it did not interfere with the regular running of the trolley car between the two terminals. Monday repairmen were busily engaged in repairing the damage.

Notice has been received by Capt. James B. Fullerton of this city that on May 9 he was elected a member of the board of trustees of the fund mentioned.

Mrs. H. T. Park has returned to Hartford after a week's stay at her home on North street.

Miss Helen Ottenheimer of North street is enjoying a two weeks' vacation in Brooklyn, N. Y., with her sister, Mrs. Robert A. Bligh.

Mrs. Charles Thompson of Prospect street has been the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, of Danbury.

Hamden.—Announcement of the Hamden town court appointments for the term of two years has been made by Judge Charles E. Currie. Attorney Joseph Sheinitz will be prosecuting attorney and Attorney Bertram Saltzman will be assistant prosecutor succeeding Francis P. Lisolo. Gilbert C. Peck was reappointed clerk of the court and probation officer.

Why People Become Nervous and Run-down

Prominent Health Official Explains

By G. M. Lipinski, M. D.
Former Member of Philadelphia Health Department

"The reason why persons who are weak, nervous, shiftless and undersized have gotten into that condition is because they are so constituted that they use up their vital energy and nerve force quicker than their bodies can replace it.

"Their systems fail to extract from the food they eat and retain in sufficient quantity those mineral elements without which the body is absolutely unable to create vital energy and nerve force. And as they go on expending, day by day, their vital energy without adequately replenishing the supply until their systems become completely run down, their blood gets impoverished and their nerves are starving. The mineral elements which are essential in the creation of vital power are principally calcium, potassium, sodium, phosphorus and iron. And these elements must be administered to these patients otherwise they do not respond. Then it is that I have found organic Wincarnis of wonderful value. Wincarnis contains, in a form and combination of those vitally necessary elements in a form that enables the system to readily assimilate them and which is especially to the most delicate stomach."

JEWETT CITY

The state health department has just completed the mixing of the Jewett City Water company's reservoir at Stone Hill. Three days were consumed in the work. Judging from the many bullheads that several years ago inhabited the pond, people were prepared to see a great draft of fishes. The nets were set with the usual care employing the pocket system, the first two days 75 bullheads were brought up, with none on the last day.

Jewett City's water supply is unusually free from mineral and vegetable matter, and ranks second in the state for purity, one reservoir near Waterford showing a higher mark in the monthly tests. The hydrant pressure in the borough is 121 pounds to the square inch, after the water has traveled four miles through the mains and dropped in altitude several hundred feet. In this important matter, Jewett City finds but one hydrant pressure that is greater, 125 pounds near Norfolk, in the northwestern part of the state, with the supply situated high up on the heel of the Berkshires.

The firemen have no need of a fire engine or pumper of any sort. The hydrants are plenty, and three or four powerful streams are available in case there is need at a bad fire.

Complimentary remarks are always made by the state inspectors when they visit the source of the Stone Hill supply. Situated far up among the hills, its shed is clean and its pure water is from spring supplied origin.

The Liberty Hall property, so-called, situated on Main street, has been sold to Messrs. Velo and Arthur J. Maynard. The deed transfer was made from its owners, Mrs. E. A. Faust and Miss Ida I. Foster. The present occupants of the property are E. G. Lague, M. Gittleman, R. J. Guy, E. R. Gardner and Miss Elizabeth Dealey.

The Maynard Bros. will some time in the near future make changes and alterations of an extended sort, so that a modern business block will appear out to the street line.

Not many properties in town possess a greater bit of interesting local history. The land was purchased in the late thirties, of Nathan Taylor, and the original building was erected by the school district, to serve as a school house, discontinuing a smaller one, on land now occupied by the L'Heureux block. The first building which was one story high, had a little sort of a cupola or bell affair, perched on top. This was taken down and another story added to the main part for use by Undaunted lodge, K. of P. No. 34. In later years two wings were added, the famous Lovells Obey, established a barber shop in one, and for 50 years this apartment has been used for no other purpose.

One man, in reviewing the sale, thought that from Obey's time down to Mr. Lague, there had been people enough shaved there to encompass the standing army of the country, a shave and possibly a hair cut for every man.

The south wing was the Jewett City post office, with A. F. Brown as postmaster through several administrations.

The main building was discontinued as a schoolhouse in 1857, the present town house on Soule street was then the schoolhouse.

Liberty hall, its name for years, dates back to ante Civil war times, when activities of those periods, aptly suggested the name. Since being sold by the district, and after it became the property of the late James O. Sweet and Alfred F. Brown, the uses to which it has been put, are as varied in style as they were different in character.

There are several people in this vicinity who attended school there, when the late Hezekiah L. Reade was teacher. They remember how in the basement room when the class in Edward's Anylitical Reader was called, they were obliged to file over to the window side, where there was sufficient light to make reading possible.

Austin and Morey Cole later ran the pioneer butcher shop of the town in this basement, followed in after years by C. D. James, Horatio Brown and R. M. Brown.

Rev. Howard Stephenson was given a unanimous invitation by the seventy persons present at an informal meeting on Sunday morning to remain another year as pastor of the Congregational church. He is to be married on June 11 to Miss Mary Burnham Willis in Henderson, Kentucky, and will bring his bride to Jewett City.

He will not return to Yale next year. The expiration of his pastorate here would have been the first of September, but he will now remain another year from that time.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Joseph Lavigne was fined $40 and costs of $11.81 by Judge Heald in the borough court Monday morning after pleading guilty to the reckless operation of an automobile. Lavigne collided with a trolley car near the Congregational church Friday night and one of the wheels of his machine was broken. The windshield was cracked and Mr. Lavigne was thrown out but not injured. He had ample room on the south side of the track and just why he attempted to cross in front of the trolley he was unable to explain.

Miss Agnes Cunningham of Hartford was the guest of Miss Maude Commiskey over Sunday.

Milo P. J. Walker, aged 80 died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Christian Wolfe in Brooklyn, N. Y., Saturday. Mr. Walker was a native of Union, Conn., and received his education at the public schools in that town. He enlisted in Company G, 22nd Regt., Conn. Volunteers on Aug. 30th, 1862 and was mustered into service on Sept. 20th of the same year.

He remained with his regiment, taking part in several prominent engagements until it was mustered out July 4th, 1863. Mr. Walker returned to Union after the war and was engaged in farming several years, at the same time occupying a prominent place in the affairs of the town. He was a member of the Connecticut legislature and for a time was one of the commissioners of Tolland county. About 26 years ago he moved with his family to Stafford Springs, where he resided up to the time of his visit to his daughter's home in Brooklyn, a few months.

After coming to Stafford he identified himself with the business activities of the town and borough and had acted as a member of the board of assessors and the board of relief.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Jennie Morse Walker, he leaves a son, Albert Walker of Akron, Ohio, and two daughters, Mrs. Christine Wolfe, and Miss Ruth Walker, both of Brooklyn, N. Y. Funeral services were held at the Springs Congregational church Monday afternoon at two o'clock and the body was taken to Union for burial in the family lot, Rev. Levi Rees conducting the committal services.

The senior class of the Stafford High school is getting its program ready for graduation next month. The class program has already been completed and is as follows: Class will, Eleanor Bissonnette and Harriet Wildey; degrees, Helen Schrier and Cornelius Clark; phophecy, Elizabeth Frazer Bruno Piccini and Margaret Foley; history, Eva Atchison; class gifts, Charles Boduas; gifts to giver, Dorothy Johnson; class song, Elizabeth Frazer, Mildred Glazier and Eleanor Bissonette; advice to undergraduates, Joseph Quinn; roll call, Alton Fenton, and Catherine Swift; statistics, Margaret Slater.

Brown and Monohan presented a very versatile variety of terpsichore that was pleasing.

Dausche and Joyce, two young ladies, entertained with a singing review and a little comedy.

The Singing Three in "A Blend of Smiles and Tunes," are three jovial singing comics who offer a good variety.

Harry Bussey, a vendor of variety fills his act with magic, singing, painting, guitar selections, dancing, juggling and an assortment of jokes; the whole being good.

Clara Theodoros Trio in cvalty comedy gymnasts closed the bill with a pleasing novelty.

The big Principal Picture, offering a crook melodrama, features two prominent players in Alice Lake and Milton Sills. Anyone who likes a photoplay packed with thrilling action, with a story that is moving from the first scene to the final fade-out, and who would like to see Miss Lake and Mr. Sills heading a wonderful cast in parts that suit them to perfection, will do well to go to the Broadway theatre and see "Environment," which opened the show with extraordinary success last night.

"Environment" is one of those fascinating crook stories which is peculiarly suited for picturization and Irving Cummings has made a photoplay that will entrance and charm picture fans the world over.

Should Wives Be Beaten?

Has a man the right to beat his wife?

Yes, say the English and Europeans.

No, claim the Americans.

Which is right?

English husbands for centuries have held it a prerogative to treat their wives as they please and be accountable to no one. You can sometimes see a husband give his wife a few cuffs on the face for misbehaving, right on the street, with a London bobby standing by and not interfering.

No man with any self-respect would attempt such a procedure here in public, but if he tried it the chances are he would be lynched and put in jail. What's more, he would be shunned by all those who hold that marriage is the sweetest and noblest relationship of mankind.

In "Brass," the Warner Brothers screen adaptation of Charles G. Norris' novel, Philip Baldwin strikes his wife because she insists on traveling with a fast crew he dislikes. This leads to a divorce, and a multitude of adventures.

"Brass" will be shown for four days beginning Thursday at the Strand theatre. Its is one of the most widely discussed stories of the year, because it reveals a cross-section of life as no other story has ever done. The picture carries the same heart-throbs and interest, showing the drifting from one love affair to another that characterizes the divorced and unhappy.

Monte Blue has the featured role as Philip. Opposite him is Marie Prevost as the wife. Others in the cast are Harry Myers, Vera Lewis, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss Dupont, Margaret Seddon, Helen Ferguson, Edward Jobson, Harvey Clark, Cyril Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Gertrude Bennett and Ethel Grey Terry. Sidney Franklin directed the production.

A comedy and news complete the bill.

Breed Theatre.

It is seldom a screen actor is actually thrilled by the emotional expressions of the role to which he is assigned. Occasionally, however, an actor is so completely lost in his part that he really lives the role as he interprets it. And when that happens he gets the thrill of life.

That's the sort of thrill Robert Edeson got when he portrayed one of the important parts in Daniel Carson Goodman's inspiring and prophetic production, "Has the World Gone Mad!" now entertaining packed audiences at the Breed theatre.

"That role written by Goodman gave me the thrill of my life," said Mr. Edeson, upon completing his work in the picture under Mr. Goodman's personal supervision. "It was absolutely real—absolutely true to life. And I lived every moment of it!

"It was one of the few roles I have ever played in pictures that followed me out of the studio. It wasn't a clock that I could drop aside when rehearsals were over, but it actually engulfed me in its realism to such an extent that I found myself doing things and thinking things, in my outside life, in the way that Mr. Adams of the play would have done them or thought of them. I can truthfully say that I have never enjoyed a role more thoroughly."

Mr. Edeson is one of America's most famous dramatic stars. In the historic dramas of the theatre, "Strongheart" and "The Great Divide" not to mention a dozen other big successes in which he played, he has established himself among the leaders in his art. Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method:—Measure off two tablespoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get relief!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

NUGGETS WIN OPENING GAME IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE FROM CORNETS

With a crowd of well over 300 fans the Norwich Twilight League got away to a good start Monday evening and the future of the league looks bright. The opening attraction was, Nuggets and the Cornets who played a six inning game in which Mike Kelly, pitching for the Nuggets, held the Cornets to three hits anutting them out 8 to 0. Kelly pitched a fine game and was credited with eight strikeouts. Tommy Simcox, the old timer, pitched a good game but his support was ragged at critical times.

Billy Hill, president of the league threw out the first ball and the game was underway. The Cornets won the toss and were the home team for the evening. Simcox was wild at first and passed the first man, Murphy, who was forced at second by Manchester. Hull walked. Harris was safe on N. Simcox's error and Manchester scored when Hull was run down between second and third.

Mulholland the first man up for the Cornets hit safely but was caught stealing by a perfect throw to second by Manchester. N. Simcox fanned and Dilworth flied out to Murphy.

There was no scoring in the second inning. In the third inning the Nuggets scored two runs, Murphy, the first man up, hitting safely and was hit to deep center, Manchester scor-Murphy scored on Hull's two base hit to deep center. Manchester scored on Spencer's muff of Harris' high fly.

There was no scoring in the fourth inning but in the fifth frame the Nuggets added three more to their number in the fifth inning and two more in the sixth.

Harris the first man up in the fifth hit safely but was forced at second when Berry hit to N. Simcox. Berry stole second and went to third on N. Simcox's error. Connelly and Fox worked a double steal and Fox scored on Simcox's wild throw to first and Connelly scored on Smith's error.

In the sixth inning hits by Hull, Harris, Berry and a double by Connelly netted two more runs.

The Cornets only threatened twice, once in the fifth inning and once in the sixth when they got a man to third in each of these innings. The hitting power was not there and these men died on the third sack.

Jack Clabby umpired at the plate and Jack Craney officiated on the bases, both of these officials giving perfect satisfaction. Bill Anderson was the official scorer for the game and Billy Moore was the Nugget coach and to him goes the credit for the Nugget victory.

DODGERS BEAT CUBS IN FIRST INNING

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 14.— Brooklyn made it two out of the first three in the series with the Chicago Cubs by winning today, 6 to 3. Four hits for three runs in the first inning decided the issue. Johnston bounced a homer into the left field bleachers in the seventh. Ray French, from the Pacific Coast league, played his first game at short for Brooklyn, Johnston going to second. Bill McCarren was tried at third in place of Andy High. Score:

WILLARD-JOHNSON FIGHT AS SEEN FROM RINGSIDE

One of the best accounts of the big bouts in New York on Saturday was that written by Frank McCracken for the Philadelphia Ledger. His story follows.

They said he was too old to fight, in his fistic dotage, but the man on the floor at the end of the eleventh round was Floyd Johnson and not Jess Willard here this afternoon. The end came with the bell closing the eleventh round.

They said he couldn't stand the gaff that the years would exact their toll, that the penalty the march of years imposes on every man could not be escaped but Willard here this afternoon was over in his corner smiling and the corn-fed heavyweight from Iowa could not summon enough strength to answer the bell for the twelfth.

It was one of the strangest spectacles ever flashed before a vast crowd of fistic followers—the triumph of age over youth.

"Hurray for the old guy," that was the terrific shout that rent the air. It carried to the stands and reached back to the ringside. There was Willard with a slight smile on his face and Johnson was on the floor.

Second Punch Finisher.

He couldn't come up for the twelfth round, could Floyd, a lad young enough to be Willard's son. The Pottowatomie giant had let loose his most terrific blows in the eleventh.

Two right uppercuts brought about Floyd's disaster. He went down the first time for the count of nine. It was a terrific blow, right to the point of the chin.

The oldster had waited a long time for just such a blow. Rounds before his face was lined with deep streaks of care and his body was quivering. He had tried to laugh off the persistent rushes of the eager young foeman and Jess had got it over.

But that right uppercut that upset Johnson the first time in the eleventh was the thing that the former champion had long been seeking.

He sent his sandy-haired and youthful Iowa opponent down with a similar blow in the ninth, but that time Johnson only stayed down one count.

Even after Floyd had taken the punch square on the point, and scrambled to his feet all at sea, the crowd, no longer mild and listless, but howling like mad, thought that Floyd was going to get through somehow or other.

But there was a mix-up near the close of the round. Willard's right, hanging by his side, tensed, then shot up with terrific force and deadly accuracy.

Johnson Sprawled on the Floor.

Again on the chin the potent punch landed and Johnson sprawled face downward and full length on the floor.

He was done. The charity show for the Milk Fund meant nothing to him. The chance for a meeting with Dempsey passed into the realm of bygone things for Floyd. He didn't know where he was or what it was all about.

Johnson had to be carried to his corner. Even then, the crowd was not aware that the last blow of Willard's had completely befogged the mind of the young Westerner.

Just a few words of high approval for this young fistic gentleman Johnson. He battled against great odds. At 195 to Willard's 245, he was outweighed fifty-three pounds. Yet the Iowan fought a furious battle all the way.

There were times that he hit Jess with a right good will; sometimes the blows appeared to jolt the Kansan, while at other times the big fellow just smiled and smiled, when Floyd's punches bounced off his chin.

Up until the sixth round it looked as if the bout was all Willard's. There was a period after that session, however, that jocular Jess didn't look so good.

No matter what the gigantic Kansan did during the fray, his shorter and more slender foe was always hitting away at close quarters.

In fact, the hoots of the crowd were frequently directed at Johnson for smacking a backhand across Willard's face while in close.

Firpo Victory.

"This is a real guy, this Firpo," that's the stamp of approval the rocking-chair fighters near ringside put on the wild bull of the Pampas when he floored Jack McAuliffe.

McAuliffe, intriguing the fancy of the eager-eyed onlookers who had read much of the superman development of the Detroit lad, tried to smile it through to the end.

The giant of the Argentine, not understanding whether the bursts of cheers were for or against him when he rocked McAuliffe in the first round, just kept to the grim task at hand.

Crude was Luis Angel when he first landed on these shores, but since then he has certainly learned how to use a right hand.

He proved this when he caught McAuliffe with a clean right in the second. The curly-haired Detroit youngster tried to laugh it off. But the furthest he got was a foolish smile and he had to be dragged to his corner.

Jack was not himself when they sent him out for the third. He was much less himself when another terrific right smote him on the chin. The hero of sixteen ring victories smiled as he rested on his hands and knees on the floor.

By a miracle he got up. Firpo, the calm, the cool and the collected, hit him again. It was another right. Straight on the chin. This time McAuliffe gave up the ghost. He was done.

Fulton Disqualified.

Fred Fulton, the f-e-r-o-c-i-o-u-s plasterer, was disqualified in the fourth round against Jack Renault, the French Canadian.

It looked awfully bad for Fulton in the third session. He did a heel and toe act, bled from a cut on his face, and looked the picture of woe. It was not going at all good for Fredward. He did not relish the punishment. He cleaved the air as if he were manipulating his trowel and looked at his wrist to see the time. It was getting to be an awfully long time for Fred.

He was encouraged by the blood flowing from Renault's nose and the cheers of the fans who evidently liked it. But in the fourth the towering trowel-slinger grew overreckless. let one of his blows go in a direction that it shouldn't and he was out of the heavyweight contenders' league.

Tiny Jim Herman, a bold bad man from Omaha, put the skids under Al Reich in the sixth round. It was only another one of those times that Reich failed to live up to the hopes entertained for him, Reich battled like a hurricane for five rounds. The fans got all they came to see. Al rocked and socked Tiny Jim with a right good will.

Al surprised ever one, but the sixth saw his undoing. He feinted with his chin but did not duck in time and Al passed out as prettily as you would want to see.

Drake Earns Verdict.

Harry Drake, who came all the way from Ol' Lonnon to shape up Willard, lent his one good ear to the cheers of the multitude when he was announced the winner over Joe McCann.

It was a rollicksome four-round bout. There was hard hitting without stint, although the spectators several acres away around Yonkers could hardly understand what it was all about.

The late arrivals waiting for the sun to peep from behind the clouds got in just in time to see Drake put on the finishing touches. They cheered heartily. Drake leaned over with his one good ear and took the applause with becoming decorum.

YANKS TAKE HECTIC GAME FROM TIGERS

Detroit, Mich., May 14.—After having a seven run lead erased, forcing the game into extra innings, New York fell on Sylvester Johnson's offerings in the 12th, scored eight runs, and defeated Detroit 16 to 11 today. Cobb's strategy in removing Cole in the twelfth when two men were on bases and sending Johnson, a right hander, to replace him, proved disastrous. Pipp's home run with the bases loaded was one of the five hits the Yankees made off Johnson.

Shawkey pitched well until the seventh when a walk and three singles netted three runs. The Tigers' five runs that tied the score in the ninth resulted from doubles by Pratt, Blue and Jones, singles by Cobb and Bassler and a base on balls to Heilmann.

DARCY TAKES DIVE IN BOUT WITH BOGASH

Bridgeport, May 14.—Lou Bogash was awarded a technical knockout over Jimmy Darcy of California in the third round of a scheduled 12-round bout here tonight. Darcy was disqualified when he went down to take a count without being hit.

Ed Keeley, of Bridgeport, knocked out Sailor Jack Carroll, of Philadelphia in 2 minutes of fighting.

Chick Brown of New Haven stopped Soldier Adams, of Hartford in the third round.

RITCHIE IS CONTEMPLATING CHALLENGING LEONARD

San Francisco, May 14. — Willie Ritchie, former light weight champion of the world, announced tonight he would essay a "comeback" and shortly challenge Benny Leonard, the titleholder.

Since his retirement, nearly eight years ago, Ritchie has been in business in San Francisco. He is 32 years old.

Ritchie lost the title to Freddy Welsh in a 20 round fight in London in July, 1914. He had won it in San Francisco in November, 1912, by defeating Ad Wolgast.

Cambridge, Mass., May 14.—The Harvard tennis team defeated Columbia five matches to four in a dual intercollegiate contest here today.

Nassau Wins Parkway Purse.

Louisville, Ky., May 14.—The Eastern Parkway purse, at one mile for three year olds, featured number on the card at Churchill Downs, today, was won by Nassau, well supported, in 1:38 2-5. Bright Tomorrow was second and Wida third.

A Tie Game.

The single men and married men of the Baltic K. of C. battled to a 6 to 6 tie in a twilight game at Baltic Monday evening, in the first of a series of seven games. "Butch" Cote pitched for the married men and Sinnieau for the single men, both pitching air-tight ball. A feature of the game was the base running of Cote.

It's always a case of the survival of the fittest. Are you it?

LAUREL HILL'S PROTEST.

Because there doesn't appear to have been any too much consideration given to the residents of Laurel Hill in connection with the construction of the new concrete road through that section of the city, or to the manner in which it is done so long as something is accomplished, opposition continues to be expressed.

No sooner has there been some modification secured relative to the plan to remove all the trees in Laurel Hill avenue, from Winchester street south, than the erection of larger poles than were ever placed there before is started and these poles are being placed inside the curb so that as one indignant resident expressed it, "they stand now about in the middle of the sidewalk."

Even though there is to be an improved highway—a change that has long been needed—it does not mean that the sidewalks will not be required hereafter. Poles which have been placed make it difficult for two persons to walk side by side because the poles which are much higher are also much bigger and have been set entirely within the sidewalk. Even the chance to put the poles over the fence on city property, from the top of the hill beyond the bridge to River avenue, has been ignored, and narrow walks bid fair to be encroached upon the entire length of the roadway.

The aim in connection with this new road seems to be to get the job done without regard for the amount of damage or the appearance after it is completed. Just why some consideration has not been given to this situation before the work was actually started, or why those who are directly concerned with the appearance after the job is done have not had their interests looked after by the city government cannot be understood by the residents of that section of the city.

They protest not because they like to but because so little attention has been given to the appearances and the property owners along the avenue.

CHANGING COMPENSATION LAW

When an effort is made to upset the compensation law it has a direct bearing upon the workingmen and the employers. Naturally they are concerned and it is not surprising that they are making complaint at this time over a favorable report which was made by the judiciary committee last week to the lower house of the legislature by which it is provided that compensation commissioners whose terms begin before the next session of the general assembly shall be appointed by the governor with the consent of the senate.

This marks a decided change from the present law under which the authority to appoint the compensation commissioners rests with the governor. He has the authority and the responsibility rests upon him. The Connecticut law as it stands is the same that exists in other states.

This is a measure which has had its origin in the judiciary committee and in view of the opposition that it being displayed about the state the failure to provide those interested an opportunity to be heard seems to carry its own explanation.

The putting forth of a bill by a committee is nothing new but there is no reason why such a measure should be pushed along without a hearing any more than a bill which had been referred to the committee. It creates a wrong impression and the idea is gained that the aim is to have it pushed through with a bundle of other legislation on the last days of the session when little attention will be paid to it, when it is something that deserves more attention than a routine matter.

Just why the appointments of compensation commissioners coming before the next general assembly should be singled out for approval by the senate, when that procedure is not called for in the case of others has not been explained. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that there should be a demand from various sections of the state for an opportunity to be heard against any such proposition. The failure to previously disclose such a bill explains the intensity of such a protest.

TENT CATERPILLARS.

If you have driven out into the country this spring you have probably noticed the patches of white that are appearing in the crotches of the small trees by the roadside or in the branches of the orchard trees. They are not new, except for this season and there is nothing mysterious about them. They simply direct attention to the fact that the tent caterpillars are preparing for an active season and serving warning to those who may be interested that this is the time when the most effective work can be done for their elimination.

Where these nests appear meant that vegetation will be devoured as fast as it develops. The caterpillars [illegible] for a distance and while they are partial to wild cherry trees, they are likewise fond of the apple trees and raise havoc in an orchard once they get control and experience no opposition. It is useless to wait for another month or six weeks and then become horrified at the devastation that has been caused by the rapidly working army of caterpillars. Now that it is possible to note the presence of the pest the time is ripe for some of the most effective work in removing them. Clean out the small nests now and much damage will be forestalled. Wait until they begin to be more active and numerous, and each one tries to outeat the other, and the task will be manifestly increased.

There are times when a decidedly greater advantage can be gained in counteracting such damaging pests, and that is manifestly when they are few instead of many and before they have become distributed over the countryside. With everyone giving a little attention to the elimination of such nests on their property it means not only protection for the vegetation on their land but prevention of an effective nature for the neighbors. These pests are an ever increasing nuisance to the farmers and the orchardists, but the desired relief doesn't come through negligence. Relief comes through persistent opposition.

CHILDREN IN THE STREET.

Some years ago when vehicles were drawn by horses and oxen there was less danger in permitting the children to use the streets as playgrounds. It was a common gathering place for games of various kinds. It required no particular speed to get out of the way of teams, and drivers had little difficulty in avoiding the children.

Such is not the situation today. With the coming of the automobile the streets should by no means be used for playgrounds, and efforts which are directed toward warning the parents against such practices are certainly timely.

Not only should children have the danger of playing in the streets thoroughly impressed upon them, but they should be made to realize the peril that exists in jumping out into the street while teasing each other. The chances of jumping in front of an auto are excellent. It is in such failure to look before leaving the sidewalks that many accidents result.

Many accidents also follow the stepping into the street from behind other vehicles, or jumping off the rear of a vehicle and rushing directly into the path of another. Fast traveling autoists cannot anticipate such possibilities. They cannot stop their machines in time to prevent a collision and the result is that many accidents which could easily be prevented are constantly being added to the list.

There is no dodging the fact that the auto driver must be ever watchful for the protection of others, but there is no small degree of responsibility that rests upon others in the street to safeguard their own welfare. With everyone alert to protect self and at the same time others the number injured and killed would be greatly reduced.

PRISON REFORM.

In view of the disclosures which have recently been made in Florida concerning prison conditions, it is interesting to note the statement made by Dr. H. A. Hart, a former president of the American Prison association, when he declares in a review of prison conditions in southern states that a commendable change is taking place there.

He points out as the result of his study of prison conditions that South Carolina and Alabama have done more than any other two states in the Union to better prison conditions. That statement is probably due to the fact that there was need for marked changes there but it is gratifying above it all that recognition of the situation by those states has been such as to bring action in keeping with the much needed requirements.

Would that it were possible for as much to be said about certain of the other southern states. Only a reference to Florida is required to indicate just how much a thorough reform is called for in that state. It has been forced to admit that conditions are not what they should be but it has been reluctant to go the limit in correcting them that the revelations called for. Still some satisfaction is obtained from the fact that other states have done away with methods that have continued to be employed in Florida and other states and thereby set an example that may some day make such an impression as to bring about similar action in those where it is at present greatly needed.

COMPLIMENTS

"People get cross about the funniest things," signed Mrs. Dunbar. "I tried to give an acquaintance a compliment just now and she was what they call peeved."

"Compliments are sometimes perverse and dangerous," said the hostess. "That's the kind I am always giving without meaning it. What I want to say sounds so different when I say it."

"Maybe that was the trouble with what I said," agreed Mrs. Dunbar. "I told this young lady how I had heard that she was a beauty in evening gowns. Somehow it made her cross."

"She probably thinks she is a beauty all the time," laughed Mrs. Drake. "I remember somebody's praising my coloring and I knew perfectly well that she thought my nose was too long and my mouth crooked."

"Somebody gave me a cuckoo clock last year," said Mrs. Dean with a laugh. "When my Aunt Emily saw it she said it was a nice clock. I told her it was a gift, and she said she thought it must be!"

"When we were all graduating from schools and things," said Miss Clark, "mother had all of us children go to the photographer and have pictures taken. Our ages ranged from 15 to 23 and mother was very proud of her flock and sent off some photographs to a cousin in the south. She wanted the southern relative to be impressed and so she waited eagerly for Cousin Francisca's letter. Poor ma! All that Francisca wrote was: 'Your children have high foreheads'!"

"My brother despised one of his cousins," said Mrs. Drake, "and for a long time I could not discover why. Finally I learned that when he showed her the photograph of his fiancee Maggie remarked that it was the best mounted picture she ever saw! And nothing else!"

"My husband is a snapshot crank," said the new member, "and loves to nose all of us around, against the scenery, trying to get artistic photographs. I think he must have taken me a thousand times in all sorts of ways and all kinds of places. They are very good, but by the time they are done everybody in them is worn out from posing."

"My nephew takes them like that," said the hostess. "If you stand with your foot out you must pull it back, and if you pull it back it makes your dress hang badly; if you have your hands in front of you they will look too large and if they hang down the lines are very bad. I am tired out when he gets the picture snapped and then I learn that he had the wrong focus or forgot to put in any films!"

"I think my husband is quite a wonder," said the new member with pride. "His great-aunt lived down in Alabama somewhere, quite removed from cities and things of interest, so he decided to take a picture of our whole troop that would delight the soul of his Aunt Molly. He was three days planning it, wandering around trying to find the most artistic spot for his group and arranging the details in his mind. We went out once to pose for him, but the rain began to pour down and for some days it never stopped. All that time my husband was thinking about the picture and he talked so much about it that we could hardly wait for pleasant weather and the chance to pose.

"Well, it finally got bright again," continued the new member, "and we all trailed out to the orchard to drape ourselves as my husband directed. A nice safe ladder was placed against an apple tree and one of the girls went up on it while one of the boys clambered into the branches. The rest of us stood around with our aprons held out or carried baskets of big red apples that made a picture in themselves. My husband was enthusiastic over the group and took several shots to make sure he got a good one. It was really the most artistic thing he ever did, and the best possible photographs of all of us, including the dog. My husband finished up a fine print and mailed it to his great aunt, while we all sat back and guessed what she would say."

"She must have been delighted," said the hostess. "I can almost see her pleasure as she opened it."

"Well, we couldn't," said the new member folding up her work. "She wrote that she had received the picture and that it must have been a very hot summer where we were noticed that the dog of ours seemed to feel the heat a good deal. That's all!"—Chicago News

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

To find oneself suddenly famous as a composer of music is a pleasure that comes to few, but much more unusual is it for a man to attain such fame after he has already made his name in a totally different walk of life. This is the extraordinary experience that has just come to Harry Hodge, a member of one of the leading Scottish firms of printers and publishers. Mr. Hodge's hobby for a long time had been composing, and recently he sent some of his work to a friend, a well-known European composer. What was his surprise when he was informed that it possessed outstanding merit and that permission to publish it was desired. Since then Mr. Hodge's compositions have been played all over Europe and in America and have been included in concerts where only the great composers, such as Chopin, Beethoven, and so on, were recognized.

Stories That Recall Others

The Book of Job

Although she did not study the Bible closely she had heard about Job and his mysticism and was interested.

"I thought all the time that story of Job was in the Bible but I hunted all through the one we had and I couldn't find it," she told a friend, and then she added: "But I know some one who has a real Bible and I am going to get it and see if it doesn't have the story in it!"

Circumstantial Evidence.

The accused before a country justice had been charged with stealing a chicken.

"See here, my man," said the justice, "are you quite certain he shot your chicken? Will you swear to it?"

"I won't swear to it," said the farmer.

"That's not enough to convict a man," said the justice. "What aroused your suspicions?"

"Well," said the farmer, "I saw him on my property with a gun; then I heard the gun go off; then I saw him putting the chicken into a bag; and it didn't seem sensible, somehow, to think that the bird committed suicide."

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. BIEBER, 3939 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3627 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

Wives of Famous Men

Kitty Van Rennselaer, Wife of Gen. Philip Schuyler.

United by all the bonds of tradition, family and love, Kitty van Rennselaer, Colonial belle, and Philip Schuyler, afterward general in the Revolutionary army, serve as an example of a happy married pair. Kitty and Philip were descended from the same Dutch family, which had settled in New York early in the 17th century.

Like all Dutch wives and daughters, Mrs. Schuyler was well schooled in the domestic virtues. She excelled as a housekeeper and cook and was an accomplished needlewoman. Nor did her ability cease there. What was more unusual for those days, she was a woman of marked intellect and deeply interested in public affairs. Living in stirring times, she was equal to every emergency that arose. Colonial women were of necessity brave, and Kitty Schuyler was among the bravest. She never flinched when her husband was called away for duty, and she acted as mother and father both to her children.

Once during the battle Saratoga she distinguished herself by braving the perils of the British rifles by going out into the fields and setting fire to them in order that the Redcoats might not use their crops for food.

After the war was over and she was reunited with her husband she devoted herself to rebuilding his domestic life and making him forget the hardships he had endured. She succeeded admirably, for he was most happy, and deeply grieved at her death, which occurred after they had been married for 48 years.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Frankfort.

"Frankfort — sausage," probably is the reaction of the average American to the report that the home of the five famous Frankfurters is to be a museum. Frankfort-on-the-Main in Germany, the town from which hailed the famous banking family of Rothschild, is to turn the old home place of that family into a museum of Jewish antiquities.

"It is upon the financial strength of Frankfort that its important commercial standing among the cities of the European continent rests, rather than upon its manufactures, and other industries, though it has these in abundance. Since the days of old Mayer Anselm, the first of the Rothschilds who won fame as a financier and sent out his five sons to corner the money markets of other European countries, Frankfort has been the home of some of the strongest moneyed institutions in the world," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its Washington, D. C. headquarters.

"Frankfort, now the size of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, or Washington, D. C., was the old Trajectum Francorum or 'ford of the Franks,' of early Roman days which Charlemagne selected as the place for the convocation of bishops and nobles. Its position in a fertile and picturesque plain surrounded by mountains has been one of the chief factors contributing to its long career of almost uninterrupted prosperity.

"During the days of Mayer Anselm, Frankfort, like most European cities had a Jewish quarter known as the Judengasse, the gates of which were closed at night to prevent the inhabitants from going out of their portion of the city until morning. Those gates were torn down during the French occupation of the city during 1806. By degrees almost all the old houses in the Ghetto have been torn down, with the exception of number 148 in the street now known as the Bernestrasse, the ancestral home of the Rothschilds, which has been restored to its former condition. This is the building which is to house the valuable collection of antiquities representing all periods of Jewish history from the Diaspora, or the dispersion of the Jews after the Babylonian captivity.

"Many a famous man has left a heritage of history and romance to the city. Charlemagne built one of his favorite palaces there; in the thirteenth century the city became one of the notable free cities of the continent and so remained until 1866 when after having sided with Austria in the war with Germany, it was formally incorporated in the Prussian state.

"From the days of Frederick Barbarossa, who was the first reigning German king to be chosen in the city, it became customary to elect the German rulers there, and in 1356 Charles IV made this custom a right. The golden bull, in which the provision is made, is still in the archives of the romer, or city hall, where it may be seen today almost in its original state of preservation.

"No other native of Frankfort holds as high a place perhaps in the hearts of so many people as Goethe. At number 23, Grosser Hirschgraben, stands the Goethe house, where the poet spent his boyhood. It has been carefully preserved and on the front has been placed the following inscription: 'Johann Wolfgang Goethe was born in this house 28th August, 1749.'

"A short distance from the Goethe house stands a house in which resided for a time a man who left the firm impress of his personality on the German mind, Martin Luther's picture hangs in the house and the inscription marking the place reads, 'In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength.'

"Napoleon defended the city and made it the capital of the grand-duchy but upon his downfall it regained its independence.

"A statue of Schiller stands at the beginning of the Zeil, the principal business street of Frankfort. The city is properly divided into the old and the new sections. The former, which is made up mainly of narrow streets, centers about the Romerberg, or market-place, from which the Jews were for a long time barred. The fashionable quarter of the city is the west end."

FRANKLIN SQUARE Where All Cars Stop

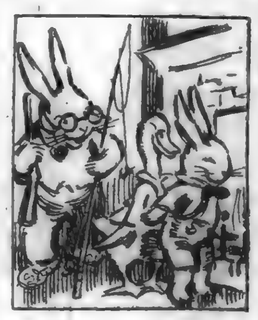
LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

OPEN YOUR HANDS AND CLOSE YOUR EYES.

Well, as soon as Little Jack Rabbit and Ducky Waddles were inside the house, the old gentleman rabbit said:

"I've got a surprise for you, but I didn't know that Ducky Waddles was coming with you, so you'll have to wait a minute while I go up to my room and bring down a surprise for him, too."

Now, wasn't that nice in the old gentleman. You see he didn't want to give something to Little Jack Rabbit and nothing to the little duck. Uncle Lucky was too kind-hearted for that.



He tiptoed up behind them.

Well, pretty soon, not so very long, he came hopping down the stairs, but before he came into the sitting room, he called out: "Now, both of you shut your eyes and I'll give you a surprise."

So, the little rabbit and the little duck closed their eyes as tight as could be while Uncle Lucky tiptoed up behind them and whispered:

"Now, hold out your hands, but don't you look until I say:

Winkedty, winkerty, blinkerty, blink.

You must't take time to even think.
For you might guess with tight shut eyes

And I want to give you a nice surprise."

"And then, what do you suppose he gave them?" You'd never guess if I gave you until forever and ever, so I'll tell you right away. A beautiful big fishing pole to the little duck boy and a dandy air rifle to the little rabbit.

"Now, you both can have all the fun you want," laughed the old gentleman rabbit. "Ducky Waddles can sit on a log and fish all day and Little Jack Rabbit can keep a lookout for Hungry Hawk and maybe shoot off all his tail feathers." Then, the old gentleman rabbit took out a cabbage leaf cigar and lighted it, and after that, he sat down before the open fire, for you mustn't forget it was a cold, rainy day, and began to smoke away, until all of a sudden, he said:

"I guess I'll play on the piano; maybe I'll sing a song." And hopping over, he sat down on the piano stool, but first he turned it around three times and a half before he began to sing:

"When I was only just sixteen
I loved a little rabbit queen
Her eyes were pink as any rose
And even pinker than her nose.

"And pinker were her eyes inside,
And when she said she'd be my bride,
I bought a lovely wedding ring
And, we were married in the spring.

And then, the old gentleman rabbit said, "Heigh-hoo, how the years go!" and maybe he smiled, for I'm sure I; tried as he looked as Little Jack Rabbit.

Was a Slave To Both Says Mrs. J. Daulette

Declares Headaches and Backaches Made Her Life a Burden For Months — Tanlac Restored Perfect Health, She States.

"The Tanlac treatment gave me such immediate and complete relief I could hardly believe it myself," declares Mrs. Joseph Daulette of 148 N. Main St., Pawtucket, R. I.

"Even after I was well I expected some of my troubles to return, but in this I was surprised and greatly pleased. At first my troubles were scarcely noticeable. I would have days of not feeling up to standard, but paid it little attention until every day got to be alike and I never felt well. I suffered so terribly from indigestion and gas I could hardly breathe at times, was a slave to headaches and backaches, and so weak I could hardly get through a day's work.

"But now the Tanlac treatment has made me perfectly well again, I haven't a trouble of any kind and feel great all the time. I will always recommend Tanlac for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Take no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We wish to announce to the consuming public of this vicinity that the advertising campaign of the Vegetable Growers, begun last year, will be continued this season.

Our object is not primarily to sell more produce today or tomorrow, but rather to bring to the attention of the buyer the value of vegetables in the diet and the realization that no meal is complete without either vegetables or fruit.

We believe that advertising our product will help greatly to promote a steady, persistent demand for it and that will be greatly to the advantage of the consumer and to us.

Some vegetables are valuable for their mineral content or some medicinal quality; others for the bulk they furnish; still others are used chiefly because they're "good"—all these classes are raised on local farms and gardens and will be offered to your dealer fresh from the soil.

Dizzy Spells Short Breath Heart Palpitation

SYMPTOMS OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Dizziness, palpitation, oppressive fullness in the chest and labored breathing on slight exertion are among the first symptoms of a dangerously high blood pressure. If unheeded, the body loses tone, one's life is shortened, and there is danger that death may come suddenly through apoplexy.

High Blood Pressure is in itself a symptom, for it usually indicates that the body is clogged and choked with poisonous wastes. Before relief can be had these wastes must be eliminated. It was for just such conditions that Bi-a-lin was first prepared by a well-known physician.

Bi-a-lin assists in driving these poisons out of the body and lowering blood pressure in Nature's own way. Bi-a-lin is mild, pleasant and harmless in its action and brings a wonderful new feeling of vigor and power almost at once. Such remarkable results have been reported in the most obstinate cases that Bi-a-lin has now been put up in convenient form and is sold by all good druggists such as The Lee & Osgood Co.

BALTIC

The Sunshine class was entertained Saturday afternoon, May 12, at the home of Miss Susan G. Smith in Uncasville. The afternoon and evening were very pleasantly spent. Games and stunts were enjoyed. A supper was served by Mrs. Smith and during the evening ice cream was served. Old time songs were sung and the class presented Mrs. Smith a very handsome basket of flowers which was much appreciated. At a late hour the class departed for Baltic after thanking the hostess for the pleasant time they had enjoyed.

Rev. Charles Smith of Uncasville was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Drescher Tuesday and attended the visitation of the grand master of the state of Connecticut at Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., at Jewett City Tuesday night.

Mrs. Charles Smith of Uncasville was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Drescher Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Arthur Labarre and family have moved on High street in the new house recently purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reiber.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fournier and children, residents here for about 30 years, have gone to Danbury, N. H., to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laturner of Norwich have purchased the Theodore Smith homestead on Pautipaug Hill.

George Drescher has had the barn in the rear of his place of business torn down and will have a modern garage put up for his private use.

Leo Despathy has had a new radio apparatus installed in his home.

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

(Toilet Helps)

You can keep your arms, neck or face free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone and in using it you need have no fear of marring or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. Then spread on the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone and mix fresh.

A PRETTY SEASONABLE FROCK.

Quaint and altogether charming is the "period" style. Embroidered voile with pelerine in a contrasting color, and with organdy for sleeve puffs, and kerchief would be nice for this model. The puffs and kerchief may be omitted. This style is also good for taffeta and crepe. It is very youthful design.

The pattern is cut in seven sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches, bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 7 5-8 yards of 36-inch material. To make underbody of lining requires 1 yard. For kerchief and puffs of contrasting material 1 5-8 yards is required. The width of the skirt at the foot is 3 1-2 yards.

OBITUARY.

Lyman D. Harding

Lyman D. Harding, 65 years of age, for many years a resident of Hamburg, died Monday morning following a lengthy illness. Although he was threatened with pneumonia, his death is believed to have been due to heart trouble. He was a farmer. He is survived by a wife, Mrs. Nora Daniels Harding, and eight sons and daughters.

FUNERALS.

Alexander Skalyneki

Alexander Skalyneki of Waterford died Saturday following a long illness at the home of his niece, Mrs. Andrew Kiuszewski, where he had been making his home for some year. He was 68 years of age. Funeral services were held from his late home at 9 Monday morning. Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. John's church, Montville, at 9.30 o'clock by Rev. Father Quinn. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery in Montville.

Charles Jenowitz

Funeral services for Charles Jenowitz were held Monday morning at his home in Bozrah, many relatives and friends attending. There were many beautiful floral forms. Hourigan Brothers conveyed the body to St. John's church in Fitchville, by automobile cortege, where Rev. Philip J. Mooney read a Mass of requiem. Miss Mary Bentley presided at the organ and Mrs. Julia Authier sang Nearer, My God, to Thee. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

WEDDINGS.

Troland—Keeley.

Joseph P. Troland of Taftville and Miss Mary G. Keeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Keeley of 19 Hickory street, were united in marriage Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. William A. Keefe, the rector. The attendants were Mrs. Edward Murphy, sister of the groom, and Robert Keeley, brother of the bride.

The bride and her maid were gowned in gray canton crepe with hats to match and carried Marechel Neil roses. The gift of the bride to her maid was an aquamarine ring and the best man received gold cuff links. The bride also received many beautiful gifts of silverware, cut glass, linen, money, and household articles.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Troland of Providence street, Taftville, and holds a responsible position with the American woolen mills in Thamesville.

A reception was held and wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the couple left on their wedding tour to New York.

Mahew—Coleman.

Miss Nellie Coleman of 55 Sherman street and Clarence Mahew of Hartford were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at St. Patrick's church rectory by Rev. M. H. May. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Merhenry of Willimantic, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride, guests attending from out of town. After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Mahew will reside in Hartford, where the groom holds a responsible position.

The bride has always resided in this city and is the daughter of John and Mary Russell Coleman. The groom is a native of Willimantic and is the son of Octave and Mary Lacroix Mahew.

SIGNING PETITION AGAINST TROLLEY NON-STOP ORDER

The new rulings concerning the trolleys in the city, doing away with the stops at Broadway corner, have failed to meet the approval of a large majority of the merchants in the center of the city or of the public who for years have been accommodated by the abandoned stops. Petitions have been signed in the past few days by over 75 of the most prominent business men of Norwich, and plans are being made to circulate petitions on the West Side, Thamesville and Laurel Hill to get signers. It is stated that over a thousand people will sign the petition to bring back this stop, it being alleged that the people who caused it to be removed were stricken with short sightedness and had failed to give the public, the trolley riding public, a chance to be heard on a matter that concerns them.

Threats have been heard among the signers of the petition that they will show their resentment at the polls in the coming city election.

Mayor Milo R. Waters has already received one signed petition against the non-stop order, this being presented to him Saturday night after the directions to put the order into effect had already been issued.

SODALITAS ELECTS AT MEETING AT CHURCH

The annual meeting of the Sodalitas of the United Congregational church was held in the junior room at the church Monday evening with the election of officers as the principal business. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Evelyn McMillan.

The following list, presented by the nominating committee, was elected: President, Miss Evelyn McMillan; vice president, Mrs. A. R. P. Norell; secretary, Miss Jane Dearing; treasurer, Miss Ruth N. Kinney; representative to Woman's guild, Mrs. Helen B. Eabrikke.

TWO BREAK THROUGH NOMINATIONS BY DEMOCRATIC TOWN COMMITTEE

Nearly 250 democratic voters, many of them women, attended the caucus of the party Monday night in the town hall when the nominations were made for the election to be held in June. There were two contests, one between Timothy Sullivan and M. Frank Leonard for city clerk requiring three ballots before the result could be announced, Sullivan being declared the winner by 10 votes. It was evident that feeling was running high between the supporters of the two candidates and the clerks came in for no little comment as they disagreed twice in succession, one declaring Sullivan nominated, the other making Leonard the winner. After re-enforcements of two additional clerks had been secured the weary voters again filed past the checkers and soon afterwards Sullivan was declared a winner, and Leonard moved to make it unanimous.

This was the second upset of the party machine, the first having come when Anson R. Grover, present alderman and nominee of the town committee, was beaten by John T. Gleason, who defeated Grover for the nomination by 43 votes.

The caucus was opened by William H. Callahan, chairman of the democratic town committee, and on nomination of Alderman Henry Gebrath, Mayor Milo R. Waters was elected chairman of the caucus. After a brief speech in which he extolled the merits of the democratic party and the leadership of such men as Harriman, Thayer, Fanning and Burke, Chairman Waters called for nominations for clerk and James Sheridan nominated Jeremiah A. Desmond, who was elected.

For Alderman.

Amsen R. Grover was nominated for first alderman by Thomas M. Shields and William P. Shea placed the name of John T. Gleason against the choice of the town committee. C. J. Downes, who had been nominated as clerk, and Mr. Desmond as clerks, checked the voted as the voters passed from left to right. The result was announced by Chairman Waters as follows: Total votes cast 196, necessary for choice 94, for Gleason 119, for Grover 77. Mr. Grover moved Gleason's nomination be made unanimous which was voted.

For second alderman John J. Corcoran nominated William H. Harrington, the vote being unanimous.

No Contests For Councilmen.

There were no contests for councilmen, all being unanimously elected as follows: Adam J. Gershardt nominated by Patrick Sweeney, William O'Leary nominated by John Holland, Edward T. Connelly nominated by C. J. Downes, and Frank Green nominated by Henry Gebrath.

On nomination by James Sheridan, Charles S. Avery was the choice for city treasurer.

Contest For City Clerk.

On the call for nominations for city clerk the long drawn out voting began. Timothy Sullivan was nominated by John H. Carney and M. Frank Leonard by C. J. Downes, and after two ballots, Clerk Desmond claiming the election of Sullivan, Downes the election of Leonard, but the difference in the check was less than five votes. John H. Carney and Joseph P. Gadle were elected additional clerks and the third vote was taken, Chairman Waters giving the result as follows: total vote 216, necessary for choice 108, Sullivan 116, Leonard 100. Mr. Leonard moved that the vote be made unanimous.

Tax Collector.

On nomination by Thomas Shields, Harold T. Robinson was nominated for tax collector. Mr. Robinson had previously been nominated by the republicans, thus placing him on both tickets.

There were no other contests William J. Carroll being nominated for sheriff on motion of Martin Keough and Abraham Siegel on motion of Joseph F. Williams.

Water Board Member.

Arthur H. Story was nominated for member of the water board on motion of Earl Mathewson and after the town committee had been empowered to fill all vacancies the caucus adjourned at 8 o'clock (standard time).

BROTHERHOOD ANNUAL WITH INTERESTING ADDRESS

Officers were elected for the year by the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church at the annual meeting held Monday evening at the Community house on Church street, which was preceded by a supper at 6.30 served by the women of Deacon B. P. Bishop's class in the church school. About 50 men were present.

President Nathan A. Gibbs presided at the business meeting, at which reports were given that showed the brotherhood had had an active and successful year.

Upon the report of the nominating committee, presented by A. L. Peale, the following were elected: President Walter F. Lester; vice president, Dr. Hugh E. Campbell; secretary, A. F. Noren; treasurer, Joseph A. French; literary committee, H. M. Leroe, Archibald Mitchell 4th, Charles Coit; committee chairman, Robert B. Cary, Bible study; A. M. Thompson, church attendance; F. A. Lester, citizenship; N. A. Gibbs, finance; Charles S. Holbrook, hospitality; Charles F. Wells, membership; C. A. Spear, publicity; Harold W. Carpenter, social.

After the election, Mr. Gibbs, who has been president for three years, surrendered the chair to Mr. Lester and there was a pleasant exchange of complimentary remarks between the outgoing and the incoming officers, while the meeting passed votes of thanks to each set of officials.

It was voted to hold an outing in June and to have the by-laws printed.

President Lester introduced Rev. J. Beveridge Lee of New London as the speaker of the evening, who interested his audience greatly in an informal talk upon the development in Egyptian archaeology which may be expected from the discoveries at King Tut's tomb and the subsequent explorations that are to be made, touching in an informing way upon the relation to Biblical history that discoveries in Egypt bear.

A vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Lee was passed by the meeting.

REMONSTRATE OVER POLES ON LAUREL HILL AVE.

Protests over the way the poles were being set on Laurel Hill avenue, along the westerly sidewalk from the top of Bridge hill southerly, were being received Monday by Mayor Milo R. Waters

Those making the protests were complaining of the way the poles were set in from the curb, thus narrowing up the walk whereever a pole was set so much, that it was claimed there were points where two persons could hardly walk abreast in passing a pole. Contributing to this condition was the size of the poles, which are taller and larger in circumference than those they replace.

Poles 45 feet in height are being used and will carry all the wires on the street, trolley, electric, telephone and telegraph.

Mayor Waters said Monday night that the poles have to be set in four inches from the curb, according to a requirement of the public utilities commission, and that the larger poles will mean that only half as many as formerly will be used on the street.

Remonstrants against the way the poles have been set have suggested that the poles at points along the hill could be set just over the fence on the bank above the railroad track, but the mayor said that he thought there were so few of such poles that it would be scarcely worth while to make any change now.

The poles all the way down the street will have to be set four inches from the curb as those on the hill have been set.

WERE ON JOY RIDE WITH U. S. ARMY TRUCK

The army truck that crashed through the fence on the Norwich-Jewett City road Sunday morning was taken from the quartermaster wharf at New London Sunday morning by Private Glover of the 181st company at Fort Wright, and he with Private Gill and Peter Buoguian, a New London tailor, went out for a joy ride. The caretaker at the wharf supposed that Glover had the right to take the machine.

Monday parts of the wreck were taken from the road, and the government is to investigate the case.

Buoguian, who was taken to the Backus hospital suffering four broken ribs and possible internal injuries, remains in the same condition today, his injuries not of a serious nature.

Visited Bozrah Council.

At a recent meeting of the Bozrah Council of Jewish women the members were honored by the presence of Miss Edith Zeiman, the newly appointed field workers.

WILL PRESERVE SEABURY RELIC AT WOODBURY

The announcement that a committee has been appointed by the bishop of Connecticut to raise a fund for the preservation of that historic shrine of the Episcopal church in America, the old Glebe house in Woodbury, where Samuel Seabury was chosen to be the first American bishop, is one that will gladden the hearts, not only of all communicants of the church, but all who are interested in the preservation of historic spots in this comparatively young country for the benefit of future generations. Bishop Seabury has a more than ordinary interest in this part of the state, because of his one-time location at New London and the naming of Groton's Episcopal house of worship for him. Rt. Rev. Edward Campion Acheson, suffragan bishop of this, the mother diocese of this country, is chairman of the committee, and with him associated, among others, Bishops Davies of western Massachusetts and Perry of Rhode Island; Henry W. Kent formerly of Norwich, secretary of the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York; Thomas Nash and Judge Samuel Seabury of New York; Miss Deborah A. Glover of Philadelphia; Norman Isham of Providence, George Dudley Seymour and Mrs. Frederick F. Brewster of New Haven; Miss Annie B. Jennings of Fairfield and Mrs. Seth Low Pierrepont of Ridgefield. This committee plans to raise $10,000 with which to put the house in order and $25,000 for a maintenance fund and has good prospect of success, since it is something in which every Episcopalian in the country should be interested.

The current number of The Churchman contains a short article from which the following extracts are taken:

"Trevelyan in his The American Revolution writes: 'In the spring of 1783, a little company of the clergy, men as noble as ever manned a forlorn hope, or went down to ruin for a sacred idea, assembled in a lonely Connecticut parsonage, solemnly designated Samuel Seabury as the first bishop of the American church and requested him to go to England for consecration.' The house in which that momentous episode in our American history took place is still standing in the Pomperaug valley in the little village of Woodbury, Conn. It was the home of the Rev. John Rutgers Marshall, who was the representative at the time of the S. P. G. for that region.

"Here 10 of the 14 clergymen of the Church of England working in Connecticut met on March 25, 1783, to deliberate on the unhappy state of the church and to plan for the future. The thing above all else they were anxious to do, for they felt it was essential to the very life of the church, was to set up an American episcopate. And before that 'voluntary convention' broke up they had selected Samuel Seabury to go to England for consecration. Their first choice was Jeremiah Leaming, but owing to age and ill health he declined the honor. The story of Seabury's vain attempt to get the English bishops to consecrate him, owing to political difficulties is well known to all churchmen. But he had been instructed in the event of their refusal to seek consecration in Scotland, and there he went, and was consecrated by Bishops Kilgour, Petrie and Skinner, Nov. 14, 1784. And to the fact that he received his consecration at the hands of the Scottish bishops does the American church owe its communion service.

"Now a determined effort is to be made to preserve this old house. At the moment it is standing vacant, and, like all vacant houses, deteriorating. It is a fine old house of its type, well built and though now in disrepair, easily capable of being put into good shape. While it is felt that this matter should primarily interest Connecticut churchmen, the committee makes its appeal to churchmen everywhere to assist in this admirable cause of preserving this old house, the scene of events so important, and making it a shrine to which churchmen all over the land may come."

When the 125th anniversary of the building of St. Paul's church, Woodbury, was celebrated, Oct. 14-15, 1911, the old Glebe house was a central figure of attraction, and was thrown open to visitors for inspection, as was part of the later rectory, built by Rev. Mr. Marshall on the hill just above, on the main churchyard. The secret room where Mr. Marshall was wont to take refuge from the attacks of his neighbors who objected to his Tory principles, is under the stairway, entered from a closet in the room at the right of the hall. From it is a passage to the cellar, enabling a fugitive to a point among the rocks some distance away, on the other side of the highway, but if there was such a passage, all trace of it seems to have disappeared. Rt. Rev. Anthony Mitchel, late bishop of Aberdeen and Orkney, and successor to Bishop Kilgour, one of the Seabury consecrators, visited this historic house a few years before his death and was greatly interested in what he saw there.

Not Desirable as Residence

The house stands down in a hollow and the cellar is apt to be damp in rainy seasons, so it is not very desirable as a place of residence. It was bought from the owns into whose hands it had passed some years ago and presented to the late Bishop Williams, who, in turn, gave it to the women of the diocese. It was thought at first, that it could be used as a home for aged clergy, but has proved rather unsuitable for that. The room at the left of the front entrance is said to be the one in which the meeting was held and the choice of Bishop Seabury made, and this can easily be put in good shape as the show room of the House. The descendants of Rev. John Rutgers Marshall own many relics of early days, including a chair in which every bishop of Connecticut, from Bishop Seabury down, has sat; the surplice owned by their ancestor; his letters of orders and other credentials, with old books and letters; while the church has the old silver communion service, given by the English crown, the original altar and other things of the sort. Most of the windows contain the original glass, imported for them by Rev. Mr. Marshall, and the church, with slight alterations, is as it was when first built. Services are held in it regularly, for the most part, and it is a fitting guardian for the Glebe house in the hollow below.

MANY SPECTATORS AT WILIMANTIC MEETING

Willimantic, May 15.—The spectators' gallery was filled tonight at the regular monthly meeting of the board of aldermen by residents who wished to have the council carry out resolutions to install water on various streets in the city. In all of the cases the requests will be complied with in the near future. In answer to another request the meeting of the claims committee will be held next Monday night and a hearing will be given to Mrs. D. C. Barrows and John J. Sullivan, both of Prospect street, in regard to their claims against the city for the cutting down of trees abutting on their respective properties. Some of the petitioners claim that the streets on which they resided had been accepted by the city, but that they were still carrying water to the houses in pails. Accordingly the superintendent of the water works was instructed to cause the installation of water on Trepello avenue and Birch street and the water committee was requested to see that the work was carried out. The committee on watr was authorized to lay water mains on Frances street. The resolutions were introduced by Aldermen Jacobs and Jackson.

The report of the police, Daniel J. Kilkenny, showed 39 arrests during the month of April. Seven of the accused were committed to jail. Twenty-two tramps lodged at the station during the month. The total expense for the street department for the last month was $2,069.-65, according to Superintendent Irving Ford's report. The city was requested to accept Iris Hill street, between Valley and Prospect streets, as a city street by a petition signed by eight residents. The matter will be investigated.

An application from Wood and Ladd, plumbing contractors, for a drain layers' license was granted. Damages to the amount of $560.50 are claimed by Miss Bertha Codsell of Brooklyn, N. Y., as a result of injuries sustained from a fall on the icy pavement, opposite the property of the J. M. Shepard estate on North street. Miss Codsell received her injuries on March 6, 1923. The bill includes $252.50 for hoarding expenses at $35 a week, $225 for labor lost and $80 for medical treatment. The claims committee will attend to the matter.

A letter of appreciation for the floral tributes sent on the death of their late mother was read, from Alderman George W. and Louis Hickey. The following resolutions were then adopted: that the city borrow $2,000 to defray city expenses, that the purchasing committee purchase 100 tons of coal introduced by Alderman Roy, that the Boy Scouts band of St. Joseph's church be granted the use of Montgomery House house for rehearsal, that the street superintendent cause the removal of two trees on Maple avenue, opposite the home of Mrs. Priscilla Brindamour and an Elm tree on North street abutting the property of Mrs. George A. Nathan introduced by Aldermen Roy and Hickey respectively, that the sewer committee cause the laying of sewers for the distance of 111 feet on Turner street and south of Summit street, introduced by Alderman Sullivan, that the committee on sewer assessments assess the expenses of laying of sewers on part thereof on Pleasant street west of Bridge streets upon the owners of the property abutting thereon who have requested the laying of the sewers or who would benefit by them. A hearing will be granted the parties concerned introduced by Alderman Sullivan, that the weekly pay of Jeremiah Lyons be $32 while he is acting as superintendent of sewers and inspector of sidewalks, Alderman Hickey, that due publication be made of the city ordinance in regard to the operation of motor vehicles on the city streets following the sounding of the fire alarm, Alderman Hickey, that the sewer committee consider the advisability of laying sewers on Ann and Hope streets and report. There are thirteen houses on the street, including 37 tenements.

During an extended recess a contract for the sale of city ice from the municipal ice plant at Mansfield was signed by Louis Ives. Mr. Ives will purchase the ice at $1 a ton and it will be retailed by him at 45 cents a hundred pounds. He has the privilege to sell ice to other local dealers provided that their retail price does not exceed his own and that it is sold within the city. Contracts for the construction of sidewalks were signed by Contractor David P. Ahern.

Alderman Flynn requested that the fire department be ordered to avoid Main street as much as possible when answering an alarm. His request is in consideration of the increased dangers existing on that street which is the main thoroughfare of the city and is the outcome of a recent accident in which a fire truck struck an automobile, slightly injuring the driver.

Burrill F. Fielding, U. S. N., of the U. S. S. Utah, arrived Sunday from Boston to spend two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Fielding, of this place.

Miss Winifred Quidgeon was pleasantly surprised Friday evening when about 25 friends paid an unexpected visit to her home, bringing a May basket laden with flowers, cake, candy and fruit. It was the anniversary of Miss Quidgeon's 17th birthday and she received many pretty gifts. Music, games and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour, when refreshments were served by Mrs. Quidgeon, assisted by Mrs. Strickland and Miss Gladys Quidgeon.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrill H. Fielding of Mohegan announce the marriage of their daughter Loretta to Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert Schultz of the U. S. S. Idaho on May 5, 1923, in Los Angeles, Cal. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Fielding, cousins of the bride, and after a brief honeymoon will reside at 11525 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Mrs. Schultz has a host of friends here who wish the newly married couple much happiness.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Monday afternoon at the church in North Sterling funeral services for Mrs. Mary Louise Fortune, 57, were conducted by Rev. George Watts, state missionary for Rhode Island, assisted by Rev. Harry St. John Filmer, pastor of the church at Rice City. Mrs. Harvey Fryer and Mrs. Gertrude Jervie sang three hymns during the service and benediction was pronounced by Rev. John H. Fryer, a brother of Mrs. Fortune and resident at Merchantville, N. J. The bearers were James D. Williams, Harvey D. Fryer, Fred A. Cole, Luther W. Cole, Charles Gahlen and F. O. Plummer. Burial was in the Wood cemetery. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Fortune, a resident of North Sterling, died last Friday. She was a native of Trowbridge, England, and a daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Gayton Fryer. She leaves her husband, Richard Fryer, and a son, Harvey, and several brothers and sisters.

Next Saturday will be a day of activity at the Windham County fair grounds in Brooklyn, when youths representing Y. M. C. A. groups and high schools of the county will enter into competition at the annual field day arranged by the county Y. M. C. A. organization.

The entry list will be closed tomorrow (Wednesday). Six high schools of the county will be represented in the contests. The events are to open about 9 a. m. and will continue throughout the day, the contestants being divided into three classes in accordance with a classification system announced some time since.

The meet will be open to the public and County Secretary J. H. Corbett of the Y. M. C. A. will be pleased to have a large number of visitors on hand. Secretary Corbett will also appreciate the bringing of as many of the contestants and others as automobile owners care to take in their machines.

This event is certain to be of very great interest, for there will be keen competition. Killingly High school is expected to be represented by a fine team and seems certain to have winners in the list completed after the day's events have been run off.

Something the police would appreciate is the co-operation of automobile owners in obeying such parking regulations as exist in Danielson. It has been increasing difficult this year for the officers to keep the business section passably clear for traffic because of the great increase of the number of machines in use, but this can be more easily done if all will try and assist the officers instead of trying to do little things that hamper them in their efforts. What may be termed a spirit of good sportsmanship would go a long way toward eliminating the traffic troubles. And this is generally manifest upon the part of all but a very few motorists. It is easy enough for anyone to adopt obstructive tactics to pester an officer honestly trying to do his duty, but as a general rule the entire public is discommoded by such pettiness.

A north-bound trolley car, out of Danielson at 4.10 Monday afternoon, and a big motor truck owned by F. A. and F. C. Davis of North Main street were in collision at what is known as Beaumont's curve, just south of Elmville. The car was traveling north when the motor truck, going along in the same direction, overtook it and passed it. A little farther on Clifford Davis, driver of the truck, stopped his machine and when the trolley car came along the truck was so close to the trolley rails that the car hit it a rear-end blow. William Babcock, a motorman of years' experience, was operating the trolley car.

The accident did not cause the injury of anyone. The trolley car was not seriously damaged nor was the truck, as far as outward appearances went. At the time of the collision the highway was unobstructed by vehicles going in either direction. At the point where the incident occurred the trolleys run along at the side of the highway, close up under a low embankment leaving the width of the highway for other traffic.

Boxing fans have a big event to interest them here in Danielson next Thursday evening, when four bouts will be staged in the town hall. These bouts are scheduled to provide a total of 30 rounds of boxing if the events go the limit. As has been the case since boxing has been introduced here, the affair will be staged under the regulations of the state boxing commission. Boxing has become so popular that fans attend the contests held here from practically all of the towns in eastern Connecticut, each card attracting from 700 to 800 spectators.

Thousands of strawberry plants in gardens in Danielson and the neighboring territory were blighted by the freeze of the past week and will not bear any fruit this season. Some of the plants were so hard hit that they turned black. Other berry crops are believed to have been severely cut down by the unusually cold weather, which in a measure duplicated the disastrous drop in temperature experienced in this section in May 1921.

On Wednesday evening of this week members of McGregor, Woman's Relief Corps, are to hold a meeting at which plans will be discussed for the Memorial day observance, this being the last meeting before that day. Reports also will be given by delegates to the recent state convention of the organization held in Hartford.

A general order received by Captain F. O. Armington from the adjutant general's office at Hartford sets forth that the general in command of the first corps area has designated Camp Eustis, Va., as the location for the fifteen days' field training that the 192d Field Artillery, of which the Service battery is a part, the period to be from September 8-22.

The local battery will go south by train, as was the case last year. Fort Eustis is near Fortress Munroe. It is an artillery camp, where miles of track hold heavy railroad artillery and where there is much artillery of other types.

The boys found it hot in this camp in 1922, but going south later this year is expected to make their field training period more comfortable for them. The battery is recruited practically to full peace time strength and the members are looking forward with interest to their trip to Virginia.

The Brooklyn Fire district, which includes that part of Danielson familiarly known as the West Side, has elected the following officials for the ensuing years: Committee, J. F. Gardner, Jr., chairman; H. J. Burbank, Arnold Wild; clerk and treasurer, E. C. Babson; tax collector, Frank M. Bedard; auditor, David King. The district is in good financial condition, having only a comparatively small debt.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Comiskey of Westboro, Mass., and Miss Nellie Sullivan have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy of Furnace street.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will be at the health station in the town hall building this (Tuesday) morning to conduct a tuberculosis clinic.

The first practice shoot for members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club will be held Thursday afternoon at the club's shooting grounds on Allen Hill road.

Howard C. Batterman of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

Byron A. Larkin has been named as administrator of the estate of his father, Gilbert Larkin, late of East Killingly.

Mr. and Mrs. John Greeley and Miss Sadie Tracy attended the wedding of Mrs. Greeley's sister, Miss Annie Connor, and Ferdinand Manzo, at the cathedral in Providence, R. I., Monday morning.

Mud pout are biting in the reservoirs about East Killingly and some good strings have been brought in from that territory by local people.

Many Danielson people will participate in the annual Memorial Sunday exercises to be held at South Killingly on the 27th of this month.

John Czupryna and Anzelm Czupryna, who have been engaged in a partnership here for some time, have given notice of their intention to dissolve the partnership, the latter to continue carrying on their business.

An automobile rented in Providence Saturday afternoon was ditched early Sunday morning on the state highway between Danielson and Willimantic. The owner came Sunday to arrange for its removal.

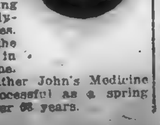
This is the final week for paying taxes to the collector for the town of Killingly unless one would submit to paying the penalties that may be inflicted for further delay. Collector Williams' last announced collection date is Monday of next week.

To clear up some misapprehension relative to the matter, William S. Brown stated Monday that he is the owner of the land on which his six double tenements stand on and near Water street. This is a statement that can be verified by reference to the land records of the town.

KIDNEY TROUBLE BECOMES SERIOUS

"Suffered with severe headache, backache and pains in my legs and under my shoulder blade. My kidneys and bladder were in bad condition. I was weak and nervous and felt tired and worn out. Walking made me short of breath. Every morning my face and hands were bloated. Medicines failed to help my condition and doctors advised an operation," writes Maggie Nelson, Mossdale, Fla. "Fortunately I read about Foley Kidney Pills, tried them and got relief." Lee & Osgood Co.

Sturdy Youngsters Take Father John's Medicine



The best health builder for children at this season of the year is Father John's Medicine because its pure food elements build new strength to fight off disease at the same time building new flesh and drying out impurities. That is what the children need in the springtime. That is why Father John's Medicine has been so successful as a spring time tonic for over 68 years.

PUTNAM

The lockout of employes of the Manhasset Manufacturing company entered its second week Monday, a day without special developments in the important situation. As has been their daily custom, the employes who are out held meetings during the day to talk over the situation. Representatives of the men held a conference with their attorney during the morning and following this conference it was stated that no effort would be made to oppose by legal means the temporary injunction granted by Judge Avery of the superior court. This injunction merely prohibits things in which the strikers have not indulged and do not intend to indulge. They are conducting themselves in a quiet and orderly manner, therefore the injunction means little to them.

Abraham Binns, first vice-president of the American Federation of Textile Operatives and William A. G. Barty, second vice president of the organization, both New Bedford men, are now in this city and were engaged Monday in directing affairs. The leaders asserted that 460 of the Manhasset company's employes were out.

At the mill Monday afternoon it was stated that departments were operating with reduced forces and that about a dozen who were out during the past week returned to work Monday morning. It was stated for the company that the number of men out at no time has exceeded 260 and that about 250 were away from their jobs Monday.

Further conferences between representatives of the men and representatives of the mill company are anticipated for this week. At the present time a deadlock appears to exist, with the men firm in their demands and the company unchanged from the position toward further advances in wages.

Some of the men have found employment already and engaged with other occupations and earning money pending the settlement of the controversy, which continues to be of vital interest to the people of the city.

Captain Remi Delage injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago tomorrow night, was lying in a practically unchanged condition at the City hospital in Worcester during Monday. He was reported during the day as in a highly critical state and no surprise would be occasioned by the announcement of his death, though his relatives and friends are hopnig almost against hope that he may recover.

His condition appears to be largely due to internal injuries, though he has suffered greatly from the fractures he sustained when the car in which he was riding collided with a bridge abutment at an underpass in the town of Oxford.

Deputy Judge Archibald Macdonald presided at Monday morning's session of the city court. David Cote presented to answer the charges of having been intoxicated, assault and breach of the peace, admitted having been intoxicated but denied the assault and breach of the peace charge, which grew out of an affair in which he engaged with a namesake. The court imposed a sentence of 30 days in jail on the intoxication charge, suspended execution of the sentence and continued the other charges, Cote being put in charge of Peter Gardner as probation officer.

At the same session of the court Yvonne Desparchee, 24, mother of recently born twins, was ordered committed to the state home for women at Niantic and was taken there during the day in charge of an officer and probation officer.

Hundreds continue to visit the scene of a thunderbolt's rampage in the Bowditch reservoir district a few miles each of Putnam, just off the state highway leading to Chepachet. Scores of cars brought many visitors on Sunday and all marveled at what they saw. Except to make the road passable by filling up the rent in its surface, nothing has been done to clear up the havoc wrought and the sight for spectators is well worth traveling miles to see.

H. K. H. Silk company is to be represented by a baseball team this season and is now seeking games with industrial company teams representing concerns of communities in eastern Connecticut or adjoining territory. M. C. Lewis of 9 Chassey street will receive any challenge that may be sent to him and will be pleased to hear from managers who want to arrange games.

Motorists from this city and other adjoining Connecticut towns who venture into Massachusetts without proper tail light equipment on their cars will stand liable to being warned if not actualy ordered into court for violation of the neighboring state's motor vehicle regulations relative to rear lights, these regulations being different than those prevailing in Connecticut. Garage men here and hereabouts are informed as to what constitutes proper tail light equipment for Massachusetts and can aid any motorist who is not certain as to what is required in the nearby state.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon at the auditorium of Putnam High school pupils representing schools in Pomfret, Eastford, Canterbury, Sterling, Union, Voluntown and Woodstock will participate in an annual speaking-spelling contest, a district affair that will develop keen competition for the honors that are to be accorded the winners. One speaker and one speller will represent each town. These pupils have been selected by elimination contests conducted during the past fortnight among the pupils of schools in the towns concerned. Winners in the contests to be held here will be sent to Hartford to compete in the state-wide contest scheduled for June 5.

Another feature of the meeting to be held are six athletic contests—three for boys and three for girls. The winners in these events will also have opportunity to participate in the state meet at Hartford. The orchestra and Glee club of Putnam High school will furnish a musical program during the afternoon.

Anna Hanson and Gertrude Hansen will represent the town of Canterbury. Irene Warner will represent Pomfret as speaker and George Farquhar as speller. Susan Nason and Margaret Marriott will be Sterling's representatives and Florence Bibeault and Doris Bliven will come from Voluntown. Rebekah Hibbard and Cedric Child will represent Woodstock.

Government will be the subject of discussion at this week's meeting of the Putnam League of Women Voters, scheduled for Thursday afternoon. Mrs. C. D. Arnold will discuss Town, City and Borough Officials, Their Duties and Salaries. A paper by Miss Mary Merriam will be on State Officials, Their Duties and How Paid. National Officials, from Connecticut, Their Duties and How Paid will be the subject of an address by Mrs. J. S. Green. Other matters that are to be taken up for discussion are the methods of nominating officials, how they are elected, how many of them are women and what offices they hold.

This is a famous day of the spring season—Straw Hat Day—As yet this type of headgear has not been prominent in Putnam this spring, at least among the men, though women have been wearing straw hats for weeks past.

Miss Katherine T. Thayer of Mt. St. Joseph seminary at Hartford returned to her duties Monday after spending the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Thayer.

Mrs. Arthur S. Macdonald and infant daughter returned Monday from a stay of a few days in New London.

Heirs of Hector McConnell, late superintendent of the mills of the Attawaugan company at Ballouville, have given $50 to the fund for a nurse's home at the Day Kimball hospital.

Henry A. Henderson of Willimantic was a visitor with friends in Putnam Monday.

Newton A. Vaughn and Otto E. Wulf are officially delegated by the Putnam Chamber of Commerce to be held in Hartford this week.

At Eastford on Memorial day a tablet in honor of those who represented the town in the world war will be dedicated.

It appears that strawberry plants were hard hit by the cold weather of last week, so the crop of this native fruit will be short this season.

Without telling any details that might spoil an event, this week is to be marked by the giving of several May basket parties in Putnam.

OPERATIVES SEND LETTER TO MANHASSET COMPANY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Putnam, May 14—Following a meeting of Putnam Local No. 37, of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, held in Foresters' hall, Monday afternoon, the following letter was sent to the Manhasset Manufacturing Company. The letter was formulated for presentation to the company at the request of Federal Conciliator Brown who arrived in Putnam Monday morning. The letter is as follows:

Manhasset Mfg. Company
Putnam, Connecticut,
Gentlemen:

At a meeting of the Putnam Local No. 37, of the American Federation of Textile Operatives held on even date (said local being composed of a substantial majority of employees of the Manhasset Mfg. Company) it was unanimously voted to submit formally and in writing a statement of the issue now in controversy.

Table of wages as affected here and elsewhere in New England by recent advances and reductions as follows:

On basis of each $10 in wages:

Manhasset Mfg. Co., Putnam, Conn., Wages before February 1922 $10.00; wages after 20 per cent reduction of February 1922 $8.00; wages after 10 per cent advance in October 1922 $8.80; wages after 6 per cent advance in January 1923 $9.33; wages after 7 per cent. advance in April 1923 $9.98; wages after 5 1-2 per cent advance in April 1923 $10.53.

The rest of New England—Wages before February 1922 $10.00; wages after 20 per cent reduction of February 1922 $8.00; wages after 25 per cent. advance in October 1922 $10.00; wages after 12 1-2 per cent advance in April 1923 $11.25.

Amount of diffrence on each $10 of wages equals 72c; that is 7 per cent. of present wages necessary to equalize wage adjustments that have been made generally throughout New England.

We submit that the above table in a truthful and complete statement of wage adjustments made here and elsewhere in New England and we further submit that the table here set forth if true is indisputable proof that the position of this local in asserting that wage adjustments made here during the period covered in those tables leaves the employes 7 per cent in arrears of all other textile workers elsewhere in New England through wage adjustments alone.

A committee of employes of the Manhasset Mfg. Company has been elected to confer with the management on the matters here set forth.

Respectfully yours,

The Committee of Local 37.

WESTERLY

Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner of Providence will take up the docket in superior court for Washington county, having recessed since Arbor day, when the jurors are instructed to report this (Tuesday) morning at the court house on Union street. The first case set down for trial is Francis McGraw Grady vs Calbert R. Edwards. This is a case brought to recover $5000 damages alleged sustained when shot gun charges entered the legs of the plaintiff and at the hands of Edwards. The affair took place in Shannock and was a result of alleged stealing of watermelons from the garden of the defendant. It is thought the case may take the entire day.

Tuesday afternoon at Vose park Westerly High school baseball team will play their 7th scheduled game at 3.15 when the La Salle team from Providence are their opponents in the third home ground game for W. H. S. On April 17th the high team was defeated by LaSalle in Providence by the score of 3 to 2. Since this game the Providence ball players have averaged three game a week and have even gone into New Hampshire to engage a school nine. The lineup for Westerly will be: Mitchell 3b; Blake ss; Meikle cf; Barber rf; Stenhouse p; Lenihan c; Smith 1b; Bamford lf; and Mellow 2b. For LaSalle: Victory cf; F. Moran 2b; McLaughlin ss; McElroy p; McCaffery c; Murray 3b;; J. Moran 1b; Kane rf Kaveney 1b.

Many radio fight fans in and about Westerly report very satisfactory returns as they "listened in" on the heavyweight milk fund carnival bouts on Saturday between Firpo and McAuliffe, Willard and Johnson, and lesser bouts staged at the Yankee stadium in New York.

Representative J. Winfield Church of Narragansett was in Westerly on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Grace L. Savage of Pawtucket is the guest of her father, William H. Savage of 145 Granite street.

Henry J. Goulet, who has recently removed from 4 Crescent street to his recently purchased house at 32 Chestnut street, is in New York city.

John Finney of Providence, proprietor of the General Stanton Inn on the Post road in Charlestown in the summer season, was a visitor in Westerly on Monday.

Daniel F. Larkin, 60 Elm street, has gone to Watch Hill for the summer, occupying his cottage on Fort road.

Henry Mayne of 14 Lincoln avenue was the guest of friends in Norwich over the week end.

Byron F. Lewis of Swift & Co., New Haven, was a Westerly visitor on Sunday.

Mrs Catherine E. Waters has returned to cafe du Brulle on Main street, where she was employed when the wooden stairs over the Pawcatuck river gave way causing her precipitation.

The ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps returned from Providence to Westerly on Sunday with Mrs. Robert M. Carr, who received treatment in a Providence hospital. Mrs. Carr is reported to be progressing favorably on the road to recovery.

Sunday afternoon the Westerly ambulance took a Watch Hill patient to the New London hospital for treatment.

Joseph Mayne of Pawtucket was the guest of his mother in Pawtucket on Sunday.

Invitations have been received in Westerly to the 50th anniversary celebration of Barney Merry lodge, No. 29, F. and A. M., to be held in Pawtucket, May 19, 20 and 21.

Saturday afternoon at Potter Hill occurred the wedding of Miss Vera Martin, to Benjamin Kenyon of Westerly. The ceremony was performed by Byron C. Hatfield of the First Baptist church. The attendants were Miss Christine Krebs and John G. Kenyon, Jr., a brother of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon will reside at 3 Courtland street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kendall of Providence were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Culley, 5 Spruce street.

Calvert Cottrell of High street was in New York city on Monday and Tuesday.

The 123rd annual communication of the grand lodge of the Most Ancient and Honorable Society of Free and Accepted Masons for the state of Rhode Island and Providence plantations will be held in Free Masons' hall, Providence on Monday, May 21 at 10 o'clock and Westerly members of the grand lodge have received the above notice.

The 117th semi-annual convoluve of the grand commandery Knights Templars of Massachusetts and Rhode Island will occur on Thursday, May 24th, to which conclave members of 53 commanderies in Massachusetts and Rhode Island will be present. A shore dinner at the Pomham club will conclude the session. Notices of the above and also of a meeting of the commanders union at the Rhode Island Country club Thursday evening have been received by members of both organizations in Westerly.

The regular weekly drill of the 243th company C. A. C., will take place in the state armory on Dixon street this (Tuesday) night. But one drill night in [illegible] this month and

Monday morning at the Washington Trust company's new building site on Broad street the granite stone steps were unloaded. Saturday as some of the large base course stone was being unloaded a strand in the steel cable about the granite block gave way, but as the granite block was but a short distance from the ground, no serious damage resulted.

Lear S. Barber, a patternmaker in the shop of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons company, residing at 30 Martin street, was engaged in work Monday afternoon on a lathe when a piece of wood flew out, striking him on the chin. Mr. Barber was taken to the office of Dr. J. DeVere Barber, where three stitches were taken to close the wound. He also suffered the loss of a tooth.

At 4.15 Monday afternoon an alarm of fire was responded to by the three Westerly fire companies for a blaze on the roof of the house occupied by Wells R. Fowler on Elm and Crescent streets. It is not known how the fire originated and the damage was slight. Some confusion resulted in the fire alarm bell signal. It is thought that the mixup may have resulted from the ringing of two boxes.

This (Tuesday) evening at last will be made at 7 o'clock when an alarm will be rung in from Box 28 on Oak street.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL DECLINES TO RETIRE LIEUTENANT BEEBE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, May 14.—The city council this evening turned down the recommendation of City Manager Barlow and refused to retire Police Lieut. Benjamin A. Beebe and place him on the veteran reserve force. The vote was 4 to 2, Mayor Murray not voting. The recommendation of the city manager was in writing and represented that Lieut. Beebe was 70 years of age, and that though the lieutenant desired to remain on duty after illness that had incapacitated him for a considerable time, the manager felt that he should be retired for a younger man, Mr. Barlow said he did not personally want to press the matter, but he believed the city should have a younger man in charge of the police force at night.

Councilor Clarke moved the approval of the recommendation and the retirement of Lieut. Beebe at the salary the council could provide for him. He wanted a younger man and said that the officer in charge of the force should do more than Lieut. Beebe at his age was competent of doing. He said "there were questions about the police department that the citizens should know about and which they would know about in the near future because these questions will be brought up."

Councilor Whiton favored the retirement of Lieut. Beebe and said that Mr. Beebe did not himself realize the weight years were putting upon him. He endorsed him as a fearless and courageous officer but felt that he should give way to a younger man. He spoke of a fall the lieutenant suffered some time ago and later at the police station and said that his recent illness was traceable to those misfortunes.

Councilor Thompson wanted the lieutenant continued till he retired voluntarily and said that such time would probably be in the near future. Councilor Scott was of the same opinion and said he favored retaining Lieut. Beebe in his office.

Councilor Fox did not take any stock in the reform which was alluded to in the police force and wanted the lieutenant retained. He said the council had the opinion of the city physician that Lieut. Beebe was able and capable of going back to his duties and he believed the council should retain him in the position. Councilor Gragan was of the same opinion and did not think the city ever had a man in police uniform who was more capable. He wanted the lieutenant retained. On the vote there were only two to favor retirement—Messrs. Clarke and Whiton.

The city council voted to award the contract for supplying the city with coal to the Howard Street Coal company at a saving of about $1,000 on the contract. Bids were opened this afternoon and the Howard street company were found to be the lowest bidders by about $1.50 a ton. It was questioned whether the city would get the quality and the weight they should get if the contract was awarded to the lowest bidder, but City Manager Barlow said the bidder agreed to do all that was required of him, that they would prefer a weigher representing the city to be on hand and that every pound should be weighed.

Then it was declared that if the bid was accepted that other dealers would never bid again on a city contract. Councilor Whiton wanted the bid awarded to the lowest bidder and said the fact that there was competition was evidence of a healthy condition, saying that in the past there was no real competition in the bids. He said the contract should be awarded. Manager Barlow said that the government formula of contract would be used in getting the quality and weight of the coal.

The contract will be drawn at once and the coal will be delivered within ten days.

The funeral of George F. Casey, son of Mrs. Ellen Casey of Potter street, whose death occurred at Vallejo, Cal., a week ago, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners, who were friends of the family and former acquaintances of the deceased. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John McGrath as celebrant.

Rev. Timothy M. Crowley officiated as deacon and Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger, as sub-deacon. The floral tributes were many and handsome and were evidence of sympathy for the family.

Many of the flowers were contributed by former friends of the young man at Vallejo, the contributors being Miss Frances Kelley, the Buffalo club, the Vallejo lodge of Elks, of which organization Mr. Casey had been a member several years, Sheridan Hose company and the Sterry Flower company. The bearers were Christopher Barry, Thomas Manning, Edward Cranner, Cornelius Barry, John Toohey, Jr., and John Casey; the latter of Westerly. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The annual meeting of the Joseph Lawrence Free Public hospital was held Saturday afternoon at the institution. The reports of the several officers were read and the showing they made was most satisfactory. The choice of officers resulted in the re-election of Frederick W. Mercer as president and Belton A. Copp as secretary and treasurer.

At a subsequent meeting of the Memorial hospital association at four o'clock, the following officers were re-elected: Frederick W. Mercer, president; and Albert C. Woodruff, secretary and treasurer.

Paul Du Brow of No. 55 Garden street, Hartford, who was arrested Saturday night charged with reckless driving of his automobile, which collided with a team owned and driven by N. Elbert Geer of No. 203 Broad street, resulting in the painful, but not serious injury of Mr. Geer, was not prosecuted in the police court this morning, the case being continued until next Monday forenoon because of Mr. Geer being in too great pain to permit his appearing against the accused. Besides being charged with reckless driving, Du Brow is charged with failing to have the registration of his car in his possession.

Mr. Geer sustained numerous lacerations, bruises and contusions, and these will have healed sufficiently by next Monday to permit his attendance in court.

The police were called to the union station this forenoon to take into custody a woman, who went down and out from drink on a New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad train, while en route from New York to Boston. The woman was talkative the entire trip between New York and New Haven and became more demonstrative as the train neared New London, finally becoming unconscious. With the arrival of the train at the union station the victim was removed and placed in the patrol to be lodged in a cell and await presentation in the police court tomorrow morning.

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, departed today for a visit to a number of schools and colleges of the American Missionary Association. He will visit in North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. Rev. Mr. Danforth will be absent from New London two weeks and during that time his pastorate will be filled by Rev. George L. Cady of New York.

Mrs. Margaret Reagan, wife of David Reagan, a State street merchant, has caused ground to be broken for a cottage that is to be erected on a site owned by her and one of the few now existing on Montauk avenue, for a cottage. When the building is completed, Mrs. Reagan and her family will occupy it.

At the mass at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church Sunday morning, Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of the church, attacked the parishioners of the church for various violations of conduct, using such language in remonstrating with them that he left no doubt in the minds of his listeners as to what he meant and the ideas he wished conveyed to them. The rector censured such girls of the parish who have acquired the cigarette smoking habit and the use of the weed in public places.

He also referred to the habit that is growing upon some of the members of his church by gambling, while he rebuked such members as failed to attend worship in the church by refraining from attendance at St. Mary's and going to church at The Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, the church erected a few years ago on Huntington street for the worship of Polish people. Because of the location of the church being much more convenient to residents in the East New London section, they attended that church instead of the place of worship where they are parishioners.

John Bellefleur of No. 125 Thames street, will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning, charged with violation of the automobile law in operating his machine past a standing trolley car while it is receiving or discharging passengers. Motormen John Boat and John Waldron of the Connecticut Company, complained to Motorcycle Officer John Cavanaugh this morning, stating that Bellefleur had committed the violation while a trolley car was discharging passengers on Bank street.

William Robare of No. 75 West Colt street tonight was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, charged with violation of the automobile law. It is alleged that Robare was driving an automobile without having a license so to do, nor with having taken out a registration.

Joseph Alfiero, of No. 862 Bank street, will be another violator of the automobile law to be arraigned before Judge Prince tomorrow morning for Alfiero was ordered to present himself and answer a charge of reckless driving. Alfiero was chased a quarter of a mile on Bank street this evening by Motorcycle Officer Babcock, following Alfiero narrowly escaping collision with an automobile, owned and driven by Henry C. Chappell of Federal street.

Lieutenant Barnett, stationed at Fort Wright, tonight requested the police to apprehend Private Glover, also stationed at the post, for taking an army automobile without permission and to wrecking the truck. Glover was complained against by Lieutenant Barnett a few days ago when Glover is alleged to have used a truck without permission. Glover explained his act at that time by stating that he was seeking the whereabouts of the lieutenant in order to carry out orders previously given him. The complaint against Glover at that time was withdrawn.

Federal officers were at the subma-rine base this afternoon for the purpose of investigating an alleged defalcation there by one of the sailors in charge of certain funds. It is understood, however, that no arrests will be made as the shortage, which is said really did exist, was made good by the sailor in time to avoid being arrested.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellie Preston Lewis, wife of Walter K. Lewis, whose death occurred a week ago at a hospital in Grand Canyon, Col., of pneumonia, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her late home, No. 75 Granite street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners.

The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church, assisted by Rev. Benjamin M. Marshall, president of the Connecticut College for Women. The bearers were Frederick W. Mercer, Fitch D. Crandall, C. P. Lee, Walter A. Towne, W. Jordan Clarke and Henry L. Watrous. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Rocco R., the eight months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Grippo of No. 19 Truman street, died this morning at the home of his parents.

Malcolm M. Scott, who has been confined to his home on Broad street a week by grip, resumed his duties today at the Union Bank & Trust company.

John O'Donna of Main street, Mrs. Edward Rowland of Colver street, Henry Lewis of the barge Trojan, Mrs. Edward Cavanaugh of Quaker Hill, Mrs. James Whitman of Mystic, George Wheaton of Lebanon, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were able to return to their respective abodes today.

Adolf Skalynski, aged 60 years, died Saturday night at the home of Andrew Kruszewski of Waterford, death ending a lingering illness. The funeral occurred this morning at 9 o'clock at St. John's church, Montville, a mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. Fr. Quinn. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, Montville.

Richard Matzdorff of Mystic was fined $5 in the police court this forenoon for failure to reduce the speed of his auto when he was approaching intersecting streets. That was a small fine for the offense. Frank Knight of Colchester was to have appeared to answer for violations of the auto laws of the state but he paid no attention to the summons of the officer who notified him and did not appear. He will be there tomorrow morning for a warrant was sent to state police officers at Colchester that will lead to his arrest. Nokoner Posteviat, ordered into court this forenoon, said he thought the court convened at 10 o'clock, so he waited until after that hour before he appeared. An officer was on his way to bring Posteviat to the police station when he walked in. Then he gave a bond that will remind him that he is to be on hand tomorrow and take what is coming to him in the way of penalty for indifference to law.

Paul DuBrow was charged with reckless driving. His auto had run into the team of N. Elbert Geer and the latter sustained injuries that put him in a hospital so he could not appear against DuBrow this forenoon. DuBrow is from Hartford. His case went over for a week.

Albert J. Bellefleur of No. 125 Thames street, was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow forenoon by Motorcycle Officer John Cavanaugh for violation of the automobile law in operating his machine past a standing trolley car of the Connecticut company while the trolley car was discharging passengers. The action of the officer resulted when Bellefleur was complained against by John Boat and John Waldron, motormen in the employ of the trolley company.

HELD AS SUSPECT IN PROVIDENCE ROBBERY

New London, May 14.—Howard English, aged 19 years, and who claims to reside in Staten Island, New York, was taken into custody this morning by Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond, charged as being a fugitive from justice. It was believed that English was one of two young men wanted by the police of Providence for the theft of a quantity of jewelry in that city several days ago, but with the arrival in New London this evening of a Providence detective and the proprietress of the boarding house that was looted, an identification of the young man could not be established, so he was released from custody. The suspect was of a feminine appearance, as was one of the men wanted and the suspect carried a partial list of articles that go towards making "Milady" beautiful.

English had in his possession a quantity of jewelry, among them being two pearl pins, set with garnets and pearls, which he was endeavoring to pawn when arrested and which, he claims, were given him by a New York businessman. He also had two keys to rooms at the Hotel Mohican, in which place he had been a guest for several nights.

The arrest of English resulted when the New London police received a request to apprehend two young men, who were wanted for robbery and who had declared themselves as being on their way to this city. A description of the pair was also given and Detective Sergeant Hammond was assigned to the case. While making a tour of the pawn shops the officer came upon English endeavoring to dispose of the jewelry and as he tallied with the description of one of the young men wanted, together with the fact that he was attempting to pawn jewelry, English was arrested.

COLLAPSIBLE TUBE WORKERS WENT OUT ON STRIKE

New London, May 14.—A strike that gave appearance of being a serious one, occurred this morning at the plant of the New England Collapsible Tube Company when the greater number of the 200 employes quit work because of a twenty per cent reduction of wages and the speeding up of the machines in an endeavor to cause a greater output. The strike was not of long duration, however, for most of the employes returned to work and this afternoon W. Kyle Shenfield, vice president and secretary of the company, stated that there was but about fifteen of his regular force absent from the factory. He further stated that the agrrieved employes would not be given a hearing and that they could remain away from their labors if they desired, for the plant was being operated satisfactorily.

Heretofore the employes have been paid five cents per gross tubes up to an inch and five and a half cents per gross for tubes above one inch. A month ago the employes received a wage increase of ten per cent, but when the wage cut of 10 per cent was announced with the beginning of work this forenoon, the workers rebelled and quit, demanding the former wage and the slower speed of the machines, which was not granted.

Torrington.—Edward Fieldman, 55, of 256 Main street, proprietor of the Torrington market on East Main street, died at the Charlotte Hungerford hospital.

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED.

New York, May 14.—Failure of the bear operators to bring about any extensive forced liquidation as a result of Saturday's sharp decline in stock prices at the opening today brought about rather heavy short covering, which was partly concealed for a time by the weakness of a few special issues, particularly among the chemical shares. The hesitancy of traders in extending their commitments wore off around noon, however, and prices rallied sharply with the closing quotations around the highest of the day.

The recovery was most effective in the steels, motors and equipments but some unusually good buying was noted in the old line rails in the last half hour. Gains of 1 to 2 1-2 points were recorded by New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Atchison, St. Paul, Great Northern Preferred, "Katy" Preferred and New Orleans, Texas & Mexico.

Another cut of 25 cents a barrel in the price of Pennsylvania Crude, the third within the last six weeks, and reports of a cut in other fields, were without effect on the oil shares, which rallied with the rest of the list. California Petroleum jumped nearly 4 points and gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded by Cosden, Standard Oil of California, General Asphalt, Pan American A and B, St. Clair, Houston, Producers & Refiners, Royal Dutch and Phillips Petroleum.

Baldwin and Studebaker, in each of which a large short interest is reported to have been built up, rose 4 1-4 and 3 3-8 points, respectively, as bears bid against each other for the stocks. American Can jumped 5 1-4 points on sales exceeding 50,000 shares. Some of the other outstanding strong spots in the industrial group were Bethlehem Gulf States and Republic Steels, Kelly-Springfield, Corn Products, Bosch Magneto, American Woolen, Stewart-Warner Stedometer, Stromberg Carburetor, Mack Truck, Beechnut Packing, Associated Dry Goods, Willys Overland Preferred, Columbia Gas and Marine Preferred, all up 2 to nearly 4 1-2 points. Woolworth jumped 9 points and duPont 7 1-4.

New low records for the year were made during the session by American Agricultural and Virginia Carolina Chemicals, Allied Chemical & Dye and American Writing Paper Preferred. Heaviness of the Chemical shares was attributed to reports of poor current earnings.

Call money held steady throughout the session at 4 1-2 per cent. The tone in the time money market was somewhat easier with brokers bidding 5 per cent. for all maturities and bankers asking 5 1-4. A few loans and renewals were arranged at the higher rate. The bulk of the prime commercial paper commands 5 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were firm with good buying reported in this center. Demand sterling opened a cent higher at $4.62 3-4 but reacted to $4.62 3-8 before the close. French francs hovered between 6.63 and 6.65 cents. German marks continued reactionary, dropping 1 point to .0023 1-2 cents, the weekly increase in the deichsbank's note circulation being 177,118,000,000 marks, bringing the total circulation to nearly six and three-quarters trillion marks.

BOND MARKET.

New York, May 14.—Trading in bonds was rather quiet today with the heavy oversubscription of the latest offering of U. S. treasury notes imparting a firm tone to listed U. S. government securities, which advanced 1-32 to 15-32s of one point. Foreign bonds showed few changes, some of the French issues improving slightly in sympathy with the higher exchange rate. Mexican 5s advanced a point.

In the railroad group, New Haven franc 6s advanced a point and Chicago & Great Western 4s dropped one, most of the other changes being of a fractional character. Attention was called by several bond houses today to the over-supply of railroad equipment trust certificates which has resulted in a number of high class issues selling at prices to yield 5.30 to 5.45 per cent. More activity is being noted in Atchison Convertible 4s of 1960, the conversion feature of which expires May 31.

Except for the reactionary tendency of a few steel and sugar company bonds, there was nothing of particular interest in the industrial list.

There were several small offerings today, the largest of which was the $4,000,000 issue of general and refunding mortgage 6 per cent. gold bonds, series "B," of the Potomac Electric Power Company of Washington, D. C., at 101 1-3 and interest, yielding about 5.90 per cent.

Total sales (par value) were $9,697,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, May 14.—Wheat responded today to a substantial decrease of the United States visible supply total, and averaged higher in price notwithstanding a bearish flurry in the oats market. Wheat closed firm at 1-8 to 1 1-2c net gain, with July 1.15 1-4 to 1.15 3-8 and Sept. 1.13 5-8 to 1.13 3-4. Corn finished 1-4 to 5-8c up, and oats down 7-8 to 1 1-8. In provisions the outcome was 5 to 35c advance.

Upturns in the price of wheat began in the early trading, and were helped by opinions expressed in some quarters that liquidating sales had come to an end, and that a rally was to be looked for. Wheat bulls derived a little courage also from strength shown by the stock market. Crop prospects for winter wheat appeared to be improving, though, and sudden weakness which developed in the oats trade led at one time to a temporary sharp setback in wheat prices.

Rallying power made itself especially evident nevertheless in the wheat market during the last hour of the exchange session. Announcement that the domestic visible supply had shrunk 2,479,000 bushels about three times as much as in the previous week, led to much covering on the part of shorts. Some aggressive new buying of May wheat took place, too, in the final dealings, and was ascribed to export interests. In this connection, notice was taken of the smallness of world shipments and of the fact that supplies afloat on the ocean had recently been curtailed.

Corn, like wheat, was only affected in a transient way by the weakness of oats. A decrease of 3,760,000 bushels in the visible supply of corn helped to rally the corn market.

Favorable weather for the oats crop and selling led by a house with Omaha connections depressed the oats market. It was said also that Texas would be shipping new oats the first week in June.

Provisions reflected firmness of hog values.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lathrop and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Butler attended the third annual meeting of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. at Danielson Tuesday evening.

On Arbor day a special assembly was held at Plainfield High school. An interesting lecture was delivered by Rev. William C. Prentiss of Plainfield. The following program was arranged: Students' March, orchestra; hymn; Bible reading; prayer; hymn; flag salute; lecture, Birds, by Rev. Mr. Prentiss; Junior March, orchestra.

The social evening conducted Thursday in hoonr of the choir and cast of Pinafore was a successful and pleasant affair. The program of entertainment consisted of the following numbers: Selections by the Leach orchestra; musical numbers by the trio, Joseph Shippee, S. V. Vellette and Roy H. Barstow; piano duet, Earl Butler and Miss Mildred Leach; readings, by Mrs. Carl N. Matheson; solos, Prof. Charles D. Geer. Stereopticon views were shown and community songs were led by Prof. Geer. During the evening Ray W. Green presented Philip R. Peterson, on the eve of his departure for Maine, a gold piece as a token of appreciation from the choir, of which he has been a member. The evening was in charge of the following committees: Refreshments, Frederick Lyon, Samuel Baldwin, Edward King; entertainment, Cecil L. Butler, Charles Albert Phillips; social, Walter Kingsley, Benjamin R. Briggs, Walter D. Cleland, Jason Lefrevr.

Under the direction of the state department of entomology men are working in the town of Plainfield for the prevention of the spread of the gypsy moth. They have already found traces of this moth in Moosup, near the Center, in Central Village, in the eastern part of Plainfield, in Wauregan and on Plainfield street. These points are being treated and the treatment will be followed up later in the summer.

George Lucy and Prof. and Mrs. Charles D. Geer were guests at the social evening given by the Congregational church on Thursday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. William E. Wilson left by automobile on Friday for a trip to Cambridge, where they will visit their daughter, Mrs. Sam Warner, who has been quite ill with grip.

The quartet of the Lincoln club was entertained by the Congregational church in Canterbury at the chicken pie supper recently given. The quartet, James Royle, Christopher Krauss, Philip Peterson and R. Greene, sang several selections which were well received.

Miss Mary Averill of Worcester is visiting her sister, Miss Sarah Averill, at the home of Everett E. Brown on Black Hill. Later Miss Averill will go to the shore for the summer.

The trustees of the old Plainfield academy met on Thursday afternoon in the office of the secretary and treasurer of the board, Arthur C. Tillinghast. Rev. Henry T. Arnold of Norwich, chairman of the board, presided. After the reports were heard, Dr. William E. Wilson, William P. Barstow and Charles A. Jerome were elected trustees to fill the places of the late Luther S. Eaton, H. A. Gallup and Frank H. Tillinghast. Rev. W. C. Prentiss was also chosen a trustee. Benjamin R. Briggs was elected to fill the vacancy on the Colt fund committee, the other members being Arthur H. Matheweson and Rev. Henry T. Arnold.

Cement gutters and a drain for the kitchen have been installed in the Congregational church the past week and Archibald Torrence has set his men to work on the auditorium, which is to be renovated and decorated.

Mrs. Henry Dorrence has been visiting in Middletown, Hartford and Springfield.

The last regular meeting of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Paul's church was held at the rectory, and a special meeting was held last Sunday evening at which pins were presented to the new members, members serving

NEW CONNECTICUT COLLEGE LIBRARY

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The extremely unseasonable weather and the continued rains of the past week delayed building operations in the city and vicinity to a great extent. However, it did not interfere to any great extent with interior work, and some exterior work was also done on a few buildings.

The work on remodeling the old Central House on Central Wharf by Joseph Bedard is well along. A new brick front is being put in on the first story and raised to meet the brick walls of the second story. New iron girders have been placed in position and the work is nearly complete. The lower floor of the building will be occupied by stores.

At Thamesville the two-tenement building for William McGuinness is well along, the exterior being nearly complete. The work on the addition to the American Woolen company plant is also progressing favorably along excavation work lines.

The Pasmik block has made rapid progress during the past week and the front of the building with the exception of the store fronts is nearly complete. The interior work is also being pushed to completion.

Rapid progress has been made on the New Palace theatre on Rose place during the past week and the side walls at present are practically complete and work is largely on the front of the structure. The Disco block is practically finished with the exception of some of the interior work.

No building permits have been issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during the past week although there have been many applications filed. Among these applications is one from the United Metal Company for permission to build a foundry at its plant in Thamesville. The building is to be of brick construction and large enough to allow for the installation of coke furnaces and an up-to-date foundry.

Another application is that of O. L. Johnson for a large dwelling house at the corner of Broad and Cedar streets.

Other applications are for smaller buildings and alterations to present structures.

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE LIBRARY.

Connecticut College at New London has a new library which will be dedicated this spring, and the books have already been moved into its new home. Four hundred girls carried them over, as many as they could lug at a time, by companies, platoons and squads, and put them in their correct positions in the new building. The library is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Palmer of New London, and was one of the first large contributions to the college's effort to raise $2,000,000 in additional endowment, which is still in progress. The library, as pictured above, stands at the highest point of the hill on which the college is located, and from its upper stories a fine view may be had of Long Island sound and of almost the entire course for the Harvard-Yale boat race on the Thames. The college, which is the only one for women in Connecticut, opened its doors in 1915.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 26 sales of real estate as against 32 sales of real estate for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $70,450 and $32,130.

There were eight sales of real estate in New London during the week just closed as compared to nine sales for the week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $62,225 and $30,300.

The State Situation.

Building permits granted in the leading cities of the state for the week, according to the Commercial Record, numbered 303, as against 310 in the first week of May last year, and 227 in the like week of 1921. The cost of new construction work this week amounted to $812,007, which is but a slight gain over last year, but nearly double that of the first week of May in 1921.

NEW LONDON.

John K. Foran has taken a permit for a sun parlor for his residence at 59 Fair Harbor place. The work will cost about $400.

The permit has been issued to Mrs. Elizabeth Holberson for a frame bungalow to be erected at 56 Norwood street. The plans call for a house 24x29 feet, to cost about $3,000. The usual conveniences will be provided.

The Edward Bloom Co., Garfield avenue, has purchased additional property on Garfield avenue and McDonald street. The sites will be used for extension to the present plant of the company.

Deeds transfering the Tyler residence at the corner of Pequot and Gardner avenues to the Home Memorial Hospital, Inc., were filed this past week. After extensive changes have been made the house is to be used as a hospital.

M. Sulman, alterations, Federal street, $3,000.

F. J. Fielding, residence, S. Ledyard street, $3,500.

Abraham Rakosky, addition, Stewart street, Corner Dyke street, $5,000.

Mrs. Elizabeth Holberton, residence, 56 Norwood street, $3,000.

John K. Foran, sun parlor, 59 Fairharbor place, $400.

Mrs. Ida Sullivan, garage, 37 Prest street, $150.

E. F. Maban, garage, 25 Pleasant street, $300.

Number of permits issued for the week, 13; estimated cost of building, $16,300.

Sir Alfred Yarrow, a practical engineer and captain of industry, recently gave nearly $500,000 for the furtherance of scientific research in England.

TAFTVILLE

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Labarre on South B street Saturday evening a party was tendered Mrs. Labarre by her children and a number of her friends. A beautiful basket of pink carnations and roses was presented to Mrs. Labarre in behalf of the guests by one of the party, who spoke of Mothers' day. The house was gaily trimmed with flowers, the color scheme being pink and green. The guests included Leo Gagnon, Arthur Christian, Eva Christian, Dorothy Belanger, Frederick Gagnon, Anna Pepin, Docena Thibeault, Wilfred Genais, Joseph Gagnon, Walter Charon, Florida Labarre, Leona Belanger, Alma Frechette, Olive Gagnon, Leo Potvin, Alice Frechette, Armando Christian, Eli Charon, Anna Raymond, Emilda Raymond, Rosanna Labarre, Philias Ducharme, Alex Labarre, Alva Ducharme, Valida Ducharme, Eddie Frechette, Raphael Robitard, Fred Charon. A buffet lunch was served by Mrs. Belanger and Miss Alva Ducharme.

The flowers at the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday were furnished by the Ladies' Aid society in honor of the mothers of the parish. There were also flowers in memory of Mrs. Andrew Krumbholz, given by her family.

Oscar Tetreault of North Third avenue is confined to his home by an attack of pneumonia.

George N. Beardow, Miss Anna M Beardow and Master Newell Beardow of Providence street and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Harroun of Willimantic motored to Litchfield Sunday in Mr. Beardow's car, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Harroun's daughter, Miss Mildred Harroun.

Rev. and Mrs. Edwin G. Crowdis are in Hartford for a few days.

GRACE CHURCH, YANTIC, RECEIVES MEMORIAL BELL

On Saturday last that Connecticut Engineering company installed the first bell to be placed in the tower of Grace church, Yantic. It is the largest bell in a Cambridge quarter, of which there are several chimes in this country, the most noteworthy hanging in Trinity chapel, New York.

The inscription on the bill reads:

To the glory of God and in affectionate memory of Charles H. and Mary E. Carpenter. Blanche I and Olive L., their children.

This bell is given by the surviving members of their family, Easter, 1923, A. D.

Another bell has already been donated as a memorial, but cannot be placed in the town until two more bells have been given to complete the quartette; when this is done this district will have as beautiful a landmark as it is possible to have.

The Meneely Bell Co., of Troy, N. Y., cast the bell which is now in place.

Parking on Wrong Side

Tony Massano was arrested Monday afternoon by Officers Matthew Delaney for parking his automobile on the westerly side of Bath street, where no parking is allowed. He will appear in court to answer the charge. He told the police that he left his car there while he went to a dentist's office, although he knew no parking was allowed on that side of the street.

Shower for Miss Helen Woods

A shower was given Saturday evening at the home of Miss Alice McKnight of Robins Court for Miss Helen Woods in honor of her approaching marriage. Many beautiful and dainty gifts were received. The winners at bridge were Miss Anna McGarry and Annie Holmes. The color school was yellow and white. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Too much honey is sometimes as bad as too much gall.

JUDGE BROWN FINDS NO FRAUD BY J. T. KING IN STOCK TRANSFER

Judgment for $10,000 for Charles R. Butts of this city, shareholders agent for $4,000 for Frank W. Hamilton of Groton, executor, and for $1,000 for James R. Linsley of New London against the Bridgeport and Danbury Electrical Railway Co., which is insolvent, was given by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court Monday in a decision handed down in the suit of Butts, et al. vs. John T. King of Bridgeport, A. William Sperry, New Haven and the trolley company named.

The suit was tried out in this city against Mr. King, who is the well known political leader in Bridgeport, on the claim that there had been fraud in King's transfer to Sperry of King's subscription to 1996 shares of the stock of the company, par value $199,600.

Judge Brown finds that the plaintiffs failed to prove fraud or intent to defraud and rules that there is no recovery against King on that ground.

Mr. Butts, as shareholders' agent for the First National bank of this city, held ten $1,000 five per cent. debenture bonds of the Bridgeport and Danbury Co., dated Jan. 1, 1910, Thomas Hamilton's estate held four bonds and James R. Linsley one bond. The suit that was brought asked $30,000 damages, the appointment of a receiver and that King or Sperry be ordered and required to pay in the stock subscription, or that the receiver be directed to call in and collect the stock subscription.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Brown says that if the plaintiffs still desire a receiver he will set a date for a hearing upon request of their counsel.

Memorandum of Decision.

The following is the memorandum of decision by Judge Brown:

The plaintiff in this action claims that upon the evidence presented the liability of the defendant King is established upon both of two general grounds, first, that it persists upon his stock subscription because of actual intent to defraud and fraud upon plaintiff creditors, and, second, that it persists irrespective of intent to defraud or fraud in fact, because the attempted transfer to Sperry is void as to all creditors, present and future.

Without entering upon any discussion of the principals of law involved, on the first proposition above, it is perhaps sufficient for the purposes of this decision to say, that I find that the plaintiff has failed to prove either intent to defraud or fraud in fact upon the part of the defendant King, and is therefore entitled to no recovery on that ground.

As to the second proposition, I find that the transfer to Sperry was not void as to creditors, but under the circumstances existing was valid and effective, and that therefore the defendant King is not liable upon this ground to these plaintiffs, who are subsequent creditors of the defendant corporation.

The evidence is uncontradicted to the effect that up to the time of this transfer from King to Sperry the corporation had incurred no debts. It is the plaintiffs' contention, however, that the evidence discloses that the consideration paid by Sperry to King for the transfer, did ultimately come from the defendant corporation's treasury, being a part of the proceeds from the corporation's bonds subsequently sold, and that therefore this transaction of itself created an existing indebtedness of the corporation and that therefore Sperry being financially irresponsible at the time, it could furnish no defense to the plaintiffs here as creditors of the corporation.

While it is true that some evidence was introduced tending to show that the money paid King in October or November, 1909, for the transfer to Sperry came from the Aetna Construction Co., and may have been repaid from the treasury of the defendant corporation some time after Feb. 10, 1910, I am unable to find upon the evidence that the defendant King was a party to any such arrangement, or that he had any knowledge of it. If any such plan then existed upon the part of Sperry and others concerned therein. So far as the evidence discloses, this taking of funds from the defendant corporation, if it occurred, was subsequent in conception as well as in fact, by persons other than the defendant King. I therefore am unable to adopt the contention of the plaintiffs referred to above, but find that this was a transfer made by King when there were no existing creditors of the corporation, and that it having accepted Sperry in place of King, the financial responsibility of the former at the time is immaterial.

The evidence does not disclose a case where the defendant King is liable under the statute as a stockholder of record for an unpaid balance of his subscription, nor one where the defendant corporation has released him as a subscriber to its capital stock under circumstances constituting a fraud upon the plaintiffs or other creditors.

My conclusion that the defendant is not liable eliminates from further consideration the plaintiff's prayers for relief so far as they affect him.

The debts of the defendant the Bridgeport and Danbury Electric Railway Company to the three plaintiffs are respectively established by the evidence. Judgment may therefore be entered against the defendant company, in favor of the plaintiff Butts, shareholders' agent, in the amount of $10,000, with interest thereon at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum to January 1, 1915, and at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from January 1, 1915, to date; in favor of the plaintiff Hamilton, executor, in the amount of $4,000 with corresponding interest; and in favor of the plaintiff Linsley in the amount of $1,000 with corresponding interest.

The insolvency of the defendant company is both conceded and established by the evidence. The plaintiffs are entitled to have a receiver for the same appointed and a time limited for the presentation to such receiver of claims against said defendant company.

If, notwithstanding my conclusion above that the defendant King is not liable, the plaintiffs nevertheless desire to have a receiver named, I will, upon request from counsel, set a time for a hearing if necessary to determine upon a proper person to be so appointed, and to pass any other proper orders in connection with such appointment.

No costs are allowed.

FINES OF $200 AND $100 IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

In the Norwich police court Monday morning Alfred Tremblay of this city was presented on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was found guilty, fined $200 and costs, with a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail. He paid $215.81. He was arrested after running into the rear of a car parked Saturday night in front of the residence of Martin Krause on Norwich avenue, Taftville.

Joseph Alobovich, at whose place near the corner of Boswell avenue and North Main street the police seized two bottles of home-brew in a raid Saturday night, was fined $100 and costs. He settled his case by paying.

Five men paid fines for intoxication and one was given a 30 day jail sentence, but he promised to leave town if given the chance and the court suspended the sentence to give him a chance to keep his promise.

A non-support case was heard in chambers, a woman promised the court to send her child to school, and one man was given a $5 fine for violating the parking laws.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE NEAR GALLIVAN FARM

Annie Schoolick of the Gallivan farm on the New London-Norwich turnpike was painfully injured Monday morning about 9.30 o'clock when she was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by Curtis G. Browning, a traveling salesman. She had stepped from the trolley car and had walked some 12 feet when Browning attempted to pass her and suddenly she stepped back into the path of the automobile, which struck her a glancing blow, throwing her against a tree.

Mr. Browning immediately picked her up and she was taken to the Backus hospital, where it was stated her injuries consisted of a scalp wound and bruises, none of them considered serious.

It is alleged that people on the trolley stated that Browning was operating his car at a moderate speed. The accident was reported to the local police station and Browning was allowed to go pending further investigation.

126 BOYS ENROLLED FOR SWIMMING WEEK

"Oh, boy, the water's great," and "Gee, it's some fun," and the other expressions coming from the boys indicate that the Osgood Memorial swimming pool at the "Y" is making a real hit with the boys enrolled in the Y. M. C. A. swimming campaign. This is the second and final week of the campaign to teach the boys of the city to swim, and 126 lads have availed themselves of the opportunity. The boys are grouped into four classes and under the direction of Physical Director Fritz and Howard Ludlow, one of the gym leaders, are making good progress in the water.

A gym social stunt is planned for Saturday night, when the gym boys with the campaign boys will meet for a lively time. Swimming certificates will then be presented to all the boys who have learned to swim a distance of 50 feet.

Not Husband of Policewoman.

Through misinformation, it was published in The Bulletin that W. S. Hunt, who was fined in the Norwich police court for driving his automobile while intoxicated, was the husband of the newly appointed policewoman of New London. This was in error as the new policewoman is the wife of Harry B. Hunt of Niantic.

EIGHT FROM THIS COUNTY ARE TO ASK PARDON

Seventy inmates of the state prison will come before the board of pardons there, Monday, June 11, with applications for parole. Eight of the applicants are from New London county.

Visited His Aunt

Raymond T. Moore of New York city, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher E. Boynton of Freeman avenue. Mr. Moore has recently concluded two season's engagement with Miss Louise Iroody, under the Dillingham management in Good Morning, Dearie. This has been one of Broadways biggest musical attractions, the first season playing for ten consecutive months at the Globe theatre, New York, and this past season has been on tour, opening the season with a two weeks' engagement in Chicago. Previous to being in Good Morning Dearie, Mr. Moore has appeared in The Night Boat, Miss Springtime, and Irene. Many local people who were fortunate to see Good Morning, Dearie, while it was running at the Globe theatre, New York, were delighted with the production and doubly interested as Mr. Moore comes from a long line of musicians, and is a nephew of Mrs. Fletcher E. Boynton. He will leave town today, when he will make a short visit with his cousins, Mrs. George Dygert and Miss Blanche M. Dygert, at their summer home on Plant road, Eastern Point.

Engagement Announced

Announcement has been made by Mrs. David Rothschild of Pittsburgh, Pa., of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Amy Rothschild and Harry Zimmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zimmerman of this city.

PLANS BIG MEETING FOR FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

All citizens of Connecticut are invited to the annual spring field meeting of the Connecticut Forestry association to be held Saturday, May 19th, at the estate of Harris Whittemore at Middlebury.

Persons attending the meeting should plan to arrive by noon, bringing a basket lunch. Coffee and lemonade will be served free on the grounds. The program will be as follows: (Times given are daylight saving time.)

12.30 p. m., luncheon; 1.30 p. m., Address by Col. Henry S. Graves, Dean of Yale School of Forestry; 2.00 p. m. demonstration of forest fighting under direction of James Stocking, assistant state fire warden; demonstration of forest tree planting under direction of Prof. R. G. Hawley, forester for New Haven Water company and F. S. Baker, manager, Northeastern Forestry company; demonstration of proper methods of building camp fires by Troop 36, New Haven, Boy Scouts of America; 2.30 p. m., excursions to plantations under leadership of State Forester Austin F. Hawes; T. S. Woolsey, Jr., W. M. Shepardson, Prof. J. W. Toumey, W. O. Filley, and others; demonstrations of cuttings according to forestry methods; autos will meet the party and complete the tour of the forest property, aggregating 2,000 acres; for those arriving in the forenoon a similar trip will be planned around Lake Quassapaug.

All persons whether members of the association or not are urged to be present at this meeting. The meeting place may be reached by auto from the main Danbury-Waterbury highway, or by trolley from Waterbury or Naugatuck. Cars leave hourly. Directing signs will be posted on the roads leading to the meeting.

In case of rain a large covered pavilion will be available for the meeting.

COLONIAL CLUB WINS PINOCHLE CHAMPIONSHIP

In the third and final series of pinochle games between the West Side Pinochle club and the Colonial Club, Monday night the West Side men made a noble fight to cut down the lead of 3715 points rolled up last week by their opponents but were forced to go down to defeat for the pinochle championship by 225 points.

In the first series of games the West Side club took the lead by over 700 points but in the second week the Colonial Club men wiped this out and jumped into the lead by 3715 points. This lead stood them in well Monday night for the West Side men turned in some of the highest scores ever made in any of their tournaments.

Pettis scored 9010 for high score of the tourney and J. Jordan, Haskell and Underwood counted up over 8000. The Colonial Club men had a poor night, Washburn being the only man to get over the 8000 mark.

Next Monday night the members of the two clubs will enjoy a chicken pie supper at the Colonial Club on West Main street. The pie will be on at 6.30 o'clock and in the evening the men will play three-handed pinochle, each man for himself. There are to be prizes for the three highest scores.

The scores for Monday night were as follows:

Colonial Club—Huntington 7395, Davis 7545, Higgins 6795, Pierson 7030, Royce 7380, Harwood 7725, McNaught 7800, Sherman 6825, Church 6680, Washburn 8090, Lillibridge 6645, Kenefick 6810, total 86,620.

Totals for three night's play:

Colonial Club—Washburn 23,240, Davis 22,915, Pierson 22,250, McNaught 22,163, Harwood 21,995, Lillibridge 21,-985, Church 21,735, Sherman 21,390, Huntington 21,290, Higgins 21,070, Royce 20,915, Kenefick 20,100.

AMERICANS DINE IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, May 14—(By the A. P.)—The American golfers, who were received at St. James's place this afternoon by the Prince of Wales, were the guests at a dinner given in the house of commons tonight by H. H. Spencer, member for Bradford, and a member also of the committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf club.

Former premier Asquith welcomed the visitors in a graceful speech. He represented British golfland as tremulous with apprehension, at not only invasion, but annexation, and in a state of panic at the advance of Outlet, much as the grandfathers trembled at the name of Bonaparte.

Former premier Lloyd George and Sir John Simon also made speeches, Sir John remarking that American independence began with a "tee shot" into Boston harbor.

Robert A. Gardner, captain of the Walker cup team, suitably acknowledged the toast.

Straw Hat Appears.

One Norwich man was seen wearing a new, bright, shiny straw hat late Monday afternoon, thereby rushing the straw hat season by a few hours, as the official opening for headgear of this texture is not until May 15.

PROGRAM GIVEN AT ELIZABETH ST. SCHOOL

The auditorium of the new Elizabeth street school was filled to capacity Monday when the children of the upper grades of the school repeated the entertainment which had been presented by them last Friday afternoon to a capacity house. The dance numbers, sketches and plays were neatly carried out by the members of the cast and spoke well for the training they had received from the teachers of the upper grades. The whole entertainment was given under the direction of Supt. John H. Stanton.

The entertainment began with a May dance by the pupils of the fifth grade. The number was an interpretive dance showing the spirit of May. The second number by the fifth grade was called In Bubble Land, a fairy play. The setting was of toy balloons to represent colored bubbles and the players filled the stage with bubbles.

The Three dance, an old fashioned out-door dance, was given by the sixth grade, Miss Edith Garvey accompanist on the violin. The Warning Bell, a historical play of the Pilgrim days, was given by the seventh grade, after which the sixth grade gave a Virginia reel.

A feature of the entertainment was Tom, Dick and Harry and The Treasure Ghost, a moral play, by the seventh grade, demonstrating that each boy was a treasure in himself. The special scenery used in this act was made by boys of the seventh grade. The Daily Dozen was demonstrated by the fifth and sixth grades, and the entertainment closed with the Wax Works, picturing Prof. Fuller Bunk and his wax figures. The entire program was well balanced and the teachers and pupils received many compliments on the showing made.

EARLY STEAMBOATING ON THE THAMES RIVER

Philemon P. Snell of Lord's Point was a visitor here in his former home on Monday and brought with him an interesting poster which deals with some of the early days in steamboating. The date of the poster is not known.

This poster gave notice that "the new and elegant steamboat Union will leave Norwich for New York, by the New England, via Saybrook, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 7 o'clock a. m. Returning leave New York on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays by the steamboat New England at 6 o'clock a. m. for New London and Norwich.

"All freight and baggage taken at the risk of the owners thereof.

P. S. The Union will take passengers for Sag Harbor on the above days."

The fare was $3 each way.

Mr. Snell was a former resident of the West Side and son of Captain Ennis B. Snell, who was in command of the George W. Geer, a towboat that was used on the Thames river many years ago.

ENFORCING PARKING LAWS IN WATER STREET

Autoists who have been in the habit of parking their cars on Water street between Market street and Shetucket street during the past few weeks learned Monday that the police department is to enforce the parking regulations of 30 minutes on that stretch. Six autoists were warned Monday of this latest ruling and given warning that hereafter the 30 minute parking rule would be enforced.

Several motorists discussing the parking regulations in the city, Monday, stated that Norwich must within a short while provide some place near the business district where cars can be parked for several hours. Union square and the New Haven railroad station parking place are not large enough to accommodate even a small part of the automobiles used by business men of the city and this lack of parking facilities must be solved within a short time if automobiles can be brought into the city to be left standing any length of time.

TORNADO IN OHIO, FLOOD AND FIRE IN HOT SPRINGS, ARK

More Than a Score of Persons Were Injured at Byesville, Ohio—Fifty Houses Either Blown Down or Unroofed—At Hot Springs, Ark., the Business District Was Swept by Flood and Flame—Store Fronts Were Smashed and Debris Was Strewn About—The Marquette Hotel and Nearly a Score of Business Buildings Were Destroyed by Fire—National Guard on Duty.

Cambridge, O., May 15.—More than a score of persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, tonight when a near-tornado swept over Byesville, five miles south of here. Fifty houses were either blown down or unroofed, according to reports received over crippled communication lines.

MORE THAN MILLION DOLLAR LOSS AT HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Hot Springs, Ark., May 15 (By the A. P.)—Hot Springs, its business district swept by flood and flame, tonight slowly was recovering from the effects of the storm which late yesterday sent a torrent sweeping down from the mountainside, leaving in its wake a trail of destruction which in monetary loss is estimated well in excess of a million dollars.

While the property loss will be heavy, only one person was reported seriously hurt. Mrs. Katie Christianson, caught in an automobile when the flood swept down from the mountains and engulfed Central avenue, the principal business street, is in a hospital, her skull crushed. Physicians said her chances for recovery were slight.

The Marquette hotel and nearly a score of business buildings were in ruins as a result of a fire which came after the torrent.

Store fronts smashed, bath houses wrecked and debris strewn about tonight stood as mute evidence of the fury of the elements.

Earlier reports that there had been heavy loss of life were not verified when a check was made today by city officials and newspapermen.

Destruction of the Marquette hotel by fire caused one of the largest individual losses. The building with its furnishings was valued at approximately a quarter of a million dollars.

In addition to the Marquette hotel, a dozen or more store buildings—almost an entire block—was laid waste by the flames.

Tonight a company of Arkansas national guard was on duty patrolling the area wrecked by the storm and fire.

While Hot Springs was cut off from wire communication with outside points last night and early today, many stories of heavy death loss were spread. Some placed the toll at seventeen, while one said that fifty persons had been killed. Immediately on restoration of wire service to the stricken city the fact was quickly established that there had been no deaths, and that the number of injured would be small.

The Hot Springs company of the Arkansas national guard was ordered on duty tonight to guard the damaged section of the business district where a number of store fronts were torn out.

Central avenue, principal business thoroughfare of Hot Springs, last night was a seething whirl of waters, poured down from the mountains and drained from two natural basins to the north, formed by a range of mountains which take the shape of a giant horseshoe.

Hot Springs, a city of approximately 14,000 persons, nestles on the sides of two mountains, sloping down to a point scarcely wide enough to accommodate Central avenue. Through this street, fed by two connecting streets running from the end of Central avenue, similar to the wings of a "Y," the floods raged and tore. Asphalt pavement was tossed to the sidewalks, through windows and doors.

Eye-witnesses and rescue workers said that many persons were swept with the flood for several blocks, only to be rescued by a squad stationed at a point where the water, having run its course, receded. Others drawn into the torrent were caught by persons along the water line as they swept by. Approximately 100 automobiles were damaged or destroyed.

Shortly after 6 o'clock, when the crest of the flood had been reached, the fire alarm sounded. Fire broke out first in the Grand Rapids furniture store, at a point where the waters reached a height of several feet. From there it spread rapidly to a filling station, the Oliver Finnie grocery, the American Express offices, the Rosenthan shoe store, the Dixie cafe and finally the Marquette hotel soon were a roaring mass of flames.

Darkness fell around the rushing waters, heavy rain and the red glare of the fire over it all, caused onlookers almost to fear the entire city was doomed.

The public utilities, including light, water and gas service, soon were out of commission. At the most critical moment the waters broke off two fire plugs and the water pressure was gone. Remedies were applied later and the fire fighters, battling the elements and the fire, again went to work.

The Commercial building, in which the various stores and establishments were located, and the Marquette hotel were a smouldering mass of ruins tonight.

Loss from the flood, which virtually washed out a section nearly a mile in length, was almost complete, it was said here tonight, only two concerns having flood insurance.

A substantial portion of the fire loss was reported to be covered by insurance. The fire was thought to have started when lightning struck a wire in the furniture store.

According to Arthur Katz, chairman of the local chapter of the Red Cross, the local chapter has more than a thousand dollars in its treasury and early tonight had not received a single application for relief.

SUICIDE IN WORCESTER OF DR. ARTHUR GORDON WEBSTER

Worcester, Mass., May 15.—Dr. Arthur Gordon Webster, internationally known scientist and physicist, and a member of the Clark University faculty for more than 20 years, committed suicide in the university laboratory today. His associates expressed the belief tonight that his act was prompted because he believed his research work and accomplishments were not appreciated by his contemporaries.

While a class in physics awaited him in an adjoining lecture room, Dr. Webster retired to his private office on the second floor of the building and fatally wounded himself by firing two shots in his head with a revolver which he had purchased but a few hours before. He died at City hospital an hour later.

President Wallace W. Atwood, returning tonight from New Hampshire, was shocked by the news of Dr. Webster's suicide. He was unable to offer any explanation of the professor's act, declaring that only last night he had conferred with him regarding an appropriation for the department, and that Dr. Webster at that time seemed interested in his work and plans for the future.

A note which the dead professor left for his son, Gordon, indicated he had committed suicide because he felt that his work and inventions had been unappreciated and had brought but little financial remuneration.

The note was sent to Mrs. Webster, who is in serious condition at her home as a result of the shock.

Dr. Webster's suicide was evidently carefully planned, for in a speech he made at the weekly meeting of the Clark student body on Monday he concluded with the statement, "This is the last time I shall address you from this platform. That is for a long time."

LYDIA LINDGREN HAS TURNED UP IN BOSTON

Boston, Mas., May 15.—Lydia Lindgren, grand opera singer, reported missing from New York today, turned up in this city, applying for citizenship papers. She had spoken with the clerks at the naturalization bureau in the federal building and left to go to the home of a friend in Winthrop before it was learned that she was being sought in New York. All appeared well with her, clerks said.

BRAKEMAN KILLED AT SOUTH WETHERSFIELD

Hartford, May 15.—John B. Foley, 55, of this city, a brakeman for the New Haven road, and in the company's employ since 1871, was killed by cars near the Spring Brook ice houses at South Wethersfield this afternoon. Cars were being set off on a siding and he was walking the track when overtaken by a car, the speed of which he had probably misjudged.

MARKS NEW ERA IN THE HISTORY OF NURSING

New Haven, May 15.—Miss Annie W. Goodrich, dean-elect of the Yale school of nursing, at a dinner tonight given as a part of the semi-centennial celebration of the Connecticut Training School for Nurses, said that the creation of a school of nursing by Yale "marks a new era in the history of nursing."

"The celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Bellevue training school for nurses," she continued, "brings to a close the first era, which has been one of unprecedented growth and splendid achievement. In that brief period over 1,500 schools have come into existence from which graduate yearly approximately 15,000 nurses.

"With the advent of the public health movement the nurse became one of the most potent factors in its rapid and effective development. When in the world war the call came for 10,000 nurses for every million men, the response brought an enrollment in the army, navy and the Red Cross which totalled over 35,000."

JAPAN REJECTS GERMAN REPARATIONS PROPOSALS

Berlin, May 15.—The reply of the Japanese government to the recent German reparations offer was delivered to the German foreign office today. It declares that "both on account of the total figure mentioned, as well as the methods of payments thereof and guarantees, the Japanese government finds it is impossible to give its adhesion to the German raparations project."

The note adds that, inasmuch as her interests are not as great or as vital as those of the other allied powers, Japan will refrain from expressing an opinion on the details of the proposals, but is hopeful that the German government will do everything necessary to facilitate a prompt and friendly settlement of the problem as a whole.

Thomas L. Cornell

Derby, May 15.—Thomas L. Cornell, 84, first vice president of the National Folding Box and Paper company, at New Haven, died at his home here today. He was one of the organizers of the company. He came to Derby in 1868 and had been a vestryman of St. James' Episcopal church since 1870. He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and of the Society of Colonial Wars. Mr. Cornell is survived by a son, Edward Shelton Cornell, of New York and Derby, president of the National Highway Protective society. Three grand sons were officers in the late war.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Woman Suffrage Alliance.

Rome, May 15.—The congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance today adopted a resolution favoring an appeal to all governments that married women be granted the right either to retain their own nationality or to adopt that of their husbands.

Russia Awaits British Action.

Moscow, May 15.—(By The A. P.)—The Russian soviet government is awaiting Great Britain's action on the Litinoff note with intense interest, most of the bolshevik leaders expressing the feeling that a break with England would bring war sooner or later, even though they do not look for a hostile attack from England herself.

CONFERENCE OF EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OF CONNECEICUT

Bridgeport, Conn., May 15.—Four hundred clergymen representing the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut, arrived here today to attend the annual conference which opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon with an address by Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster. Tonight the delegates attended a banquet given by the Churchmen's League. The business session of the conference will be held tomorrow morning.

This morning the clergymen attended memorial services in Christ church, Stratford, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the ordination of Rev. Timothy Cutler, Rev. Daniel Brown, and Rev. Samuel Johnson, three American clergymen from Connecticut, which took place in London, England. Bishop Brewster presided at the anniversary service and the memorial address was by Rev. Dr. William Bearsdley, of New Haven.

The bishop's address followed his annual report and in turn was followed by the report of Suffragan Bishop E. Campion Acheson of Middletown. Rev. John F. Plumb was elected secretary of the conference and Rev. Frank S. Marchouse and Rev. William Jepson were named as assistants.

The conference, upon a special committee's recommendation voted to accept a coat of arms to be adopted subject to the approval of the Heraldic college and registry in England. Lew. J. G. Littell was elected for two years to the board of examining chaplains. The complete board of directors of the church scholarship society was re-elected to office and upon recommendation the Sunday school auxiliary of the board of missions was discontinued. Special committees were named by the bishop who was presiding officer. Reports of various committees and commissions relating to the church activities were read and accepted.

BOOTH TO BE NOMINATED FOR SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE

Hartford, May 15.—Governor Templeton authorized the statement today that he would send to the general assembly tomorrow a nomination of Judge John R. Booth of Danbury to be a judge of the superior court for eight years from December, 124. The selection is for the place on the bench to be made vacant by the retirement of Judge James H. Webb of Hamden, upon reaching the constitutional age limit of 70 years, and which was denied to Judge Frederick M. Peasley of Cheshire by the legislature.

Booth is now a judge of the court of common pleas for Fairfield county, and for the place to be made vacant by his advancement the governor will nominate former Speaker Frederick W. Huxford of Stamford, at present prosecuting attorney of the common pleas court.

SOLONS AWAIT NOMINEE FOR THE SUPERIOR COURT BENCT

Hartford, May 15.—While several legislative projects of importance are still before the general assembly, what is now holding the keenest interest is the question of the nomination by Governor Templeton of a candidate for the superior court bench to replace the name of Frederick M. Peasley, of Cheshire which was turned down in both houses last week.

Governor Templeton has refused to intimate whom he will name and has also declined to say when he will send in his new nomination. It is expected, however, that he will announce his choice tomorrow. The slowness with which business is being cleaned up in the assembly would indicate that he will have time to send in a second name even if he were to take full advantage of the five day period of grace which is his right. In addition to that, House Leader Buckley has plainly stated that he will hold the house in session until the governor sends in another name.

Volstead Act Disgusts New York Aldermen

Refer to Its Author as "the Embodiment of Witch-Burning Puritanism From Minnesota".

New York, May 15.—Governor Smith, who has been turning over in his mind during a brief vacation in New Jersey the question of signing or vetoing the legislative act repealing the Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement act, arrived in New York today just in time to learn wha the city fathers think.

The board of aldermen, democrats and republicans joining in a unanimous vote, this afternoon adopted a resolution urging him to make the bill law. Besides, they set their stamp of approval on a report of the committee on rules in which the scriptures and the old philosophers were brought into play against the "fanatics" who worked to bring the Volstead act and the Mullan-Gage act into being.

The governor expected to spend the week here, feeling out local sentiment on the Mullan-Gage situation, among other things, in a series of conferences with local political leaders. He probably will announce tomorrow the definite date for public hearings to be held at Albany on the repealer legislation.

The report of the committee on rules of the board of aldermen, a copy of which will be forwarded to the governor, was couched in strong language.

"Every day," it began, "we are disgusted and fatigued with hypocritical cant about trampling on the Constitution because of our insistent demand for the sale of wine and beer, and there will be no slavish submission to this legislative madness which makes the sale of a beverage containing 3-8 of one per cent of an alcoholic content criminal."

Turning for the moment to the Volstead act provision limiting physicians to the prescription of not more than a pint of liquor in ten days to any one patient—a provision which Federal Judge Knox recently declared unconstitutional—the report referred to former Representative Andrew Volstead as "the embodiment of witch-burning puritanism from Minnesota," and exclaimed:

"Did ever fanaticism go to such lengths as to step between physician and his patient, hovering, maybe, 'twixt life and death, and dictate how much or how little liquor may be administered?"

While Governor Smith was adding the aldermanic appeal to the deluge of communications, for and against signing, which the mails have brought him, and was closely keeping his own counsel, with the declaration that his mind still was open on the subject, many of his friends predicted he would sign the bill. He was represented as feeling that "it was the best business policy for the state" to leave the matter of enforcing the 18th amendment up to the federal authorities, and also as feeling that since the government had sent only 200 agents into the state, it really didn't want the law enforced.

BOY SUICIDED BECAUSE SCHOOLMATES "TEASED" HIM

Greeneville, Pa., May 15.—Ten year old Raymond Baker lies at his home here today a suicide because his schoolmates "teased" him. The boy was reprimanded by his father recently for not going to school, and gave as his reason that he was the victim of the practical jokes among his fellows. The father pointed out that this was not serious and urged him to go back to his classes. Yesterday the lad went home early, made his way to a bed room and shot himself.

CHINESE BANDITS REFUSE TO RELEASE FOREIGNERS

London, May 15 (By the A. P.).—Despatches from Peking say the Chinese bandits have repudiated their agreement to release the foreigners they hold captive. It is believed here this is the construction Peking puts upon the demands of the bandits, reported from Shanghai, that the foreign diplomatic representatives guarantee the carrying out by the Chinese government of the terms the bandits fixed.

Anti-Japanese Riots At Shanti, China

Several Persons Were Killed and a Large Number of Others Injured — Japan Sending Gunboat.

Shanghai, May 15 (By the A. P.)—Several persons were killed today and a large number of others injured in anti-Japanese riots at Shasi, Province of Hupehe, when the anti-Japanese demonstrators boarded a Jose river steamer. A Japanese armored gunboat has been sent at full speed from Hankow to the scene of the trouble.

FOR ARBITRATION IN COMMERCIAL DISPUTES

New York, May 15.—Members of the Mexican chamber of commerce in New York joined today with 60 other business and trade organizations in an observance of arbitration educational week, organized for the purpose of impressing the public with the advantages of arbitration in commercial disputes where no point of law is involved. The states of New York and New Jersey now have arbitration laws which provide for speedy and inexpensive determination of commercial controversies by means of arbitration hearings conducted without technicalities before men selected by the disputants. The decisions are final and will not be reviewed by the courts.

Supreme Court Justice William H. Black, at a meeting today of representatives of the organizations interested in arbitration educational week, said that the use of arbitration in commercial disputes would be a great relief to the civil courts with their crowded calendars and would prevent the injustice of long, drawn-out litigation.

TO DECIDE WHETHER "GOD OF VENGEANCE" IS IMMORAL

New York, May 15.—Judge McIntyre of general sessions today denied a motion to dismiss the indictment charging Attorney Harry Weinberger and thirteen others with producing an immoral play in "God of Vengeance," and then listened to a synopsis of the first two acts.

"We shall take up the third act tomorrow morning," he said in adjourning court. "That's enough for today."

Weinberger, upsetting precedent in criminal cases, moved for dismissal after the jury box had been filled this morning and then, after the motion had been denied, Assistant District Attorney Wallace began telling the court why he thought the show harmful to young folk.

Over the objection of Weinberger, conducting the defense, Wallace succeeded in introducing in evidence two-thirds of the plot and showing through the testimony of Patrolman Benjamin Bailey that he believed the defendants had publicly used "divers obscene, indecent, immoral and impure language and action."

BELIEVES BOXING MIXES WELL WITH RELIGION

Yonkers, N. Y., May 15.—Former Representative John E. Andrus, wealthy manufacturer and prominent in Methodist church, yesterday announced his conversion to boxing and to the belief that pugilism mixes well with religion.

Mr. Andrus, who is 82 years old, saw his first ring battle at the Yankee Stadium last Saturday.

"I saw nothing brutal in the exhibition," he said. "You would think from what people say that the fighters would be men with broken noses, battered faces and cauliflower ears. But the faces of these I saw in no way indicated their profession. And instead of being mortal enemies they appeared to be chums.

"I think the high-toned religious organizations in the country should hold similar exhibitions for such worthy causes as the milk fund, which supplied thousands of bottles of milk for poor children.

GENERAL ZONING BILL TO BE REPORTED FAVORABLY

Hartford Conn., May 15.—The general zoning bill will be reported favorably to the general assembly tomorrow morning as the result of action taken today by the cities and boroughs committee in executive session. The bill provides that cities and towns may restrict the nature of buildings within designated districts and layout for buildings and streets. The bill is not retroactive and will apply to new construction only.

There are a number of bills to give towns specifically named power to make zoning regulations which the committee has not yet acted upon.

TWO MEN KIDNAPPED WITH TRUCK OF WHISKEY

New York, May 15.—Two men were kidnapped, robbed of a truck containing $1,500 in whiskey, and driven through crowded Brooklyn streets for seven hours by three armed liquor bandits, the pair told police tonight. The truck containing $1,500 worth of whiskey was being conveyed under a permit from a warehouse, they said, when the bandits sprang on the running boards. The truck was found later abandoned and empty.

ZASH APPOINTED TO WESLEYAN COACHING STAFF

LAUNCH DRIVE TODAY UPON MARITIME RUM RUNNERS

Government Will Today File Complaint in the Federal District Court in New York Against Six Men Believed to be the Brains of the Ring—Suspects Are Located in New York, Boston and Philadelphia—Orders Have Been Issued to Seize Twelve Craft Believed to Have Been in Communication with the Shore.

New York, May 15 (By the A. P.)—The government tomorrow will attempt to break up a country-wide ring of bootleggers, with headquarters in this city, which is charged with operating the maritime liquor mart off Jersey's three-mile limit.

United States Attorney Herman L. Falk made this announcement late today after quizzing the captain and crew of the British steamer Yankton, which put into port yesterday with empty larder and bunkers, after the supercargo had left the ship off Montauk Point several weeks ago.

Mr. Falk said the government tomorrow would file a complaint in federal district court against six men believed to be the brains of the ring, which is credited with having flooded the Atlantic seaboard with smuggled liquor in the last six months. Mr. Falk estimated that the ring had landed at least 60,000 cases from Scotland and the Bahamas from the fleet, operating from Miami to Boston.

The charges against the sextet will be conspiracy to violate the Volstead act and to attempt to defraud the government out of customs duties.

The names were not made public but the suspects, Mr. Falk said, now were located in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Mr. Falk added that the government, in its massed attack on the rum fleet, which has included patrolling the three-mile limit with coast guard cutters and cutting off fuel and food supplies from shore, had issued orders to six collection districts to seize 12 craft with which the ring was believed to have been communicating with shore.

Included in the craft to be seized were said to be tugs, a submarine chaser and high-powered launches. Two of the tugs have been identified as those which a few weeks ago went to the Yankton loaded with armed men, and took off what was left of that hapless rum runner's cargo of 8,000 cases of alcohol which she loaded at Havana.

The submarine chaser has been used principally off the New England coast, it was said.

The nineteen men of the Yankton's crew were said to have given federal officials a mass of valuable information, particularly concerning the principals and agents of the rum ring, and also of the men who at various times visited the Yankton during her cruise along the coast.

Some of the booting suspects have already figured in tilts with the federal officials but have escaped punishment. One, if not more, figured in the proceedings which followed the seizure of the schoner Marshall, the first rum runner to fall into Uncle Sam's clutches almost immediately after the Volstead act became effective.

Major John Holley Clark, chief assistant U. S. attorney, said tonight that the evidence obtained from the Yankton crew assured the government of a powerful lead in smashing the bootleggers' ring.

No decision has been reached yet regarding disposition of the Yankton. It was believed, however, that the captain and crew would be permitted to libel her on their own account for their overdue wages.

MORE ABOUT APPRAISAL OF THE MORSE SHIPYARDS

Washington, May 15.—The value of the land in the three Morse shipyards at Noank and Groton, Conn., and Alexandria, Va., was appraised in 1918 at $71,000, A. B. Hoaick, an agent of a Milwaukee company that made the appraisal, testified at the Hossick trial. The year before the value of the land at Noank and Groton had been placed at $800,000 in reports made to the emergency fleet corporation, according to previous testimony in the case.

Hossick said his concern made the appraisals at the order of B. G. Higley, an official of the various Morse companies. The real estate at Noank was appraised at $35,000; that at Groton at $176,000 and that at Alexandria at $500,000. The land at Groton and Alexandria included sites for the housing of shipyard employes.

A sign of dissent made by one of the defendants to a statement regarding the location of the Noank plant led to a warning from Justice Stafford that defendants "must no make signs of assent or dissent while witnesses are testifying."

Most of the time at the trial today was taken up with the reading into the record by government counsel of checks and vouchers relating to lumber transactions between the Morse interests and the Williams shipbuilding corporation.

ANOTHER COLD WAVE IS HEADED EASTWARD

Washington, May 15.—Another cold wave is headed eastward, the weather bureau reported tonight, and is due to overspread the territory east of the Mississippi by tomorrow night.

The cold wave will follow a storm reported central over Illinois tonight which the weather bureau says will sweep east during the night and tomorrow. Clear skies but "considerably colder weather" will then prevail.

American Solicitor General Called To English Bar

James N. Beck, Solicitor General of the United States, who has been called to the English bar by the Masters of the Bench of Gray's Inn, of which society he is an honorary member. No other foreign barrister has ever been permitted to argue a case before the Privy Council.

NO IMMEDIATE BREAK OF ENGLAND AND RUSSIA

London, May 15.—(By the A. P.)—The outcome of the eagerly awaited Russian debate tonight in the house of commons was the announcement that there would be no immediate break between England and Russia but that negotiations would be started through Leonid Krassin, who was in the gallery, listening to the debate.

Ronald McNeill, under secretary for foreign affairs, announced on behalf of the government that Foreign Secretary Curzon was prepared to enter into discussions with M. Krassin and that, in order to enable the latter to communicate with his government in Moscow, the time limit mentioned in the British ultimatum to the soviets would be reasonably extended. But, he added, this should not be taken to mean that the British would be satisfied with anything less than compliance with their demands.

Former Premier Lloyd George expressed satisfaction with announcement and said he thought the government had taken a wise decision. Gossip around the lobbies had it that the time limit would be extended another ten days.

J. Ramsay Macdonald, leader of the opposition, opened the debate with a strong attack upon the government's policy in which he attributed all the troubles between England and Russia to the failure to recognize the soviet government. He invited the government to produce documentary proofs of its charges against the soviet, and maintained that the Russian reply opened the way for a settlement through an international conference.

ALLIES TAKE OVER FOUR GERMAN CHEMICAL PLANTS

Duesseldorf, May 15.—(By the A. P. Four dye and chemical plants, one of them the largest in the world, were taken over by French and Belgian troops of occupation today. The largest plant in the Baden aniline plant is near Ludwigshafe, employing 40,000 workers.

Two other plants, the Meister Lucius and Bruening works at Hoechst, near Frankfort, and the Kalle-Biebrich works near Wiesbaden, were occupied by the French, while the Belgians took charge of a large plant near Crefeld.

These works are part of the German dye trust which during the war manufactured high explosives and poison gas. It was explained at French headquarters they were occupied because the owner, under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles, had undertaken to make deliveries of chemicals to the amount which they had failed to make since the Ruhr occupation.

The German workmen at the plants went on strike as soon as the French and Belgian troops appeared upon the scene.

THEFT CHARGE AGAINST FORMER HARVARD STAR

Springfield, Mass., May 15.—Charles E. Brickley, former Harvard gridiron star, and Monty Emery S. Gibson, local stock broker, were indicted today in superior criminal court on charges of illegal stock negotiations to which they pleaded not guilty. Brickley is charged with the theft of $10,000 from the Commercial Trust company, of this city, arising from the deposit of certain stock of the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet company with the bank as securities for a loan. Gibson is charged with the theft of $4,500 from two clients. Both are charged with inducing Kurt P. Sternberg to forge the name of William J. Hines, of Thompsonville, Conn., and depositing alleged forged certificates as security. Brickley was released in $10,000 bail. Gibson was held until he was able to secure the same amount of bail.

FRENCH CHAMBER VOTES FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING

Paris, May 15.—The chamber of deputies today voted in favor of daylight saving after a southern deputy in which Premier Poincare refused to intervene to save the measure.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
61 Church Street Telephone, 1068

A short session of the criminal side of the May term of the Windham county superior court was held Tuesday afternoon with Judge James J. Webb on the bench. Previous to the opening of the court settlements were reached in the four cases assigned. The parties concerned arrived at a mutual agreement in the case of Bert K. Down of Willimantic, charged with non-support. The case of Charles Lapalley, charged with violation of the automobile law, was settled on the payment on the costs of the court. The case against Bert A. Lewis of South Windham, who was charged with non-support was nolled.

A change of plea from not guilty to guilty was made by Anna De Marco of this city who was charged with aggravated assault. State's Attorney Charles A. Searls explained that during a raid made some time ago, at the home of the defendant by a state policeman and an officer of the local department, the defendants became agitated and drew a loaded revolver from a bureau drawer. A fine of $25 and costs of $23.90, totalling $47.90 was imposed and was paid.

Clerk Edgar M. Warner then read the roll call of the jury. Twenty-two of the panel of twenty-four responded and of that number, eight were excused, four for deafness. The excused were: C. C. Case of Windham, for one week; Ernest Hibbard of Woodstock for one week; and the following for the term: G. Allen Hawkins of Putnam, Frank Coite of Canterbury, William Sprague of Chaplin, Lucius B. Williams of Killingly, Thomas Foy of Plainfield, John Campbell of Pomfret and Charles Dean of Eastford. The members of the jury as selected follow: Jay M. Grant and James P. Mustard of Windham; Fred C. Chism of Ashford, Daniel Smith of Brooklyn, Daniel B. Gilbert of Putnam, W. R. Decker of Hampton, Hiram S. Franklin of Killingly, George G. Chipman of Plainfield, Charles Rutherford of Pomfret, Harry P. Chesbro of Scotland, Edwin S Gallup of Sterling and Carl Norman of Thompson.

Announcement was made by State's Attorney Searls that the cases assigned for Wednesday and Thursday were not ready for trial and Judge Webb then adjourned court until Friday at 10 a. m., when a short calendar session will be held. The jury was excused until next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock when the criminal session will be resumed.

Treasurer Herbert W. Huber of Willimantic Rotary club was the speaker at the regular weekly meeting and luncheon of the club Tuesday noon. The entertainment committee were of the opinion that the club could prove its self-reliance by securing excellent talks from amongst its own members. President James P. Mustard opened the meeting at 12.15 o'clock and the Rotarians partook of a delicious chicken dinner. The roll call as read by Secretary Charles W. Hills showed five absentees but later during the meeting ex-President Valentine L. Murphy appeared on the scene, leaving but four absentees.

Following the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, Secretary Hill informed the members that he had received a telephone call from Henry Lyons of Putnam asking if May 24 was a convenient date for the Willimantic club to journey to Putnam and present that club with its Rotary flag. Arrangements have been made for a dinner at Pomfret Manor Inn in Rectdet at 7.30 in the evening standard time. The date was agreeable and President Mustard is to appoint a committee of three to cooperate with the Putnam club in making the plans.

John F. Cotter and Captain George Shepard of this city and Charles Barnes of the Providence, R. I., Rotary club, were guests of the local club, and Mr. Collins thoroughly pleased his hosts by rendering "Where the River Shannon Flows" for which he was warmly applauded.

An appeal was heard from the dinner when Jerry E. Sullivan and Harry Branch were ordered to sing Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheehan, as a penalty for creating a disturbance while the business session was in progress. Sergeant-at-arms Atne J. Martineau had made several attempts to keep the room under control but to no avail. Jerry impersonated Mr. Gallagher and "Harry" took the part of Mr. Sheehan. Their rendition was in great and low tones and they were loudly applauded.

President Mustard then announced that he had to leave to do jury duty and the meeting was turned over to Vice President Harry W. Standish.

Acting President Standish, Secretary Hill and Treasurer Huber were named as a committee of three to supervise the distribution of the gifts left over from boys' week, upon a motion by Fred D. Jordan. The prizes are to be given to crippled and handicapped children in the community.

A resolution, introduced by Judge Frank H. Foss was unanimously adopted, expressing the sympathy of the club to Rev. Harry S. McCready upon the death of his mother, Mrs. Emma Fifield McCready.

Treasurer Huber suggested that the club dues be made payable semi-annually and accordingly an amendment will be made to the by-laws where the dues will be payable on the first of May and November. It was also at the suggestion that Frank H. Foss, Herbert W. Huber and Fred D. Jordan were selected as a committee to draw up a budget of expenses for the club for the coming year.

Wednesday the fifty-fourth annual session of the Twenty-first Connecticut Volunteers will be held in the G. A. R. hall in the town building and James B. Fullerton asked for volunteers to furnish their automobiles to meet the veterans at the railroad station and drive them about the city before going to the hall.

The trains arrive here at 8.15 and 9.35 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning. Cars will be furnished by James B. Fullerton, Fred D. Jordan, James P. Bath and C. Harry Branch.

Professor Richard E. Dodge of Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, stated that possibly it would be a good plan to invite the Hartford club to attend the field day which is to be held jointly by the Norwich, New London, Putnam and Willimantic clubs at the college on July 19. His idea met the approval of the members and the Hartford members will receive an invitation to attend.

The meeting was then placed in charge of John F. Ahern, chairman of the entertainment committee and he in turn presented Herbert W. Huber (not being "Banking." The speaker as the speaker. Mr. Huber's talk was interesting and educational his subwas given a rising vote of thanks for his enlightening talk. The meeting closed in the usual manner.

Past Chancellor's night was observed by Natchaug lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias Monday evening and was attended by about 200 knights, the affair being one of the biggest of its kind held by the lodge. Included among those present were 30 members of Washington lodge, No. 15 of Hartford, headed by Chancellor Commander, D. M. Hoskins and Deputy Commander Herman Walthausen.

The guests of honor were, Grand Chancellor Thomas H. Troland of New London, District Deputy Grand Chancellor Allen T. Pratt of Hartford and the members of his staff; Grand Vice Commander A. E. Lennox, Master of Work D. S. Connell, Prelate A. J. Buck, Keeper of Records and Seals H. C. Smith, Master of Finance E. R. Sweet, Master-at-Arms A. H. Nearing and Inner Guard M. E. Freeman. Grand Inner Guard Arthur F. Mitchell of Hartford was also in attendance.

At the opening of the session, the chairs of the regular lodge officers were vacated and occupied by the past chancellors; Past Grand Chancellor W. N. Potter, Chancellor Commander Frank P. Fenton, Prelate Carl Pickress; Master-at-Arms Carl N. Alford; Inner Guard Nelson Gilman; Master of Work George Ide, and Outer Guard Henry Searls.

Selections were rendered by Washington lodge's Twentieth Century Jazzland orchestra, conducted by Howard Spargo.

The appointment of the Memorial day committee followed and its makeup is as follows: Past Grand Chancellor Charles A. Gates, Charles H. Beebe, J. J. Lonnihan, George H. Gurley and E. J. Peckham. The lodge's memorial day will be held about June 23.

It was mentioned during the evening that W. N. Potter is the oldest living charter member of Natchaug lodge. He has been grand master of exchequer for many years.

Interesting discussions were brought up at the meeting of the directors of the Willimantic Welfare Bureau held at the headquarters on Valley street, M. E. Lincoln in charge. The report of Miss Elizabeth Anderson, the secretary, showed receipts to have been $182.18 for the month. Of that amount, $103 was from membership dues and $67 from an entertainment. The expenditures totalled $176.90. During the month $167 was turned over to Treasurer P. J. Laramee. The reports recorded 89 office calls, 58 outside calls, 40 telephone calls, relief given to eight persons and six letter written. Employment was found for two women and information was furnished to outside organizations.

Rev. M. R. Plumb, pastor of the Edgewood, R. I., Congregational church formerly of Windham officiated at the committal service in the Oak Grove cemetery, Pawtucket, R. I., during the funeral services of Mrs. Emma Fifield McCready held Monday afternoon. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

John Madura of Bodorm, was charged with intoxication in the police court Tuesday morning and pleaded guilty. Smith's Crossing is generally the meeting place of idle citizens. The police received a telephone call that a disturbance had set in at the crossing but upon reaching the scene the officers found Madura all alone. He paid a fine of $10 and costs totalling $15.15.

The American Thread Athletic association propose to stage a gigantic field day at Recreation park early in September for the employees of all the plants of the American Thread company and President Charles W. Hill has been given authority to appoint a committee on arrangements.

The World war veterans of the town of Eastford will be honored on Memorial day when a tablet will be dedicated.

The regular monthly meeting of Willimantic Camp, No. 55, Woodmen of the World was held Tuesday night in Labor Union hall at 8 p. m. A number of applications for membership were read.

Over two hundred witnessed the series of contests staged by the pupils of thirteen surrounding towns in order to choose the district champion who will be delegated to go to Hartford for the state contest. At 3.30 o'clock the athletic events got under way at the Windham field on West Main street. Among the spectators were the parents of the contestants, friends and the senior class of the State Normal school. The various meets were in charge of E. S. Russell, assisted by State Supervisors Levi Garrison, H. S. Libby and H. W. Green.

The boys' contests consisted of a 75 yard dash, baseball throwing and a hop-step-jump event. David Sherdoff of Colchester was winner of the events with Roy Huling of Hampton a close second. The girls events which included a 60 years dash, basketball throwing and a potato race were won by May Gillette of Colchester with Helen Gager of Scotland as second winner.

Following the athletic events the party repaired to the assembly hall at the normal school where the speaking and spelling contests were held. Before the opening of the contests, the pupils of the Windham street school, marched into the room to the tune of a march played by Morgan St. John of the normal school. They wore paper caps of white, red and blue, representing average weight slightly underweight and the more needy. The children sang a number of appropriate song in which they lauded the benefits of drinking milk.

The judges for the speaking contest were Principal George M. Shaffer of the normal school, Miss Harriet Stone and Miss Ann Bonney.

The winners were Elizabeth Crandall of Mansfield and Rose Hubac of Scotland, second choice. The spelling contest was judged by Miss Ethel Freure of the high school faculty and the event was won by Dorothy Scott of Hampton with Ruth Robinson of Franklin as second choice.

The towns represented at the contests were, Andover, Ashford, Chaplin, Columbia, Colchester, Franklin, Hampton, Hebron, Lebanon, Mansfield, Marlborough, Scotland, Sprague, and Willington. The winners as named will take part in the state contest at Hartford in the early part of June.

STANDARD TIMERS WIN VICTORY AT WILLIMANTIC

Willimantic, May 15.—Daylight saving time received a decisive defeat at the city meeting tonight when the standard timers won a victory of 445 to 98. About 600 people attended the meeting. The advocates of daylight time, although defeat was at hand, made no efforts to stage a comeback. A. E. Green questioned Mayor Charles A. Gates at some length as to the legality of calling another city meeting to reconsider the vote taken at the previous meeting, when daylight saving was approved, without the passing of a resolution for the reconsideration of the vote. It was answered that at a previous meeting no notice or warning had been issued stating that the question of daylight saving would be taken up and that therefore its adoption was not entirely fair to the public.

The present city meeting had been called at the request of about 600 petitioners. The question before the meeting was whether they would vote to adhere to standard time. The voting was by wards.

Virture is its own reward but some people seem to think that it requires a lot of advertising.

FULLER PITCHES GREAT GAME FOR ATLANTICS BUT LOSES TO WHIRLWINDS

Before a small crowd of shiverin? fans the McGuinness Whirlwinds go to a good start Tuesday evening in the Norwich Twilight League by trimming the Atlantic Carton representatives by a score of 4 to 1. The game went 5 1-2 innings and the weather conditions were not of the best for real baseball although the two teams played exceptionally fine ball.

Fuller with his great speed and aided by the dark afternoon, pitched a wonderful game, fanning no less than 13 of the Whirlwind batters. The Whirlwinds got to him in the first few innings, before the shades of night had settled down over the field, and with some hard hitting scored their four runs. The Atlantics scored their lone tally in the fifth inning on Jackson's hit, his steal of second and Fuller's hit. These were the only two hits that the Atlantics made off Johnny Shea, the Whirlwind pitching ace. In the second inning with three men on and no out Fuller fanned the next three hitters.

The Whirlwinds played good ball in the field the only error being chalked against Fillmore for dropping a third strike and allowing the batsman to be safe at first. Shea received good support in the out field especially from Jack Clabby who had four put outs to his credit. Mulcahy led the hitting with two singles in three times at bat.

The game was called in the last half of the sixth inning by Umpire Fallon and the suffering and patient fans groped their way out through the gathering darkness to a warm fireside and a warm shot of tea. President Hill and Vice President Robinson showed their great interest in the organization by staying through the entire game. Mr. Hill was very loud in his praise of Fuller, the Atlantics' pitcher. CLEVELAND WINS SEE-SAW GAME FROM WASHINGTON

Cleveland, May 15—Cleveland twice came from behind today, to defeat Washington, 10 to 9, in ten innings. The game was loosely played on both sides. Wamby, Cleveland's second baseman, had the unique record of making three errors in one inning. Metevier and Zachary, who finished the game pitched the best ball. Score:

AMERICAN GOLF PROFS PLAY WELL AT LEEDS

Leeds, Eng., May 15.—The American professional golfers made the initial appearance of their 1923 invasion of England here today in the first qualifying round of the tournament being held under the auspices of the Yorkshire Evening News. Qualification play will continue tomorrow, and the 32 players having the best medal scores of the 150 entries will be eligible to play for the prize.

Walter Hagen, holder of the British open championship, led the Americans today, doing the 18 holes in 73; Gene Sarazen, American open champion,

SENATE OPPOSES HOUSE ON SUNDAY BASEBALL LAW

Hartford, May 15.—The senate and house disagreed on two important bills today and the prospects are that both measures will die between the houses with little chance for compromise.

The bill on the observance of Sunday especially showed wide divergence in the attitudes of the two houses. In the house last week the bill as amended by House Leader Buckley calling for the strict observance of the laws against Sunday baseball was passed by a large majority.

The senate today took an opposite stand. On motion of Senator Brooks the "strict enforcement amendment" was rejected and the original bill legalizing Sunday baseball was passed instead. The action of the senate came before the house a little later and that body voted to adhere to its original action. A committee in conference was not requested.

LASALLE TEAM DECISIVELY BEATS WESTERLY HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, May 15.—At Vose park this afternoon the LaSalle team of Providence defeated the Westerly High school club by the overwhelming score of 14 to 5. The game during the first six innings was well played and interesting, but after the sixth the LaSalleites let loose, the outcome being a poor ending. On the first appearance of the Providence team the W. H. S. team lost by the small score of 3 to 2. The score:

LOCAL BOYS TO STAR IN DANIELSON BOUTS

Danielson, May 15—Matchmaker Frank Barber of the Casino Amusement company has arranged another great card of bouts for the boxing fans who will assemble from all parts of Eastern Connecticut in the town hall here Thursday evening in this week.

Heading the bill is Steve Katchell of Providence vs. Young Griffin of Worcester, a pair of performers who are sure to give the crowd a great show in their scheduled 10 round go. Ketchell has been substituted for Tommy Gorbiey of Gloucester, forced to cancel his engagement here at almost the last minute by reason of a death in his family.

In the second feature bout Bobby Kelley of Waterbury is to meet Tom King of Brockton, Mass., in an 8-round go at 160 pounds. These are fast boys with very considerable reputations. Both will be new in a Danielson ring and the outcome of their battle will be a matter wholly in doubt with local fans until after the milling is under way.

In the preliminary events some fast milling is looked for. Irish Billy Glynn of Norwich will meet Battling Grant of Sterling for 6 rounds at 136 rounds. Glynn battled here and won a decision at the last set of matches and the fans liked his style in the ring. Against Grant he will have opportunity to extend himself, as the Sterling lad is some wallloper and a great mixer inside the squared circle.

In the other preliminary Young de Forest of Danielson will match his skill and wits against Young Beauregard of Taftville, making his first appearance here.

Young Beauregard is a fast boy who has been performing creditably in amateur bouts in this section for the past four years. He is fast on his feet and packs a punch in either mitt. For a youngster in the flyweight class he has developed a wonderful hitting power. In meeting DeForest he is giving away about 6 pounds but it is certain that he will make up in his fast work and hard hitting.

On the whole this week's card is as attractive as any that has been offered the supporters of the game since it was given a new lease of life here last fall. There is great interest in Thursday night's matches, as evidenced by the inquiries that have come in from all towns hereabouts, and a record crowd is anticipated.

WALKER CUP PLAYERS ARRIVE AT ST. ANDREWS

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 15 (By the A. P.).—All the American Walker cup golfers with the exception of Francis Ouimet arrived here today, and within an hour were busily practicing over the old course in preparation for the opening of the cup competition on Friday.

George V. Rotan, with C. V. L. Hooman of England, defeated Cyril Tolley and Jess Sweetser five up and four to play. Rotan reached the turn with a medal score of 35 and on the homeward route had eight fours and one five.

Max Marston and Harrison Johnston defeated Captain Robert Gardner and Jack Neville by one hole. Later Hooman and Rotan won from Gardner and S. Davison Herron by one hole, but the most interesting match was a four-ball game in which Johnston and Marston opposed Sweetser and Neville.

BROADWAY SCHOOL BEATEN BY GREENEVILLE TEAM

The Greeneville school got away to a good start in the Grammar School Baseball league Tuesday afternoon when the Greeneville team took a fast game from the Broadway school 6 to 3. The Greeneville boys showed better team work as they have had more practice than the Broadway team, but the central district team played a snappy and fast game. Mr. Williams was the umpire.

The lineups:—

Greeneville—Kaptenia, c; Cimikowski, 1b; Nevins ss; Ozik lf; Gromko cf; Labeneski 2b; Rozycki rf; Lipovitch 3b; Ferguson p.

Broadway—Gillan c; Moody 3b; Connelli ss; Kampf 1b; Williams 2b; Negles lf; Burdick cf; Shea p; Sabatino rf.

Score by innings:

Greeneville	0	3	1	1	1	0	0		—6

JOHNSON AND FULTON ARE SUSPENDED IN NEW YORK

New York, May 15—Floyd Johnson, heavyweight boxer knocked out by Jess Willard last Saturday, and Fred Fulton, who lost on a foul to Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight on the same bill, and their managers, Charley Cook and Jimmy Johnston, have been suspended indefinitely by the New York boxing commission, it was learned tonight.

This action is in conjunction with the suspension of the men by the Massachusetts boxing commission for the failure of Fulton and Johnson to box before the Arena A. C., of Boston on April 16, last.

FULLER PITCHES BRASSCOS TO WIN OVER BRIDGEPORT

Waterbury, Conn., May 15.—With Fuller pitching well almost from start to finish, Waterbury defeated Bridgeport here this afternoon, 7 to 2. It was the loser's sixth straight whipping. The locals scored four of their runs in the third inning, when, after Brown had given two bases on balls, Donahue, Kane and King, consecutive batsmen, hit a double, a triple and a single, respectively. The score by innings:

Two base hits, Donahue, Fuller. Three base hits, Kane, Torphy.

Kaplan-Fresh Bout Thursday.

New York, May 15.—The 12-round match scheduled tonight between Kid Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., and Danny Frush, English featherweight, has been postponed until Thursday because of cold weather.

WILLARD AND FIRPO HAVE AGREED TO MEET; WINNER TO FIGHT DEMPSEY

New York, May 15.—(By The A. P.)—The preliminary move toward another contest for the world heavyweight championship was made today by Tex Rickard, promoter, in the signing of Jess Willard, former title holder and Luis Firpo, Argentine giant, for a contest to be held in New York or vicinity not later than July 7.

The winner of this proposed engagement will be matched with Jack Dempsey in a title contest, which will be held next Labor Day.

Rickard declined to reveal terms for the Firpo-Willard match except that they will fight on a percentage basis Experts, however, figure that the bout will draw a gate of at least a half million dollars, and that the share of each principal would be at least $100,000.

The bout will be staged either at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, or the Yankee Stadium. The Yankees will occupy their park on both June 30, the original date suggested for the match, and July 4, but will be away on Saturday, July 7.

The attitude of the state athletic commission toward Willard also may have a baring on whether the bout is staged here. William Muldoon, chairman of the commission and author of the ruling preventing men over 38 years of age from appearing in boxing contests in this state, allowed Willard to meet Floyd Johnson because the affair was for charity.

It is believed, however, that the age ruling would be set aside by the commission in view of Willard's victory over Johnson, a man half his age.

Willard, satisfied that his victory over Johnson at Yankee Stadium last Saturday proved his physical fitness and ended the talk about him being too old, left tonight for Los Angeles to visit his family. He will return to New York the latter part of the month to resume training.

The South American has made arrangements to meet three lesser lights among the heavyweights before July 1. He will resume training tomorrow for a match at Grand Rapids, Michigan, with Harry Foley on May 22. He has signed to meet Joe White, of New York, in Havana, Cuba, June 3 and Jim Hibbard, of Buffalo, in Mexico City, June 22.

Should Firpo's match in Mexico City go through, it is improbable that he would be ready to meet Willard before July 7.

Firpo, second only to Willard in size among heavyweight contenders, has become quite a heroic figure to New York crowds. In a jaunt through Fifth avenue today the South American, conspicuous in a derby hat among the season's first straws, was followed by several hundred curious persons. Policemen scatered the crowd for traffic's sake.

Receipts from the heavyweight boxing carnival at the Yankee Stadium Saturday were announced officially by Promoter Rickard today as $349 897. Of this amount the municipal milk fund, for the benefit of which the fights were conducted, will receive approximately $200,000. Promotion expenses, including the payroll of $85,300 for the ten boxers on the programme, have not been definitely fixed, but were estimated at about $150,000.

BIG PLAYER DEAL BETWEEN CUBS AND DODGERS PENDING

New York, May 15.—Reports that a player deal was pending between the Chicago and Brooklyn National League clubs was confirmed today by Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Dodgers.

Mr. Ebbets refused to reveal details, declaring that negotiations were in the hands of Manager Wilbert Robinson, but it was reported that the Cubs were seeking the services of Andy High or Bill McCarren, third basemen, and Fred Schliebner, first sacker, to replace Ray Grimes, who was forced out of the Chicago lineup by a recent injury.

Zeb Terry, second baseman, who failed to report to the Cubs this season may come to Brooklyn in the deal, it was declared.

HANDSOME LOVING CUP FOR HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE

property of the winning school team.

The schools represented in the league are the Chapman Technical school of New London, the Norwich Free Academy, the Westerly high school and the Stonington high school.

The contest is to go for a five year period, unless one school shall win it three times prior to five years. In case of a tie the two schools are to play the deciding game.

THIS BOY HAS A UNIQUE PITCHING RECORD

Worcester, Mass., May 15.—Baseball mathematicians had a brain twister to puzzle over yesterday afternoon when Moses Dupruis, pitcher for the Gates Lane Schol team struck out 24 men in seven innings in the game with the Chandler Street School team in the Grammar School League. Despite his strikeout record, Dupruis' team lost by a score of 9 to 2.

Seven of the men fanned by Dupruis reached first base when Catcher Johnson of the Gates Lane team dropped the ball. Six of them scored. The only runs made by the Gates Lane team were scored by Pitcher Dupruis, who hit two home runs. Baseball followers declare the record is the most unusual ever made in the history of the game.

GREB RELEASED FROM HOSPITAL FULLY RECOVERED

Pittsburgh, May 15.—Harry Greb, former American light heavyweight champion boxer, was discharged from Mercy hospital late yesterday, and left immediately for New York city, where his manager, James Mason, has been conferring with promoters on the question of bouts with Mike McTigue and Johnny Wilson. Greb spent a week in the hospital, recovering from an operation for the relief of an infected arm. Before leaving for the east, Greb said he hoped to meet Wilson for the middleweight title and McTigue for the light heavyweight crown in New York the coming summer.

L. H. iants Beat Clippers

In an uninterested game played at Laurel Hill park Thursday afternoon the Laurel Hill Giants defeated Shay's Clippers by the score of 16 to 3. The hitting of the Giant player, Marshall, was the feature of the game.

The Giants would like to arrange a game with the West Side All Stars and for particulars address Irwin Burdick, 35 River avenue.

Norwich-Sterling Game Postponed.

OVERRIDING THE VETO.

From the action which has been taken in the lower house of the general assembly, it is clearly evident that the reasons advanced by Governor Templeton for vetoing the two bills putting the Norwich-Hadlyme and the Tolland-Ellington roads into the trunk line system of state highways were not impressive. From the overwhelming manner in which it was voted to pass the bills over the governor's veto the view is taken that the roads are needed as originally approved by the legislature, and that the expenditure will not be exorbitant and that public convenience will be served even though there may be points along the highways that are sparsely settled.

Governor Templeton was apparently guided by poor advice governing these roads. That will be conceded by those who are acquainted with them and it is borne out by the action of the lower house. We have reached the time in the building of trunk line highways when provision must be made for the diversion of traffic. The overcrowding encourages accidents and these roads will serve to take traffic that would otherwise be forced to take other routes. Likewise it is just such roads that mean the opening up of the sections of the state that need such advantages and there is nothing that encourages that more than good roads.

It is highly gratifying to this end of the state that the legislature has been unwilling to ignore its needs in the matter of better highway advantages. The house of representatives has acted most commendably in insisting upon these highway projects and it is to be sincerely hoped that the same sound judgment will be reflected in the action of the senate upon the same matters.

CURBING SPEED OF MOTORS.

Out in Illinois a bill has been introduced in the legislature that calls for the equipping of all motors with a device that prevents the vehicle from developing a speed of more than 35 miles an hour. That is certain to call forth strenuous opposition. Such interference with personal liberty cannot be permitted to go through with flying colors. It would mean that the joy riders and the speeders would have their pleasure taken away from them, that cars would be much more nearly under the control of the drivers and that greater safety would be insured.

It is evident that this legislation has not been proposed by the enemies of the automobile, but that may not prevent unfavorable action upon it. It is, however, the result of the conditions that have developed from the large yearly increase in the number of autos and the increase that is being shown in the number of accidents that can be attributed to unwarranted speed. Efforts in various states to control the speed of cars amounts to little. Even in states where the law permits fast traveling on straight stretches where a competent driver should encounter no difficulties is soon interpreted as meaning that no speed restriction exists at all and busy thoroughfares and dangerous corners are frequently figuring in the accident or fatality list due to the careless or reckless drivers.

One doesn't have to go over the highways very much without being able to observe plenty of cases that emphasize the danger of fast driving. Efforts to get cooperation from the drivers to reduce that danger makes little progress. Apparently it is believed in Illinois that the time has come to take drastic measures to curb the fast driving of automobiles. Possibly it will not succeed this time but the reasons for the enactment of such legislation can be expected to pile up from year to year unless the auto drivers display a willingness to comply with the needed requirements without being forced to it. Certainly no auto making 25 miles an hour would be placed in the classification of road hogs.

STILL GERMANY'S MOVE.

If Germany is surprised and disappointed at the reply which it has received from the British and Italian governments in response to the offer on reparations, there seems to be little justification for it. Can it be possible that it believed that it had succeeded in bringing about a division among the allied nations? If it has been operating under such an idea it must now be thrown into the discard. From the reply by these two governments it is set forth that Germany has not offered what it should, and it has been informed that the allied nations are standing together.

Germany has been told in plain words that it cannot expect to get an acceptance of its offer and that the best thing it can do is to get down to brass tacks, stop beating about the bush and make an offer in keeping with what has been previously suggested and what is more nearly in accord with what it is able to pay and what the situation calls for.

Great Britain hasn't attempted to [illegible] any further offer. It has made the concessions in fact endeavored to get Germany to continue the negotiations and letting it be understood at the same time that it must be considered as an interested party to all offers.

France turned down the reparation offer without consultation with the others. It was a sum that warranted it. Had it been for a larger amount its action might have been different. Had it reached the point where consideration could have been given to acceptance and guarantees it would have called for joint action by all the allied countries. They may not hold exactly the same views as to the amount of reparations that should be paid but there is agreement on the point that the last offer was too small. All the replies that Germany has received have laid emphasis upon that fact. Any hope that the British were playing the German game has been dashed. It is thus plainly evident that the next move is up to Germany, the same as it has been for some little time. But it can expect to get nowhere unless in that move it comes close to the mark.

TALKING RECIPROCITY.

In view of the talk that has been indulged in by the Canadian minister of finance the impression is conveyed that some at least in Canada are conscious of the mistake that was made something over a decade ago when the dominion turned down the proposition of reciprocity with this country, and are anxious to revive it.

Reciprocity on agricultural products was approved by this country during the administration of President Taft. It was a plan that appealed to certain sections of Canada but it didn't satisfy the majority. There was sufficient opposition to it to bring about its defeat in the dominion and since then only casually has it been referred to. Now it comes to the front through the suggestion by the minister of finance that if there is a reduction of duties by the United States on agricultural products Canada will be interested in seeing that duties are so reduced on similar articles imported by Canada that will compensate for our action.

Those who contended that Canada made a mistake and failed to take advantage of a great opportunity when it turned down reciprocity before may be encouraged by such an effort, but there is little chance that the reciprocity question will be taken up and handled in any such manner. It indicates that the idea hasn't completely died in the country where it was given a cold shoulder, but it is frequently the case that those who fail to open to opportunity when it knocks seldom get another chance to usher in such a guest. It is easier to revive an old story or inaugurate a repetition of such movements than it is to develop the needed interest and action.

NEGOTIATING WITH MEXICO.

With the representatives of this government, appointed specially to carry on the negotiations, now in Mexico City in conference with the Mexican commissioners hopes are entertained that an understanding may be reached whereby Mexico will comply with the requirements of the United States so that there may be removed the obstacles which now stand in the way of a recognition of the Obregon government.

Though this government is justified in its stand relative to recognition and its insistence upon guarantees for the protection of the lives and property of subjects of other countries, it has been made apparent that conditions in the country to the south have undergone great changes for the better since Obregon has been at the helm. With a government that is making strides for industrial development under peaceful conditions and a country that is so prominently identified in trade relations, to say nothing of being one of our closest neighbors, there should be nothing but the best of relations.

The United States has endeavored to bring Mexico to a realization of the fact that no one but itself is responsible for the present situation. Past experiences have directed the policy of this government. It has been forced to it against its wishes, but at the same time it is for the good of Mexico. The insistence upon having Mexico do something which it ought to be only too anxious to do may be a penalty brought about by others, but its aim is the general protection and welfare of all, and that includes Mexico itself.

AFTER INFORMATION

"Well, well!" the admiring father exclaimed when his daughter floated into the room looking like a million dollars. "I take it that you are going out this evening. Where to and who with?"

"Why, with Gee Whillikens, of course!" came the chorus from the rest of the family. "Haven't you noticed it? Why she is always going somewhere or other with him."

"The idea!" said the dressed-up daughter, anxiously peering into the mantel mirror to consider the whiteness of her nose. "It just sort of happens that he and I do have an engagement this evening to dance at the Passaway club!"

"But," said the admiring and yet puzzled father, "I thought you were out with him last evening at the theater, with supper afterward."

"Why, so we were," the dressed-up daughter admitted in what seemed to be great surprise. "You see, he had got the tickets and so we had to use them, and then this dance was this night, so, of course, we had to go to that!"

"Perfectly clear," the admiring father admitted, while the rest of the family waited at the ringside. "Wasn't it this same young man who was here at dinner the night before that? The young man who took my last cigar and left me smokeless?"

"Why do you let your cigars run out that way?" his daughter asked. "It looks so stingy to see the jar almost empty. I've seen Carrie Benzine open a brand fresh box of cigars of her father's when she had callers—"

"When such a shocking thing happens turn your eyes the other way," admonished her parent much horrified. "No wonder Benzine looks harried and hunted if that is the abuse he gets at home! The pleasure of opening one's own box of cigars is something no woman's mind can comprehend and she is a robber when she prevents it! Any young man of the right spirit wouldn't let a girl do a thing like that! Indeed, if this Gee Whillikens had tact he wouldn't have said, 'No, thank you, Mr. Swatt; I will not rob you of your last cigar! Far be it from me—'"

"You handed it to him and he didn't know you hadn't any more!" the dressed-up daughter said hotly. "I am sure I don't know why all of you should pick on a perfectly nice young man like Mr. Whillikens, who is no more to me than anybody else and—"

"Wasn't he here last Saturday night playing cards with you and that other couple?" asked her admiring father. "They were reproaching him for trumping aces or something like that because he was staring at you so constantly! And Friday night it seems to me that you were getting ready in a great hurry to go to the theatre with the Whillikens and Thursday night he called and sat in my special chair. And as for Wednesday—"

"I never heard anything like it!" the dressed-up daughter said indignantly moving restlessly toward the mirror and inspecting her complexion again. "I see scarcely anything of him! He is the sort of man that most girls are crazy about, but before I'd act as Desdemona Dump does to attract his attention I'd die. It just sort of happened that I had several engagements with him lately."

"Whenever I have come home," her father said firmly, "I have met this Gee Whillikens either just coming out or going in! I could not pause in the front of the hall to hang up my hat on the table and draw a long breath of thankfulness at reaching my own fireside without interrupting a murmured duet.

"What I want to know is whether this sort of thing is wished onto me for life or is just temporary. I can get used to most anything, even to using the basement door for entry and reading my evening paper in the coal cellar, but I should like definite information upon which to base my plans for the future!"

"You are perfectly silly!" the dressed-up daughter cried, peering anxiously from the window. "Gee Whillikens is just a friend and I am sure I don't see why you should talk like this! My goodness, there he is now, and I've got to powder my face and do a million things! He likes people to be on time and here you've kept me from getting ready and it's all your fault—"

"Well" the admiring father gloomily told the breathless family, "I guess it's the coal cellar for me! She's so elaborately disinterested I'm certain it's a desperate case! Doggone him!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Col. Homer Folks, who will preside over the fiftieth anniversary convention of the National Conference of Social Work which meets in Washington during the week beginning today, has long been a recognized leader of organized social work in America. Born in Michigan in 1867, he graduated from Albion College in his home state and later received his A. B. degree from Harvard. Immediately upon leaving Harvard he began his career in his chosen field as superintendent of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania. In later years he has held many important administration positions in municipal charity and kindred organizations, principally in New York city. Following the Spanish war he went to Havana as assistant to the United States military authorities in reorganizing the public charities of Cuba. The national organization of which he is now the head is the largest of its kind in the world and is a great national forum for the discussion of charities, correction, relief and kindred subjects.

Wives of Famous Men

Maid Marian, Wife of Robin Hood

Belonging to that shadowy band of characters which hover somewhere in the borderland between fact and fiction, Maid Marian and Robin Hood, whimsical, charming, picturesque people of medieval England, assuredly deserve a chapter in the history of happy lovers. Although Robin Hood and his goodly following of happy bandits are supposed to be more or less mythical, still there is enough evidence of their fleshly origin to consider them as real people.

Marian was a beautiful, graceful little maid, loving the errant Robin with all her youthful heart. She helped him in his self-appointed task of robbing the rich to aid the poor and was a thorough little out-of-doors creature. No forest hardships were too much for her. She excelled in archery, was a fleet runner and, in fact, was splendid in every form of sport.

But Marian's family, so the story goes objected to her union with the countryside reprobate and every effort was made to force her to wed a middle-aged man whom she did not love.

However, the jolly band of Robin's followers, by employing their ever-ready wits, succeeded in foiling parental plans and the girl was able to give her hand where her heart had already been given.

They lived together in the woods for many happy years, known always as the enemies of the rich and selfish and the friends of the poor and needy.

CHILD TRAINING

BURBANKING YOUR CHILD.

By Zahrah E. Preble.

Luther Burbank says "Whoever believes there is a great gulf between plant life and human life is wrong. Racial improvement, like plant improvement, is all a matter of heridity, environment, selection and crossing of types. The strongest conviction I have, after breeding plants sixty years, is that what can be done with plants can be done with human beings—and must be done if our civilization is not to be overwhelmed by the unfit. Plant life, I am convinced, is no more plastic than human life."

What can you do with your child to improve him for his own sake and the sake of the future race? You have already furnished him with heredity; these strong and weak tendencies which are born with the child. These tendencies are not yet characteristics. They are merely signposts which indicate the way that young nature may be turned by careful culture or careless neglect. You know what happens to a garden which is left to its own devices, and that even in the most carefully tended garden weeds will spring up. But the good gardener does not deny the flowers their proper amount of water and care in order to starve out the weeks. He pulls out the latter by the roots.

In the matter of cultivation of your child to bring out the best potential qualities, the environment has a lasting and formative effect. Much can be done to overcome even unfavorable physical surroundings, if the mental atmosphere is made harmonious and the child taught to look for and see advantages and beauty everywhere. True environment is more a matter of mental attitude than most people realize. If the parents are constantly criticising their surroundings, what can they expect the child to develop except an undesirable critical attitude toward all phases of life?

It is in selection of the strongest physical and mental tendencies and the training of these toward the best expression that the parent acts as a Burbank with the child. Is the child showing a strange stubborn quality which seems to be the predominant tendency? Do not consider this a flagrant weed, but look upon it as a desirable trait of determination, and by judicious selection of interests train it toward that end, thus "burbanking" what otherwise might remain a weed forever. Opposition or forcing will not do the work, only careful, patient understanding and directing will accomplish the best result. Consider what Burbank did with a wild Mexican grass. In eighteen years its meager seed had become full ears of corn under his skillful handlings. You have more than eighteen years in which to "burbank" the promising traits of your child. But remember, patient training and interference are two very different things, and produce widely opposite results.

Look to yourself first to see if you are a good gardener before you attempt to experiment with nature.

You cannot live your child's life, anymore than the gardener can live the life of the rose or cactus. But as the gardener can make the rose more desirable by training it to shed its thorns, and the cactus a friendly, instead of an unfriendly plant to mankind by depriving it of its spines, so you can train your child's tendencies and mind to make of him a better citizen.

COMPENSATION.

In that new world toward which our feet are set,
Shall we find aught to make our hearts forget
Earth's homely joys and her bright hours of bliss?
Has heaven a spell divine enough for this?
For who the pleasure of the spring shall tell
When on the leafless stalk the brown buds swell,
When the grass brightens and the days grow long,
And little birds break out in rippling song?

O sweet the dropping eve, the blush of morn,
The starlit sky, the rustling field of corn,
The soft airs blowing from the freshening seas,
The sunflecked shadow of the stately trees,
The mellow thunder and the lulling rain,
The warm, delicious, happy summer rain,
When the grass brightens and the days grow long,
And little birds break out in rippling song!

O beauty manifold, from morn till night,
Dawn's flush, noon's pause and sunset's tender light!
O fair, familiar features, changes sweet
Of her revolving seasons, storm and sleet
And golden calm, as slow she wheels through space,
From snow to roses—and how dear her face,
When the grass brightens, when the days grow long,
And little birds break out in rippling song!

O happy earth! O home so well beloved!
What recompense have we, from thee removed?
One hope we have that overtops the whole—
The hope of finding every vanished soul.
We love and long for daily, and for this
Gladly we turn from thee, and all thy bliss.
Even at thy loveliest, when the days are long,
And the little birds break out in rippling song.

VOICE OF THE WESTERN WIND.

Voice of the western wind!
Thou singest from afar,
Rich with the music of a land
Where all my memories are;
But in thy song I only hear
The echo or a tone
That fell divinely on my ear
In days forever flown.

Star of the western sky!
Thou beamest from afar,
With luster caught from eyes I knew
Whose orbs were each a star;
But, oh, those orbs—too wildly bright—
No more eclipse thine own.
And never shall I find the light
Of days forever own!

—Edmund Clarence Stedman.

STATE LABOR DEPARTMENT REPORTS PROSPERITY WAVE

With Connecticut industries in excellent condition and some of them doing more than a normal business further increases in wages are coming and there is a solid wave of prosperity in the state, according to a report of the state department of labor published Monday on the conditions of wage earners in Connecticut last year and in 1921. Many workers are in favor of a working day of ten hours investigators report. Employment exists for any person who wants to work and there is a better understanding of conditions on the part of labor. Because of a shortage of unskilled labor in the state, there is arising in Connecticut a demand for a modification of the present immigration law. A decrease in the employment of child labor is also found by the department.

The report which is prepared by Miss Charlotte M. Holloway, industrial investigator of the department of labor, is considered a forecast of conditions for this year.

Housing Problem.

The great problem of housing in Connecticut, according to the report, is taking care of the poorer working classes. It is urged that it be taken up before the furnishing of playgrounds and recreation centers.

"Crowding families in such close relations that modesty and even decency are difficult, is not the way to make upright, moral citizens," says the report.

"While reformers are busy with abstract questions and wearing out their energies in bettering people who are fairly well off at present, there are queer types of people growing up in the Connecticut cities."

"Not only these moral morons, but clean-minded simple people are going home from their work to dwellings which are disgraces to up-to-date cities."

Want Foreign Labor.

Connecticut employers now depend upon foreign born men and women for about 50 per cent of their workers in the industries and daily the disparity of these laborers is growing. The employer is wondering where he is going to obtain men to do the work. Many of the factories are working on shifts to fill their orders.

The housing condition of the negro is called a reproach to the community which "compels him to abide in certain localities and in certain kinds of houses." While the condition of many negroes in the state is reported as good, the report says that many of them live in unsanitary surroundings. Many of the race are said to be victims of rent profiteering.

Women Displace Children.

The investigators find that unmarried women are taking the place of children in mercantile establishments and in the tobacco industry, while there is a gradual dropping of women from industrial employment.

There is an increase in the number of industrial nurses and industrial physicians. A careful investigation has shown that employers are seeking to do more for the comfort of their employes along other lines as well, and says there are more agencies for promoting a better understanding between employer and employe. The report ends with the statement that there is a gratifying desire to do as much as possible for the protection and welfare of the worker."

While the report deals extensively with the condition of the wage earners, those who are wealthy enough to employ servants come in for a share of attention.

The Poor Rich.

Under the heading of the "Serious Problem of Domestic Service," women who wish to do public service are urged to attempt to place the "science of housework" on a high plane.

"It means preventing the scandalous, unhappiness, and ill health that comes from herding in hotels and letting the younger members of the family bring themselves up. It means keeping husbands and wives on decent, self-respecting terms with each other instead of a state of ugliness, and indigestion which endangers the happiness of everyone in the house," the report says.

It continues, "The way it is today, it is the working man of a fair income who enjoys all the comforts of home, not the poor rich man who is harassed because he cannot get help in his household."

South American Trade.

The development of South American trade for the varied exports of Connecticut, is urged. The recommendation of Isidore Wise, president of the Hartford Chamber of Commerce, and one of the great merchants, is mentioned in this regard.

Silk Industry Recovering.

After a period of much fluctuation the Connecticut silk industry is said to be showing a "gradual resumption of healthy steadiness." Germany in turning her vast explosive plants into manufacture of artificial silk has become a serious menace to the state's silk industry in foreign markets, although Connecticut manufacturers, says the report, are protected in American markets by the tariff. Japanese competition cannot be despised by the silk industry here.

No state in the country has excelled Connecticut in the elaboration of cotton, wool and silk in cloths and pelts. Connecticut designers have been benefited by the cuttings off of intercourse with some European nations and the condition is tending to encourage schools of designing in the state.

WEDDING.

Cohen—Fisher

A quiet home wedding took place Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cohen of 215 West Main street when Rabbi Max Stamm united in marriage, Miss Sophie Fisher of Uncasville and Abraham Cohen. The couple were attended by their parents.

The groom was born in Montreal, Canada, the son of Harry and Ida Schneider Cohen, but has lived in this city for several years. He has been in the employ of Ratner & Werman, manufacturers of shoes, but recently suffered an injury and was given compensation.

The bride was born in Russia, the daughter of Harry and Ida Fisher, but most of her life has been spent in Uncasville. The couple will make their home in Uncasville until Mr. Cohen returns to work.

WATERBURY MUST PAY FOR MAN'S BROKEN NECK

William Donahue, of 1,027 South Main street, Waterbury, a former semi-pro baseball pitcher, will receive $8.10 a week for 10 years from the city of Waterbury to compensate him for a broken neck, injured right arm and fractured rib sustained while in the employ of the street department, according to a finding and award issued by Commissioner George E. Chandler of Hartford. Commissioner Chandler presided over the case in the absence of Commissioner Frederic M. Williams.

The case is one of the most interesting that has appeared on the compensation court docket in the past year. Donahue who is 38 years old, was a very popular athlete and was known particularly as a brilliant baseball pitcher. By trade he was a steam fitter and earned a good salary while employed at the plant of the Waterbury Farrel Foundry and Machine company.

During the industrial depression of 1922-3, Donahue was laid off at the factory and he went to work for the street department at a salary of 1.20 a week.

The case was settled by voluntary agreemtn, the city agreeing to pay Donahue 18.10 a week until he recovered from his injuries. The hearing was called last week by Corporation Counsel Charles E. Hart on the contention that total incapacity on account of Donahue's injuries had ceased. Attorney Hart asked for a finding as to the measures of Donahue's partial incapacity and an order directing the payment of compensatfon in accordance with such a finding.

Commissioner Chandler's finding, however, was that because of his injuries, particularly the broken neck, Donahue who possessed a splendid physique and weighed about 183 pounds had lost weight and had aged considerably. His mind is affected and he complains continually of dizziness. His hearing is defective and he walks in a slow and laborious manner and appears somewhat dazed when questions are asked him.

In his finding Commissioner Chandler states that Donahue is totally incapacitated because of his injuries and recommends that if he recovers somewhat, that he be given small jobs such as that of a watchman or elevator operator. He will never again be able to ply his trade, the finding states.

The city is urged to find suitable employment for the man, by Commissioner Chandler, who also recommends that he be under constant observation of a physician. In addition to receiving $8.10 for ten years, which amounts to $4,212, Donahue will receive whatever surgical, medical and hospital treatment his physician or physicians shall recommend at the expense of the city.

HOME CHAPTER NAMES DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE

The leader, Mrs. John C. Atterbury, presided over the May meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters, when about 70 members assembled at the Johnson home on Monday afternoon.

One new member was received into the chapter. For a short period members bowed in silent prayer for Miss Alice Woodmansee, a member of the chapter, who died since the last meeting.

The chapter voted to give $25 toward a new piano for the Alms House. Delegates appointed by Mrs. Atterbury to the county conference of King's Daughters to be held in the Jewett City Congregational church, Tuesday, May 22nd, at 10.30 a. m., daylight time, include the following: First delegate, Mrs. Herbert Branche; second delegate, Mrs. Alfred Davis; and Mrs. Byron Evans, Miss Nellie Hayes, Mrs. William Manning, Mrs. Robert Cochrane, Miss Maria Briggs, Mrs. Charles Burke, Miss Elizabeth Ortman, Mrs. William Kramer, Mrs. Neville Blicq, Mrs. Charles Cross, Mrs. Albert Boardman and Mrs. John Botham. Delegates and all others who are planning to attend the conference are expected to leave Norwich on the 9.45 Central Village trolley on the above date. Dorcas Circle of the K. D., of Jewett City will provide the dinner.

At the meeting on Monday, Mrs. Charles Burke was elected chairman on entertainment, to provide music for the Backus hospital on those Sundays assigned to Home Chapter.

The meeting was followed by a social hour during which sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

Fined in Police Court

A man from Voluntown was before the city court Tuesday morning and paid $10 to Clerk Bailey for intoxication. Another man who had disobeyed the traffic rules paid the usual fine of $3.

Naugatuck.—Rt. Rev. John G. Murray, auxiliary bishop of Hartford, administered the sacrament of confirmation to a class of 190 boys and girls of St. Francis' parish.

WILL ASK CITY MEETING TO VOTE ON MODERN STREET LIGHT SYSTEM

Whether an improved and modern system of street lighting shall be adopted in Norwich is a question that is to be brought before the voters in the annual city meeting in June. This is one the initiative of the street lighting committee of the chamber of commerce which reported a recommendation for an improved system of street lighting to the meeting of the chamber of commerce directors at their meeting at noon Tuesday at the Wauregan house. The directors approved and adopted the recommendation.

It was felt that with Norwich operating its own electric light plant, which furnishes street lights on an actual cost basis, the city could well have the latest modern approved permanent street lighting system that is in vogue in practically all cities in the state.

Bringing the proposition before the city meeting will place it before the citizens and give them the opportunity to decide this important matter.

President H. M. Lerou made a report of the attendance of representatives of the chamber at the hearing in Washington on the petition for the deeper and wider channel in the Thames river, stating that they had a very hopeful feeling that the army engineers will make a favorable report as a result of this hearing. Further steps are contemplated after the river channel has been sufficiently deepened to allow modern coastwise vessels to come to Norwich. These will be a gradual development according to the outcome of the deeper channel hearing.

The board decided to have representatives attend a hearing in Colchester at noon today (Wednesday) on a hearing for a petition for a license for a bus line between Colchester and this city. The chamber of commerce will favor issuing the license. Such a bus line would provide the only regular, means of transportation for Colchester people to reach Norwich.

It was reported at the meeting that it is hoped that in the very near future certain New Haven railroad officials will come to Norwich to listen to the arguments in favor of better passenger train service to meet the requirements of the entire community. A request has been made for the holding of a conference at an early date in sufficient time before the summer train schedules are printed.

The May meeting of the Art Students' association was held in the lecture rooms at Slater Hall on Monday evening. The members had the rare privilege of hearing Mrs. Charles Davis of Mystic talk on "How to Enjoy Pictures" in a most informal and fascinating manner, for it was from the heart by one who is a most inspiring talker.

Mrs. Davis began by saying there were two essentials absolutely necessary in order to enjoy oil paintings; "What to look for and how to look at it". Taking the first essential "What to look for," we should think of the motive or subject, what it was the artist tried to express Enjoyment of the subject is the first step, but those who stop there never get any further.

Figure painting may be divided into portraiture, historical, religious and genre, the last purely decorative and less artistic.

After figure painting come animal pictures and then still life. The latter dates back many years before the Christian era; it was carried to a wonderful perfection among the Greeks and later by the French school.

Marines and landscapes are usually classed together and in these the great contribution to modern art lies. It is a question if the representation of still life of the present day is any better than it was among the Greeks, where as marine and landscape painting have gone on by leaps and bounds. Men have caught the spirit of the sea and fields, lakes and woods as never before.

The pioneer realist Valasguez, showed how the commonest things may be beautiful. Then in Corot we have one who treated a landscape subtly, who seemed to have caught the very soul of the trees and woods. Turner represented a subject romantically. There are those who may be said to paint in such a way it may be called self-evident.

Remember to look at the way a subject is treated.

Next comes composition or design or pattern which is really meant. In composition there are three things to be considered, the foreground, middleground and background. Always look for the pattern among the great artists of design Puvis de Chauvanne ranks first, for his wonderful color and beauty of line.

After motive and design come light and shade or Chiaroscuro to which unfortunately the moderns often pay no attention. The great example of wonderful handling of light and shade we find in Rembrandt.

After light and shade there is drawing or draftsmanship. In this Sargent was a master. For absolute perfection in drawing we turn to Michael Angelo, and the more we study his figures the more we are convinced his knowledge of the human body must have been most thorough. Among moderns, Degas is the last word in draftsmanship. His subjects are often disgusting, even loathsome but his skill in drawing holds us.

Following drawing is perspective in which the early renaissance artists were masters. To the glory of the modern painter be it said he has attained color perspective, he can make you feel the air, make you see off and off to the very horizon. Then comes technique, that is the manner of using paint, the way a man puts it on the canvas. Some of the greatest painting have no perceptible technique, you cannot see how the artist got his effect. Whistler, one of the greatest in this, said "The finest technique is where there is no technique at all".

The last of all to look for in a picture is color. Color is a great big thing, is everywhere, in the blackest black and in the whitest white. Do not insist in your judgment of art that the color must be all of one kind, all of one type. Enjoy all schools and get something from them all.

The second point is "How to look at pictures." In the golden days of Florence, Italy, they carried the paintings of Cunabue through the streets in a solemn procession that every one might enjoy them. In all the galleries of Europe you will see even the poorest in the museums gazing at the masterpieces. Even the small children are taken so they grow up with a love for the beautiful in art.

France has a remarkable method of helping art. The government aids small towns to have museums where the best works may be exhibited. In thinking of art in America we remember that in the Colonial days, there were first, portraits by Stuart or Copley, then the historical subjects by West. Formerly sent young men to France to learn how to paint and they returned more or less imitators. Now we have progressed and have a national art but we are not an artistic people. We buy commercially. We think whether the artist is well known and will sell to advantage. We must get beyond this and love art for art's sake. The way to do this is to care for it, to really love it, to be willing to make sacrifices for it.

Another way is by comparison, get a standard and be willing to learn why. Take a broad view of art and do not stop with a favorite artist. The sane modern art has so much to admire. Never limit your interest. Have the open mind that constantly revises Art is an unlimited horizon and touches every part of your life, mentally, morally, physically.

Carrying a knocked-down automobile by aeroplane from Detroit to Chicago, proved successful recently.

WIN SPEAKING HONORS IN COUNTY SCHOOL CONTEST

Marguerite Bennett of Lyme won first place, Anna Donnelly of Lisbon took second and James McGee of Long Cove school, Ledyard, took third in the speaking contest at the Uncasville school Monday afternoon in which representatives from schools in 11 towns in the southern tier of New London county participated. The winners will go to the state competition in Hartford in the first week in June.

The occasion was the annual speaking and spelling contests, arranged by Supervisor V. B. Moody of the Waterford and Montville public schools, as part of the state board of education's program for fostering work of that character throughout the public school system of the state. The athletic feature had been added this year for the first time. Approximately 200 spectators attended the exercises, which were held in the auditorium of the Uncasville school and a like number witnessed the athletic events which were held on the school grounds.

Supervisor V. B. Moody presided at the speaking contest, in which the following pupils with their subjects appended took part: Francis Sullivan, Bozrah, Men to Make a State; Genevieve Mattison, North Stonington, Inchcape Rock; James McGee, Ledyard, Horatius at the Bridge; Mildred Tupps, Preston, Harold Winkleried; Frederick Hyde, Montville, Abraham Davenport; Evelyn Stewart, Waterford, The Rising; Douglas Haynes, Old Lyme, Boys of America; Marguerite Bennett, Lyme, Inchcape Rock; Elsie Filosi, East Lyme, Landing of the Pilgrims; Martha Moore, Salem, Four Poems of the World; Anna Donnelly, Lisbon, Man of the Marne.

The judges in the speaking and spelling contests were Principal F. S. Hitchcock of Chapman Technical High school of New London, Louis M. Crandall of Norwich and Rev. J. Harlow Graham of Norwich.

Supervisor James Connelly of the public schools of Lyme, East Lyme and Salem presided at the spelling contest in which the following pupils competed: Seymour Gilman, Bozrah; Helen Johnson, North Stonington; Elizabeth Baldwin, Ledyard; Marion Bagley, Preston; Alice Onuparik, Waterford; Elizabeth Lyons, Old Lyme; Marguerite Bennett, Lyme; Daphne Luce, East Lyme, Martha Moore, Salem; and Lucy Dugas, Lisbon.

The winner was Alice Onuparik.

In the athletic events for boys, the following boys participated: John Enos, Waterford; Oscar Frederickson, Old Lyme; Clifford Lee, Lyme; Charles Delora, East Lyme; Charles Dembinski, Salem, and John Lobe, Lisbon.

John Enos of the Quaker Hill school was the winner.

In the athletic contests for girls, Helen Stefanowska from Lisbon won first honors. Lisbon won the team prize for girls with 13 points. Waterford won the boys' team prize with 13 points.

The girl athletes numbered the following: Alice Hayes, Waterford; Crystle Curtis, Old Lyme; Phyllis Hall, Lyme; Elsie Fraser, East Lyme; Mary Vacharjinski, Salem; and Helen Stefanowska, Lisbon. Supervisor V. B. Moody officiated as a starter in the various events.

The summary of points by schools in the athletic events was as follows:

Montville—Girls, 2 in 60-yard dash 3 in potato race, 4 in basketball throw, total, 11; boys, 3 each in hop step and jump and two in baseball throw, total 8.

Salem—Girls, 1 in potato race.

Lisbon—Girls, 4 in 60-yard dash, 4 in potato race, 4 in basketball throw, total 13.

Waterford—Girls, 3 each in 60-yard dash, potato race and basketball throw, total 9; boys, 2 in hop, step and jump, 5 each in 75-yard dash and baseball throw, total 12.

East Lyme—Girls, 5 in 60-yard dash, 2 in potato race, 3 in basketball throw, total 10; boys, 5 in hop, step and jump, 4 in baseball throw, total 9.

Old Lyme—Girls, 1 each in potato race and basketball throw, total 2; boys, 1 in hop, step and jump, 2 in 75-yard dash, 3 in baseball throw, total 6.

Lyme—Boys, 4 each in hop, step and jump and 75-yard dash and 1 on baseball throw total 9.

Wheeler School Will Entertain

Wheeler seniors have voted to entertain their friends and guests with "In Apple Blossom Land," in the school auditorium.

Their program will start with a special supper during which there will be a program of entertainment by Norwich artists. The musical part of the program will be in charge of Ladds' Serenaders, a boys' orchestra. There will be Russian folk dancing by Miss Helena F. Crandall and a special exhibition of toe dancing and reading by Miss Dorothy Symonds with special costumes and music. Mrs. W. N. Stebbins will play for the exhibition dancing. Louis M. Crandall will entertain with feats in ledgerdemain. A dance will be enjoyed by pupils and friends after the supper and entertainment.

Ferguson-Chappell Wedding

Miss Renee Chappell, daughter of Mrs. Alice Chappell of Waterford and N. Stanley Ferguson of Norwich were married April 3 by Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton, at Mr. Morton's home in Waterford.

Fortunate is the man who takes a wife for better or for worse and strikes a happy medium.

"HISTORIC MOTHERS" TOPIC OF Y. M. C. A. SHOP MEETING

Deeply impressive was the heart to heart talk on "Historic Mothers" at the Y. M. C. A. noon meeting Tuesday by Rev. C. H. Ricketts at the plant of the Richmond Radiator company. Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows:

"Jesus was dying on the cross; His torture from crucifixion was releasing its cruel hold. As He turned His glazed eye to the earth He saw only one thing: John, the beloved apostle, was supporting his own weeping, heart-broken mother. He made only one comment, "Woman, behold thy son—son, behold thy mother." John understood, "and from that hour he took her to his own home."

If there were not other impelling reasons, this incident in itself would be enough to justify the observance of Mothers' day. From the vantage point of her influence one sees clearly that no other earthly agency has so much to do in the establishment of character as a mother's love expressing itself in tender care and sacrifice. Dr. Bushnell, in his great book, Christian Nuture, says that "the first six months of a child's life are the most important." In this period the child is almost wholly its mother's.

It was not, however, till 1907 that a Sunday was specially set apart as Mothers' day, and has since been generally observed as such. It was fitting that the second Sunday in May was fixed upon, as one month later is Children's day. The originator suggested that on this day every man wear a white flower, visit his mother if living, but if dead place flowers on her grave or send them to the sick.

The speaker then gave three reasons for his subject, Historic Mothers, referring first of all to the most highly honored mother in all history, Mary, mother of our Lord. It may be that she was the most physically beautiful, the most mentally alert and the most morally upright of all women. If so it is wholly a matter of conjecture; history is silent in the matter. Presumably she was a splendid specimen of noble womanhood, but her supreme place among mothers was due to her selection to be the mother of our Lord.

The noble mothers in history were then dealt with chronologically, beginning with Rebekah, who is not to be subjected to the white light of Christian judgment. This mother was big enough to smash the abominable law of primogeniture, i. e., the bestowment of the father's titles, estate and other honors upon the first born, cutting off the other children with a mere pittance, though they are incomparably superior. Rebekah was justified by every law of God in stealing the blessing from Esau, the incompetent, for Jacob, vastly more suited to continue the family honors.

Rachel, Rebekah's daughter-in-law and wife of Jacob, was another great mother in history. Leah, Jacob's other wife and sister of Rachel, with her seven children, all nonentities, have but scant notice in the Bible. But Rachel with her son Joseph are raised to the top notch of human fame.

The ingenious device of Jochabed, mother of Moses, to make an infamous royal decree work to her advantage was dwelt upon. A mother as bright as this had, as she richly deserved, a son who became the greatest man mentioned in the Old Testament.

A parallel picture was then drawn between Hannah, mother of Samuel, and Elizabeth, mother of John the Baptist. These mothers were remarkable for the strength of their religious characters and they imparted the same to their offspring.

The speaker paid his respects to the splendid strength of the Roman dames, selecting Cornelia, who gave herself to the rearing of her mighty sons, Tiberius and Caius. When asked by the Campanian woman if she would show her the family jewels, Cornelia, putting her arms afound her two bright boys, remarked: "Here are my jewels!" And when that noble mother died Rome built a monument to her memory with this simple inscription:

Cornelia, Mother of the Gracchi.

In more recent times a tribute was paid to Susanna, mother of the Wesleys, John and Charles—and 17 other children. Her interest and intuitive religious wisdom was a mighty asset in the founding of Methodism. The mothers of Washington and Lincoln were referred to. Garfield coming down the capitol steps after his inaugural address to embrace his dear old mother, and McKinley sending a telegram from the White House to his home, saying "Tell mother I'll be there," were touchingly referred to.

The speaker concluded by saying that if was significant that all the great mothers of history were profoundly religious women. There is no great motherhood without it. The men were encouraged to assist their wives in every possible way to have their daughters grow up strong bodily, alert mentally and straight morally. What tomorrow will be depends on what girlhood is today. If this country is to continue a virile race its motherhood must be strong.

COMMENDS COUNTY AGENT AS ABLE APPOINTMENT

A tribute is paid to Walter T. Clark, newly appointed agent for the New London County Farm Bureau by the Connecticut Agricultural college Review. The editorial in the paper was as follows:

"Walter T. Clark of Storrs was appointed county agent for New London county at a meeting attended by 22 farm bureau directors. He succeeds H. F. Johnson who resigned on February 1 to accept a position as assistant secretary of the federal land bank in Springfield. Mr. Clark was born and brought up on a dairy farm in Granby, Hampshire county, Massachusetts. He spent one year at the Massachusetts Agricultural college, and was graduated from the Connecticut Agricultural in 1918. Soon after graduation he was appointed assistant county agent in Windham county, Connecticut, which he filled successfully until he enlisted in the army, where he spent ten months. For the past three and a half years he has been assistant farm management demonstration in the Extension Service of the Connecticut Agricultural college. In this position he has had opportunity to become familiar with extension work and methods and has made a special study of cost of production and farm accounts. This experience has given him some excellent training for the county agent position. The extension service feels that New London county is particularly fortunate in securing him as their county agent. He began his new duties May 1.

TUBE COMPANY STRIKERS FIRM IN DEMANDS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 15.—The strike at the plant of the New England Collapsible Tube company, which occurred yesterday when the 14 pressmen of the tube room quit work with the announcement of a 20 per cent. reduction in wages, and which force was joined in sympathy by about a hundred women workers, was still on today, and from the strikers it was stated that the strike would continue indefinitely unless the wage formerly paid was continued, together with the adoption of methods employed prior to the wage reduction being ordered. The strikers declare that there is not a solitary member of their force at work and that the women sympathizers will remain away from work as long as the pressmen stay out.

At the plant officials of the company declare that they are working the establishment with a goodly number of hands and that the wage reduction will remain in effect.

Any vacancy occurring when the general assembly shall not be in session shall be filled by the governor until the third Wednesday of the next regular session of the general assembly. After reasonable notice and public hearing, the governor may remove any commissioner for cause and for the good of public service.

Section 3—This act shall take effect from its passage.

LOYALTY CLASS MET WITH MRS. J. B. OAT

The monthly meeting of the Loyalty class of the First Baptist church was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. John B. Oat of 161 Cliff street, 14 members being present. The meeting was opened by prayer by Mrs. Herbert Willey, the [illegible] which President Miss Frank Hazard called the meeting to order in the absence of Mrs. George Rathbun, the secretary, Mrs. Oat acted [illegible] pro tem. The class voted to hold a rainy day contest to raise funds for the treasury, and decided to change the regular meeting night from the second Monday in each month to the second Tuesday in the month. It was voted to hold the next meeting at the home of Mrs. William J. Roose of Peck street.

Following the meeting a social time was enjoyed and refreshments of cocoa, cake and fancy cookies were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Frank E. Church.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

In a letter written aboard the Empress of Scotland while that vessel was making her way up the St. Lawrence river for Quebec and mailed at Rimouski, May 8, Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard tells a friend here that he and Mrs. Hibbard are back in America and in most excellent health.

He said: My zigzag journeyings to all the lands that border the Mediterranean sea have only served to confirm my belief that of all the nations on the face of the earth our own United States surpasses by far the greatest amount of real freedom and liberty of action such as no other nation has. Our taxes are by all odds the lowest. The culture and education of America, its refinement and its limitless opportunities for real advancement in life are so superior to those possessed by other people that all comparison ends. We have seen much and with our eyes of the mind wide open.

The laziness and filth noted among the peoples of North Africa and through Palestine as well as in Turkey is such that I see no prospect of improvement for generations to come. This backwardness and an absolute refusal to make any use of modern appliances in agriculture is amazing. [illegible] using the same methods and implements as used in the times of the Exodus.

Many years ago several colonies of Industrious Germans bought land in Palestine for farming purposes. I rode through two or three German colonies. The farms in these colonies are wonderful. Modern farming machinery is in use and what is being achieved in the heart of Palestine by these German workers is amazing. Right along side of these German colony farms the natives also carry on agriculture, and five natives are required to accomplish the work done by one German farmer. These colonies were Nazareth and [illegible] the sea of Galilee. While ashore there we drove inland 75 miles.

Since Dr. and Mrs. Hibbard left here the past winter they have journeyed 16,000 miles. They entered the Black sea, passing through the Dardanelles, sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus. A visit in Constantinople for a few days was a feature of the trip. Dr. Hibbard commentsthat their visits to those remarkable monuments of the ancient world in Egypt, at Athens, Rome and elsewhere can never be forgotten.

Prior to reaching Rimouski on the lower St. Lawrence, where a pilot was taken on and mail sent ashore the Empress of Scotland had a hard time battling her way through a 200-mile field of icebergs and floes that at times threatened her safety. The vessel was delayed nearly four days by the ice and the dense fogs that surrounded her. For 48 hours on the fishing banks off Newfoundland a dense fog obscured vision beyond 200 feet. Wireless flashes were constantly coming in from the ice patrol warning the giant vessel of the ice dager, which is the worst this spring for many years. Yet the 1700 souls aboard the vessel whiled away the hours in comfort and luxury, for the seas were not rough and every appointment and every detail of the service on the vessel was such as to make life at sea a real joy.

Dr. and Mrs. Hibbard are now visiting with relatives at his boyhood home in Vermont and are expected in Danielson within a few days.

Mrs. Susie G. Williams, secretary of Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2, has prepared notices of the second regular meeting of the organization to be held with Natchaug grange at the Congregational church in Chaplin on Saturday, May 26. The morning session is to open at 10.30 in the fifth degree for the transaction of general business. At noon dinner is to be served. The afternoon session is to be at 1.30 and will be open to all patrons. Included in the features for the afternoon session there will be an address on Travel in Italy by Prof. E. H. Gumbert of the Connecticut Agricultural College and an address on Americanization by Ernest C. Carpenter of New Haven, executive secretary of the Americanization committee.

Musical and other numbers to be announced later will be given by the members of Echo grange.

Members of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., were at their rooms Tuesday evening to witness the conferring of the first and second degrees upon a class of candidates. This class is to receive the third degree here next Sunday, when many visiting knights from eastern Connecticut councils will be in attendance.

This (Wednesday) evening at Grange hall in Canterbury the Canterbury Poultry club is to have a killing and picking demonstration conducted by Prof. Roy Jones of the Connecticut Agricultural college. This is one of such meetings scheduled for poultry clubs in this county and is arranged through the County Farmers' association and the extension service of the college.

Tuesday was not much of a day weatherwise for such an important event as the opening of the straw hat season. In fact, one could get along comfortably with last winter's cap with earlaps on it, though few did. It so happened that the temperature did not deter some from appearing in their new sailors, nor more than did the threat of rain—so the season is officially open and all may wear a straw hat who wish to without exciting undue notice or comment.

It used to be said repeatedly a few years back in territory hereabouts that farms could be bought for a song and the time would come when they would in many case be abandoned to grow up to brush and woodland again, but that appears to have been a wholly wrong prediction. Farm prices today are in many cases double and in some cases triple what the ywere hereabouts a decade back. Opening of various state highways along with the normal increase in population has brought this about. Farms are still available hereabouts by those who would own one, but there is every indication that they are going to increase in money value as the years go by.

State highway forces patched bad places in the pavement in Main street Tuesday and filled in the little ruts worn in the pavement along the line of the trolley rails. Improvements for which the traveling public will be duly grateful. It is also promised that the worn planking on the Main street crossing of the New Haven road is to be removed and when repairs are made it is likely that some form of semi-permanent pavement will be put down instead of planks.

A new bus such as will be put into service between Danielson and Providence when that service is established has arrived here and on a trial run to Providence Monday evening took down a party of 12 in an hour and five minutes. The bus is of a modern type and rides with the ease of a touring car. A similar bus is to be operated on the line between Danielson and Willimantic.

Samuel Gingras, who has been successfully engaged in business here the past 18a years, has acquired the business of the Connecticut Pop Corn company at Norwich, a concern employing about 14 people. Mr. Gingras said Tuesday afternoon that he intends to dispose of his business interests here and eventually with his family will go to Norwich to make his home.

Charles Dansereau, who recently returned to this territory after an absence of nearly three years, is again asked by the law to explain why he brought half a dozen horses across the border from Rhode Island and into Killingly without having the necessary permit from the commissioner of domestic animals. Mr. Dansereau owns over 300 acres of farm land on what is known as the Moosup pond road in the town of Plainfield, just over the southern boundary line from Killingly. Recently in restocking his farm after being away for such a long time he purchased horses at a sale in Providence and brought them up to Connecticut without complying with the regulations specified for such cases.

Davis park is being put in its usually attractive condition for the summer season.

The water font that has stood for so many years at the junction of Main and Reynolds street has been removed. It was found by those who took it down that it was so badly rusted that it would not have lasted more than another year in any event.

Henry C. Whiting of New Haven was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

Steve Ketchell of Providence will substitute in Thursday evening's feature bout at the town hall for Tommoy Corbley of Gloucester, Mass., who was to have met Young Griffin of Worcester here. This last minute change was forced by reason of a death occurring in Corbley's family. Ketchell is a finished performer, as he demonstrated here a few weeks ago when he gave Sailor Michaels of the Submarine Base a great battle.

PUTNAM

During Tuesday the lockout of employes of the Manhasset Manufacturing company continued without special developments. As is their custom, the men held a meeting and the situation was gone over in detail. Assurance has been given that strike benefits will be paid regularly to the workers who are out here from the American Federation of Textile Operatives, of which they are apart, and it is understood that this benefit will amount to $5 per person each week.

Further eviction notices have been served on families occupying certain tenements of the mill company and the total of these notices numbered 13 up to Tuesday, eight having been served when the trouble was first inaugurated during the past week.

Today (Wednesday) rounds out the first week of the lockout. Tuesday afternoon the men confidently expressed themselves as to the justice of their cause and their faith that the company will grant them the advance in wages which they are seeking.

There appears to be a prospect of conferences between representatives of the mill company and employes as individuals at some time in the not distant future. However the mill company does not recognize agents of the union nor committees thereof.

John P. O'Connell of Salem, Mass., general secretary of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, is now directing the trend of events. He is a man of much experience as a textile union representative and a genial person with broad vision and characterized by his fair-mindness.

The mill continued to operate during Tuesday. Guards are remaining on duty in day and night squads about the plant, but there is no disturbance of any kind in the vicinity of the big mill.

Secretary John H. Corbett, Putnam, of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. organization has given out the following information relative to the field meet to be held at the fair grounds in Brooklyn next Saturday:

9:00 a. m.—Registration of entries and assignment of numbers.

10.30 a. m.—Class A: 50 yd. dash, preliminaries; Class B: running broad jump; Class C: running high jump.

11.00 a. m.—Class A: running broad jump; Class B: shot put 8 lb.; Class C: 100 yds. dash, preliminaries.

11.30 a. m.—Class A: baseball throw; Class B: 75 yds. dash, preliminaries; Class C: running broad jump.

12.00 m.—Intermission for dinner.

1.00 p. m.—Class A: 50 yds. dash, finals; Class B: 75 yds. dash, finals; Class C: 100 yds. dash, finals.

1.45 p. m.—Class A: high jump; Class B: 1-4 mile relay race; Class C: 1-2 mile relay race.

2.15 p. m.—Class A: 220 yds. relay race; Class B: running high jump; Class C: shot put, 12 lb.

2.45 p. m.—Opened to all classes: one mile race.

3.00 p. m.—Opened to all classes: obstacle race.

3.30 p. m.—Parade of athletes and awarding of prizes.

This track meet is a joint meet put on under the auspices of the County Y. M. C. A. and the various schools of Windham County. All athletes will represent their town when it comes to figuring up the score for championship. Each town is allowed three entries in each event. It matters not whether the entries are members of the Y. M. C. A. or members of some school or grammar school. All will compete on an equal footing and all will represent their towns rather than any organization to which they may belong.

The entry blanks showing the name, age, weight and height of each boy and the events in which he wishes to enter should be filled out by the school teacher or Y. M. C. A. group leader, and sent to John H. Corbett, Box 386, Putnam, Conn., together with the entry fee for each boy on or before Wednesday, May 16th.

The winners of first, second and third places in all events of the above meet will be eligible to represent Windham County at the state track meet at Andrews' Field, Wesleyan University, Middletown, on May 26th.

Sylvester B. Butler has been elected principal of Putnam High school to succeed Principal E. H. Snow, resigned to accept the principalship of the high school at Ardmore, Pa. Mr. Butler is at present principal of the high school in Terryville, this state.

He finally has been approved out of a list of 32 candidates for the place by the Putnam town school committee. Mr. Butler is a graduate of Yale university, class of 1913, and has specialized in educational work and has been prominently identified with educational movements in this state. He has been elected here at a salary of $2,750 annually. Announcement of his election was given out Tuesday morning following a meeting of the town school committee the previous evening.

It was also announced at the office of Secretary Charles L. Torrey of the town school committee Tuesday morning that the committee has voted to increase its high school tuition for out of town pupils from $80 to $100 per year and the grade school tuition from $40 to $50 per year. These advances have been made necessary on account of the higher costs for maintaining schools of the standard reached in this town.

Mrs. Molina (Coderre) Leon, 54, died Monday afternoon at her home on Church street after an illness of many months. She was a native of Putnam and had lived here practically all of her life. Mrs. Leon is survived by her son, Joseph, with whom she had made her home.

Out on the Chepachet highway a large force of men is now engaged in rebuilding this route from the Conn.-R. I. border eastward through Rhode Island. This is an extensive undertaking as it involves the reconstruction of several miles of old state highway that is too narrow and has broken down very materially under the strain of present day traffic. The first stretch to be rebuilt is from the state border eastward to near the Cady tavern, where a new section of highway was put in last year. Another new stretch will be farther east and will be several miles in length. The rebuilt road will be several feet wider than the present road and so constructed as to withstand heavier traffic. The work will not be completed until late next fall. In the meantime a detour is in use over the section of road now being rebuilt.

Three cases in which three presented were charged with having been intoxicated were disposed of at Tuesday morning's session of the city court. Two of the men were sent to jail while the third was fined and ordered to pay the costs of prosecution.

The condition of Captain Remi Delage was so highly critical at the city hospital in Worcester during Tuesday as to result in repeated reports of his death being circulated in Putnam. Practically all hope for his recovery had been abandoned Tuesday afternoon.

More outside electric signs are being put in place at business houses in this city this week in connection with the program, announced some time since, of giving the central business section a white way appearance. The signs are becoming sufficiently numerous to add real brilliancy to the evening illumination and the promise is that other signs to be put up in the near future will add to this feature of night like in this city.

Such good progress is being made on the construction of the service station of the Putnam Buick Sales company that the cement block work is expected to be completed in about two weeks.

Hector Lucier, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Lucier, was bidding farewell to friends here Tuesday prior to departing on his trip to Guatemala, where he is to fill a position for the United Fruit company. Mr. Lucier expects to be absent from Putnam for two years before his first visit home.

Miss S. E. Clarke of Main street will have the members of the Drop In class of the Congregational church at her home for a meeting and monthly social tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon.

GRACE M'SHEFFREY ACQUITED BY JURY IN SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 15.—Amid scenes seldom enacted in a superior court room in New London county, Grace M. McSheffrey, the girl mother of the infant child found abandoned in a lot at the corner of Reed and Bliman streets last January, was acquitted of the charge of manslaughter after a three days' trial this afternoon. The jury deliberated less than thirty minutes and when Foreman George G. Avery of the group of twelve men that held the girl's fate in their hands, announced that a verdict of not guilty had been reached and that the verdict was one of not guilty, men and women visibly showed their delight and court adjourning immediately afterwards, men and women hastened to the side of the acquitted mother and displayed unmistakably their delight in the acquittal of the young girl.

Women who had been conspicuous among the spectators throughout the afternoon, some of them welfare workers of the city, spoke feelingly to the girl, while others even showed their delight by kissing the acquitted girl. Men clasped her hands and patted her on the back in their desire to show the accused that public sentiment was with her.

While commotion reigned in the court room, some of the women escorted the girl from a side entrance and went to one of the headquarters of a charitable organization where the girl will remain tonight.

The acquittal of the girl automatically releases her friend, John J. Guinan, a sailor stationed at the submarine base, and who lived with the girl at the Fournier house as man and wife, but who was not the father of the babe, of the charge of accessory before the fact, for with no crime having been fastened on the girl, there is no charge that can be levied against Guinan. Guinan has been at liberty, having procured a surety on a bond of $1,500 for his appearance in court, but he has been a constant attendant at the trial since it was started.

On Jan. 20th the body of a fully developed male baby was found wrapped in cloth and canvas on the Reed and Bliman street lot and from one of the sheets, which bore the laundry mark of the Fournier house, clues developed which resulted in the arrest of the girl and Guinan a week later. At that time the girl exonerated Guinan from taking any part in the delivery of the baby or its disposition, but since then she accused the sailor of advising her in her acts and assisting her in giving birth to the baby, the latest confession asserting that Guinan really made the suggestion of disposing of the child and advising her to do so.

Throughout the trial Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, counsel for the girl, laid great stress that the baby was dead when born and that therefore no crime had been committed. An array of medical talent testified as to whether, in their opinion, life was extinct in the child when born and it is believed that this part of the testimony had great weight with the jury in returning its verdict.

The next trial that will take place, it is believed, will be that of Dominick Mariola, charged with assault with intent to kill. Witnesses in the case have already been summoned and it is probable that the trial will be the initial business handled by the court tomorrow.

Mariola, with Joseph Vendetta and other Italians were assembled in a Woodbridge street store and indulging in a card game several months ago. Mariola and Vendetta, were supposed to be on friendly terms, but during the progress of the game, a matter was discussed by them that brought about the uttering of harsh words. Vendetta is alleged to have made a remark that angered Mariola and the latter seizing a revolver that he had on his person, pulled it and fired, the shot striking Vendetta on the hip.

The wound, however, was a slight one for the bullet only inflicted a superficial wound and the victim was detained at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital but a day. Mariola made good his escape, secreting himself in the home of a friend, where he remained two weeks before he was delivered to the authorities by his attorney. Mariola, it is understood, will claim that he shot at Vendetta in self defense and that the latter attacked him with an empty box, which act caused Mariola to pull his revolver and fire.

June should be a month of marriages in New London for many nuptial events are slated. Among the marriages scheduled to take place are seven young lady operators in the employ of the Southern New England Telephone company.

The accident that befell Charles House, a child residing with his parents at No. 140 Main street, last week when it was reported that the child was struck and run over by an automobile, owned and operated by Thomas J. Weir of No. 5 Bruggeman place, Mystic, has developed the fact that the child was not struck by Weir's automobile, but sustained his trivial injuries by falling as he started across Main street near the corner of Church streets as the automobile driven by Weir was about to pass. The machine did not strike the child as was first reported, but Weir reported the mishap to the youngster at the police station as a matter of precaution.

Police Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman John Courtney, who concluded their annual vacation of two weeks today, will resume duty tomorrow.

It is claimed that the New London department has a large number of men who are competent to manage the department, and the firemen will insist that the department shall furnish such a man.

There is less new building going on in New London now than in any period within the recollection of any of the carpenters now at work in the city. There is an abundance of repair work in hand, but the claim is that prices are so high now both for material and labor that new work is not to be anticipated. It is known that Frank A. Munsey contemplates doing some building at the rear of the Mohican hotel for garage purposes but he will not attempt it while the cost of building is as great as at present.

Some of the ice cream dealers are advancing the price of cream, claiming that the cost of eggs and sugar has advanced and that 15 cents must be the price of ice cream and ice cream soda. The advance is not general, but many dealers have attempted to raise the price.

Mrs. Ida Fisher Totten, wife of Charles H. Totten, died last night at her home, No. 23 Starr street. Mrs. Totten was 51 years of age and was a native of Kingston, R. I.

Richard W. Mansfield is in Washington, where he is attending the annual convention of probation officers of the United States. The convention will be in session three days.

Two weddings of young couples well known here occurred this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, and at both nuptial ceremonies there were many relatives and friends of the couples present to witness the tying of the knot that made them man and wife.

At 7 o'clock William L. Lloyd, employed in a clerical capacity at the union station by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and Miss Alice L. Dervin, operator in the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company and eldest daughter of Mrs. Alice Dervin of No. 146 Green street, were mated for life. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of the church. Hugh Lloyd, brother of the groom, was best man, and Mrs. Theresa McGrath, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

The bride wore a traveling suit and carried an arm bouquet of light pink roses with maidenhair fern. The matron of honor carried an arm bouquet of pink and white sweet peas. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, after which they departed on their wedding tour.

The second wedding occurred at 9 o'clock when Frank Francis and Miss Margaret O'Neill of No. 48 Howard street received the marriage vows. The mass was celebrated by Rev. John McGrath. Manuel Francis, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Mary Crowley, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a becoming traveling suit and carried an arm bouquet of Aaron Ward roses. The bridesmaid carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Francis received the best wishes of their friends at a wedding breakfast served at the hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Francis departed upon their wedding trip later, which when concluded will find them domiciled at a cosy apartment at No. 85 Connecticut avenue.

Mr. Francis is employed as clerk at the store of the Gager-Crawford company.

Mrs. Mary McGuire of Montauk avenue, Clement Flagg of Waterford and Mrs. Peter Lawson of Huntington street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were able to go to their respective homes today.

R. O. Powers, president of the Robinson Paper mill at Montville, reported to the police today that last Saturday while operating an automobile, owned by the company between Montville and Norwich, it was in collision with another car, the identity of the owner of which was not known. Mr. Powers stated that neither car was damaged to any extent and that none of the occupants sustained injury.

Frank Knight, colored, residing temporarily in Colchester, will probably be taken into custody within a day or two by the state police for today the New London authorities forwarded a warrant to the former department to be served on Knight. Knight was ordered to appear in the police court Monday morning when he was detected operating a car bearing a Virginia registration and without a license to do so for Knight did not possess a Connecticut operator's license. Knight had a license, but it was invalid as it was of Virginia registration and was issued in 1922.

Annie McDonald Jordan has sold a house on Twelfth street to Albert P. Geer.

Last Saturday Joseph H. Stevens of No 83 Squire street complained to the police that an unknown automobile had collided with his car while the latter was motionless beside the curb on Bank street and that some damage had been occasioned. Today the police ascertained from the motor vehicle department at Hartford that the colliding car was owned by Edward C. Garoiljahn of Danbury. It is not known whether Stevens will continue his complaint against the Danbury autoist.

Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe will probably resume his duties at his desk as head of the night force of the New London police department Wednesday or Thursday night, it was ascertained today. Lieut. Beebe's return to duty was awaited by him until after the action of the city council last night when that body turned down the recommendation of City Manager Barlow that the veteran officer be retired because of incapacity owing to advanced years, it being contended that Lieut. Beebe was 76 years of age and a younger officer was needed as head of the night force.

Lieut. Beebe stated today that he feels as strong as he did years ago and is fully confident that there are yet several years more of capable police duty to be performed by him. Lieut. Beebe did not state positively that he would return tomorrow or Thursday, but intimated that he would take charge on either of those days.

The condition of Former Alderman Eugene T. Kirkland, who has been ill at his home on Glenwood avenue many weeks of heart trouble does not improve and as a result Mr. Kirkland remains confined to his home.

New London seems to be maintaining the reputation the motor vehicle department gave to it at the opening of the spring season in that its auto drivers are careless and that this city has more automobile accidents than it should have. Today three autoists were in court for carelessness in the operation of their machines. One of them was an experienced worker about autos. He was there for heedlessness rather than for carelessness for he was at work about an auto and then got into the machine after he had changed his clothing and left his registration and operating license in the garments he had discarded. This cost him about $18.

Two other drivers were fined for failing to reduce the speed of their autos as they passed intersecting streets. That they did not meet another machine coming from a side street was their good fortune. Had they met such, another story would have to be told. The auto department and the local police mean that the rule of the road that autos shall approach intersecting streets with the machine under absolute control is to be enforced here.

NEW WAGE SCALE FOR NEW LONDON PLUMBERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 15.—The new wage schedule of the journeymen plumbers will go into effect June 1st, and no conferences have been held between the committees representing the masters and the journeymen, for that course is not considered necessary, for it is known that the masters contemplate granting the increase in salary of 20 cents an hour to their workmen without opposition.

It is among the possibilities that between now and the date for the signing of the wage agreement that an informal conference will take place but it will amount to nothing, as the masters have already made up their minds that the journeymen will receive the compensation that is sought, $1 an hour. Heretofore the wage paid was 80 cents an hour, but in several instances the superior workman was paid 90 cents an hour. The increase, when granted, will be the same as was granted the journeymen carpenters two weeks ago. There were two holdouts among the members of the master carpenters but there will not be any among the master plumbers.

BALTIC

A bicycle club of 10 members has been formed among the young boys. "Buster" Havens was elected president and Paul Duquette secretary and treasurer. They plan to make long trips during the long summer evenings.

JEWETT CITY

B. C. Bliss, has received the agreeable information that his cousin Kate Holliday Claghorn, head of the Social Research Department, of the New York School of Social Work, an author of The Immigrant's Day in Court, just published has been invited to address the National Conference of Social Workers, which will be held at Washington from May 16 to 23. Miss Claghorn's subject is to be The Lower Court of Justice and the Immigrant. Mr. Bliss' middle name, and also that of his youngest son, Donald, perpetuates the historic name of Claghorn.

There will be a meeting of those interested in the proposed Jewett City Twilight League tonight.

Several clubs have expressed a desire to enter, and it looks as if the league would go over big. Sol Paquette has his Colts all set, and Hal Chase is ready with his Ashland club.

Jake Wechsler has written in from New York to hold a franchise for him if possible. This comes as a big surprise and has the fans guessing as to just what Jake has up his sleeve.

Terry McGovern also has a team ready to enter and it is understood that two of the fraternal organizations wish to be represented.

Aspinook had a good club in the last league and will probably enter again. It is also rumored that the Textile Novelty Co., and the Ninigret Mills are to have representatives.

Any club that has any intention of entering should be represented, as if possible officers will be elected at this meeting in order not to delay the drawing up of the schedule.

Low water pressure today, 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 4 p. m.—adv.

Mrs. Alida Dayon, 20, wife of Wilfred Dayon died at her home in Glasgo on Tuesday morning, after a very brief illness. She was the daughter of Joseph and Adeline Lachapelle Jarvis. She is survived by her husband and parents, a sister Delia and two brothers Wilfred and Leo Jarvis all of Glasgo.

The Baptist Woman's Mission Circle held its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the church vestry. Mrs. A. M. Brown, the president, presided. She reported that the state had gone over the top in the Continuation Campaign. This church gave $154.54. A silver loving cup was displayed which has been awarded this circle for reading the most missionary looks during the year, of any circle in the association. The World Wide Guild of this Baptist church is one of eight in the whole state which qualified in their reading course. They have been awarded the picture of The Good Shepard by Plockhurst. The Department of Missionary Education has also awarded a certificate to this circle for having gained so many of the points required. The subject of the meeting was Negro Strong Hearts and was divided in two parts. The first part was Negro War Heroes and the manner in which the negroes conducted themselves in the Revolutionary, Civil, Spanish and World Wars was discussed. The second part was Negro Peace Heroes. The names of Booker T. Washington, Dr. Robert Moulton, Maggie Walker and Martha Drummer were given and something regarding their careers Mrs. Mary Brewster was in charge of the programme.

Carleton Havens of Norwich became associated on Monday with a grain company in Jewett City.

Joseph Labonte has had as guests his son Eugene from Fall River and several other relatives.

Mrs. E. A. Faust attended the presentation of the Merchant of Venice by the senior class of Abbott Academy in Andover, Mass., and is in Boston with her daughter, Miss Ellen Faust.

The Gardiner Class of the Methodist church held its regular meeting on Monday evening with Miss Bessie McCluggage. She was assisted in entertaining by Miss Esther Harris. Mrs. Ruth Beaudry, Christine and Arlene Burdick. The latter two young ladies made a lovely Maybasket, done in yellow which was presented Miss Esther Harris. It contained miscellaneous gifts in honor of her approaching marriage. The twenty-five present enjoyed the programme and the refreshments of English monkies, cake, ice cream and coffee.

Past Grand Thomas Gray of Reliance Lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F. is in Mnachester attending the session of the grand lodge.

Epworth League officers installed at the Methodist church on Sunday evening were Martha L. Davis, president; Bessie McCluggage, first vice president; Beatrice Read, second; Mrs. H. T. Wilben, third; Everett Thornton, fourth. Edward Thornton is secretary and Christine Burdick, treasurer.

Since reading in Tuesday's Bulletin, about the late Lovelis Obey, in connection with the sale of Liberty Hall, a few stories have been told by the older townspeople touching some of the history of one of the town's most out of the ordinary, character. Mr. Obey a half blood mulatto, after leaving here, went to Washington, D. C., his native home, where he died a number of years ago.

Thirty-five years ago, there were a number of young men in town, one or two of them were employed by the railroad station agent, at that time, S. E. Phinney. A few of these lads, including some of the way-freight train men, and Mr. Phinney himself, established peculiar records on a strange stunt.

It was to see who was able to ride down the line the fathest, on the rear platform of the seven o'clock train. Then the trick was to drop off in the sand, when one had ridden as far as he deemed prudent, and not be thrown headlong. A few soon excelled, and one young chap would ride away down to the seven mile curve, below what is now Meade's switch and then drop off, right side up, with care. Many used to walk down nights to see the lad do his trick. Thirty miles an hour, if the ground was sandy, was easy for him, not once, but every night. One night, Mr. Obey, went down to witness the performance. The method didn't suit him, the lad alighted on one foot, which he thrust far forward, in the direction in which the train was moving. Obey said: "When I gets off the train, gemmen, I strikes on bofe feet".

The young men kept at him until he was finally induced against his will, however to illustrate his method. Mr. Phinney saw the late Al Walker, of Norwich, then the engineer on the seven o'clock train. Mr. Walker was put wise to the Obey jump on "both feet", to take place that night. Obey was only going to ride as far as the street crossing about a train length. Mr. Walker was asked to get up all the speed possible in that short distance, he winked at Mr. Phinney saying "Leave it to me". Next night the hour of seven arrived. The train was a little late and a great crowd had assembled. Obey was there, a bit nervous.

The train stopped. The fireman instantly got off the engine and with his shovel sprinkled two rail's length with coarse cinders. Mr. Davis, the conductor, cried all aboard and Al Walker opened her up. The train of three cars was almost snatched off the iron, and nearly dislodged Obey on the rear platform. At the crossing the train was at 20 per hour, easy. Obey jumped off, squarely at right angles with the train. He executed two somersaults and part of another then rolled down the bank where Wolf's garage now stands.

Witnesses ran down and picked him up and he was carried to the hotel. Next day he was at his barbershop as usual, except that he walked with a cane and had a black eye. When asked about it, he replied, "Gemmen, when I gets off a train, I strikes on bofe feet".—And he did.

Pioneers of Industry

PIONEERS, who founded America's foremost industries, were invariably reformers of business methods.

Ever since its incorporation, the American Woolen Company has striven to improve the methods of manufacture. In its sixty mills are installed the most efficient textile machinery and every device known to save time, labor and inconvenience for the workers. Here, more than 35,000 skilled employees are producing more than 30,000 weaves and patterns of woolen and worsted fabrics which are distributed to every civilized country.

It can be truthfully maintained that this spirit of co-operation and honest endeavor have helped to elevate the standards of the woolen industry which will accrue to the benefit of all makers and users of clothing.

WESTERLY

On Monday, June 11th, Mrs. Mabel Kenyon of Pawcatuck now serving a sentence of from 12 to 15 years in state prison for manslaughter in shooting and killing Dr. Herbert Tetlow at his home on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, is among the 70 inmates of the state prison who will go before the board of pardons with an application for parole. Mrs. Kenyon was convicted at the September term of the criminal superior court in 1920 and was sentenced on October 22. It is her first application.

Charles H. Wilcox of 141 West Broad street was taken suddenly ill Saturday at his home in Pawcatuck. He was taken to the Homeopathic hospital in Providence where on Tuesday he was operated on for a gland stoppage. Robert Hazard, a son-in-law of Mr. Wilscox was prescent at the hospital on Tuesday.

Charles Babcock, who has been employed on the milk car of the New Haven road, began on Tuesday morning his duties as messenger on an express car of the New Haven railroad for the Amermican Railway Express company.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Bannon and Mrs. S. H. Simons returned Monday from a week's vacation, on which an automobile trip was taken to Washington, D. C., returning through New York state, Massachusetts and Connecticut to their Westerly home, 35 Pleasant street.

John C. Kebbabian of New Haven visited in Westerly and Watch Hill on Tuesday.

Clyde Burrows, of Mystic, a graduate of the Westerly High school, class of 1909, and a well known baseball player, is an assisting soloist in a concert to be given in the Baptist church, Mystic.

Sheriff John R. Wilcox of Washington county was a visitor in Westerly Tuesday from his heme in South Kingston.

Miss Constance Denison, employed in the city hall, Providence, was the week end guest of Miss Lucinda Barber at her home, 97 High street.

William A. Wilcox of 107 Broad street was a caller in Providence on Monday.

Mrs. Arthur P. Hamelin of Glenn Falls, N. Y., and sons, Arthur and Robert, are the guests of Mrs. Hemelin's mother, Mrs. Michael McCormick, 22 Spring street.

Rev. Frederick A. MacDonald, formerly pastor of the Pawcatuck Congregational church, but now of Worcester, Mass., was a visitor in Westerly, on Monday.

Mrs. Vinal Hastings of Bristol, R. I., is visiting her mother, Mrs. John O. Mills, 40 Summer street.

Mrs. Eugene Stillman was the hostess of the Review club of Westerly Monday at her cottage at Pleasant View.

The engagement of Miss Minnie A. Fraser, daughter of Mary J. Fraser, 94 Main street, is announced to Frank Kroeber, Meriden, a silversmith in Glastonbury.

Some fifteen or twenty strikers at the mill of the Lorraine Manufacturing Co., are reported as returning to work Tuesday morning, about ten of the number being weavers. It is also stated that a settlement of the strike is expected before the end of the week.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT IN WATERMELON CASE

Westerly, May 15.—In the superior court for Washington county, Judge Skinner opened court on Union street Tuesday morning at 10.45, when the case of Francis Grady vs. Calbert R. Edwards was called. The following jury was impaneled: John B. Eaton, Westerly; Sylvester W. Easterbrook, South Kingston; Frederick McKaron, Richmond; John H. Reynolds, Hopkinton; Irving E. Wilbur, South Kingston; Clarence A. Church, Charlestown; Frank Miller, Charlestown; George E. Halliwell, South Kingston; J. Ernest Dower, Westerly; Frank W. Taylor, Westerly; Ethan Pendleton, Westerly; George W. Hathaway, Exeter. The following were challenged: John H. Reynolds, Clarence A. Church, Frank Miller, William E. Jordan. They were replaced by Thomas J. Clemens, Westerly; Jesse C. Saunders, Exeter; George E. Wood, Narragansett, who was made foreman.

In the case damages were asked in the sum of $5,000 for injuries sustained when the defendant discharged a gun, the shot entering Grady's hand and leg, when in the company of others he was leaving the Edwards watermelon patch in Shannock. The first witness was Francis Terrance Grady, 24 years old, residing in Carolina and employed as shipping clerk at the Eastern Finishing works. On the evening of September, 1922, between 7 and 8 o'clock, in company with Herbert Winslow, John Lavoice, Clinton Grimes, William Cross, Otis Taylor, Francis Grady, the witness testified that the barber shop of Roy Wright of Carolina was left to get watermelons at the patch of Calbert Edwards in Shannock in the automobile driven by Winslow. It was said that Edwards "would not lose sleep if the melons were taken."

As he was in the field Grady heard a rustling near the wall and at the same time a gun was discharged and he felt the shot in his left leg and also his left hand, three shots passing through his hat after he fled the lot. On reaching the road the Winslow car was taken by some one of the party back to the Winslow place. The machine was followed by Edwards with a boy, Gus Swan, 15 or 16 years of age. Edwards asked the party if they had been to his place and they told him they had not. He said that having shot at the party he hoped no one had been hit.

At this time the spare jurors were excused to report at 2 p. m. Grady testified that he was taken to his home and Dr. Herbert Rouse was called to attend him on six separate days, he remaining in bed five or six days and staying about home for seven weeks. He testified that eight shots altogether were fired at the party. William Denison Cross, 19 years, employed by the Carolina company, testified that he remained in back with Otis Taylor and could not say how many shots were fired. He left when the first shot was fired.

Clinton William Grimes, 18 years, employed at the Eastern Finishing works, testified. He was followed by Clarence McGraw, father of the boy shot, and then court adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock.

Other witnesses followed in the afternoon and the case finally went to the jury at 4 o'clock. After the jury had been out ten minutes, it returned with a verdict for the defendant.

The cases of John Roche vs. Americo Monti and Gertrude Gavitt vs. Americo Monti were both marked passed. The case of John E. Russi vs. N. A. Curran was ready. When the case was called, there being no respondent for the defendant, it was marked defaulted. In the case Sophie Soloveitzik vs. Max Lahn, no one appeared for the defendant and it was also marked defaulted.

The case of John R. Wilcox and Fred T. Mitchell vs. Frank Costanzo and Decoroso Farina was passed for the time being.

PASSES TWO HIGHWAY BILLS BY BIG VOTE OVER GOVERNOR'S VETO

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, May 16—Two highway bills that have been vetoed by Governor Templeton were passed in the house today over his veto by overwhelming majorities.

The senate tomorrow will act on the two vetoes of these road projects, governor's veto notwithstanding. The senate will also consider the pollution bill to which a series of amendments have already been offered. The bill in its present form is considered too drastic especially by manufacturers.

On the bill for the Norwich-Hadlyme road the vote was 205 to 5 and on the bill for the road from Tolland through Ellington there was a vote of 208 to 5 for passage over the governor's veto.

The house was called to order at 10.15 with Speaker Nickerson in the chair, and prayer was offered by Chaplain Coolidge. The claim of M. F. Shea for damage to auto was rejected.

The senate refused to recede from their action in passing the woman jury bill and asked for a committee of conference and Dabie of Killingly and Miss Nevins of New Fairfield were appointed.

An act concerning corporations as amended in the senate was passed, as was the bill making an appropriation for an armory at Manchester. The bill concerning state aid to schools was tabled for calendar and printing.

Vote on Highway Bills.

On motion of Mr. Brainard of Branford, chairman of committee on roads, rivers and bridges had house bill 767, for the Tolland road, taken from the table, the bill vetoed by Governor Templeton last week, and asked permission of the house for permission to also speak at the same time on house bill 97, for the Norwich-Hadlyme road, which was also vetoed. He said that the committee had given a good deal of time to the consideration of these two bills. This was evidenced by the fact that of one hundred and fifty-eight bills referred to them and they had only reported favorably on forty-two of them. The committee regarded these two proposed roads as among the most important. The traffic over these two roads would be immense. The statement that these roads lead to unimportant and scarcely populated sections was not a fair statement. If made possible, both roads would accommodate thousands of autoists and would be a great accommodation to many more thousands.

He moved the passage of the bills, the governor's veto notwithstanding.

Mr. Buckley of Union supplemented the statements of Mr. Brainard. He said that there had been no good and valid reason given in the veto except that of expense, which was one which he did not consider of importance in connection with the two projects.

A roll call was taken as required and resulted in the Ellington-Stafford bill being passed over the veto by a vote of 208 yeas to 5 nays. The vote on the Norwich-Hadlyme bill was passed over the veto by a vote of 205 yeas and 5 nays.

Those voting nay on both bills were Dunham of Wethersfield Faulkner of New Haven, Mitchell of Southbury, Beers of Watertown and Simmons of Bolton.

Under suspension of the rules, the bills were transmitted to the senate.

House Sticks to Amendment.

The Sunday baseball bill then came to the house as disagreeing action. Mr. Buckley moved the house adhere in passing the bill as amended. The viva voce vote was doubted by Minority Leader Fenton, but the doubt was withdrawn on the rising vote, which showed 138 in favor of the motion to adhere.

Senate bill No. 512 calling for an appropriation of $300,000 for dormitories at the state normal school at Danbury was passed in the senate despite an unfavorable report from the committee on appropriations. When it came up in the house soon after Mr. Keith, chairman of the committee, moved that the report be accepted and the bill rejected. He said the state was not in a position to grant the amount asked for at this time.

Mr. Andrews of Danbury said that he was reluctant to oppose a committee report but he felt he was justified in doing so in their report on this bill because, first, it was an absolute necessity that these buildings should be built and, second, the finances of the state were in a condition to do so. Danbury had been trying for 20 years to have these buildings built. This had been done at Willimantic.

Few residents in Danbury were in a position to take into their homes the out of town students who were in attendance. Railroad conditions were such that they must be cared for in the town. There were 150 out of town during the last year and 200 were expected the coming year. The graduates of this school quickly find their services called for, and still the cry is for more. They must be taken care of.

The income of the state will exceed the estimate made by the board of finance by $3,850,000 and there is no good reason why this sum should not be granted. Shepherd of Portland said the state should make no further appropriations at this session. Holbrook of Thomaston opposed the report as well as did Marsden of Madison.

By a large vote the report was approved and the bill was rejected.

Bills passed from the calendar were an act amending an act concerning the employment of clerks and others in state departments, commissions and boards; an act concerning the appointment of compensation commissioners; an act reimbursing towns for school expenses of children dependent upon other towns, and an act concerning employment of boys in bowling alleys.

House adjourned at 1 p. m. till Wednesday at 10.15.

SENATE

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bill relating to the mental examination of accused persons. The report was accepted and the bill rejected. Senator Ells said the subject matter of the bill was taken care of in another measure.

The committee on appropriations reported a bill creating a commission to consider the advisability of participating by the state in the Sesquicentennial Exposition at Philadelphia in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of national independence. The bill was tabled for calendar.

McCook Land Purchase

Senator Rogers moved the passage of the bill appropriating $25,000 to purchase land from the McCook estate at Niantic for the seaside tuberculosis institution. He briefly explained it. The bill was passed without opposition.

A bill was passed directing the comptroller to draw his order on the treasurer to reimburse Asabel J. Wright, executor of the estate of Emma P. Wright, on account of a penalty tax paid the treasurer if the state on account of a similar tax imposed by the state of Rhode Island.

On motion of Senator Brooks the senate passed the original Sunday bill, permitting professional baseball, as reported by the committee on the judiciary.

On the motion of Senator Trumbull the senate tabled the two vetoes of Governor Templeton. The bills were tabled owing to the absence of the chairman of the committee on roads, bridges and rivers.

The governor would make no comment on the house action.

HOPKINTON

The monthly session of the town council and probate court was held at the town hall Monday afternoon, May 7th. Each highway district was awarded $400 for repairing highways. Bills were ordered paid to the amount of $1,490.36.

Supervisors of election to serve at the annual election of town officers June 5th were elected as follows:

Voting District No. 1: Republican—Edward F. Collings, Henry J. Wheeler and Leverett A. Briggs, Jr.; Democrat—Frank D. Jackson, Martin J. Oats and Michael McGinn.

Voting District No. 2: Republican—Clarence D. Wood, George N. Crandall and Fred A. Bailey; Democrat—Mallory O. Main, Peter P. Palmer and Arthur J. Wilcox.

At a recent session of the probate court the last will and testament of Albert S. Wood was admitted to probate and ordered recorded, Emma A. Wood, executrix; also the will of James W. Murphy with Sarah F. Murphy executrix. The first account of Alice C. Jordan, guardian of Sarah S. Wade, was examined, allowed and ordered recorded. The final accounts of the Washington Trust company, administrator of the estate of Silas J. Sheldon, and of George W. Avery, administrator of the estate of Lois A. Reynolds, were received and referred to June 4th, with order of notice.

Inventory and appraisal of the estate of Elisha C. Douglas were received and ordered recorded.

G. Arthur Mills is ill with pneumonia at his home on the west road, Hopkinton City.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson is having his house painted.

PLAINFIELD

Cecil Butler, Henry Hopkins, Henry Dorrance and Samuel Dorrance attended the sheep shearing contest of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association on Saturday. This was held at Loomis Institute, Windsor. Samuel Dorrance won several prizes in the shearing contest.

The increased appropriation from the town has made possible a through clearing of the old town cemetery, which has been in use for more than 200 years and where may still be seen the rude stones of many early settlers of the town.

About 25 Revolutionary soldiers are buried in this lot and at least 12 veterans of the French and Indian wars.

The new cemetery has been thoroughly baked.

A good number from the Congregational church and Sunday school attended the Sunday School institute held in the Union Baptist church in Moosup on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Clarence Jeffers, who received a serious injury to his foot in the giving away of a staging is still confined to his home.

The executive board of the transportation committee for the summer outing of the Lincoln club met at the Congregational parsonage Monday evening. These committees considered the matter of recommending a change for the place for the outing from Rocky Point to some other place nearer home. Their report will be made at Ladies' night soon to be held.

William B. Prentiss, employed in the Providence Dying, Bleaching and Calendering Co., was home for the week end, and Marden Prentiss and his room mate, Mr. Newton of the senior class at Brown, were also guests at the Congregational parsonage on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. G. A. Lawton, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Chase, George Weston and his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Weston, are back again in Plainfield after their long and successful cruise of the Orient. They sailed from New York on February the third on the Empress of Scotland and landed on their return at Montreal, the Empress of Scotland docking on Sunday. The party reached New London on the 14 o'clock express and were met by Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Butterworth.

Your Home Can Now Have Electrical Refrigeration

FRIGIDAIRE, the electrical home refrigerator, maintains a constant, dry, cold without the use of ice. It has no slimy drain, no drip pan to empty. It is self-contained and automatic. It not only keeps food in perfect condition, but it freezes your favorite drinking water into ice cubes for table use. It chills salads and dainty desserts. And yet, it will probably cost you less to operate than you now pay for ice.

Let us demonstrate Frigidaire to you. Booklet will be mailed on request.

The Goodrich Fundamental Principle

To make only those of the greatest value, and to sell them at the fairest price has always been the basic policy of Goodrich.

The success of Silvertown Cords is conclusive proof of the soundness of this principle. Silvertowns are the largest selling tires.

Goodrich understands the requirements of Cord tires. The reputation of Goodrich is valued and it does not pay to attempt to appear on a tire which might fall short of its usual high expectations.

In this way Goodrich keeps faith with the millions who entrust to Silvertowns the full value of their money and service. Your Goodrich dealer sells Silvertowns in every size. His stock is complete.

Day's total sales, 968,300 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 95.93. Net loss .91. High 1923, 105.33; low 85.40.

Twenty railroads averaged 83.22, net loss .49. High 1923, 90.63; low, 80.37.

MARKET WAS DULL

New York, May 15.—Heavy selling of the steel stocks again upset today's stock market after a relatively firm opening. Trading was unusually dull despite brief flurries of buying and selling which reflected the shifting attitude of speculative interests.

United States and Bethlehem steels each dropped to within a small fraction of the year's low prices, closing at net losses of 1 1-4 and 1 3-4 points, respectively. Suspension and cancellation of large building projects has been a disturbing factor in the trade and has caused some uneasiness on the part of holders of steel stocks. Republic, Crucible and Gulf States steels also lost a point or more on the day.

A concerted bear attack on Studebaker, which was aided by some profit taking on the part of recent traders, forced it below 110 to a new low price for the year but it rallied later to 110-3-4, where it was off 3 1-8 points on the day. Other automotive shares also lost ground, Stewart Warner dropping 2 3-8 points and Stromberg Carburetor, Reynolds Spring, General Motors, Chandler and Mack Truck, from small fractions to 1 3-4 points.

Other so-called key stocks such as Baldwin, American Can and American Woolen were sold rather freely by the short interests but they offered more stubborn resistance to pressure than they did last week. Baldwin was depressed to 126 3-4 and then rallied half a point for a net loss of 2 1-4; American Can was off 1 1-4 at 94 1-4 and American Woolen was off 1 at 91.

A decline in copper metal prices in London was followed by an easing of the price here, small quantities of the red metal being available for 15 1-2 cents a pound, or two cents below the year's high. Copper shares eased in sympathy, American Smelting dropping 1 1-2 points and Kennecott, Chile, Utah and Anaconda, 1-2 to 3-4. Zinc shares made no response to the report of the American Zinc Institute showing that surplus stock of the metal at the end of April totaled only 8,976 tons, the smallest in years. This compares with 10,021 tons last month and 51,728 tons a year ago.

Several of the high grade railroad shares were buoyant at the opening but they declined with the rest of the list in the later trading. Delaware & Hudson dropped 3 3-8 points and Canadian Pacific 2 1-4. Losses of a point or more also were recorded by New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atchison, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico, New Haven and Great Northern preferred.

Woolworth dropped nearly 5 points and Dupont closed 1 1-4 lower after fluctuating within a 6 point radius. Wall Street heard rumors of a distribution of the General Motors stock held by the Dupont company. Otis Elevator dropped 5 1-4.

Call money again held at 4 1-2 per cent. Throughout the session. The time money market was dull with only a few loans arranged at 5 1-4 per cent., the bankers' asking price. Brokers are looking for a 5 per cent. market before long. The bulk of prime commercial paper continues to move at 5 per cent.

Higher rates again prevailed in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling advanced 3-8 or a cent to 34.62 3-4 and French francs sold 4 points higher at 5.67 cents. German marks also rallied slightly to .0023 3-4 cents. Another new low was made by Norwegian kroner at 16.38 cents, off 5 points.

BOND MARKET

New York, May 15.—Bond prices displayed a somewhat firmer tone in today's quiet trading, price changes generally being of a fractional character. The principal activity took place in speculative issues, there being comparatively little demand for the high grade mortgages.

A gain of one point in Italian 6 1-2's was the only outstanding change in the foreign group. U. S. government issues moved irregularly within a radius of one-sixteenth of one point.

One bond house reported the receipt of a fake telephone order for Peoria and Eastern income 5's, but it was not executed and other houses were warned to be on their guard. The active railroad mortgages showed only narrow and generally unimportant changes.

In the industrial list, Montana Power 5's advanced 1 3-4 but losses of 1 1-4 to 1 3-4 were registered by Marland Oil 6's with warrents, Midvale Steel convertible 5's and Brooklyn Edison 7's series D.

Total sales par value) were $7,435,000.

There were no large offerings today.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Ill., May 15.—Indications of a better outlook in the export trade tended to give wheat bulls some advantage today, despite rainy weather likely to benfit th winter crop. Prices closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-8 cent higher, July 115 1-4 to 115 3-8 and September 113 3-4 to 113 7-8. Corn scored 1-8 to 3-4 cent gain, oats 1-8 to 3-4 cent and provisions 5 cents to 15 cents.

Reports that Great Britain and France had both been purchasing on the full basis of present quoted values helped to lift wheat prices at the opening, and there was a notable absence of liquidation throughout the day. Speculative selling developed at times. But buying support was forthcoming on all declines, and the market closed with something of a bulge brought about by covering on the part of shorts.

A decrease of more than 6,500,000 bushels in the Canadian visible supply of wheat received considerable attention as a bullish factor and so too did word that demand appeared to be improving for gulf wheat, with some inquiry for new crop hard wheat. On the other hand, general rains especially those reported from winter crop tertiory induced a good deal of wheat selling pressure there was. For the most part, however, a disposition was shown to regard the selling side as temporarily hazardous. May delivery in particular was wanted, and commanded a wider premium, with some talk current that the entire stock of wheat here might be shipped out soon.

In view of abnormally small receipts, corn and oats displayed some independent firmness. Besides, shipping call for oats here appeared to have increased.

Higher quotations on hogs were more or less responsible for the advance of the provision market.

GALES FERRY

Rev. C. R. Blair, associated with the Boston University School of Theology, spoke in the vestry of the Methodist Episcopal church, Thursday evening in the interest of the school, and training for leadership of its students, to make the church a force in the community, speaking in behalf of the school, for funds, for greater efficiency. The service opened with singing the hymn, O, Worship the King, All Glorious Above, and prayer by Rev. W. H. Bath.

The first quarterly conference was held following the address by Rev. Mr. Blair with District Superintendent W. H. Bath presiding, Dudley C. Perkins acting as secretary. The three newly elected trustees, Carroll S. Hurlbutt in place of his father, the late Henry W. Hurlbutt, Judge Billings F. S. Crandal in place of Richard H. Chase, removed, and Peter Hoffman to take the place of the late Charles H. Chapman, were confirmed as trustees and made members of the quarterly conference.

Rev. W. D. Woodward gave his annual report of the work in the parish. Superintendent Courtland E. Colver of the Sunday school and Miss Jennie G. Perkins as treasurer of benevolences; each office was confirmed.

Reports were then given of the different organizations connected with the church. Miss Jennie G. Perkins, president of the Epworth League, Mrs. D. G. Perkins, secretary and treasurer of the Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. W. D. Woodward, superintendent of the Junior League, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop secretary Woman's Home Missionary society and Mrs. C. E. Colver, treasurer of the W. H. M. society.

Dudley C. Perkins' report, as church treasurer was read and approved, with the report of the treasurer of benovelences, read by Miss Perkins. These reports were received for record.

The anual meeting of the Gales Ferry Cemetary association was held in the vestry of the M. E. church at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The president, Billings F. S. Crandall, presiding. The report of the secretary and treasurer, R. Irving Hurlbutt was read and accepted and was in part as follows:

Expense account—For general care of the cemetery, $59.10; for brick, $381.20; grave covers, $53.25; flowers, $10.10.

Receipts—For brick and stone, $92.98; dividends from funds, $115.57; individual gifts, for care of lots $4; withdrawn from working fund $300.

No new business was transacted. The election of officers followed and was a re-election with the election of Rufus W. Hurlbutt to fill the vacancy on the advisory board, caused by the death of his father, the late Henry W. Hurlbutt.

The officers are: President, Billings F. S. Crandall; vice president, Carl W. Brown; secretary and treasurer, R. Irving Hurlbutt; superintendent, R. Irving Hurlbutt; advisory board, Noyes B. Allyn, Charles H. Comstock, Rufus W. Hurlbutt.

In the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning, Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke to the children, preceding his sermon, from these words, Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. In observance of Mother's day, Rev. Mr. Woodward spoke from Psalms 68:6, God setteth the solitary in families.

At the Sunday school session with Superintendent C. C. Colver in charge, awards for regular attendance were given: Margaret Parker for two years, a gold star, and to Richard Latimer a gold star, for two years. The appointed leader for the Epworth League evening service was the pastor, Rev. W. D. Woodward, with the topic, Anniversary Day.

J. J. Day, of Norwich, succeeded T. J. FitzGerald, of New London, resigned, as third trick operator at the railroad station here on May 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt returned from their honeymoon trip on Saturday evening and are at their new home in this place. They were guests at dinner Sunday of Mr. Hurlbutt's mother, Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt.

Mrs. Billings F. S. Crandall of Stoddard's Wharf, Mrs. Delphine Fish of Gales Ferry, Mrs. James A. Stoddard and Mrs. Fred E. Richards of Long Cove, members of the Anna Warner Bailey chapter, D. A. R., of Groton and Stonington, attended a meeting of the chapter at the Monument House, Groton, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Haley of New York were over Sunday guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Billings F. S. Crandall of Stoddard's Wharf.

Judge Alfred Steers and Mrs. Steers of Brooklyn, N. Y., were callers at their summer home on the Bluff on Thursday.

Mrs. John D. Perkins and young daughter, Patricia, of Newark, N. J., arrived Saturday afternoon to visit at the home of Mr. Perkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins, at the Ferry.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker entertained at dinner on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Weymouth and young son, of Norwich.

Stephen Norman in the employ of the New Haven railroad at Putnam, spent Sunday at his home in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harold, and daughter, Matilda, with Mrs. Harold's mother, Mrs. Marie Cathcart, of the Submarine Base, motored to Springfield, Mass., and spent the week end with relatives.

YANTIC

The Thureday evening entertainment provided by the Girls' Friendly society to the members of the village and their friends, which was given in Fire Engine hall, was well attended and was very unusual. A Pageant of Girlhood was given, girlhood in the past and in the present, and the tableaux were most attractively staged in the society colors under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Carpenter. Bear Ye One Another's Burden was the motto of the evening and placards were held by the following members of the society: Bear, Josephine Hill; Ye, Myrtle Kinney; One, Edith Kinney; Another's, Marjorie Harvey; Burden, Stella Kilroy. This was followed by tableau 1, the Old Testament Marian, Patriotism, Mrs. Walter Stott, who was dressed in ancient Jewish costume; tableau 2, The New Testament, The Virgin Mary, Purity, Miss Rose Matassa, dressed in classic costume; tableau 3, Rome, Eustochium, Application, by Miss Cecil Stevens, dressed in a coarse brown habit of the period; tableau 4, Greece, Iphigenia, Obedience, by Miss Dorothy Harvey, in Grecian costume; tableau 5, France, Jeanne d'Arc, Courage, by Mrs. Ellis Bentley, dressed as the maid in armor; tableau 6 England, Queen Victoria, Dutifulness, by Mrs. Morris Gay, in dress of the mid-Victorian period. Mrs. Gay was assisted by Miss Edith Kinney as Prime Minister and Miss Myrtle Kinney as the Archbishop; tableau 7, America, Priscilla, Thrift, by Miss Dorothy Harvey in Puritan costume.

Part 2—Our Girls Today: The Red Cross Nurse, Patriotism, Miss Olive Bishop and Miss Ethel Whitmarsh were nurses and Miss Helen Shweink was the patient; The Society Girl, Purity, by Miss Lois Manning; The Student, Application, by Miss Marjorie Merry; The Girl Scout, Obedience, by Miss Josephine Hill and Miss Marion Gibbs; The Factory Girl, Courage, Miss Olive Bishop; The Home Girl, Little Mother, Dutifulness, Miss Phyllis Irvine and Miss Marjorie Harvey; The Business Girl, Thrift, Mrs. T. Sterry, all in appropriate modern costumes.

Part 3—Tableau, The Apothesis of Girlhood, a review of the other tableaux, showing the Virgin enthroned surrounded by all the other characters —the girls of the past on one side and the girls of the present on the other— with Miss Marion Gibbs and Miss Katherine Brown as torch bearers.

During the tableau appropriate songs were sung and readings given. The songs were by a chorus and the readings were given by Miss Marion Gibbs.

During the intermission Miss Lois Manning and Mrs. Sterry were heard in vocal solos and Miss Marjorie Merry and Cecil Stevens in piano solos.

Candy in attractive baskets was on sale and pretty baskets of spring flowers found ready purchasers. As it was the birthday of the secretary of the society, Mrs. John Kilroy, she was presented a plant. As a donation is made yearly to the mother society, the proceeds of this entertainment are to be forwarded for that purposee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Louis Oliver of Manchester were recent guests here of Mrs. Oliver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hamilton. They left for Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Greaves entertained Tuesday afternoon in honor of the third anniversary of the birth of their son, Elliott Greaves. Six little guests were present, Marjorie Greaves, Jane Sullivan, Robert Lyons, Thomas Sullivan, Norman Lyons and Ellis Bentley, Jr. Games and Maypole dances were enjoyed by the children and a dainty luncheon served. The favors were well filled, daintily decorated May baskets. Little Elliott received many gifts.

The well babies' conference that was held under the auspices of the public health nursing department of the United Workers May 4th was well attended. Miss Murphy was in charge.

There have been many changes in the village tenements since the completion of the modern tenements on Sunnyside. Many of the residents of the village have moved into the new houses and now there are but two of the completed houses vacant.

Harry Fishbone is excavating the corner lot of the former Cryer property in preparation for a modern store which he is to erect later.

BOLTON

Members of Coventry grange gave a four act play, Forest Acres, in Bolton hall last Saturday evening. The parts were well taken and the play was enjoyed by the audience. Music was provided for dancing after the entertainment.

A party of young men were in town last week hunting for the gypsy moth.

School Supervisor W. S. Dakin of West Hartford visited Bolton schools last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lee have moved from Bolton Center to Manchester Green.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Keeney of Monson, Mass., have been visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Cary D. Carpenter.

Prof. and Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord and Miss Annie M. Alvord were in New Haven Friday to witness a race in which the former's son, Morgan H. Alvord, a student at Yale college, participated. Morgan Alvord returned to Bolton with his parents and spent the week end here.

A troop of Girl Scouts of South Manchester came to the L. H. Leevy summer home in town one day last week.

Miss Anna Loomis of South Manchester spent last week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Eaton.

Mrs. Helen R. Bowen and daughter, Florence Bowen, spent the week end with friends in Deep River.

F. Joseph Mathein is ill.

Mrs. Henry Fryer of Rockville, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Jane Finley, has returned home.

UNION

Miss Louise Burnham of Southbridge entertained a party of friends at their home recently.

Rev. H. A. Cobleigh has resigned as pastor of the Congregational church, his resignation to take effect the first of June.

The choir will meet with Mrs. W. Richards Friday evening to rehearse for the Memorial day programme.

A robin travels about 12 miles a day, while the average for the summer red bird, ruby-throated hummingbird and night hawk is 28 miles a day.

LEGAL NOTICES

ARTHUR E. ANDREWS VS. THE Furman-Maid Bread Co., Superior Court, New London County.
In re application to the Honorable Allyn L. Brown, a Judge of the Superior Court.

Order Appointing Temporary Receiver.

The application of the plaintiff in the above entitled action, brought to the Superior Court in and for New London County on the 1st Tuesday of June, 1921, which application is dated the 7th day of May, 1923, having been this day presented to the undersigned, and the defendant having appeared by Matthew A. Barr, the treasurer and general manager, before me at my chambers in the County building in the Town of Norwich, on this 7th day of May, 1923, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the plaintiff appeared per se and the parties having been heard, it is found that the allegations of said application are true, and that a temporary receiver ought to be appointed forthwith.
Now therefore it is ordered
1. That Matthew A. Barr of said Norwich be and he hereby is appointed temporary receiver of the said Furman-Maid Bread Company.
2. That said appointment shall not take effect until said Matthew A. Barr shall have filed with the undersigned a bond in proper form, with good and sufficient surety in the sum of $5,000, conditioned on the faithful performance of his duties under said appointment, and in the event that he shall at any time or times hereafter be confirmed or appointed in said action either as temporary or permanent receiver, his faithful performance of his duties as such receiver and said bond shall have been approved by the undersigned.
2a. That said Matthew A. Barr shall forthwith prepare an inventory of all of the assets of said defendant and present the same for approval at the hearing upon the confirmation of the appointment of the temporary receiver hereinafter provided for.
3. That said Matthew A. Barr immediately upon the taking effect of his said appointment shall proceed to take possession of all the books, papers, evidences of debt and property of said corporation, to collect all moneys owing to it, and to take all lawful steps within his power to secure and preserve its assets.
4. That said receiver continue to carry on, in such manner as he may deem judicious, the business now conducted by said corporation until otherwise ordered, but no longer than for one month from this date, and to that end he is authorized to make such contracts, purchases and disbursements as may be necessary.
5. That a hearing upon the confirmation of said appointment, and for the appointment of two appraisers, be had before the undersigned in the Superior Court room, civil side, in said Norwich, on the 19th day of May, 1923, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, and that said temporary receiver give notice of his appointment, and of said hearing to all parties in interest, by publishing a copy of this order in The Norwich Bulletin on May 9th and 16th, 1923, and by mailing a like copy, postage prepaid, to each stockholder of record and known creditor of said corporation at their several last obtainable addresses all on or before the 11th day of May, 1923.
Dated at Norwich, this 7th day of May, A. D. 1923.
ALLYN L. BROWN,
A Judge of the Superior Court.

THE WEATHER

Conditions.

The storm central over Illinois Tuesday night will move east-northward attended by showers and probably thunderstorms almost generally in the Washington forecast district Wednesday and it will be followed by generally fair weather Thursday except that showers will probably continue in portions of the Atlantic states Thursday morning. Following the passage of this storm considerably colder weather will overspread the Atlantic states Wednesday night or Thursday.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Norfolk, Va., to Eastport, Me.

Forecast.

For New England: Showers Wednesday, warmer in the interior; Thursday cloudy and cooler, probably showers Thursday morning.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Albert Leathers and son, Claude of Plainfield have been recent visitors in the village.

Ernest Pollard has accepted a position in the slasher room of the Ponemah mills.

Robert Cardie of South Second avenue recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The Army and Navy club plan to initiate 16 new members at its next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carson are moving from South B street to the Belanger block on Norwich avenue.

Mrs. Wilfred Pollard of Block Island is the guest of her father, Thomas Greenwood of South Second avenue.

Clarence J. Nagle of the Ponemah House is in New York for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd H. Ordway have returned from a four months stay at Palm Beach, Florida.

Joseph Benoit has accepted a position in Goodyear, Conn.

Mike Morin has returned to his home in Northampton, Mass., after spending a few days with friends in town.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Paquette of Merchants avenue is being painted.

Fences about the Providence street baseball grounds and across the street are being repaired by carpenters of the Ponemah mills.

Joseph D. Aiken of the Ponemah House is enjoying a short vacation in the south.

Sunday evening, a touring car well loaded with both male and female joyriders, ran into the fence that encircles the Providence street baseball grounds, at the top of South A street. South A street ends at this point, and the ball ground fence stretches across the road. The occupants of the car were evidently strangers for they did not know this until they hit the fence. The lights on the car were very dim, and the car was not moving very rapidly so not much damage was done to the car, and none at all to the fence. The car backed away, went down the street again, took South Fifth avenue to Providence street and up over Merchants avenue which was probably where they were going when they struck the fence.

Tuesday evening a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Anna Krauss in honor of her approaching marriage at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Krauss of Norwich avenue. Many of her intimate friends attended, including the Misses Leona Bergeron, Viola Jacques, Augusta Thoma, Rose Thiel, Frieda Retkovske, Elsie Heberding, Anna Bauer, Margaret Krauss, Mary Krauss, Louise Krauss, Margaret and Annie Seidel Elsie Sadrowski, Olga Grebe, Irene Werth, Ruth Kupky, Olga Vaches, Anna Colman, Blossom Yeagley, Freida Phillip, Victoria Jorpzak, Mrs. John Krauss of New Bedford and Mrs. Jennie Goodrum.

During the evening piano selections were given by Miss Rose Thiel while Mrs. Jennie Goodrum rendered My Old Irish Mother of Mine. Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Ruth Kupky and Miss Frieda Retkovske. Exhibition Frisco was given by Miss Augusta Thoma and Miss Leona Bergeron and Miss Louise Krauss gave a gymnastic exhibition. Miss Mary Krauss recited The Face on the Barroom Floor.

The feature of the evening came when a mock marriage was performed by Miss Leona Bergeron acting as minister. Miss Frieda Phillip as bride, Miss Olga Grebe as groom, Miss Elsie Sabrowski as bridesmaid Miss Anna Bauer as best man, Miss Augusta Thoma as flower girl and Miss Ruth Kupky as ring bearer.

A buffet lunch was served by Mrs. Martin Krauss, assisted by Mrs. Victoria Plante. The bride was the recipient of a big May basket filled with costly and useful gifts including linen, china ware and cut glass.

NORWICH TOWN

The May meeting of the Norwich Town Men's League was held Monday evening in the First Congregational chapel, with Rev. Robert B. Day, rector of Grace Episcopal church of Yantic, as the speaker. This was the annual business meeting of the league, at which the elections of officers took place. The vice president, Clyde M. Beebe, presided during the business session, when the nominating committee, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, Charles P. Learned and Frank S. Wheeler, through the chairman, Rev. Mr. Bailey, proposed the following officers for the coming year:

President, Henry T. Frazier; vice president, Clyde M. Beebe; secretary and treasurer, Robert Avery; executive committee, Thomas H. Bacheler, chairman, Frederic H. Wyant and Harold Larrabee.

The retiring secretary and treasurer, Dr. Charles H. Lamb, submitted his report which was approved. Upon motion of Rev. Mr. Bailey, Dr. Lamb who has faithfully served this office for the past three years was extended a vote of thanks by the league.

The following members of the league were appointed a scout committee to look after the welfare of Troop 20, Boy Scouts of Norwich Town and to assist Scout Master Frederic H. Wyant in his work as leader: Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, Thomas H. Bacheler and Harold D. Larrabee.

The trustees of the First Congregational church have offered the chapel as a meeting place for the scouts, and the Men's league is to act as foster father to the scouts, with the newly appointed committee assisting the scout master.

For being privileged to hold meetings in the chapel each month while in session, the league voted $5 to the chapel repair fund.

In his very entertaining address on War Experiences, Rev. Mr. Day, held the close attention of his listeners for nearly one hour. He related that having a feeling that war was about to take place, felt that he should get into it. It was while in Vancouvs in 1914, Rev. Mr. Day took the oath and was sworn in for three years.

This war taught the world a great lesson the speaker. Even the church did not have the power to stop it. Germany was seeking for greater power, but lost. In referring to the effect the war had on the individual, the speaker said he did not believe very many men went into war without religion. It makes a man more spiritual. Life is a very tempting thing and the men in service were taught a great lesson. At the close Rev. Mr. Day read two beautiful poems, and at the conclusion of his talk he was given a rising vote of thanks.

John C. Hinrichs, D. C., Ph. C., accompanied by his children, John C. Hinrichs, Jr., and little Miss Phyllis Rosalyn Hinrichs, also Doctor Hinrichs' sister, Mrs. Frederic H. Wyant, all of Norwich Town, motored on Sunday to Mansfield Center, and were callers at the home of Thomas Wilcox.

During the past week, the Norwich Rural association, with the tree committee in charge, has had several young trees set out in various locations about Norwich Town. On Town street six maples have been placed, and at the upper end of the town on the Green, six elms have been placed.

Sunday morning at the First Congregational church, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, preached on the Parable of the Ten Virgins.

This church united on Sunday evening at 7.30, with the First Methodist Episcopal church, for the May union meeting. Rev. James B. Aldrich, pastor of the latter church conducted the service, and the sermon was by the visiting pastor, Rev. Mr. Bailey.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor society of both churches also united for service at 6.30. Miss Martha Taylor of the Congregational society was the leader.

STATE DEPARTMENT GIVES PLANS FOR TRAFFIC SAFETY CAMPAIGN

A bulletin issued by the motor vehicle department of the state upon the subject of safety in motor vehicle traffic gives a resume of the work done in the past year and announces its programme for 1923 as follows:

Work Done Last Year

Beginning in April, 1922, following out the lessons of the safety work campaign of September, 1921, this department, during the spring and summer of 1922, sent out a number of general bulletins relating to traffic conditions throughout the state. In those bulletins the department gave its impressions and asked for the co-operation and assistance of all the enforcement agencies and did its best to keep before each of them the actual condition in its home locality. Representatives of the department of motor vehicles covered many speaking engagements with civic organizations throughout the state. As a result of the bulletins and of the activities of enforcement agencies and especially on account of the publicity given motor vehicle accidents through the press and of the moral effect of the increasing emergencies of traffic, it is now undoubtedly true that there is a better public sentiment against accidents.

Program for 1923

The season of 1923 has opened with every indication that there will be a heavier Connecticut registration of motor vehicles than ever before. This promise of the early year has been realized to date. The department has up to May 1st, 1923, registered over 120,000 motor vehicles of all types. This heavier registration is not peculiar to Connecticut but is occurring in every eastern state. There will be many more vehicles on the highways and street and a consequent tremendous increase in traffic hazards and many more accidents. Up to this date there have already been twice as many accidents reported to the motor vehicle department as during the corresponding period of 1922. This means that the immediate activity of every enforcement agency in the state is needed.

So that each recipient of this bulletin may know what can be expected from the department of motor vehicles, the following tentative program of its activities is announced.

1—City Traffic—The department will send, if possible, a weekly analysis of accidents occurring within its limits to New Haven, Bridgeport, Waterbury, Hartford, New London, New Britain and Meriden. From these analyses it will be possible for the authorities in each of those cities to have at hand a rough and ready method of determination as to where enforcement and prevention is the most needed—on what streets, at what intersections and also whether speed or carelessness is causing the accidents.

2—Fatal Accidents. A careful analysis once a month of the fatal accidents in the state will be sent out to all of the mailing list.

3—A monthly statement relative to the activities of the state police as to what they find the conditions of the through highways to be, whether there is reckless driving and where, what town officials are operating and where, and classification of statistics of arrests made and the discipline engaged in.

4—An active warning campaign conducted by the department of motor vehicles in connection with specialized forms of slight offenses, obscured markers, bad lighting conditions, careless driving not amounting to recklessness and an analysis of all complaints.

5—A monthly statement relative to pedestrian and personal injury accidents with a special view to a study of pedestrian conditions on highways where there are no sidewalks.

6—A general commentary and conclusion, by the commissioner on all of the statistics presented and a resume of traffic conditions throughout the state.

Later on in the summer it is hoped that the department will be prepared to issue a bulletin offering a qualified instructor on the motor vehicle law to meet any enforcement organization on appointment, which bulletin will set forth those subjects upon which such instructor may be expected to be prepared.

This program of the department as set forth is to be considered by its recipients as a proposition on the part of the department for co-operation and assistants. The department will attempt to co-ordinate and analyze and supply information, and in addition will do such remedial disciplinary work through its authorized powers as it can. So far as advice can be given at present it is that every enforcement officer insist upon accurate driving and exact compliance with the rules of the road.

The department will be able at all times to correspond with any person desiring information on any subject touching accident prevention and hopes that its initiative taken in this matter will be agreeable to all of the recipients of this bulletin.

BASKET OF ROSES TO MRS. LEWIS OF STRATFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, May 15.—As the house was about to adjourn today Representative Fenton arose in from his seat and said that in the course of life of all of us, there comes some opportunity to perform pleasant tasks that would brighten the life of some one. Such an opportunity was his this morning. The membership of the house had enjoyed the presence of the lady members among them. They had shown their ability to perform public service and but a few days ago one of them had been called to preside over the assembly and had done so with great ability. This lady has a birthday today and knowing that it was not the practice of ladies to divulge their age he would not state what it was.

In appreciation of her services he presented a beautiful basket of roses to Mrs. Helen E. Lewis, member from Stratford. Mrs. Lewis gracefully responded and said that she had no hesitancy in saying that this was her 37th birthday. She had enjoyed the associations and the friendships formed. She fully appreciated the courtesy that had been shown to the lady members. She thanked the members for their gift.

HOLDING TRUCK AND LOAD OF 110 CASES

A truck that was on the way from New London to this city Tuesday morning with a load of 110 cases of what is believed to be beer of more than the legal alcoholic content was seized here on Main street by federal prohibition officer Robert Church, who later presented the driver, a New Haven man, before U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson. The truck came from West Haven.

Samples were taken from the unlabeled bottles to be sent to the state laboratory for analysis and the driver is to appear again next Monday for a hearing before commissioner Mathewson. The truck and the seized cases of bottles are held pending the hearing.

Officer Church was on his way to New London along the Montville road in his automobile, when he noticed the truck coming towards this city. He turned around and followed it here, stopping it in Main street to investigate what it was carrying.

DODGE ETCHINGS BEING SHOWN IN NEW HAVEN

Concerning the exhibit of etchings by Ozias Dodge in New Haven, The Register of that city says:

The art department of the Free Public Library is fortunate in securing for exhibition 20 etchings from nature, the work of Ozias Dodge.

Mr. Dodge is a student of the Yale School of Fine Arts, the Art Students' League and L'ecole des Beaux Arts. He is a Bachelor of Fine Arts, Yale University, 1899, a member of the Chicago Society of Etchers and the Print Makers' Society of California.

The selection for the present exhibit comprises not only studies of scenes from his own New England uplands and forests, but glimpses of charming bits from Normandy, Venice, Chartres and other favorite haunts of the artist during his long sojourn abroad.

"The Little Bather," No. 1, in the catalogue for this exhibit, was hung at the International Exhibition of Etchings, which has just closed at the Anderson Galleries, New York city; No. 2, "Winter Landscape," was purchased by the Art Institute in Chicago for their permanent collection. Nos. 1, 8, 9, 14, 17, The Little Bather, Venice, a Normandy Road, Chartres, and the Dunes, were purchased by the Congressional Library for their permanent collection.

Deeply interested in wood craft and a trained forester, the influence of tree study is a marked characteristic of Mr. Dodge's work. The rugged beauty and strength of the oak, the graceful slenderness of the birch, the comfortable allure of the sugar maple, the stark loveliness of stripped beeches against a November sky, a wind-tossed arm of pine writhing and shaking defiance at the moon-lit scurry of clouds driven across the heavens, show his intimate knowledge and appreciation of the natural beauty of the woods and way places.

During more recent years, especially since the late war, Mr. Dodge has turned his attention rather particularly to the making of greeting cards from individual plates, both in the one-toned etching and in the two-etched copper plate color prints. The delicacy of these impressions in their intricate tracery and harmonious color tonings, done on Italian and Japanese papers is wonderfully attractive.

This exhibition, the fourteenth held this year by the art department, will be on view at the library until June 1.

COMMENDS POST OFFICE FOR CERTIFICATE SALES

Postmaster John P. Murphy has received a letter of commendation from F. C. Ayres of Boston, director U. S. government savings system, for the good record made by the Norwich post office in the sale of treasury savings certificates. Mr. Ayres also calls attention to the opportunity that is offered investors to put into these certificates the money they will receive from cashing in Victory Notes on May 20th.

The letter follows:

263 Federal Building.
Boston, Mass.,
May 14, 1923.

Mr. John P. Murphy, Postmaster, Norwich, Conn.

Dear Mr. Murphy: The report of your sales of treasury savings certificates, which I have received from your state accounting office is very encouraging and I am glad to know that you are holding the interest of your patrons in these securities so well. Please accept my congratulations on your success.

Our district as a whole is doing well but this month we have an unusual opportunity to swell our sales to an impressive amount and I wish to take full advantage of it. The Victory notes issued in 1919 become due on May 20th. There were more individual investments in these notes in amounts ranging from $50 upwards than in any of the four preceding Liberty loans and they are just the class of investors to be attracted by our securities.

These investors will be reimbursed on May 20th or whenever they present their notes for payment and will need another security in which to invest and thus keep their money at work. There is nothing better or surer than treasury savings certificates and I expect that many Victory notes investors will take advantage of our offer.

Please keep this in mind and use your utmost influence with any of your patrons who are holding Victory notes. Possibly I can assist you and them in handling such adjustments through the federal reserve bank here. If so, I will see that your office receives credit for the sale. As I said in the first place—this is a real opportunity and I hope you will meet with success.

With best wishes, I am
Yours very truly,
F. C. AYRES,
Director, U. S. Government Savings System.

SPECIAL HONORABLE MENTION FOR T. R. SAGE'S LETTER

Theodore R. Sage, a clerk in the Dime Savings Bank was given a very special honorable mention by the editors of The Sentinel, a banking publication in Hartford, for his letter on "What Is the Difference Between a Mutual Savings Bank and Others?" The letter sent into the contest by Mr. Sage was as follows:

Norwich, Conn.
March 22, 1923

To the Editor of "The Sentinel",
Dear Sir:

In answer to the question, What is the difference between a Mutual Savings Bank and other banks, I give the following answer:—

Firstly: A Mutual Savings Bank is formed by thirty to forty capable and respected men of influence in the town in which it is started. These men give their time without salary, except for fees received for special services, and devote themselves to the task of serving their community and the communities round-a-bout for the benefits they can bestow and not for any benefits they may receive.

Secondly: These corporators give service through their agents—the banks salaried men—free of charge and for the benefit of the public in general and the customers in particular.

Thirdly: The expenses of a Mutual Savings Bank are the smallest in proportion to their deposits, when compared to the expenses of a National Bank or Trust Company.

In a National Bank the depositor receives no interest on his deposit, and is even obliged to pay a certain sum on all deposits which fall below a fixed sum; that being determined by each bank respectively.

Then again we compare this system to that of the Mutual Savings Bank where the public receives anywhere from four to five per cent. interest for the use of their savings.

Thus we see that the most service is given by the Mutual Savings Bank inasmuch as we acquire service, a safe place to place our savings, and a reasonable rate of profits upon our savings.

Yours sincerely
THEODORE R. SAGE

Entertained C. L. Class

Twelve members of the C. L. class of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church were entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Olive D. Linton, 104 Cliff street. A short business meeting was held. President Miss Edith Fellows in charge.

Following the business session a social hour was enjoyed, members entertaining with vocal and instrumental selections. At the close of the evening refreshments were served. Miss Linton being assisted in serving by Mrs. Olive Roberts.

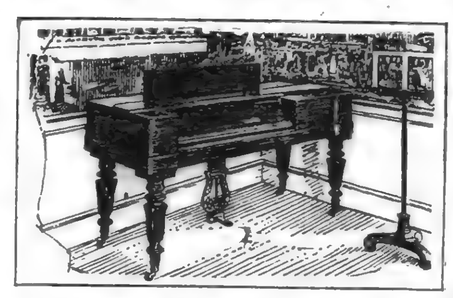
HAPPIER, HEALTHIER WOMEN

by thousands are known to exist in this country because they have been relieved from pain and suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Science in surgery and electricity have advanced greatly during the past fifty years, but treatment of disease by old-fashioned root and herb medicines has never been improved upon. The leader of them all is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which after fifty years of success is today recognized as the standard remedy for female ills and sold everywhere for that purpose. Replies to a questionnaire recently sent out to 50,000 women by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., proved that it benefits 98 out of every 100 women who try it. Isn't this a marvelous record for any medicine to hold?



How Old Is Your Chickering

Established 1823

A New Grand Will Be Presented To The Owner of The Oldest Chickering

A part of the National Centennial Celebration in honor of Jonas Chickering, Father of the American Pianoforte, is to be the presentation by Chickering & Sons of a superb Chickering grand of 1923, known as the Centennial Piano, to the possessor of the oldest Chickering, privately owned, that is brought to their attention before July 1st of this year.

Every owner of a Chickering is this year more than ever proud of his piano—the direct descendant of the tiny square shown above—fashioned by Jonas Chickering's own hands.

YOUR Chickering may be the oldest brought to Chickering & Sons' notice. Send us its number and its history, and your name and address so that it may be entered for register and perhaps you will be the recipient of the Centennial Grand Piano.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed.

"It's growing late,
You're far from home,
Oh, little rabbits,
Do not roam," sang a little voice from the treetop, but Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit didn't start right off for home but took a round-about way for it was only that very morning that they had heard a butterfly sing:

"The round-about way
Is the one for play!"

Well, by and by, after a while, it began to grow dark and they were still a long, long way from Uncle

Lucky's house and just as far from the Old Bramble Patch where the little rabbit lived, you remember.

Just then, a little firefly waved her lantern in front of the Luckymobile and shouted:

"You'd better light your lamps. If you don't you may have to pay a fine!"

So out hopped the little bunny but just as he was lighting the lamps of the Luckymobile, a voice shouted:

"Here is the cave of the Big Brown Bear
Who has lighted his little candle
So please come in, for it's neat as a pin,
Just open the door with the handle"

"Ha, ha," laughed Uncle Lucky. "A friend in need is a friend indeed. Let's stop here for the night." Saying the Luckymobile to a big tree they turned the handle of the cave door and walked in. There sat the Big Brown Bear in a big armchair, near a table on which stood a little lighted candle.

"Glad to see you," he said, getting up and shaking hands with the little rabbits, "when I looked out of the window and saw you, I thought I'd invite you in."

"Very nice of you," answered Uncle Lucky, as he hung has wedding stovepipe hat up on a wooden peg behind the door.

"Now, let's have a little music," said the Big Brown Bear, winding up the phonograph.

"The Luckymobile is swift of wheel
Heigh ho, heigh heigh ho!
And two little rabbits are brave as can be
But the road at night is hard to see.
Heigh ho, heigh ho, heigh ho!"

After that the Big Brown Bear brought out some honey and when the old clock struck thirteen, they all went to bed, but, oh dear me! No sooner had the Big Bear fallen asleep and dreaming of the Lollypop tree than a loud knocking came at the door.

"Who's that, I wonder?" asked the Big Brown Bear. "This is a queer time to make a call," and, jumping out of bed, he went over to the door but, dear me, you must wait until the next story to find out who it was!

DISCONTENT FERMENTED BY RADICALS AND DEMAGOGUES

In an Address Before the National Association of Manufacturers Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the U. S. Railroad Labor Board Warns Against Many Progressive Movements That Are Progressive Only in Name—Describes Socialism as "an Insidious Cult" Inciting Distrust, Suspicion and Bitterness Against the Institutions of the Country—Resents Attacks Upon the Supreme Court.

New York, May 16.—(By The A. P.)—Many progressive movements of today are only progressive in name and underneath show plainly their so-called kernels, Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States Railroad Labor Board, declared here tonight before the National Association of Manufacturers.

"There are a lot of wild-eyed radicals and demagogues in this country who believe they can sell any kind of idea to the people by labeling it 'progressive'," Chairman Hooper said. "We can take that word progressive, but it will pay the people to take a good look at all the political wares that are brought around bearing our favorite label."

Mr. Hooper described socialism as "an insidious cult, standing at the elbow of every man who harbors an individual grouch or a class grievance, real or imaginary, and whispering into his ear distrust, suspicion and bitterness against the institutions of his country. It charges every failure and disappointment to the present organization of society.

"Socialism presents itself in many guises to different people," he said. "To the wealthy female contributor of funds who inherited a bunch of money but no brains it is a lovely fad, a temporary substitute for the poodle pup with the golden collar, an opportunity to shock a blase spirit with a bizarre ideal.

"To the unsophisticated pink preacher it is altruistic uplift, a chance to escape from the monotony of preaching salvation, to transform the pulpit into the platform. To the republican or democratic politician who desires to continue to wear his party robes while he preaches radicalism, it is merely 'progressivism.'

"To the radical red it is plain communism, without ruffles or frills."

Recent proposals to require seven members in nine or two-thirds vote of the supreme court to declare a law constitutional are more conservative but identical in purpose with that proposing to make congress the judge of the constitutionality of its own enactments, Chairman Hooper said.

"Under such a provision," he said, "the legislative branch, of brief and uncertain tenure, subject to the wild blasts of sudden and fleeting popular passion might by a majority of one, passed a law that undermined the most sacred constitutional safeguard of human liberty and that majority might be composed of radicals elected by European bolsheviks in New York, Chicago or Milwaukee.

"Speaking, as I believe the sentiment of the great mass of American people away from the metropolitan centers of population who hold in reverence the traditions of our republic, the people who do not give a tinker's damn for the voting strength of all the flannel-mouthed agitators and malcontents of your cities, our country is not yet ready to curb or handicap the supreme court in order that the constitution may be subverted and broken down."

DISORDERS IN VARIOUS SECTIONS OF CHINA

Washington, May 16.—Advices from the Peking legation to the state department today reported a series of disorders in various sections of China and declared there was no indication of progress in the negotiations between the brigands and the Chinese authorities over the release of American and other foreign citizens held in Shantung. The department late today made this statement.

"Early in the morning of May 13 a band of men attempted to rob a bank in Tongshan. Since it was feared that attempt might be made to loot railway property, the company of American troops who were stationed there prepared for action. Fortunately the necessity for this did not arise.

"On night of May 13 a small village near Peitaho was held up by bandits who looted the salt revenue office and several shops.

"The diplomatic corps in Peking on the morning of May 16 decided that because of the unsatisfactory nature of reports from Linchenc, the dean of the diplomatic corps should ask the Chinese government the reason for the failure of the negotiations. The dean should also ask for exact information as to what the Chinese government has done and is doing. The Chinese government should also again be reminded that the sanctions would increase progressively as each day elapsed.

SEES TROUBLE FOR REP. SENATORIAL CANDIDATES

Washington, May 16.—Republican senatorial candidates will have a "hard fight" in 1924, in eight states now represented by republican senators, is the opinion of Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the republican senatorial campaign committee as expressed today after a preliminary survey of present political tendencies.

Besides, the senator added, the democrats are certain to retain at least ten of the fourteen democratic senate membership for which elections will be held next year, so that on the whole, the republican committee is "not at all comfortable over the outlook."

At present it looks as though we are going to have a hard fight in electing republican senators in New Jersey, Delaware, Illinois, Minnesota, Colorado, New Mexico, South Dakota and Oregon, where the democrats scored victories in the elections last fall."

WALTER L. COHEN GIVEN A RECESS APPOINTMENT

Washington, May 16.—Walter L. Cohen, New Orleans negro republican leader whose nomination as comptroller of customs for the New Orleans district was rejected during the recent session of congress has been given a recess appointment for the office by President Harding.

Cohen's nomination aroused the ire of the Louisiana delegation in congress and the president's action today brought sharp criticism from the two senators from the state. Senator Broussard declared that "so far as precedents are concerned never before has a president gone to such an extreme."

Senator Ransdell said Cohen's appointment was a "slap in the face of the state."

CARE OF TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS A PUBLIC DUTY

New York, May 16.—The care of tuberculosis patients is a public duty rather than the duty of any private organization, the Knights of Columbus national tuberculosis commission, headed by Dr. E. W. Buckley of St. Paul, reported today after a careful survey. The Knights of Columbus could render effective aid in combatting the plague, the report said, by the promotion of propaganda to obtain recognition of full public responsibility in the matter of care for the tuberculosis.

OBITUARY

Rev. Pierre Cushing

White Plains, N. Y., May 16.—The Rev. Pierre Cushing an Episcopal clergyman of Leroy, N. Y., died today at a hotel here after a brief illness. He was grand chaplain of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons of New York state and had attended a conclave of the local chapter last night.

DISAGREE ON MEMORIAL TO MINUTE MEN OF 1775

Boston, May 16.—Four of the five prominent men in whose names was issued recently an invitation to contribute to the expense of erecting in Lexington a more pretentious memorial to the Minute Men of 1775, have withdrawn from association with the movement. These are Vice President Coolidge, Governor Channing H. Cox, United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes of Chicago. The fifth sponsor is Elbert H. Gary, of New York, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation. His attitude had not been made known today.

It is understood that the withdrawal of the others followed a discussion of the advisability of the plan, which is said to have revealed a difference of opinion among the people of Lexington as to the propriety of soliciting funds for a second memorial on Battle Common where already stands the heroic figure of Captain John Parker. The creation of Henry Hudson Kitson and popularly known as "The Minute Man."

LOVERS EFFUSIVE AT GANGPLANK MEETING

New York, May 16.—Disembarking of passengers of the Olympic which today brought from England David, Earl of Northesk, scion of an ancient Scottish noble family, was held up for several minutes when Jessica Brown, young dancer of Buffalo, N. Y., effusively greeted her debonair young fiance at the foot of the gang plank.

Miss Brown was on the gang plank with the first dock laborers when the young earl dashed down the plank, gathered her into his arms for an enthusiastic embrace, and hurried her off to a more secluded spot.

The young nobleman, a former lieutenant in the Cold Stream Guards, declared he didn't know how he had fallen in love with Jessica.

"Words wouldn't describe why I fell in love with Jessica."

Arrangements for the wedding have been completed. It will probably take place in Buffalo.

KLEINER IS APPOINTED COMPENSATION COMMISSIONER

Hartford, May 16.—Governor Templeton today signed the appointment of Charles Kleiner, of New Haven, to be compensation commissioner for the third congressional district from October 1 next until December 31, to fill the unexpired term of Commissioner George E. Beers who has resigned effective October 1.

The governor also appointed Mr. Kleiner for a five year term from January 1 next.

The appointment was a direct one and was made before final passage of a bill which would require confirmation by the general assembly of nominations by the governor of compensation commissioners.

WITHHELD DECISION ON THE WARD APPEAL

Albany, N. Y., May 16.—The appellate division of the supreme court, third department, adojourned today until June 18 without handing down any decision on the appeal of Walter S. Ward of New Rochelle from the decision of Supreme Court Justice Staley directing the Western Union Telegraph company to surrender to Attorney General Sherman copies of messages exchanged between members of the Ward family just before the killing of Clarence Peters by Walter Ward, a year ago today.

BRANDISHED PAPER PISTOL AND ESCAPED

North Bay, Ont., May 16.—Whipping from his pocket a pistol made principally of cardboard and black paper, and crying "hands up," Leo Rogers escaped today from a courtroom full of spectators and court officials where he was about to be placed on trial for robbery.

Still brandishing the paper pistol, he stopped an automobile and compelled the driver to rush him at top speed for several blocks, when he leaped out and disappeared. He left the weapon in the car.

CABLE PARAGRAPHS

Amiens, France, May 16.—A verdict of accidental death was rendered today by the police authorities who investigated the wreck of the Paris-Londonn airplane liner last Monday, in which six persons were killed, including two Americans, Laurence von Post Schwab of New York city and Miss Juanita Bates of Ithaca, New York.

The Croker Will Contest

New York, May 16.—Richard Croker, son of the late Tammany chieftain, announced today that he would sail for Europe not later than next Tuesday in order to be on hand in Dublin at the opening of his father's will. He said that until he went on the witness stand he would make no statements regarding the case.

2,000,000 Saves In Abyssinia

Geneva, May 16.—The league of nations has been informed that there are more than 2,000,000 slaves of both sexes in Abyssinia, the traffic in which is reported to have been increased every year since the war. Abyssinia has announced her intention to apply for admission into the league, but it is stated that abolition of the slave traffic will be the first condition imposed before the application is given consideration.

EPISCOPALIANS VOTE FOR WORLD COURT MEMBERSHIP

Bridgeport, May 16.—The annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut in final session at St. John's church this afternoon unanimously passed a resolution, proposed by Rev. Charles A. Tibbals, recommending that the United States enter into active membership in the world court of arbitration and the league of nations. Deputies and supplemental deputies, lay and clerical, to the synod of the first province, members of the standing committee and lay and presbyter members of the executive council were elected.

The sum of $25,000 to be used during the year by the executive council for religious education, actual expense, social service and extension work of the diocese was apportioned by the convention at the morning session.

Dr. William Heardsley of St. Thomas' church, New Haven, Dr. Samuel R. Colloday of Christ church cathedral, Hartford, Rev. George T. Linsley of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Hartford, Dr. Chauncey Linsley of Trinity church, Torrington, and Dr. George M. Thompson of Christ church, Greenwich, were elected to the standing committee.

Dr. Ernest Miel of Trinity church, Hartford, and Harry H. Hemingway of Christ church, Watertown, were elected to the executive council. Deputies to the synod of the first province were elected as follows: Clerical—Rev. William J. Brewster of St. Michael's church, Litchfield, Rev. J. Eldred Brown of Trinity church, Norwich, Rev. George H. Heyn of Trinity church, Portland, Rev. William T. Hooper of St. John's church, Hartford; lay—Alfred Gildersleeve of Trinity church, Portland, Harry H. Hemingway of Christ church, Watertown, Burton Mansfield of St. Thomas' church, New Haven, Charles A. Pease of St. John's church, Hartford.

Supplementary clerical delegates elected were Dr. Walter D. Humphrey of Christ church, Roxbury, Rev. Henry E. Kelly of St. George's church, Bridgeport, Rev. Francis S. Luppit of All Saints' church, Meriden, Rev. Philip C. Pearson of St. Michael's church, Naugatuck. Charles W. Cyrus, Daniels Sanford, Charles E. Cornwall and William R. Corsin were elected as supplementary lay delegates.

Rev. Floyd W. Tompkins of the diocese of Rhode Island was the principal speaker at the afternoon session, his subject being "The World Conference on Faith and Order."

Rev. Simon Yonan of Meriden and Captain E. R. Phelp of Hartford also addressed the convention.

Upon recommendation of the committee on constitution and canons, canon 3, section 1, was amended, the amendment making the dean of the cathedral a member ex-officio of the executive council of the diocese.

CHAS. C. ELWELL, JR. HURT ON GOLF LINKS

New Haven, May 16.—Charlie C. Elwell, Jr., son of Public Utilities Commissioner Elwell, is at St. Raphael's hospital under treatment for an injury to his left eye suffered while playing golf at the New Haven Country club Monday. A driven ball bounded back from a stone and struck Elwell in the eye. The injury is painful and may be serious, but it is expected the vision will be saved.

ART EXPERT DE MOTT BRINGS SUIT FOR $500,000

New York, May 16.—George Joseph De Mott, ars expert of New York and Paris, today sued Sir Joseph Duveen, head of the Duveen Art Galleries, for $500,000, alleging Sir Joseph had damaged him by characterizing as spurious an Eleventh Century Champleve Enamel figure of the Virgin and Child which he sold Michael Dreicer of this city for 350,000 francs.

MOTHER OF 14 CHARGED WITH MURDER OF HUSBAND

New York, May 16.—Mrs. Mary Lanigan, 46, mother of 14 children, seven of whom are alive, was locked up tonight charged with the murder of her husband from whom she was separated.

Lanigan was shot while he was alone in his Brooklyn bicycle shop. Police said they believed jealousy was the motive.

EIGHT GUILTY OF USING THE MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Omaha, Nebr., May 16.—Eight persons were found guilty of use and conspiracy to use the mails to defraud, four were convicted on charges of conspiracy and one was acquitted today by a federal court jury, which tried thirteen defendants indicted in connection with promotion of the Colonial Timber and Coal Corporation of Charleston, W. Va.

The United States circuit court of appeals in Boston, took under advisement a motion to assign a date for a speedy hearing of the appeal of Roland R. Pothier, of Providence, who is under indictment in the state of Washington on the charge of killing Major Alexander P. Cronkhite at Camp Lewis in that state.

Boosting the Price Of Coal at the Mines

Assertion Made by W. A. Clark, President of the New England Retail Dealers' Association.

Botons, May 1.—The price of anthracite coal at the mines is already being booster in anticipation of the fall demand, W. A. Clark, president of the New England Retail Coal Dealers association, told the legislative joint special coal investigating committee at its first public hearing today.

Massachusetts started its coal year, April 1, with only 183,000 tons of anthracite on hand, 500,000 tons less than normal, and because of an embargo on the New Haven railroad to be lifted on May 18, and the early buying campaign of the public, a chaotic condition exists in the retail coal trade of the state, he said.

As a result of the situation Mr. Clark declared, independent operators, who in some unexplained manner are getting shipments through when the company coal operators, so-called, are unable to do so, have boosted the mine price until present quotations are as high as $11.25 at the mines, as compared with prices slightly in excess of $3 asked by company operators.

Congressman Allen T. Treadway, of Stockbridge, said that "government ownership of the coal mines would probably not be a success, judging from past experiences. We are suffering today from the mismanagement and the political intrigues in the government's operation of the railroads during the war. We have authority, however, for strict government control and regulation and there is no reason why when coal is loaded on cars the government should not say where this coal should go, for the purpose of eliminating unjust discrimination."

UPTON SINCLAIR UNDER ARREST IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, May 16. Upton Sinclair, novelist and socialist, is under arrest on charges of unlawful assembly and suspicion of criminal syndicalism, it was announced today by Chief of Police Oakes. Oakes appeared at the police headquarters after having taken Sinclair and three others into custody at San Pedro last night, but gave no information as to where the arrested men were taken.

J. H. Ryckman, an attorney, appeared at the city jail this morning with a pass signed by Chief of Police Oakes, giving Mrs. Sinclair and himself permission to see the novelist. The jailers informed him Sinclair was not there and that they did not know where he was. Ryckman then went to the chief's office. No reason was given by Chief Oakes for his refusal to disclose Sinclair's whereabouts.

"I will not permit anyone to see the prisoners until they are brought here at 1 o'clock," the chief said.

PROTEST BY AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION

New York, May 16.—A telegram of protest against the action of the Los Angeles police in arresting Upton Sinclair on charges of unlawful assembly and suspicion of criminal syndicalism was sent to officials in the western city today by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The message to Police Chief Oakes of Los Angeles protested "your unlawful interference with Upton Sinclair meeting and your direct violation of constitutional liberties."

HOT SPRINGS TO PETITION FOR BETTER DRAINAGE

Hot Springs, Ark., May 16.—(By The A. P.)—Hot Springs business interests today prepared to petition the department of the interior to provide better drainage of the mountains surrounding this city as a precaution against a recurrence of the flood which swept down Monday night and, with a subsequent fire, caused the worst catistrophe in the history of this city.

Resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the Business Men's League in the midst of work of rehabilitation to restore Central avenue, mai nbusiness thoroughfare, which bore the brunt of the flood's fury, re-paving of the street torn up by the rush of the water will begin as soon as material can be assembled, it was announced, and plans were under way to aid merchants whose places of business were damaged by the rush of water from the mountains.

No fatalities resulted from the flood or the fires which destroyed the Marquette hotel and adjacent buildings and only one person was reported seriously injred.

MRS. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT RENOMINATED

Rome, May 16.—(By The A. P.)—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was greeted with a tremendous ovation when she was renominated today for the presidency of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance. The delegates rose and cheered boisterously, waving their handkerchiefs and then renewing the rounds of handclapping. After the ovation Mrs. Catt took the platform and said:

"I simply can't do it. I was going to offer to look after a couple of continents, but the world is too large for me. At this age you need young women full of spice and energy and all that sort of thing."

A voice called out: "You are not too old."

Mrs. Catt continued: "You are going to have another president." She was interrupted again with a chorus of "No's," to which she replied: "Just now I can only work regular union hours. My day is past the 24 hour day. I call upon you to give the next president your heartiest support."

The election of the next president will take place tomorrow morning.

APPEAL OF KRUPP OFFICIALS IS TO BE ARGUED FRIDAY

Duesseldorf, May 16.—The appeal of Baron Krupp Von Bohlen and the other Krupp officials from the sentences imposed upon them by the recent French courtmartial at Verden will be argued here on Friday of this week, it was announced today. The appellants will not be present in court, and the arguments woill be confined to the question of the legality of the sentences under international law.

L. I. Episcopalians are Neutral on Prohibition

Diocesan Convention Declines to Request Gov. Smith Not to Sign Repeal of Mullan-Gage Law.

Garden City, L. I., May 16.—The Long Island diocesan convention of the Protestant Episcopal church by a vote of 83 to 57 refused to pass a resolution requesting Governor Smith not to sign the repeal of the Mullan-Gage prohibition enforcement law. The resolution was introduced by Milton L. Ecluse, a layman from Huntington, N. Y., and was opposed by Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swentzel, rector of St. Luke's church, Brooklyn.

A move to reconsider the resolution also was defeated.

Dr. Swentzel, in opposing the resolution, declared one of the chief reasons why Governor Smith probably would sign the repeal bill was that the Mullan-Gage law put a person in jeopardy twice for the same offense. He also asserted that the sale of drugs had apparently increased since prohibition, while the number of murders and suicides had not shown a decrease.

"None of us favor saloons," he said, "but we are all in favor of liberty. I stand for reasonableness, broad-mindedness ad love of liberty. We have no interest in the saloons or the bootleggers, but what we do care for is that nothing shall be done to lower the standards of freedom on which this country was founded."

Earlier in the day, the committee on canons reported unfavorably on a proposal to give women the right to vote in diocesan conventions.

The convention adopted a resolution favoring the enactment of a child labor law amendment to the constitution.

CONFLICT BETWEEN STATE AND FEDERAL AUTHORITIES

Newburgh, N. Y., May 16.—The eighteenth amendment is the law of the land and of every state within the union and the only course open to the federal government is to use every available means to make effective the law in compliance with constitutional mandate, President Harding told Wesley Wait, of this city, in a letter made public today.

Mr. Wait, although connected in no way with prohibition enforcement forces, wrote the president, urging immediate action by federal authorities, should Governor Smith sign the Cuvillier bill, repealing the Mullan-Gage state enforcement laws. He also urged Governor Smith to refrain from signing the measure.

Conflict between state and federal authorities would be unavoidable should the federal government be compelled to enter upon the jurisdiction and territory of the state and set up police and judicial authorities in connection with prohibition enforcement, President Harding said. The states, he added, are equipped with police organizations and judicial establishments adequate to deal with the problem, while the federal government is not.

WARRANTS FOR HEADS OF NATION-WIDE RUM RING

New York, May 1.—Once proudly floating the American flag during the world-wide cruise of the United States navy and with a brilliant World war service record, the former navy dispatch boat Yankton was revealed today as the rum runner Yankton under British registry. As a result of her capture federal warrants were issued for eight men, alleged heads of a nation-wide rum ring, on charges of conspiring to violate the Volstead act and defraud the government of custom duties.

The warrants were issued for Jacoem A. Kirch of New York, Nathan Scharlin and Abraham Scharlin of Chicago, alleged "master minds" of the syndicate; Charles W. Johnson of Philadelphia, said to be a member of the brewing firm of Johnson & Co., of Uniontown, Pa.; Harry L. Marks of New York; Edward Flanigan of Washington and Chicago; Charles T. Cox, Brooklyn tugboat captain, and Alfred Ernest Corns of Uniontown, Pa.

Kirch and the Scharlins, it was said, would be produced in court tomorrow by their attorney, while federal agents tonight began a search for the other men. Kirch, a former importer, was acquitted several weeks ago on a charge of conspiring to import liquor unlawfully into the country on the steamer Javary. Marks, who was named in today's complaint, also was indicted in the Javary case but was never apprehended.

The rum syndicate, government officials declared, had recently cabled $168,000 to Scotland, apparently for the purchase of liquor to be smuggled in from rum row.

GEORGE J. GOULD DIED AT CAP MARTIN, FRANCE

Cap Martin, France, May 16.—(By The A. P.)—George J. Gould died at his villa here this afternoon after a lingering illness beginning with an attack of pneumonia in March. The American financier was conscious until the end, and never gave up hope in his stubborn fight to recover.

To the last he opposed recalling to his bedside the doctors who brought about such an improvement in his condition several weeks ago that he was at that time declared out of danger.

A few days before his final relapse, which occurred on May 3, he sent in his application for renewal of membership in the Mentone Lawn Tennis club, and it was acceped. His wife and two children were at his bedside when he died.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow.

GREECE AND TURKEY MAY RENEW HOSTILITIES

London, May 16 (By the A. P.)—Sensational rumors are current of possible hostilities between Greece and Turkey as the outcome of the reparations dispute at Lausanne, and according to a Central News despatch from Constantinople a secret meeting is reported to have been held at British general headquarters to consider eventualities.

No confirmation of this rumor is obtainable in official circles in London.

Reuter's Athens correspondent says the newspapers tere state that the Greek delegation has been instructed to leave Lausanne should a plenary meeting of the near east conference pronounce in favor of payment of indemnities by Greece.

SUSPENSION OF BUILDING INDUSTRY IS IMPENDING

Master Builders Aroused to Action by the "Serious Situation Throughout the Country"—Representatives of Nearly Every Branch of the Industry From Various States Believe That Halting New Construction Will Bring Down "Steadily Mounting Costs".

New York, May 16.—A recommendation that all new building construction be deferred for a few months to relieve a "serious situation throughout the country," was contained in a resolution adopted today by representatives of virtually every branch of the building industry from various states who met to discuss the situation at the home of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Calling a halt to new construction, it was declared, would bring down "steadily mounting costs" in the industry. It was urged, however, that projects under course of construction be carried on to completion.

The meeting adopted a statement calling attention to the fact there was no authoritative index available to the public showing the trend of costs of construction and of material and labor, and authorized Mr. Roosevelt to urge the secretary of commerce to appoint a statistical commission for that purpose. In the event the department of commerce should be unable to carry out the suggestion, the American Construction council will undertake the task.

"The volume of construction work projected this year exceeds by 40 per cent. the volume for the same period during 1922," the statement said, "during which year the facilities of the country for materials and labor were taxed to capacity. This results in a much larger program of construction in hand than can be properly and successfully taken care of with our present resources in manufacturing, transportation and labor.

"With these resources overtaxed, the inevitable outcome is a bidding or auction process that means a very wide and exorbitant spread of prices between the manufacturer and the dealer and the consumer, with consequent rising costs to the manufacturer, to the dealer and to the contractor, each of whom protects himself against 'futures,' the result being inflation injurious to the public.

"Similarly, there is competitive bidding for labor, resulting not only in rising wage scales—which is the least part injurious to the public—but in bonuses which produce a depressing effect on labor in its efficiency of doing work which efficiency in past times has been estimated to drop to no more than 40 per cent. normal. This is brought about by the insistence of the owner.

"Particularly for the small investor is it unwise to do construction during the peak times such as exist today, and which gives fair promise of being worse tomorrow.

"It appears," the statement added, "that the current demand has reached a stage where competition has passed from the seller to the buyer. The latter are bidding for materials and sending the prices upward. To aggravate the situation, deliveries are becoming uncertain and recourse is being taken to the practice of over-ordering for the job.

"Labor rates, like the prices of materials, are rapidly increasing. Regardless of what the different opinions may be as to the reasonableness of a wage of $15 or $18 a day for skilled mechanics, we know that under present conditions these scales will soon stop building operations, and leave the laborer in a more unfavorable position than he will occupy under steady employment at a lower wage."

MAMMOTH AIRCRAFT AND UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Friedrichshafen, May 16.—(By the A. P.)—The greatest aircraft the world has ever seen is slowly taking form under the gigantic shed of the Zeppelin plant overlooking Lake Constance.

This craft, known as the ZR-3, is being constructed for the Ameriman navy, and will attempt a flight to America when completed, which, however, will not be earlier than October or November of this year, and possibly not until next spring.

At present the great machine is only a skeleton of the great flying ship which will exceed in size the dirigible now being built at Lakhurst, N. J. latter craft is being made from plans perfected by Americans, but the Zeppelin building here is entirely from German plans and although American officers are here, they are merely inspecting the work as it progresses.

The Zeppelin company is maintaining great secrecy concerning the ZR-3, and all outsiders are carefully excluded from the construction field.

Larger than the R-38 which crashed in England and than all the similar machines turned over to England, France and Italy, the ZR-3 will be more than 300 meters (nearly 985 feet) in length and over forty meters (approximately 131 feet) in height.

It is expected the ZR-3 will have a speed of 100 kilometers an hour and will be capable for making the trip from Berlin to New York in at least 60 hours, allowing for all contingencies.

LITTLE CHANGE IN APRIL OF WHOLESALE PRICES

Washington, May 16.—Little change in the general level of wholesale prices in April over March wast reported in a summary issued today by the labor department.

Building materials and metals continued upward, with an increase of more than three per cent. Clothes and clothing went up two per cent., while house furnishings increased one per cent. Foods, chemicals and drugs showed smaller increases.

Farm products, however, dropped 1 1-2 per cent., fuel and lighting materials 3 per cent., and miscellaneous commodities three-quarters of one per cent.

April wholesale prices were 11 per cent. higher than in April last year. Metals and metal products increased 36 1-4 per cent.; building materials 30 3-4 per cent.; clothes and clothing 19 3-4 per cent.; chemicals and drugs 9 3-4 per cent.; farm products 9 1-4 per cent.; and miscellaneous commodities 3 1-2 per cent. Foods, fuel and lighting, and house furnishings showed smaller increases.

BOMBS FOUND UNDER A FREIGHT CAR AT NEW HAVEN

New Haven, May 16.—Two paper cartons containing, it is declared, a high explosive and with the fuses of each partly burned, were found under a freight car on Belle dock on the New Haven harbor front early today by Railroad Officer Hugh Shannon. The fuse on one carton had burned to within an inch of the paper wrapper and on the other there was a six-inch fuse with a burned end. It was the opinion of railroad police that the moist atmosphere had extinguished sparks in both fuses.

The cartons were about five inches in diameter and had been stuffed with paper and in the center of each was what the fire marshal later said was a high explosive. He sent the objects to a Yale laboratory for exeamination.

BOOTH NOMINATED FOR JUDGE OF SUPERIOR COURT

Hartford, May 16.—Judge John R. Booth, Danbury, of the Fairfield County Common Pleas court, was nominated for judge of the superior court for eight years from December 22, 1924, by the governor today. The nomination went into the house which sent it to the calendar where it will remain three days before reference to the judiciary committee. Judge Booth, if confirmed, will take the place of Judge James H. Webb when he is retired by reasin of age limitation. The action of the house, which was according to statute, means that the general assembly will be in session next week.

MRS. FANNIE DIXON WALSH TALKED ON DEM. ALLIANCE

New Haven, May 16.—Women of the party from all parts of the state attended the meeting of the democratic state alliance held here today. Mrs. T. S. Melsermott of this city, first vice president, presided in the absence of Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees, of Greenwich, the president. At the business meeting reports from the standing committees were read and a resolution adopted to send a word of appreciation for the stand taken by Professor Ayres of Columbia university, the representative from Westport, in the Connecticut general assembly, in connection with the bill he introduced commending President Harding's proposition that the United States enter the world court. The alliance also voted to send a letter of commendation to President Harding.

In the afternoon a questionnaire was brought up by Mrs. James Quam of Greenwich on the organization of women in different towns and what promoted such organizing. Miss Mary Bulkley, of Hartford, chairman of the educational committee, spoke of the new ideas planned for the education work the coming year.

Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, of Columbia, gave a short talk on how the alliance can help the federated clubs and in turn be helped by them. Miss Emily Whitney of this city spoke on the National League of Women Voters and the legal status of women on the town committees was discussed.

THROW NFROM WAGON, CHILD DIES OF FRIGHT

Burlington, N. J., May 16.—Thrown from a wagon by runaway horses, five-year-old Hazel Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Wagner, of Mount Holly road, near here today, died of fright although uninjured.

The girl and her young brother had climbed into a heavy farm wagon which their father had left hitched to a fench and in his absence the horses broke away. Before the father reached the frightened animals the wagon tilted on rough ground and the children were spilled out. Hazel was unconscious and died on the way to a hospital. Physicians said that her heart was weak and that death was due to fright. The boy escaped with a laceration of the arm.

TWO PERSONS DROWNED BY FLOODS IN ARKANSAS

Little Roc., Ark., May 16.—Two persons drowned, made up the known death toll today of the floods which followed in the wake of the torrential rainstorm which overspread Arkansas Monday night.

Near Heber Springs, Dave Hooten, a farmer, was drowned and a negro lost his life in a swollen stream near Graysonia.

While several small streams have reached the highest stages on record, the general situation was not regarded as serious as in previous "flood" years.

Several hundred square miles of farm lands along the White and Arkansas and other rivers not protected by levees will be flooded, necessitating replanting of crops.

CREMATION OF MARIE KEITH ORDERED HELD UP

Mineola, N. Y., May 16.—Orders for the cremation of Marie Keith, French governess whose body was found yesterday on the sands of Long Beach, today were ordered held up while Assistant District Attorney Edwards of Nassau county hastened to New York for a conference with H. Starr Giddings, lawyer who declared the girl had drowned herself because of unrequitted love for him.

District Attorney Weeks appointed Dr. B. W. Seaman of Hempstead to conduct an autopsy tonight.

SOVIET SHIP MUST DEPART FROM CONSTANTINOPLE

Constantinople, May 16.—The Turkish authorities have notified a soviet ship arriving here from Smyrna that it must depart forthwith. It is understood that this action is in reprisal for the recent refusal of the soviet authorities to admit 2 Turkish ships to Batum

In St. Joseph's church at 7 o'clock Wednesday, William Harold and Miss Bridie Shea were united in marriage by Rev. John E. Clark, the pastor. The attendants were Miss Theresa Shea and Dennis F. Haggerty. An excellent wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's uncle, Cornelius Shea of Jackson, after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Harold left later to spend their honeymoon in Boston. Upon their return here they will reside at 23 Walnut street. The couple are widely known and popular in this city. Mr. Harold is a mail carrier, connected with the local postoffice and the bride was an employe of C. C. Case of Windham street.

The Windham High school baseball nine will meet the Killingly High school aggregation of Danielson this (Thursday) afternoon. The Windham boys have been practicing faithfully and are eager for this afternoon's game. It is thought that Miels will pitch with "Dud" Furr at the other end. The game will get under way at 3 o'clock and a large delegation of rooters is expected. The first two games on the local schedule had to be called off on account of rain.

Mrs. Ellen Hoey Gilmartin of 104 Fairview street, and widow of Michael Gilmartin, died Tuesday night at St. Joseph's hospital after a short illness. She is survived by six daughters, the Misses Mary Ellen and Margaret Gilmartin of this city, Mrs. Robert Kelley, Mrs. C. Cavarnos and Miss Catherine Gilmartin of New Haven; and two sons, Charles and Michael Gilmartin of this city.

Rev. O. F. Beaumister of St. Joseph's church, this city, was at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs Wednesday afternoon and delivered a stirring address for the student body on True Education and the Formation of Character. During the discourse the students were brought in close touch with the marvels of nature and the marvelous uses which man makes of Nature's products. He linked the workings of nature to those of the soul and brain and brought before the students facts which few had realized. The talk was given at the Hawley armory and was part of the program for Junior Week.

Mrs. Jane Blish, widow of William Lorin Blish, died Tuesday morning in the state hospital at Norwich. The deceased was born June 2, 1855, in New London, the daughter of John and Nancy Douglass Smith. She leavees a son, Ernest Blish, of Spring street, and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Cathcart, of Providence, R. I., and a number of grandchildren.

The selection of officers and committees of the board of directors of the Gard home resulted as follows at the annual meeting: President, H. R. Chappell; first vice president, G. A. Hatch; second vice president, J. F. Fullerton; secretary and treasurer, E. A. Smith; application committee, Helen E. Brown, H. R. Chappell, Samuel W. Cheney; house committee, Mrs. F. M. Smith, Mrs. H. E. Brown, Mrs. A. Gates; matron, Mrs. Jennie Bradshaw; assistant matrons, Mrs. Harriett Walker and Mrs. Susan B. Grant.

Mrs. Stella Howard of Pleasant Valley was in New Haven Monday to attend the funeral of her brother-in-law, Oliver M. Graveline, formerly of this city, who died suddenly at his home there. Burial was in Attleboro, Mass. The deceased leaves his wife, who was Miss Isabelle Sypher of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Martin of West Main street were delighted Tuesday night when a number of kind neighbors and friend left a large May basket filled with delicious fruit at the door of the aged couple.

An article of local interest appeared in a Hartford newspaper in which J. M. Whittlesey, commissioner on domestic animals, announced that he held Dog Warden Roderick Lussier of Willimantic not guilty of charges brought against him by oJhn H. Wilcox of 28 Monticello street, Willimantic. Mr. Wilcox in a letter to the commissioner, and through R. A. Andrews, first selectman of the town of Windham, charged that Lussier had not observed the law in carrying out his duties as dog warden. Commissioner Whittlesey interviewed Lussier Monday and, following an investigation, he made the above announcement, stating that he was satisfied Lussier was performing his duties in a capable manner and according to the law.

The residents of Windham Center will hold a meeting early next week in an effort to secure more adequate fire fighting apparatus in that section of the town. Much dissatisfaction has been expressed at the lack of protection. They were keenly awakened to the need when the old Moulton mansion on Zion Hill was burned to the ground recently, causing the death of one of the children of the family. The district committee, Charles Larrabee, Josephine W. Bingham and Guy S. Richmond, have issued a call to the legal voters of the district to meet for the following purposes: To see what action will be taken in regard to the purchase of a chemical tank; to authorize the formation of a volunteer fire department.

John Killourey and Goulding Delina Matthews were married Tuesday night at 7.30 at Cushman Manse by Rev. Harry S. McCready. They were attended by Raymond Sullivan and Miss Sadie McCready.

Mrs. Carl Johnson of South Windham recently gave a kitchen shower in honor of Mrs. Charles Smith. Those present included Miss Mary Colbert of Willimantic, Mrs. James Adams, Miss Iva Adams, Mrs. Charles Backus, Mrs. Percy Scribner, Mrs. Charles Smith, Miss Dorothy Colbert, Miss Tillie Colbert and Mrs. Carl Johnson.

A movement is under way for the annexation of The Ridges of the town of Mansfield to the town of Windham. The residents of that section are very much interested in the project and it is believed the district would be much improved in many ways if annexed. It is claimed by a number that the taxes would be reduced and that The Ridges is a logical portion of the city of Willimantic.

Next Friday evening the members of the Epworth league will start from the Methodist church on a journey to Norwich Town, where they will meet other leagues of the circuit in competition for the banger, and they are confident of retaining the trophy.

According to the weekly morbidity report of the state department of health for the week ending May 12, there was one case of scarlet fever in this city, together with one case of measles in the town of Windham.

The regular weekly prayer meeting will be held at the Methodist church Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Thursday is the regular sewing day for the hospital, and it is expected that it will be the last of the season.

Mrs. E. B. Latham of Prospect street is entertaining her sister, Mrs. J. F. Weaver, of Daytona, Fla. Mrs. Weaver made the trip by automobile.

Miss Talcott of New Haven is a guest of Miss Elizabeth W. Peterson of The Ridges.

Frederick Berent of Riverside Park is ill with pneumonia.

Dr. Herman C. Little and Mrs. Little of Windham road are to attend a musical in Mystic Thursday night. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lathrop while there.

21ST C. V. ASSOCIATION HOLDS 54TH REUNION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 16.—The Twenty-first Connecticut Veterans Association held its fifty-fourth annual reunion today in the Grand Army hall at the town building. It is evident that the ranks of the Civil war veterans are fast diminishing as at the sessions only sixteen of the old soldiers out of thirty-seven survivors of the regiment, were present. In addition to the sixteen old fighters of the famous Nutmeg regiment, there were five veterans from other regiments and a number of the wives and children of the soldiers in attendance.

Following the roll call the members of the Twenty-first were each presented a medallion attached to a ribbon, bearing the likepess of Comrade A. Avery Bevin of East Hampton, whose death occurred March 3, 1922. On the president's table was a large bouquet of flowers, the gift of the Misses Anna and Margaret Flaherty in memory of their father, Dennis Flaherty, a deceased member of the regiment. Mrs. Charles Fenton presented a vase of apple blossoms which adorned the treasurer's table and at dinner she presented those present with souvenir cards, and buttonieres were presented by Mrs. Benjamin Smith and her daughter, Mrs. Frank L. Deming.

Due to a delay in the arrival of Judge Lucien F. Burpee, the president of the association, the opening of the reunion was delayed until 11.30 o'clock.

Major William S. Hubbell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., former president of the association, offered prayer after which the secretary, Dr. Charles W. Robert, read the minutes of the fifty-third reunion.

In a brief address of welcome, First Selectman Russell A. Andrews gave the freedom of the town of the city to the veterans. The list of the 37 survivors follows: Commissioned officers, 6; Company A 5; Company B, 3; Company C, 6; Company D, 2; Company E, 0; Company F, 1; Company G, 1; Company H, 4; Company I, 3; Company K, 6.

The necrology list as read follows: Company C, Edward Woodmansee, Noank; John M. Cleveland, Silver Lane, Conn.; Company D, A. N. Miller, Lynn Haven, Fla.; Andrew A. Perkins, New York city; Company E, Daniel D. Tifft, Mystic; Company F, Thomas K. Pinner, Norwood, R. I.; Company G, George H. Henderson, New London; Company H, John Wall, East Hampton; Company I, William E. Camp, New Haven; Leonidas Maynard of Meriden and Francis B. Clark of Los Angeles, Cal.

The total of the list is eleven, the largest within a number of years. Trumpeter Lewye Gerry sounded "taps" as the members stood with bowde heads.

According to Treasurer Robert H. Fenton's report there is $26.13 in the treasury and a bill for $24 is coming due and will greatly reduce the cash balance. Captain Philo F. Talcott of Rochester, N. Y., George P. Meech of Middletown and Hiram H. Johnson of Pawtucket, R. I., were appointed a nominating committee by President Burpee, and their selection for the executive committee of the association included one member from each company; Timothy H. Hodge of Glastonbury; B. E. Baker of Hartford, Thaddeus Pecor of Norwalk; Edmund Backus of Dade City, Florida; William A. Beckwith of New London; Edward S. Wheeler of New Haven; Ralph Sellew of East Hartford; Lionel W. C. Coates of Bridgeport; Wine R. Franklin of Danielson.

Captain Philo Fuller Talcott, a commissioned officer of the 21st regiment, celebrated his 90th anniversary last April and attended the reunion, coming all the way from Rochester, N. Y.

At the afternoon session, the Temple quartet, H. W. Standish, Arthur L. Clark, Charles H. Caswell and Harold C. Lincoln rendered a number of fine selections. A brief history of the valueless services that the "Boys of '61" performed for their country was given by President Burpee. Profound silence reigned while Major William S. Hubbell visualized the blowing up of the Burnside mine during the Civil war. Mrs. Maud Smith Deming, a daughter of the regiment and junior vice commander of the state department of Woman's Relief Corps, gave expression of her admiration for the old soldiers. Remarks were made by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the New London Congregational church, honorary chaplain of the regiment, and pastor of the church that acts as guardian of the Twenty-first regiment monument.

Mrs. Charles H. Beebe was recalled for an encore after her recital of Whoa, January. A talk was given by Colonel Charles W. Burpee of Hartford, secretary of the association two years ago and former colonel of the First regiment, Connecticut National Guard.

The report of the nominating committee was then heard and the following officers were reelected: President, Lucien Burpee, Hartford; vice president, Benjamin F. Bailey of New London; secretary, Dr. G. W. Roberts of Hartford; treasurer, Robert H. Fenton, Willimantic.

It was voted to hold the fifty-fifth annual reunion of the association in Willimantic, Friday, May 16, 1924. By a resolution the following individuals and organizations were thanked for making Wednesday's reunion a success: Women's Relief Corps, Mrs. C. H. Beebe, Lewye Gerry, the Misses Flaherty for flowers, Mrs. Charles Fenton for souvenir cards, Robert H. Fenton for cigars and E. S. Smith, the Temple quartette and others who assisted.

Adjournment was taken, following the giving of interesting reminiscences by some of the soldiers.

NEW $50,000 TOWN BUILDING FOR ASHFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 16.—The town of Ashford, with an approximate population of 700, is to have a new town building, which will cost somewhat over $50,000, through the generosity of Clark C. Knowlton of Ashford. Mr. Knowlton will cause the erection of the structure as a memorial to his forefathers, a number of whom were members of American wars and influential in politics in the town of Ashford.

The building will be constructed of concrete, reinforced with steel girders, with a copper roof. It will be of modern design and suitable to adorn any site in the large city. The handsome town building will occupy a plot of land upon which the old Murphy store formerly stood in Warrenville.

The structure will be two stories high, about 68 feet in length and about 48 feet in width. In the basement will be an electric lighting system and heating apparatus. The ground floor will be taken up with the main hall, the office of the town clerk and a kitchen and pantry where refreshments may be prepared. On the upper floor a large hall will be provided for library uses, besides the selectmen's room and a janitor's office.

It is thought the work of building will start on or about the first of June and, following its erection, the structure will be officially turned over to the town.

Clark C. Knowlton is connected with the Hammond-Knowlton silk mills of Putnam and with a manufacturing concern in Watertown which has its sales office in New York city.

STAFFORD SPRINGS MEETING VOTES HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin.))

Stafford Springs, May 16.—A special town meeting held in Borough hall tonight was largely attended and many of those present were interested in the first matter that came up for discussion concerning the continuation of Monson road, under construction by the highway commission to the Monson-Massachusetts line. The other matter voted on concerned the disposition to be made of the Hyde park house which has been an expense to the park commissioners for many years, requiring annual repairs and bringing in no revenue.

On motion of William Park, the following resolution was voted:

That the highway beginning at the north end of the road now under construction by the highway commissioner on the Monson road, and near the Four Corners, north of the house of William E. Robbins, and extending to the Monson and Massachusetts line be improved, under the provision of sections 1497-1485 of the general statutes.

These sections relate to the building of the state aid highways, three-fourths of the cost to be paid by the state and one-fourth by the town. The section of the Monson road now under construction, about 4,700 feet, will cost approximately $17,000, one-fourth of which will be paid by the town and three-fourths by the state.

Concerning the Hyde Park house it was voted to make no disposition of the matter either by selling the building or tearing it down at the present time.

The town meeting was in charge of Moderator Frank H. Baker and J. Carl Converse was clerk of the meeting.

Broadway Theatre.
The B. F. Keith vaudeville attractions at the Broadway theatre for the last half of this week, starting today, are as follows:
Chester & De Vere, called The Human Locomotives, will open with comedy patter and dancing.
Jean Hollis, The Human Kewpie Doll, offers a surprise package of songs and humor and patter.
The Emma Earl Three are a likable trio who present a comedy novelty offering by J. C. Nugent.
Morris & Flynn in fourth spot appear in A Smart Cycle of Songs and a Dash of Comedy.
Witt & Winters, A Pair of Aces, close the bill with an athletic novelty.
A trail of silver dollars! The world's greatest hunter would get a decided kick out of such novel tracking.
In Sixty Cents an Hour, a Paramount picture, starring Walter Hiers with Jacqueline Logan featured in his support, which comes to the Broadway theatre today, such a trail causes roars of laughter.
Two thieves rob a bank and store the money in a rented Ford. When Hiers and Miss Logan come to rent a machine for a joy ride, this car is the one they take. A series of exciting events follow, coming to a climax when a store owner shoots at Hiers, tearing a hole in the rear end of the automobile. From this hole drops a regular trail of dollars. A small boy spots and grabs the first one, then two adults, and, before Hiers has driven a block, he has a regular mob of excited followers, seizing avidly upon the "trail of silver dollars."

Brass at the Strand.
Spellbound is the adjective descriptive of the state of mind of the audience that beheld Brass at its opening yesterday at the Strand theatre, where it will be shown throughout the week. The ideal combination of a good corking story and an all-star cast contributes to this, especially the acting of Monte Blue, the leading featured player, a tall strapping youth of boundless personality and superb powers.
Many came expecting an unusual treat, from the fact that Brass is a screen adaptation of the best seller of the same name from the pen of Charles G. Norris. Needless to say, they were not disappointed. Warner Brothers, in producing it, have kept its well-knit story, and the characters live on the silver screen with the intensity of real life. With its fascinating theme, the picture is of interest to young and old alike, to those happily married, and those who find marriage unfortunate, to people about to take the plunge as well as those who have taken it already.
Brass deals with marriage and divorce: Philip and Marjorie Baldwin, the principal characters, are married but miserable. A bothersome mother-in-law helps fan the flames of discord, and soon Marjorie tires of hubby, home and babe, finding more pleasures in cafe life with fast friends. The climax, plus a fascinating diversity of love episodes, follows the situation.
Monte Blue as Philip leaves nothing to be desired; the same applies to Marie Prevost as Marjorie. Others in the well chosen cast include Harry Myers, Vera Lewis, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss Dupont, Margaret Seddon, Helen Ferguson, Edward Jobson, Harvey Clerk, Cyril Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Gertrude Bennett and Ethel Grey Terry. The film direction is by Sidney Franklin.
An Educational comedy and News weekly completed the program.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Ed Wynn in The Perfect Fool.
Ed Wynn, "The Perfect Fool," coming from the Colonial theatre, Boston, where it rounded out a two months' run and due shortly at the Broadway theatre for one night only, Wednesday, May 23, has invented and applied for a patent on a device which he chooses to style the laughometer. This little instrument may be attached to any part of the anatomy and will register laugh vibrations with the accuracy that a speedometer records the number of miles covered by an automobile. There are several sizes: No. 1, for the chuckler; No. 2 for the titterer; No. 3, for the hearty laugher. And so on until Size No. 13 is reached. This records the 4th degree of hilarity known as the earthquake guffaw, and probably will be supplied to patrons of Ed Wynn's show who give any indication of possessing a real sense of humor. Mr. Wynn anticipates that the laughometer eventually will be used by all divorced persons atending the weddings of their friends.
Seats are now on sale at the box office.

YALE POLO TEAM CAPTURES CUP AND INTERCOLLEGIATE POLO TITLE

Port Hamilton, N. Y., May 16.—Yale won the intercollegiate polo championship and the General Bullard trophy representing it in the final game of the 1923 tournament today on Fort Hamilton field from the Princeton four, 12 to 3.

Yale was a trifle better mounted, played a more co-operative style, outrode Princeton and hit accurately. The teams were much improved over last years fours. W. K. Nuir, Yale back, was injured in the sixth chukker when his mount stopped suddenly, throwing the player over its head. His injuries were not serious, although he was carried from the field. Baldwin, Yale No. 1, was the star.

PLAINFIELD TRIMS TAFTVILLE IN TEN-INNING GAME

Plainfield defeated the fast Taftville team, Sunday, in a ten-inning game that was one of the best seen on the local diamond in years. Greenbultz, with 21 strikeouts, was the outstanding star of the game. He completely baffled the visitors with his curves and smoke. Two of the visiting runs were scored on errors and another when Jack Murphy was hit by a pitched ball. The winning run was scored with two out. McGintley flied out to center, Raney was passed and went to third on Goslin's hit. Haney did clever work with his base running. Bouley fouled out to Relair, then Burby hit to left center, his third hit of the game. Taftville tied the score in the eighth. Moth struck out for the fifth time at the plate. Jack Murphy reached first when Pechie made a muff of an easy ball. F. Murphy fanned. Paradis was hit and Cardie singled cleanly over second. The score:

DODGERS SWAMP CUBS IN FOURTH GAME

Brooklyn, May 16.—Brooklyn made it three out of four with Chicago today, winning by the score of 8 to 2. The Dodgers bunched two doubles with a batter hit, a pass, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly off Dumovich in the first inning driving the Cub pitcher out of the box. Neis led the assaults on the two Chicago pitchers with a homer, a double and a single, scoring three runs.

HOMER AND TRIPLE PLAY FEATURES CARDS-BRAVES

Boston, May 16. — Southworth's home run as first man up in the last of the 14th enabled Boston to defeat St. Louis, 7 to 6, today. In the 13th his diving catch of Bottomley's drive resulted in a double play. Boston had the bases full with none out in the 11th when Boeckel's drive was speared by Freigau, who threw to Bottomley, doubling Southworth. Bottomley then threw to Stock at third, before Cruise, running for Fillingim, could return, so completing a triple play. The score:

FRENCH TENNIS STARS WIN FROM DENMARK

Bordeaux, May 1 (By the A. P.) —Cochet and Samazeuilh, French tennis stars, today defeated Tegner and Wurm of Denmark at doubles in the second day's play of the Davis cup tie between the two countries. The scores were: 6-1, 7-5, 6-2.

France is leading two matches to one against Denmark in the first round of the contest, having taken the lead by virtue of the doubles victory today. The win of the Frenchmen in the doubles was a clean cut one. They were never unduly extended. France's ranking No. 1 player, Cochet, displayed better form than he did in winning his match in the singles against Tegner, Tuesday. La Coste, France's "boy wonder" who is seventeen years old, suffered a strained tendon in one of his legs when he was defeated on Tuesday in the singles by Larsen, and Jean Samazeuilh, former French champion, was pressed into service as Cochet's partner today on a few minutes notice. France had underrated Denmark's players and only sent Cochet and La Coste here to compete against them.

Tomorrow Cochet will play Larsen, and if La Coste has recovered from his leg strain, he will meet Tegner in the singles. Otherwise Samazeuilh again will substitute for La Coste.

SIKI BITTEN BY LION; BOUT IS POSTPONED

Marseilles, May 16.—(By The A. P.) —"Battling" Siki, the Senegalese pugilist has been bitten by a lion, and therefore the bout between him and the British middleweight, Moore, which was to have been held May 27 in Marseilles, has been postponed. The promoters of the bout said the wound in Siki's arm had become infected.

EAST ENDS TRIM HARDDIGS IN FAST GAME IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE, 5 TO 4

The East Ends won their opening game in the Norwich Twilight League Wednesday evening from the Harddigs by a close score of 5 to 4. The game was the best since the league opened and was not lacking in thrills during the seven innings played. There, two teams comprise most of the youngsters in baseball and from all indications these boys will give some of the older teams in the league plenty to do.

Siegel for the Harddigs and Harris for the East Ends pitched good ball and both received good support. Siegel was strong during the first four innings but in the fifth the East Siders hit him hard. Harris was weak in the first three innings an did n tighten up until the seventh when the Harddigs hit him but a fast double play spoiled the Harddigs chances of scoring.

The Harddigs were the first to score pushing two runs across in the first inning on errors and added another in the second and the fourth in the third inning. In the fifth inning, the East Siders rallied and tallied four times to put the side was retired. Harris started off with a walk, and Baker, running for Harris, stole second and third in succession and scored on Turcotte's hit. Barber and Waltz singled and Turcotte scored. Conners then drove out a double and scored both Barber and Waltz. There was no scoring in the sixth inning.

In the seventh the Harddigs made their final stand and lost out only through a spectacular fielding by Spendlove and Waltz. The first man up was safe on an error and then the next man hit a long fly to centerfield which looked like a hit but which Siegel just grabbed after a hard run. The Harddigs chances looked good when Porter singled to left, putting a man on second and first. The next batter hit a line drive to left center which Waltz speared and doubled the man at second ending the game.

The crowd was very small owing to the cold and bad weather, but those that did attend witnessed the best game so far. The score by innings:

East Ends	0	0	0	1	4	0	0	0	—	5

KIRKWOOD TURNS IN LOW SCORE AT LEEDS

Leeds, England, May 16.—(By The A. P.)—Jock Kirkwood gave a magnificent golfing exhibition today in the qualifying round for the professional championship. He made a new record for the Headingley course by turning in a score of 67, which made his total for the 36 holes, the first of which were played Tuesday.

Kirkwood therefore is leading the [illegible] who have qualified for the championship which begins today. Fred Robson, with 147 and Abe Mitchell, with 151 also have qualified, but Charles Hoffner's 156 was three [illegible] too many to let him in for the play.

A SIMPLE BUT PRETTY FROCK.

Dotted Swiss and organdy are here combined. The model is practical and suitable for all wash fabrics, as well as for silk and cloth. The collar and panels may be omitted. In red and white dotted percale, with trimming of white linene, this style will be very pleasing.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 2 1-4 yards of 40 inch material. To make sash, collar, cuffs, pocket and sleeve facings of contrasting material requires 1 yard 32 inches wide.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

"History Repeats Itself"

A man who has seen several summers more than 70 made a remark Wednesday when the trolley passed by him at the corner of Broadway and Main street that has long since been made famous. His remark was: "History repeats itself". To a friend standing nearby he explained as follows. "Well, you know, back in 1873 just fifty years ago, there were no trolleys stopping at the corner of Broadway and Main streets, and on May 16, 1923, I find that history has repeated itself, for they fail to stop here now. The progress of fifty years has been wiped out in only a few hours by the people of this enlightened age".

Liberty Hall Building at Jewett City Sold to Maynard Bros.

Burdick & McNicol, real estate brokers, aroused great interest in real estate circles last week in Jewett City when they sold for Maud M. S. Faust and Ida I. Foster their property known as the Liberty Hall Building, located on Main street in the borough of Jewett City, Conn. The sale was made to Arthur J. and Velo Maynard of the firm of Maynard Bros. The property is one of the finest business sites in the borough and is now occupied by Legue's barber shop, Gittleman's tailor shop, Gardner's variety store, Guy's paint shop, Dealy's dry goods store and Burdick's plumbing shop. The new owners will erect a modern mercantile building out to the street line in the near future. This transfer involved the largest price paid for any one building in Jewett City in many years.

Bread Theatre.

Adventure with a very large "A" has fallen to the lot of John Russell, author of the latest Rex Ingram production for Metro, Where the Pavement Ends, now at the Bread theatre. Mr. Russell is, primarily, an author. If you can take the word of most of the literary editors of America for it, he is a most excellent author indeed, and his book of South Sea short stories has gone, sailing into editions innumerable.

His yarns of the Tropics are the more remarkable because they are entirely original in conception and in style. He has stolen from no one, he has quite evidently gone forth and seen for himself the strange corners of the world, and he has the great gift of making his readers see them, too. He was born in Iowa at Davenport, he went to school in Brooklyn and Chicago, his college was Northwestern, and from there he went rambling the world around, came back to work on the New York Herald, became a special correspondent in Central and South America, and so on and so forth until he became author of what Sir Arthur Conan Doyle says is "the best book of short tales by any debutante since Kipling's "Plain Tales."

Incidentally, he accompanied Rex Ingram and his company to Florida, supervised the screening of his story, built sets, scouted town and country for characters of the South Seas, and ended up by expressing himself entirely and completely satisfied with the entire production. Few authors have done as much for a picture.

Where the Pavement Ends was adapted for the screen by Rex Ingram. Alice Terry has the part of a machine for a joy ride, this car is mon Novarro, who was Rupert of Hentzau in The Prisoner of Zenda, plays opposite her. The unusually powerful cast also includes Harry T. Morey and Edward Connelly, Metro's veteran character actor. The photography was done by John F. Seitz.

Other pictures on the bill include Movie Chats and an Educational comedy.

Sale of Mt. Pleasant St. House.

Through the agency of William F. Hill, Israel and Hyman Mopsik have sold their two-tenement house and lot located at 66 Mt. Pleasant street, to Waldyslaw and Mary Jorz. The new owners purchase this property as their future home and after extensive improvements intend to occupy one of these apartments.

A FINE THING.

Much is to be said in commendation of the work that has been done during the past week by the Norwich Rural association in causing to be set out a dozen trees at Norwich Town. It is going to mean some years before these trees will attract the admiration that some of the maples and elms about the town do today, but it is a provision for the future that fits in with the belief that some work of this kind should be done each year for the purpose of replacing trees that have had to be removed or the making more attractive certain sections of the community streets. A dozen trees may not make a great showing but it is a praiseworthy help and example.

It is just such tree planting as this that is carried on by a number of cities each spring, when hundreds of trees are set out along sunny streets and new highways, or are planted to replace some which had been removed for justified reasons.

It would be a delightful thing if such an organization as that which is engaged in this work of beautifying Norwich Town by tree planting and other means could be encouraged to undertake and empowered to direct similar efforts for the entire city or town. Norwich needs just such an active force for the preservation of its trees and the planting of more, for the display of interest in this work that the attractiveness of the streets may not only be maintained but increased. What gets to be everybody's business soon becomes the responsibility of no one.

In these days of quick and easy transportation Norwich streets are seen by a far greater number than ever before. We ought not to be willing to tolerate the thought of having our entrances to the city made to look worse as we anticipate increased automobile traffic to and through our fair city. And not only the entrances but the other streets of the city may well be given some thought as to their appearance, for it is not the sunbaked but the well laid out shaded streets and property that make the appeal and accumulate value.

OVERSUBSCRIBING THE NOTES.

Just a few days ago there was offered to the people of this country $400,000,000 worth of government securities, notes bearing 4 3-4 per cent. and running for a period of four years. This loan is for the purpose of refunding the victory notes and in this brief time those anxious to exchange their present notes for the new ones and those desirous of obtaining the new notes have entered subscriptions for two and a half times the loan that the government proposes.

This not only displays the desirability of such government securities, but the confidence of the people and the possession of funds with which to buy them. It clearly denotes the condition that is prevailing in the country at the present time. It shows the effect of prosperity and demonstrates the high appreciation that is prevailing of the masterly manner in which the finances of the government are being handled.

Conditions are what they are because of the careful consideration that has been given to the many problems and the putting into force of policies that have served to back up in addition some of the dire predictions that were made at the opening of this administration. There has been that rigid curtailment of expenditures which the situation called for. We have been spending much more nearly in accord with our means and actual demands. We have given careful attention to the question of revenue and we have so ably handled our funds and adjusted our war and floating debt that there has been a material reduction, and in addition there has been overcome a predicted deficit for the fiscal year ending with next month.

It is impossible to withhold credit from the administration. Nothing creates greater confidence among the people than just such a showing and in no better way can it be expressed than by the offer within a few days of twice as much money as the government has sought to borrow.

RUSSIA'S REPLY.

The Russian bear stood up on its hind legs and pawed the air at the receipt of the note from Great Britain threatening the severance of the trade relations. The soviet government, however, doesn't display that attitude in the written reply that is made.

Russia indulged in a spasm to think that the British would consider such a thing as terminating the relations, and was prepared to tell them that they couldn't act quick enough. That was the hectic result of indignation and resentment over the thought that others should presume to think that Russia was subject to any outside restrictions. Second thought and a bit of reflection made it apparent that Russia is in no position to display any such attitude. It is desirous of getting other countries to extend recognition instead of forcing the British to break off such an understanding as exists.

Other countries have felt justified in withholding recognition because of the acts of the soviet government. They felt all the more certain of their position after the acts that caused the British note. Moscow could not fail to be cognizant of that. The result is that it undertakes to claim a misunderstanding of facts, that it presents an apology for certain acts and it denies other points of the British charges and urges a conference or arbitration to bring about an adjustment.

That the note has had its good results is indicated by the reply from Moscow. It is tempered with better judgment than was indicated by the display of bravado when it was declared that the soviet army was ready for the British. The indications are that no rupture will take place but it is likewise evident that Moscow has profited by the emphatic communication with the matter still unsettled.

THE STRAW HAT SEASON.

The official straw hat season was given much the same kind of opening this year that invariably characterizes the first days of the baseball season. There has been little in the way of weather to create a desire for the lighter headgear, and that rather than a fixed date is what actuates the wearers.

Just why there should be a fixed date for donning and shelving the straw hat is not recorded. It is, however, at this season of the year that the warm sunny days invite the replacing of the felts with straws and by the middle of September there are times when the cool days prompt the discarding of the straws and the bringing out of the soft or derby hats. But it is not always so.

This is one of the Mays when the straw hat has received a wet blanket in this vicinity. Only in a few rare instances, have there been days in the past several weeks that turned thoughts toward them, and straw hats are not brought out because it is the 15th of May. There must be the weather to warrant it. There may be a few slaves to fashion who cannot permit the day to go by without making the change but for the most part it depends upon Old Sol. If he directs attention to the fact that the felts are too hot the straws are brought forth; otherwise the winter hats are given a prolonged season.

It is quite the same when the 15th of September comes. A hot month means the straws will linger. Cool and melancholy days hasten the change. There are those who hate to change as well as those who are eager to. How profusely the straws blossom forth now will depend, however, upon the weather, even though in states to the south they have been worn for weeks.

THE BUILDING SITUATION.

The expression of the builders in conference in New York to the effect that construction work should be delayed has for its purpose the overcoming of the abnormal conditions which confront those who are concerned with building activities. Having gotten to the point where it is impossible to accept a contract and be able to carry it out without a loss, the situation has gotten to the place where they feel that something similar in nature to what is being done by sugar consumers must be undertaken if there is to be any relief.

When it is pointed out that there are exorbitant expenditures for materials and an instability in labor agreements that leaves nothing to be depended upon it is urged that some relief can be obtained by postponing construction. Buildings involving contracts running up to $100,000,000 are waiting to be constructed, the money for them is available and the demand urgent but it has been decided by those who are to pay for them that construction under present conditions and prices is unwarranted. Efforts to prevent just such a situation were made by Secretary Hoover in advocating the postponing of government construction. Now it appears that the idea should be carried even further.

It is an unfortunate situation when there is such need for new construction, and building requirements have never recovered since the war. The unwillingness to build at peak prices when the belief exists that they are unjustified is intended to deal with those who are believed to be profiteering and engaged in hold-up activities.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Knee deep in May isn't what it used to be.

The safety of the highways is something which cannot be safely left to the judgment of others.

Many cities are anticipating their population at the next census. It is a goal worth keeping in mind at any rate.

The auto accidents are on the increase and they are by no means restricted to the bright and sunny days.

Weather conditions are probably due to the fact that the predictions have not been advanced to keep in step with daylight saving.

Yes, it's a terrible thing for the profiteers that the consumers of sugar have decided that they have been eating more than they need.

Inasmuch as Germany has been relying upon British assistance it now has a chance to make use of the advice it has been offered.

Of course if the British don't know what to do with their yearly surplus they wouldn't have any difficulty in loaning it to Germany.

With the tax on Minnesota iron ore found to be valid, the aim of all the other states will be to find something to tax that they may get even.

Petitions indicate that there are those who think trolley patrons ought to be shown some consideration even if the common council doesn't.

Over in Meriden the owner of a public clock has stopped it for the rest of the summer rather than run it on standard time when the city is on daylight. His example will probably be followed by many others.

FROM LUCILLE'S DIARY

It is to be hoped that someone will give me a handsome suitcase or traveling bag for Christmas. My old bag is so shabby that last week, when I was going to Milwaukee to pass Sunday with the Thornhills, I had to borrow Uncle Bob's new suitcase.

"What are you doing with that?" asked mother when she saw me packing Cousin Fannie's tortoise-shell toilet set.

"Surely, you don't wish me to disgrace the family with my old out-of-date things. Cousin Fannie is glad to lend me her set."

"Well, do be careful of it, Lucille," mother cautioned me. "You know how much Fannie values it, and how grateful she was to Aunt Rachel for giving it to her on her birthday."

"I do wish Aunt Rachel would give me an elegant toilet set, too," I said. "I really need it much more than Cousin Fannie does. You might let out a little Christmas hint about it, mother, dear."

Mother merely sniffed at this suggestion. Sometimes her little personal habits annoy me dreadfully, but, of course, I always try to overlook them, so I said gayly that if she would like to add to my equipment I should be greatly pleased to borrow her blue silk-embroidered negligee.

"You know, my best kimono even is a sight," I explained, "and that negligee will be awfully becoming to me. It is just my shade of blue."

"I thought you had a new one, Lucile. You asked your father for the money to buy one last month, pleading you couldn't spread your allowance quite so far. Didn't he give you the money?"

"Yes, he did, the darling, but I spent it for matinee tickets to the opera. I felt, dear, that after all it was wiser to adorn my soul by listening to great music than to clothe my body with a new dressing gown."

"Indeed!" said mother, but she brought me her negligee, and just as I was leaving the house I slipped into the suitcase a book that father had just bought, the "Memoirs of a Diplomat." I think it looks well to be reading something really worth while when on a train.

On Monday evening when I arrived home father said: "Why, you traveled light. Didn't you take a bag or anything?"

"Yes, daddy, I took a suitcase, but——"

"Now, Lucile," broke in mother, "don't say that you left that suitcase in Milwaukee? You couldn't have been so careless?"

"No," I replied. "I didn't leave it in Milwaukee. I—I left it here in Chicago. I lost it in the station. It must have been stolen."

"Stolen, my gracious! How could it be? Did you report it?" asked mother in mingled reproach and regret. "Why, Lucile, it's dreadful."

"I know it, mother. I'm just as sorry as I can be, and the minute I got into town today, I reported it, but nothing was known about it."

"Why, when did you lose it? I don't understand."

"Well, you see when I went to the station on Saturday I was so anxious to make the little trip inexpensive as you wished me to do, mother, that I didn't even take a red cap, so while I was looking over the magazines at the news counter, somebody must have come along and run away with my suitcase."

"Your Uncle Bob's suitcase!" corrected mother ominously.

"Why didn't you telephone home about it, so that we might have advertised it or something?" This was father's question.

"Why I didn't have time, daddy," I told him. "I almost missed my train as it was, and I thought it would surely be in the lost and found department when I got back today, but it wasn't."

"Of course it wasn't," said mother. "Well, perhaps we'll get it yet." I said more brightly, trying to cheer my family. "Such a time as I had wearing Molly's things! You would have laughed to see me in them."

"I doubt it," said father grumpily and he and mother and Cousin Fannie all act as if I had lost that old suitcase on purpose.

I have yet to learn what Uncle Bob's reaction will be for I have been too upset to telephone him. All the family fussing has got on my nerves. I think I shall ask dear old granny to telephone for me. Uncle Bob is perfectly devoted to her."—Chicago News.

Wives of Famous Men

Floride Calhoun, Wife of John C. Calhoun.

The life of a statesman's wife is at no time easy, and the life of a statesman's wife during the Civil war was more than ordinarily difficult. Statesmen's wives are born, not made, and one woman, foreordained by all her characteristics for the position, was Floride Calhoun, beautiful American-French wife of John C. Calhoun, one of the most noted of the Civil war's statesmen.

Floride, as lovely and poetical as her name, was the daughter of Calhoun's cousin. The girl, whom Calhoun had seen from her earliest childhood, grew up before his eyes, almost, and as so often happens in such cases, he scarcely noticed her unusual beauty. He was ten years her senior, and considered her nothing more than a child, until one day someone commented to him on her exquisite face and figure.

The girl was seventeen at this time, just budding into perfection. It suddenly dawned on John that he loved her and from that time on he devoted himself to winning her affection. This was apparently not very difficult, for Calhoun himself was a man of great personal magnetism. Their courtship was happy and beautiful. Clear, cold thinker that he was on all matters of state, John Calhoun abandoned himself to his love in a thoroughly romantic way. He was ardent in his suit and chafed under any enforced absence from his sweetheart, who along with her other French characteristics, was possessed of her share of capriciousness.

This, however, did not manifest itself after their marriage which took place when Floride was nineteen and John twenty-nine. All the charm of the Huguenot temperament, poise assurance, and the steadfastness came to her aid in fulfilling the difficult obligations imposed upon her as a statesman's wife.

A Little Talk on Thrift

From Thrift and Savings

There is a Japanese proverb which expresses a deep truth in the following words: "Success and happiness are the beautiful flowers that spring from the plain brown bulbs of thrift and savings." It is said that these words, printed on posters, are displayed in many parts of the Island Empire.

Many Americans are apt to think of thrift in terms of plain brown bulbs without thought of the beautiful foliage that comes from them. One sometimes hears the expression: "We live only once, so why deny ourselves the good things that life has to offer"; or "let the future take care of itself, it does not pay to worry about things that may never happen".

Those who give expression to such thoughts most decidedly have the wrong point of view. They are not thinking of the beautiful flowers of success and happiness, but are thinking only of the plain brown bulbs. The necessary connection between practices of thrift and real success is just as definite as is the connection between the brown bulbs and the beautiful flowers of the lilly.

To maintain that one can go through life with absolute disregard for the fundamentals of rightful living and prudent habits, and still continue to thrive and make progress is as false doctrine as would be the suggestion that flowers could live and grow without a bulb.

There are varying standards of thrift, according to the individual's circumstances and conditions. But living beyond one's means, squandering one's times, energies and health, and thinking only of the present moment without plan or preparation for the later years, are practices that cannot fail to bring unhappiness in the end.

Unless the flowers of your success and happiness are rooted in the plain brown bulbs of thrift, the day of their passing is sure to come.—American Society for Thrift.

That melancholia cases are benefitted by music was learned by tests at Ward's Island, New York, as early as 1900.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Richard Henry Dana, who vigorously attacks the practice of consulting politicians in the selection of presidential postmasters, is the president of the National Civil Service Reform League, on the council of which he has served many years. Mr. Dana is the son of a famous father whose name he bears. The senior Dana was a lawyer and publicist, as well as the author of a classic, Two Years Before the Mast, and the son entered the same profession and chose the same theory of duty as a citizen. Consequently he has had much to do with the organization and administration of some of the finest charitable and educational institutions in his home city of Boston; and, as a Massachusetts lawmaker, he drafted the state's civil service law, and the first Australian ballot statute enacted in the United States. Tax, ballot, municipal government, and civil service reform have commanded his attention and laborious, friendly service for many years.

How I Was Wrecking the Lives of My Children

And Suffering Indescribable Tortures Myself Day and Night. A Mother's Terrible Confession.

For some time I had noticed that my two children, a boy of seven and a girl of ten, were becoming highly nervous, irritable and very disobedient. I tried various punishments, even whipping, but they kept growing worse. My own nerves were all "on edge", the least thing put me into a rage. I was too weak to work or enjoy life, and too nervous and irritable to go anywhere. I often suffered from severe heart palpitation and indigestion. I could not sleep at night; I had an almost constant dull aching pain in the back of my neck and head, and frequently a very disagreeable sense of fulness in the front part of my head. I often had severe pains across my back which made me think I had kidney trouble. I could not begin to describe all the tortures and terrible pains which I endured.

Finally I went to a doctor and told him my story. After studying my case, he told me I was the cause of my children's condition. He told me how the system only manufactured so much nerve force, and that this vital fluid of life was stored in the nerve cells, much like electricity is stored in a storage battery and is just as quickly exhausted.

He said my own highly nervous condition had been a constant drain on the nerve force of my children, and that the constant nervous strain to which I had subjected them had wrecked their highly sensitive nervous organizations. Later all this I found out to be true because after I regained my own nervous poise, and revitalized my worn out, exhausted nerve centers, and the same was done for my children, I found them to be the nicest, sweetest children in the world—their whole dispositions entirely changed.

The above is a hypothetical case, which a physician says may well illustrate thousands which exist today. Homes are wrecked, children ruined, all through exhausted nerve force. Very few people realize the terrible physical and mental tortures often caused by a depletion of the nervo-vital fluid.

In such cases, what you need is to put more force into your nerves and more iron into your blood. This is best accomplished by the use of a newer form of iron which contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most nearly resembles that in the nerve and brain cells of man.

It also contains organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. This form of iron will not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It is an entirely different thing from metallic iron which people usually take and may therefore be termed both a blood and a nerve food.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Flotsam and Jetsam, Religious.

Mr. Editor: The terms "flotsam and jetsam" as you know relates to stuff found floating on the surface of the ocean, but it may not be understood by the general reader that it is not altogether rubbish, but pertains to general cargo, which either for the purpose of lightening the vessel or in time of peril, is cast into the sea—not wantonly, but with the best intentions. Herein is the analogy.

Indeed seamen make a distinction between the flotsam and jetsam—the first being lost as in shipwreck and the latter being intentionally thrown overboard. This writer has also that distinction in mind as applied to religious flotage, now so commonly seen on the great ocean of Truth.

We do, surely come across some strange constructions and contrivances theologic—which it is hard to apply to purpose or even to classify, and this is anomalous at this time, when there is such urgent cry for interchurch union. The problem of denominational union is small compared with the problem of ministerial diversity that faces us.

Every man now formulates his own creed and promulgates it—and "there's the rub." At this time especially do these seem to outdo each other with strange utterances and doctrines. Even a layman prominent in the Methodist connection, of Yonkers, N. Y., is quoted in your paper today as saying that fist-fighting would mix well with religion, as a means of grace.

Some time ago the Institutional church in New York city introduced dancing as a proper religious exercise for its young people. It would not do to say of Mr. Andrus, who in his 82nd year, has witnessed, approvingly, his first pugilistic encounter in the ring, that he may be in his dotage. That would be ungenerous. It is evident, however, that he has slipped loose from his discipline.

Another speaker justifies deception—in the case of a blind old man whose wife practices it upon him, to secure the patrimony to her favorite son,—asserting that it was "justified by every law of God." Hence a reversal of the moral law, which needs also to be revised—no small task.

Another clergyman challenges us to repeat the Apostles Creed without mental reservation, and has not yet been taken up by a champion willing to undertake the task.

We are certainly living in a most wonderful age of religious distraction, and we are led to wonder if it is worth while to salvage any of what we see afloat around us—we know it is vain to discuss.

Stories That Recall Others

Indorse.

The children were required to use ten words in sentences as part of their home work in spelling. "Indorse" was one of the words.

On one of the papers appeared the following sentence: "As the weather is stormy, we will have to stay indorse this winter."

Well, Yes and No.

Burlesquing a restaurant scene is entertaining, but the real thing is much better. Ethel Barrymore has gotten many a laugh with "That's all there is; there isn't any more," but that has been backed off the boards by a girl in a well known restaurant who, on being asked whether strawberry shortcake was being served, replied: "Yes, we got some, but it's all gone!"

If you feel "out of sorts," sluggish and weary

If you feel "out of sorts," sluggish, weary and irritable; if you lack the spirit and sparkle and the ability to do your work with the same briskness and cheerfulness that you see in others, it is probably because your organs are not generating enough vital energy.

If your blood lacks the normal amount of the elements that are necessary in the production of vital energy, it is not possible for you to feel strong, industrious and sprightly; you are bound to tire quickly, feel downcast and find it difficult to take proper interest in your work or your favorite recreations.

If you are not feeling as "fit" as you would like to; if you are in need of reinvigoration, you should take Wincarnis for a week or so. You will probably be surprised and delighted at the promptness with which this general tonic and restorative will enrich your blood, strengthen your nervous system and relieve your feeling of general debility and exhaustion. Physicians are prescribing Wincarnis because of its great value as a tonic and reconstructive.

POETRY

WHILE THERE ENDURE.

So long as life shall hold for me
The joy of budding bush and tree
And greening earth, while 'neath my eaves
The swallow comes again and weaves
With mother-love's solicitude
A cradle for her coming brood;—
So long as these each year shall bring
But keener joy and gladdening,
I'll count myself not old.

So long as there shall come to me
The rapture and the ecstasy
Beholding smiling dawn's first blush,
The glory of the sunset's flush,
A bed of violets, the light
Of full-orbed moons, the star-gemmed night
Mysterious, still—while yet I find
Delight in these, I shall not mind
Time's flight, nor count me old.

The laughter of a happy child,
The music of the song-birds' wild
And April's frogs, the crickets' call,
The scent of orchards in the fall,
The clasp of friendly hands—while yet
I'm thrilled by these, time I'll forget;
Although the passing years fast flee
They'll hold no dread or fear for me.
They shall not make me old.
—Louella C. Poole, in Boston Transcript.

TIME LONG PAST.

Like the ghost of a dear friend dead
Is Time long past.
A tone which is now forever fled,
A hope which is now forever past,
A love so sweet it could not last,
Was Time long past.

There were sweet dreams in the night
Of Time long past;
And, was it sadness or delight,
Each day a shadow onward cast
Which made me wish it yet might last,—
That Time long past.

There is regret, almost remorse,
For Time long past.
'Tis like a child's beloved corse
A father watches, till at last
Beauty is like remembrance, cast
From Time long past.
—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

ELEVEN ARRESTED AT NORTH HIGH ST. HOUSE

Six white men, four colored men, and one colored woman were arrested at 13 North High street early Wednesday evening by the police who also seized there a pint bottle alleged to contain "booze" and a whiskey glass. The visit of the police was made after Capts D. J. Twomey had received a complaint against the place as disorderly and noisy.

He dispatched officers Perry, Dombroski, Farrell, Allen and Murphy to the place in the motor patrol wagon with a warrant against the place as a disorderly house.

The wagon made two trips to bring the whole party to police headquarters. William Davis, 37, colored, was arrested as the proprietor and the following as frequenters; Manny S. Coleman, Norwich; William P. Franklin, Palmer, Mass.; John Halsey, Norwich; William Anderson, Stonington, colored; William J. Devlin, Gilbertville, Mass.; Arthur Ausignan, Springfield; Joseph Partlow, Westerly; Joseph Podvig, Putnam; Arthur St. Armond, Gilbertville, all white.

MOONSHINE PLANT IN MECHANIC STREET HOUSE

A fully equipped still, seven or eight gallons of what is alleged to be moonshine whiskey, a big bag of grain and a number of copper kettles and containers were seized by the police about 2 o'clock this (Thursday) morning at 71 Mechanic street when they visited the place to arrest Louis Gomes against whom Tony Roderick had made a complaint of breach of the peace.

Both men are said to live at the place and when the moonshine outfit was found both were arrested and locked up, charged with violation of the liquor law.

Each man accuses the other of owning the moonshine apparatus, according to the police.

Capt. D. J. Twomey sent a squad out in the motor patrol wagon upon receiving the complaint from Roderick and the result was the surprising discovery of the moonshine outfit. The men are said to be natives of Brazil.

INSTRUCTS NORWICH TEACHERS ON PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Dr. Allen G. Ireland of Hartford, state director of physical education and health, addressed a meeting of the teachers of the Norwich public school Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Broadway school house, describing the value of physical education in the schools and explaining the manual that has been issued by the state.

Dr. Ireland was introduced by Superintendent R. J. Graham.

Introducing his subject by citing examples of the play of the young of animals, Dr. Ireland called attention to the fact that they do in play what the full grown adult does in life and the same is true of children. Man is born the most helpless of the playing animals, but a dozen of the main instincts implanted in man find expression and development in the play of children. Play is a real training ground for life. It is education through learning by doing. The play instinct is the educational instinct of childhood.

The physical education that is given the child in school aims to give the child opportunity to satisfy these instincts in wholesome and proper surroundings. It is a real instrument for the moulding of character, the moral and social life of these boys and girls, which will counteract the hurtful and unwholesome influences under which they may come.

Dr. Ireland took up the several varieties of physical education as adapted to the different grades, speaking first of songs, plays and folk dances which he said were recreative and healthful exercises in which there was social training and opportunity for self-expression.

Games and athletics he considered togehtr, calling both a laboratory for social conduct, in which there is opportunity to practice and form the habits of honesty, courage and determination. Moral conduct habits are formed by practice. Decisiveness, initiative, determination, loyalty and courage are all taught in games and athletics but where else in school do we touch on these?

Then there is the health side, for health grows on activity and muscles, heart, lungs, nerves and digestive system all are benefitted by the games and athletics. Stunts are another aspect of this department, where character, courage, determination and the will to achieve are developed.

Dr. Ireland spoke of the importance of the relief period, since the quiet and confinement of school is absolutely unnatural for children. The relief period is an essential part of physical education and the teacher who will open the windows and let her class stretch and bend for a minute will see how they will brighten up and give her their attention.

In closing he spoke of gymnastics, which he said are not primarily exercise, but are a graded subject to be taught as any other. When taught in response to command, they require thinking, mental alertness, control of body, precision, discrimination, nerve and muscle co-ordination.

Finally, he said, "teach with a smile and with enthusiasm," which will be the way to bring the desired good to the children.

CRUSHED BY FALL OF BOOM AT UNCASVILLE

John Grain, 44, of West Hartford, foreman of the Berlin Construction company, at work at the Eastern Connecticut Power company plant at Uncasville, is a patient at the Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, suffering injuries alleged by physicians of the institution to be of a serious nature.

Mr. Grain was working at the power plant Wednesday afternoon about 2.30 o'clock and was standing near the boom of a large hoisting derrick when it suddenly fell and rolled over on to him, crushing him badly.

Word was immediately despatched to the Lawrence hospital in New London and the ambulance was sent out, but in the meantime Mr. Grain had been carried to the hospital by Stewart Wilson of Norwich, who is working for the concern.

X-ray photographs were taken Wednesday afternoon and it is feared that Mr. Grain has a punctured lung, several broken ribs and possible internal injuries. His condition late Wednesday night was considered serious.

JOHN STITCH IS ONE OF PAYROLL BANDITS

Westboro, Mass., May 16. — John Stitch, alias John Stearns alias Howard, of New London, Conn., was bound over in $5,000 bonds to await the action of the grand jury when arraigned before Judge William E. Fowler in district court today on a charge of being implicated in the theft of a payroll of $3,000 at the Westboro State hospital last Thursday. Benjamin Maxwell, a Cambridge chauffeur, was discharged, the court declaring the evidence insufficient. Two of the alleged bandits are still at large. Stitch was captured in Framingham after a struggle. Maxwell, it was charged drove the automobile which brought the men from Boston to the state hospital.

It is claimed here that Stitch is a former resident of Taftville, where he had been involved in theft and burglary cases, having at one time stolen a canoe.

SEE GOOD PROSPECTS OF BUS LINE FROM NORWICH TO COLCHESTER

Commissioner E. H. Elwell of the public utilities commission held a hearing on the petition for a Norwich-Colchester bus line at noon Wednesday at Grange hall in Colchester. The hearing was largely attended and the majority of speakers, representing Colchester and Norwich, spoke in favor of a bus line between the two towns.

There were three petitioners for operation of the bus line provided the public utilities commission granted the rights. The first was the Connecticut Motor Power company of New London, of which Hadlai A. Hull is secretary and treasurer; the second Harry Lathrop of Colchester, and the third Jacob Bromberg of Willimantic.

Commissioner Elwell first wanted to be satisfied that there was a demand for a bus line between Colchester and Norwich, and he was assured by the Norwich delegation that there was such a demand, that in face the Norwich Chamber of Commerce had worked persistently for several years to have the Colchester and Norwich highway rebuilt and it is now in excellent condition, having recently been completed.

The action above stated was in itself sufficient to show that the people of the two towns had business dealings with each other and that the people of Colchester desired to trade with the merchants of Norwich and with all Norwich business houses.

The only opposition to the proposed bus line came from Mr. Blake of the Hartford Bus Line company, who claimed that it would injure his business.

First Selectman Brown of Colchester and A. T. Van Cleve, president of the Colchester Chamber of Commerce, with several others, spoke in favor of a Norwich and Colchester bus line, that Norwich was the recognized trading center for Colchester.

After hearing the speaking showing that there was really a great demand for the bus line between Norwich and Colchester, Commissioner Elwell asked for a choice of bus lines, provided the commission granted the petition. Commissioner Elwell left the choice entirely with the people of Colchester and they stated that the choice would be the Connecticut Motor Power company of New London, for the reason that the service had excellent buses, ran on time, and employed careful and experienced drivers. They did not consider that the other petitioners could give so satisfactory a service.

At the close of the hearing, Commissioner Elwell stated he would lay the matter before the entire commission and the report would be announced shortly.

The Norwich men attending the hearing were Herbert M. Leroy and John J. O'Rourke, president and secretary of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, William L. Stearns and John M. Lee, president and secretary of the Norwich Retail Merchants' association, Alexander Sharpe, Archibald Mitchell, Jr., J. H. Bruette, P. J. Morley, C. Edward Smith, J. B. Caron and James Quinn.

It was the consensus of opinion of the Norwich delegates that Commissioner Elwell will give a favorable report and that the bus line will be permitted to operate between the two towns, a thing which is needed, as at present there is no transportation facilities between the two towns that render a regular public service.

BROTHERHOOD AND UNITY WAS CONFERENCE TOPIC

The conference of six churches met at the Hanover Congregational church on Wednesday. Although the weather was threatening there were one hundred and twenty-six present. The services were opened by an organ prelude by Mrs. W. G. Park and was followed by the Doxology and Lord's Prayer. The responsive reading was led by Rev. Roderick MacLeod, pastor of the church. The scripture was taken from John 17 and was read by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge of St. James church, New London. Mrs. Francis G. Way of East Glastonbury sang, The Good Shepherd by Underwater. Rev. W. J. Reynolds of the Newent church offerdd prayer. The choir sang the anthem, Enter Not Into Judgment, by Richardson. The pastor welcomed the assembly and also the speakers who came from three other denominations.

Keynote of the services was based on the texts printed on the last page of the programmes, Behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity—and That they all may be one, as Thou, Father, are in me and I in Thee, that they also may be one in us; that the world may believe that Thou hast sent me.

Seldom, if ever have the six Congregational churches enjoyed the program of a conference with the pleasingly and unusual order of Wednesday. The addresses were delivered by Baptist, Methodist and Episcopalian clergymen. Each one in turn told the story that each year is becoming a more pleasant reality. The handwriting on the wall is teaching but one lesson; brotherhood and unity in the Christian churches. After a brief prayer the sermon of the morning was by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge.

He called attention to the various criticisms being directed at the church and told of the claims being made that the church had failed. During his remarks in explaining, different phases of the crisis through which the world is passing, he clearly presented conclusive argument, that in its greatest aims and accomplishments no failure could be suggested.

The church, and its religion must have its effect on social and religious life. And in the grand process of reconstruction, the age itself will be born again.

The resolutions committee were Rev. William Prentiss of Plainfield, James W. Eadie of Hanover and Rev. W. L. Muttart of Preston City. Dinner was served in the parish house, the table being decorated with potted geraniums. It was announced during the dinner hour that articles were on sale in the building, the proceeds of which are to go to the Near East relief. In the afternoon at the business session, the clerk read the report of the last conference. The resolutions were read by Rev. Mr. Prentiss, expressing appreciation of the hospitality, the speakers and music. In regard to the matter of the lost record book the clerk said that none had reported finding it. Rev. Mr. Reynolds announced that the next conference would be held with the Pachaug church the first Wednesday in June. Newent will entertain the conference in September, as the two hundredth anniversary of the church occurs in that month.

The clerk called the roll. From the churches of the conference there were six from Jewett City, fifty from Hanover, eight from Lisbon, two from Griswold, twenty-one from Preston City, five from Plainfield and thirty-four from other churches. After the offering was received, a song service was led by William G. Park.

Afternoon Session

The first address of the afternoon was by Rev. Chauncey W. Ruoff, of the Methodist church of Baltic.

With fellowship as his theme, the speaker said the church was an organization presided over by the Holy Spirit, and recognized no denominational bounds. Only genuine unity exists than ever before, the different denominations are preaching and living in a spirit of unity.

We need not relinquish our ideals, he said, and told his hearers, that Christ does not ask from what home we came but breathes out His love freely to all.

Mrs. Way sang How Lovely are Thy Dwelling, by Liddle. The song was beautiful, and the words so perfectly enunciated, that as she sang "the sparrow hath found a nest," every one in the room involuntarily looked at the sparrows who were nesting in the blind just above her head outside the window.

Rev. George R. Atha of the Baptist church at Groton, gave a sermon drama, The Governor.

His impressive monologue was from the celebrated lines of A. J. Archibald, and in the impersonation of Pontius Pilate, he interpreted the truly wonderful compensation between Pilate and Portia, his wife, showing Pilate as the galley slave, the Procurator of Judea and the friend of Tiberius.

In the scene with Polonius, the speaker told the age old story and brought out the sacred picture of Christ before his persecutors, and later in the judgment hall, when brought before Pilate. The last scene served to show the offered pardon, which was evened realized by the penitent Pilate. Mr. Atha proved himself the master of this unique and most pleasing feature of the conference.

At the close, as he sat with bowed head representing the penitent Pilate, Mrs. Thompson of Groton sang with fine expression Jesus is standing in Pilate's Court—what will you do with Jesus—what will He do with you? Quietly Mr. MacLeod arose and said the words of benediction as the congregation remained seated. It was a wonderfully impressive service. The floral decorations were potted ferns, palms and Marguerites, with vases of roses.

FAKER TAKES A HAND IN TIBBETTS MYSTERY

What is believed to be a fake letter, meant to fit into the Tibbetts mystery, although no direct reference is made to the missing Fitchville farmer has been received by the Bulletin.

The letter purports to be written by a tramp weaver of Central Falls, R. I., who claims to have seen the naked body of a man taken from the water at Narragansett pier, which he believes is the same man who he says gave him a ride from Yantic to Norwich on the night of April 9. This is the same night that the horse and wagon belonging to Tibbetts were found tied to a pole on Commerce street, Norwich.

The letter was mailed in Norwich three days after its date.

A telephone message to Dr. F. Edward Burke, medical examiner at Wakefield, R. I., established the fact that the man taken from the water at Narragansett pier was not the semblance of Tibbetts.

The following is the letter:

May 7?23

Deer Sir: —

On Monday night Apr. 9.23 bet 8 & 8 1-2 p. m. I was walking down from Fitchville mill and on road above Yantick I was overtaken by a farmer in a horse and buggy. I asked him for a ride and he brought me to Water st, Norwich, which helped me as I was going to Westerly. He hitched his horse in front of theatre on that street. He said he had a brother in R. I. Said he was sick of living alone on his farm, wished he was dead. His best friend was leaving town in a day or two.

Is this man missing? He paid my fare to Westerly on the buss that night and I saw him no more then. I saw a man naked taken from the water at Narragansett Pier on Saturday or Sunday and it looked to me as if it was the same one who came to Westerly with me that night. I think it is the same one. Tell his folks if he is not at home so they can bury him at home. I am sure it is the same man. His head is battered up badly. Look this up at once and tell his folks about it if he is not at home.

Yours truly
JACK WELCH.
Tramp Weaver
Central Falls, R. I.

The letter was written on brown wrapping paper, in pencil, with the signature apparently by a different hand than the body of the letter, or by a different pencil. The envelope was directed to the "City Editor," which tends to show that the writer had more of a knowledge of newspaper custom than a tramp weaver might be expected to possess, and raises the doubt whether the writer was not some other than a tramp weaver.

There are a number of discrepancies in the facts stated by a presumed eye witness and participant that throws doubt on the genuineness of the letter as well.

The writer says that the man who gave him a ride to Norwich tied his horse in Water street in front of the theater. The Tibbetts horse and wagon were found in Commerce street in the rear of the theater. The writer further says that Tibbetts paid his fare and rode with him on a bus to Westerly after 8.30 at night. There is no bus that leaves here for Westerly after 6.30.

The writer claims to have seen the body of the man taken out of the water at Narragansett Pier on Saturday or Sunday. His recollection of dates is curiously inaccurate as it was Tuesday that the body was found at Narragansett.

According to the newspaper accounts, the face of the man at Narragansett Pier was so badly battered as to be unrecognizable, but the letter writer claims to be certain it is the same man who gave him a ride on the night Tibbetts disappeared.

That the Narragansett Pier body could not be Tibbetts is evident from the description given by the Wakefield medical examiner. Tibbetts had long black hair, was noticeably dark complexioned, with hands hard and roughtened from farm labor.

The body at the pier had light brown hair, a little gray towards the top of the head, his skin was white and clear, and his hands showed that he had never done any hard work, having long white tapering fingers, that looked like a pickpocket's, according to the medical examiner.

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

(Beauty Culture)

Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.

BIBLE STUDY CLASS DISCUSSES PROHIBITION

The thought of "measuring up to the topic discussed at the weekly study of the men's Bible class at the local Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening. The scripture uses was Acts 16:16-40, the story of Paul and Silas in prison and what led up to it. Some of the points brought out were the following.

A certain place by the river side was used by these diciples for the purpose of prayer; it was the place where Lydia was converted and had become very dear to these servants of God. It is a great thing for a Christian to have a place of prayer. Because one day when Paul and Silas were going to pray, Paul cast an evil spirit out of a girl who was used by certain men for personal gain, these men dragged them before the authorities, who in turn beat them and cast them into a dungeon. Whenever true men interfere with illegal making of money they are liable to get into trouble. The men who today are very definitely working against the rum business are bound to make enemies because it is made more difficult for the bootleggers to make money.

The strongest opponents of prohibition are those who are evading the law and whose pocketbooks are affected when men interfere with their lawless business. It has ever been so: it was so in the case of these men whose pocketbooks were effected. The accusation was that Paul and Silas were hurting the city, which statement was false.

We need men today of the Paul type of courage, who are willing to be unpopular for a righteous cause; there are too few such today. The natural feeling of the average man if he were thus cast into a dungeon would be resentment against men and a feeling that God had forsaken him; these men however, instead of feeling despondent literally sang songs and prayed in the dungeon.

In discussing which was the most wonderful thing in the whole story, the casting out of the evil spirit, the earthquake, the singing in the dungeon or the conversion of the jailor, it was decided by the men that most wonderful of all was the fact that these men under such terrible conditions could really sing songs in the night; they must have been in close touch with God. Paul saved the jailors life by his calm words in the dark when the jailor would have killed himself, "do thyself no harm, we are all here." To the jailor's question "what must I do to be saved" Paul answered very definitely, "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ" and the way of salvation has never changed and never will, though some men have suggested ways. The jailor by his decision influenced his whole family to accept the Christ and they were all baptized. Every man has an influence, and he should use it for the glory of God.

NINE AIRPLANES ORDERED FOR STATE NTL. GUARD

Nine airplanes have been ordered to Hartford by the war department for the permanent use of the Connecticut National Guard, according to information received by Adjutant General George M. Cole. These planes will probably be delivered during the summer or as soon as hangars are erected to receive them.

There will be eight Hisspano-Suiza Curtiss J. N. 6 Training planes and one DeHaviland service plane with Liberty motor, this for use of the regular army officer, who will be assigned to Hartford as instructor. Two all steel hangars, 120 by 60 feet each are to be provided by the government and a small machine ship will be erected and barracks will be built to house the men sent there.

It is expected that Lieutenant Talbot Freeman of the 76th division of reserves will be the commanding officer. An unofficial call was issued on Monday for men familiar with gasoline engines and airplane parts. Fifty men and fifteen officers will be required before the unit is federalized. The organization is to be known as the 43d Squadron of the Twenty-sixth division and when completed Connecticut will have the first national guard air squadron in New England and the eighth in the United States.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY PARENT-TEACHERS ASS'N

The May meeting of the Laurel Hill Parent-Teachers association was held Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Frank Case, presiding. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted also a report of the recent supper given by this association showed a profit of nearly $40.

New officers were voted in and are Mrs. S. Averill, president; Mrs. Frank Dodge, vice president; Mrs. Smith, secretary and Mrs. Walter Crooks, treasurer. A rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Case, the retiring president.

The members were greatly pleased to hear Miss Florence Brown render several beautiful selections upon the piano and were also more than delighted with the reading of the Book of Ruth by Mrs. David A. Pitt. Her listeners were held enraptured as she vividly portrayed by her voice and words the characters of Naomi, Ruth and others. It was pleasure long to be remembered and the members feel they are greatly indebted to Mrs. Pitt.

Tea was served with Mrs. John Phillipps, Mrs. Charles Wright and Miss Sydleman as hostesses.

MUSIC AND PLAY ON ENTERTAINING PROGRAMME

Bushnell Chapel was filled to capacity Wednesday evening when the Vineyard Workers and Benevolent Union of the Central Baptist church gave an entertainment to raise funds to replenish the treasuries of the organization. The first number on the program was an orchestral number by Ladd's Serenaders following by a reading by Mrs. Grace E. Manning. Popular song hits were next sung by the Misses Catherine Adams and Dorothy Racine who received much applause. Mrs. Manning then delighted her audience with another reading. Miss Ada Raphael, violinist, rendered several classic numbers which were enjoyed, after which Ladd's Serenaders again played a group of song hits.

The feature of the program was the comedy, How the Story Grew. The play was in five acts picturing a country village and a group of women gossipers. One is puzzled when some one moves into the house across the street and because she cannot gossip starts the story and each one takes it along to her neighbor until the story reaches a point where Mrs. Brown who lives near the rented house has been killed, and over 50 children murdered in the cellar. The story ends when all get together and Mrs. Brown in triumph hands out the real news that the new neighbor is the new minister. Local hits used in the comedy caused considerable mirth and the audience applauded vigorously as shot after shot went home.

The members of the cast were as follows: Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Henry F. Church; Mrs. Green, Mrs. Jacob Gallup; Mrs. Bean, Miss H. Josephine McHale; Mrs. Rice, Miss Bessie Grimes; Mrs. Doolittle, Miss Alice Dean; Mrs. Snow, Mrs. E. Walter Phillips; Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Ambrose Sullivan; Mrs. White, Mrs. Charles L. Stewart.

The scenes were five in number, first, Mrs. Otis' kitchen; second, Mrs. Raymond's kitchen; third, Mrs. Doolittle's kitchen; four, Mrs. Taylor's kitchen; five, Mrs. Otis' sitting room. At the close of the play Mrs. Henry E. Church was presented a handsome bouquet of flowers from an admirer.

Between the numbers on the program candy was sold by the following: Miss Ruby Vaughn, chairman, Misses Dorothy Gildersleeve, Viola Hall, Catherine Adams, Doris Racine, Ruth Eaton and Unabelle Harbeck.

The members of the entertainment committee were Miss Alice Dean, Mrs John E. Hawkins, Mrs. Henry H. Pettis, Mrs. Jennie M. Davis, Mrs. Henry E. Church and Mrs. Charles L. Stewart. In charge of tickets were Miss Belle Rathbun and Miss Helen B. Moore.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At a session of the town court Wednesday morning Judge W. Fenner Woodward imposed a fine of $50 and costs upon Charles Dansereau on a charge that Dansereau had brought six horses into Connecticut from the state of Rhode Island without having the necessary permit to do so, as is required by the statutes of Connecticut. The case had been investigated by Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott of the commissioner of domestic animals and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, who had also ascertained that Dansereau was aware of the provision of the law and sought to evade it. Dansereau was much broken up over the affair. One of the horses has since died, it is stated, thought they were brought in about the first of the month. Rigid enforcement is being made of all violations of the law requiring permits before horses or cows can be brought across a state border into Connecticut, so the action against Dansereau is in no sense an effort to persecute him. The same action would have been taken against any other person in similar circumstances.

Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson on Allen Hill funeral services for their son, Herbert Anderson, were conducted by Rev. Albert Jepson, pastor of St. Alban's church and were attended by many relatives and friends. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were four brothers-in-law of the young man—Jamse Harney, Joseph Smith, Ray Pibbles and Edward Trindell. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Patrick Malley, for 60 years a resident at Pomfret Landing and well known in Goodyear, Dayville and other sections of this town, is dead at his farm place. He was a native of Ireland, born 81 years ago, and came to this country as a youth, locating in Pomfret and ever since making his home there, being at the time of his death one of the oldest residents of the community. He leaves his wife, who also has been in Pomfret about 60 years, a son, Richard, at home, three daughters, Mrs. James Fitzgerald of Hampton, Mrs. Eugene Alvord of Putnam and another resident in Woonsocket.

Words of praise have been showered upon the cast that presented Pilate's Daughter before audiences totaling more than 500 people in St. James hall and congratulations extended to Rev. E. J. Shelley, M. S., who directed the production with such marked success. The drama, of religious theme, was given under the auspices of the Children of Mary and the cast had been in preparation for weeks. The stage decorations suggested an oriental garden of palms, roses and eastern flowers, while the settings and the costumes of the players vividly reproduced pictures of Roman and Judean life.

A particular tribute was paid to Wanda Niejadlik as Pontia—Pilate's daughter, a character she portrayed with a sweetness and beauty. Her supporting cast lent itself to the accomplishment of various tense scenes with ability that won the intense interest and generous applause of the audience. Tableaux, vocal numbers by Miss Nellie Delaney and music by a special parish orchestra were also appreciated features fo the production, for the success of which great credit is due to Father Shelley, aided by the splendid cooperation of those who assisted in it.

William S. Brown announced Wednesday morning that he has disposed of two of a group of two tenement houses on Water street, where he built six such dwellings a few years ago when the Danielson Cotton company, now extinct, was experiencing a housing shortage. The buildings were put up on sites formerly occupied by mill tenements that had gone into such a state of disrepair that it was deemed advisable to tear them down. Mr. Brown will close out all of these houses at once through deals now pending he stated Wednesday that the demand for homes here can at least be partly met. As elsewhere throughout the country building operations here are restricted because of the present high cost, a condition, it so happens, that connot at present be avoided.

Quantities of coal are now coming into Danielson and other parts of the town of Killingly, much of it being soft coal that has been purchased by manufacturing concerns. This week the siding of the Attawaugan company at Attawaugan crossing has been filled practically to its capacity with a string of coal cars holding in the aggregate several hundred tons. This coal is being unloaded at the company dump beside the track and eventually will be hauled a distance of about a mile to the company's factory. Considerable coal has also been unloaded in Danielson this week and it would appear that hte gathering of the supply for next winter's needs is now underway.

Erection of an all metal building for a firm doing a business in Railroad square is proving of interest this week. This structure, built sectionally, is being rapidly assembled. It is the first building of its kind in the business section. Its type and the rapidity with which it is being put together make the operation of more than passing interest. It stretches out from the southerly end of what formerly was the freight station of the Providence and Danielson railroad company, the rails of which line are now torn up between East Killingly and North Scituate.

The pinch of a farm labor shortage is making itself felt in territory hereabouts. The present period of prosperity is having much the same attracting labor from the farms into other lines of endeavor as was experienced during the war. High wages are being paid on farms this spring that the usual program of work may be carried out, but the response to the calls for farm labor are not ample to assure that all will be done in agricultural lines that would be on the program if farm labor were more plentiful.

Included in the trip of George Cook who recnetly returned here after spending the winter in the south was a visit of several weeks in Cuba. Mr. Cook found Havana very interesting and very much different from an American city, though the place was thronged with Americans. Gamblin is rampant at the Casinos and other such resorts where the wealthy play for high stakes, horse racing was having a remarkable vogue and the thirsty from the states were regaling themselves in a sea of things to drink. Still Mr. Cook found nothing about Havana or other parts of Cuba he saw to create any desire to remain there.

Mrs. W. W. Woodward, Broad street, was reported as improved Wednesday after an illness of more than a week.

Somehow the enthusiasm over trout fishing seems to have fallen off materially during the past week or ten days. The fish have not been biting well and that is discouraging to many devotees of the sport.

The inaugural of the open air dancing season in this territory is scheduled for Saturday evening of this week.

Arthur B. Bowers of Hartford was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Further breaks in the crude oil market are making motorists hreeabout look forward hopefully to another cent or two drop in the price of gasoline, though no promise of that has been made as yet.

There appears to be some demand for a five wire observance of Fourth of July in Danielson this year—something in the celebrating line after the pattern of years gone by.

Recent narrow escapes of motorists at the Franklin street crossing in the southerly section of the borough would appear to invite greater caution upon the part of those who use this route, where fatal accidents have occurred in the past, the crossing is protected by an automatic signal gong, but the approaches are bad and drivers must exercise exceptional care to be assured of safety.

The baseball season doesn't seem to get going in Danielson this spring. Unseasonable weather seems to have killed all ardor for the national sport for the time being and there is little practicing or playing.

It was noted here with interest on Wednesday that Willimantic has voted to return to standard time, which makes it practically unanimous in Windham county, where daylight saving appears to have gone out of vogue.

The conspicuous and important part Representative E. L. Darbie has played in the sessions of the legislature now drawing to a close is pleasing to his constituency in Killingly and brings his name to the forefront as a logical candidate for nomination as senator from this district when the republican senatorial caucus is held a year from next fall. Killingly has not had a senator in a decade.

Shelton—Leslie Holmes has reported to the police and state authorities the loss of his Buick coupe which was stolen from his garage. The garage adjoins his summer home in Walnut Beach.

Mammoth Land Sale

35 — Valuable House Lots — 35

At Auction

On Saturday, May 19th, 1923, at 1 o'clock p. m. (Standard Time) on the Swan Plot, in the City of Norwich, bounded by Mechanics Street, Mt. Pleasant Street and Champlin Street and intersected by Swan Avenue and Elizabeth Street.

We have been commissioned by Messers. Wolfe and Krieger, the owners of this valuable and desirable property, to sell the same as described on the above date at Public Sale. These valuable home sites are only a short distance from the heart of the city and the business section on the West Side. About 2 minutes' walk from the trolley line. Electric lights, city water, and gas available. Mechanics Street is now a macadimized thoroughfare and is accommodated by sewer.

These lots should sell like Government Bonds. This is an opportunity of unusual importance. Buy for a home site. Buy for an investment. Real Estate is classed as one of the safest investments in the world. Safety of principle, first, last and always.

Terms of Sale: 15 per cent. of the purchase price due at time of sale, and the balance within the duration of one year from date, during which period said property shall be tax free.

PUTNAM

Additional eviction notices have been served by the Manhasset company on families involved in the lockout at the big textile plant and it was stated Wednesday afternoon that these notices now number more than 30. The first of those served becomes effective next Monday and other will become effective at 10-day intervals from the dates on which they were served. Patently this is an effective weapon that the company is using to combat the labor trouble, but the company claims justification on the ground that applications for work in the mill are coming in and that the tenements occupied by the strikers are wanted for families who are willing to work for the wage scales in force at the plant.

For those who will be effected by these eviction notices the situation is a difficult one. Rents are exceedingly scarce—almost unobtainable in Putnam—and few of the families ordered to vacate mill company tenements have any definite idea as to where they will remove. This without doubt has been the cause of some who have been out returning to their work in the mill. In other cases heads of families are said to be seeking employment in other mills here or elsewhere, and at this particular time there is such a demand for textile operatives that finding work is not difficult.

An official of the mill company was quoted Wednesday as stating that there will be no conferences between mill representatives and emissaries of the men. Applicants for re-employment will be referred to overseers of the departments in accordance with the usual practice, it was said. Some of the departments of the plant were reported at the mill Wednesday as running 100 per cent., while other departments were operating at below normal capacity. A considerable number of those who first went out have returned to their work.

Those who are out followed their regular daily routine of meeting during Wednesday, which was quiet as all the other days that have marked the period.

Flaring headlines in Boston papers of Wednesday dealing with the spectacular robbery of the woodland camp of Mrs. Ruth Buckingham Nichols at Billerica, Mass., and of a pitched battle between factions figuring in the sensational case held special interest for Putnam people in view of the fact that one of the characters in the strange drama, Clarence E. Foster, claims to have been married in this city in 1917. Records at the office of Town Clerk David Flagg show that a Clarence E. Foster and Alaine J. Samuleson, were married here that year, acidently having come into this section, as scores of couples have done in the past, to be married and then return to their Massachusetts homes. At the present time it appears, Foster again is a free agent and asserts he is engaged to Miss Jillian Ferguson, governess for Mrs. Nichols, for whom he acts as chauffeur.

The Nichols family troubles have received a generous airing in the Boston newspapers this week. Mrs. Nichols asserts that she was forced by her mother to enter 13 years ago into a loveless marriage with John H. Nichols, a wealthy wool manufacturer of Wellesley and that all of her married life has been intolerable to her.

Finally, a few days since, she fled with their three children, two girls and a boy, and with Chauffeur Foster and Governess Ferguson as companions hid away in a woodland retreat in Billerica. Agents of her husband traced her there. Eventually, she charges, the husband and detectives appeared to take the children away. A pitched battle occurred in which she was beaten and injured and guns flashed in the hands of the contending forces. She alleges the children was forcibly taken from her. Since then the camp has been broken into and clothing and jewelry belonging to Mrs. Nichols and valued at $2,000 stolen.

A legal battle for the custody of the Nichols children is now on and there is cross talk of divorce suits and other drastic procedure.

Rev. William B. Olmstead, master of Pomfret school, will be the Memorial day orator in Putnam this year. It was also announced Wednesday that Attorney Archibald Macdonald will be president of the day and that Francis Metcalf will be marshal. The exercises this year will be held at the soldiers' monument on Grove street.

Still in an unconscious state, as he has been the greater part of the time for the past week, Captain Reml Delage of the Putnam police department was reported from the City hospital in Worcester at noon Wednesday to be steadily failing in strength, as has been the case since the first of the week. Practically no hope of his recovery was held out.

On display in the window of a local jewelry store is a new silver loving cup to be known as the Putnam High School Alumni Reunion cup and to be held each year by the class having the largest number of members at the annual reunion. The cup cost about $50 and the fund to pay for it is expected to be raised by contributions of $1.00 each from Alumni members.

L. H. Fuller, James H. McCulloch and Robert T. Chadwick were the delegates from Israel Putnam lodge of this city to the state convention of the I. O. O. F., held Wednesday in South Manchester, this state.

Fayette Wright, with his family, has returned from his winter's stay in Florida, where he owns extensive orange groves and spends several months of the cold weather period each year. On account of the delayed spring Mr. Wright did not return this year until about two weeks later than is his custom.

An agent of a firm supplying traffic towers such as the one set in the square at Putnam center has been in town this week interviewing city officials relative to locating other such towers here. The locations talked of are at the junction of Bridge and Main street, at Main and Providence streets and at school at Providence streets. The towers are lighted and flash at rapid intervals day and nibht.

Bids for the construction of the proposed building of the Putnam Savings bank will be opened Friday of this week, it was stated Wednesday. It is understood that a considerable number of firms are seeking the contract for the construction of this building, which will occupy a site cleared for it on Main street where the razed St. Onge building stood.

Included in the announcements from the office of the Windham County Farmers' association here Wednesday was that the Hampton Poultry club has a killing and picking demonstration scheduled for this (Thursday) afternoon at William Ruddy's in Hampton. The demonstration will be in charge of R. E. Jones of the Connecticut Agricultural college. This is one of a series of such meetings being held in Windham county towns this week.

At their Tuesday evening meeting members of Putnam lodge of Elks discussed plans for their annual fair. It was stated Wednesday that the fair will be enlarged this year and additional features brought in to make it be named and then return to their Massachusetts homes. At the present time it appears, Foster again is a free agent and asserts he is engaged to Miss Jillian Ferguson, governess for Mrs. Nichols, for whom he acts as chauffeur.

PLAINFIELD

A pretty home wedding took place Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lottie L. Dodge when her daughter, Susan Alta Dodge, was united in marriage with Westley Ray Blanchard of Falmouth, Mass., Rev. William C. Prentiss, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiating. Only the immediate family were present at the ceremony, at which the single ring service was used. The bride wore a pretty gown of gray canton crepe. The bridesmaid was Miss Marion L. Dodge, a sister of the bride, and the best man was a brother of the bride, Henry I. Dodge.

Following the wedding ceremony, a dinner and reception were given at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lottie L. Dodge. The bride's brothers, Henry I. Dodge of New London and William E. Dodge of Hartford, were present at the wedding. Mrs. Levi C. Blanchard, the mother of the groom, and Miss Bertha Blanchard, a sister, were present from Falmouth Mass. GIVEN YEAR IN JAIL FOR ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

New London, May 16.—In the superior court here this morning Dominick Mariola was allowed to plead guilty to the charge of assault with intent to kill instead of pleading to the original charge of assault with intent to murder. Following being put to plea, Mariola was given a sentence of one year in the New London county jail.

Mariola several months ago went to a store on Woodbridge street where he engaged in a card game. In the place at the time was Joseph Vendetta and the best of feeling had not existed betwe n the two men. During the progress of the game Mariola and Vendetta engaged in a quarrel, with the result that Mariola pulled a revolver and fired at Vendetta. The bullet did not reach its mark, for only a superficial wound was inflicted upon Vendetta's hip. Mariola ran from the store immediately following the shooting and was hidden at the home of an acquaintance. He remained there two weeks after the shooting, when he was delivered into the custody of the police by his attorney.

Adelaide E. Chappell has sold a house and lot on Hill street to DeWitt C. Calvert.

Lucy DeWolf has sold a house and lot on Pitch avenue to Robert J. Simpson.

Peter Rammi has sold to Esrish and Mersina Rolfe a house and lot on Maple avenue.

John K. Foran, Frank L. McGuire, Joseph Reagan and Arthur F. Keefe, executors of the will of Thomas F. Foran, have sold a house and lot on Elliott avenue, Ocean Beach, to Daniel F. and Charlotte Carter.

Eva LaMontagne, aged 17 years, a mill worker at Central Falls, R. I., from which place she ran away yesterday, is believed to be in New London, and today a brother of the girl came to this city and requested the police to aid him in his search for his sister. No trace of the girl was obtained.

An automobile owned by a Providence man became ablaze from a backfire on Willetts avenue last night and a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters. The Ockford Hose company responded and subdued the blaze with chemicals. The machine was but slightly damaged.

Charles Daboll of Summit avenue, Allen H. Tooker of Howard street, Mrs. Mary Bill of Lyme, Mrs. George Quade and baby of Franklin street, Cadet Clarence Peterson of the United States Coast Guard academy, Mrs. Alice Calvert of Franklin street, Joseph Gambell of Groton, Virginia Domaninaid of North street and Mrs. Mary Guerin of Summer street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Association hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Mrs. Alice J. Clark, wife of Charles W. Clark of No. 216 Vauxhall street, died last night following a brief illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Clark is survived by one son. Mrs. Clark suffered a shock a week ago and since that time her condition has been critical, but it was not anticipated that death would occur as soon as it did.

The funeral of James Moran was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners, among whom were delegations representing St. John's Literary society, Knights of Columbus and Holy Name society, in which organizations Mr. Moran held membership. A soleman high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschleger, assisted by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley as deacon and Rev. John McGrath as sub-deacon. The bearers were Frederick J., Julian D., Edward, Mattias R. and Harry Moran, nephews of the deceased, and Patrick F. Quinn, brother-in-law of Mr. Moran. Interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The roadster used by Fire Chief John Stanners is in a garage receiving much needed repairs. During the progress of work on the machine the Wamsaug Engine company's apparatus will convey Chief Stanners and Deputy Chief Charles Rose to fires.

Albert H. Bellefleur of No. 185 Thames street will be arraigned in the police court next Saturday morning, charged with violation of the automobile laws in passing a standing trolley car with his automobile while passengers were being discharged from the trolley car. Bellefleur was complained against by John Rost and John Waldron of the Connecticut company, who alleged that Bellefleur operated his machine past the trolley car on Bank street and narrowly escaped hitting the passengers. Bellefleur could not be located, but this afternoon he appeared at the police station and gave himself up.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today suspended the operator's license of John Rynasko of No. 322 Main street.

Mrs. Thomas Oldroyd of No. 60 Thames street appeared at the police station this afternoon and complained against her husband, stating that the latter was abusing her. Mrs. Oldroyd is of advanced years and is not believed to be mentally entirely responsible. She was sent to her home and was accompanied there by Patrolman Augustus Ray so that no harm would befall the woman.

John J. Higgins, residing at No. 161 Park avenue, complained to the police this morning that two boys named Stapling and residing at No. 14 Shaw street had visited the pasture of J. Isham Chappell in Waterford and had stolen an 8 months old colt. An effort was made to locate the alleged thieves but without success, but it is believed the boys will be found and the colt recovered within a day or two.

This evening Higgins recovered his colt and the young men accused were taken into custody by Motorcycle Officer John Cavanaugh. The boys were locked up and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. The brothers tell a ridiculous story of the theft of the colt, declaring that the animal followed them from Waterford to New London, but they do not tell how the colt was liberated from the pasture.

It is understood that the sailor at the submarine base who it was believed would be taken into custody charged with defalcation of funds of the government will not suffer that humility. The shortage, it was stated, was $450, and that this sum was raised by the man, who used the funds entrusted to him with the idea of being in a position to replace them sooner than he did.

Mrs. Alice Hunt at present connected with the state farm for women at Niantic, and who has received the appointment of policewoman in New London, will begin her duties Friday, June 1st, City Manager Barlow announces. Mrs. Hunt will report to the city manager on that date, when an outline will be made as to the first work that she will undertake in the endeavor of the city officials to make New London the proverbial "Spotless town." If she succeeds in the accomplishment of the work that she is expected to perform, Mrs. Hunt will do what all others have failed to do.

Drivers in general, whether of horses or automobiles, are emphatic in their complaints of the condition of the streets of the city. Montauk and Pequot avenues are in such condition that they rattle and shake vehicles that pass over them, and riding on them is an experience not to be desired. Montauk avenue is bad, but lower Pequot avenue is in wretched condition. Last winter was a hard one on the roads, but drivers claim that if the highways were put in good condition once, the expense of the care of them would be reduced to a minimum.

The west side of Montauk avenue has been harrowed this spring and then rolled down, but that sort of repair is only of a temporary nature. The east side is now being treated in the same way. It would be a wise move on the part of the city government if Montauk and Pequot avenues were permanently paved or laid in asphalt, and then to have the heavy teaming confined to Pequot avenue and driving of the lighter vehicles followed on Montauk avenue. There are few stores and no manufacturing on the latter highway, so that heavy teaming and trucking could easily be kept away from it. Pequot avenue for some distance might be paved with granite and the lower part with brick. The streets that have been thus treated have worn many years with comparatively no expense to the city.

It is claimed that there is less liquor being sold in New London now than at any time since prohibition became effective. As an evidence of this the fact is pointed out that there have been no arrests of consequence made in some time.

It is believed that Chief Engineer Stanners of the fire department, who has asked to be retired, will continue in the office he holds until next October, when the fiscal year of the city expires. Who will be his successor has not even been hinted at by those who are interested—the firemen. There is an opinion that is growing that the city may go outside for a chief engineer and get a man from one of the large cities who has had experience in fire duty. If that is attempted there will be a howl go up.

Horace Pervere of No. 89 Montauk avenue, employed as day crew dispatcher by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in New London was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning on orders issued by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Frank Q. Cronin. It is understood that Pervere was complained against by his wife for non-support.

Grace McSherry, the 19 years old girl, who was acquitted of the charge of manslaughter in abandoning her new born baby last January, in the superior court yesterday, has been shown considerable attention by church members who endeavored to interest themselves in the girl and induce her to change her mode of living. The girl was at the home of Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs throughout today and it was intended that she go to Massachusetts tomorrow or Friday where she has an aunt.

It was planned for a woman connected with the First Baptist church to accompany the girl as far as Boston and there see that she was headed for the home of the relative. It is now understood that the girl has changed her mind about going to Massachusetts and has decided to continue to make New London her abode, much to the displeasure of the church people and that because of the girls decision to remain in New London the church women have practically decided to discontinue their endeavors to assist the girl in leading a different life than that which she followed in New London last winter.

J. Frank Salter and family have moved from No. 59 to No. 74 Williams street.

George L. Spafford, a veteran conductor in the employ of the passenger service of the Central Vermont railroad, has moved from Williams to Broad street.

Herbert F. Taft, of Groton, where he has been long employed by the New London Ship and Engine company, is to remove to Pittsfield, Mass., shortly. Mr. Taft was active in all patriotic events to occur in New London and Groton in recent years and the organizations identified with such work will lose a useful assistant in the removal of Mr. Taft.

Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, who has been incapacitated and unable to assume the duties of his office as prosecuting attorney because of being confined to his home on Nathan Hale street by eye trouble, will go to Hartford tomorrow in his official capacity as representative to the state legislature.

Frank Knight, colored chauffeur in the employ of a resident of Colchester, who was ordered to appear in the police court Monday last by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, charged with violation of the automobile law in not being provided with an operators license and for whose arrest a warrant has been given the state police to serve, was in New London today for the purpose of interviewing Acting Prosecuting Attorney Frank Q. Cronin. Knight declares that he did not understand that his appearance in court was commanded, but that he interpreted the officer's language as a reprimand. Knight will be arraigned in court next Saturday. He did not possess a Connecticut operator's license when held up on Bank street, having an old license and of Virginia issuance.

Mrs. Hadai A. Hull, wife of State's Attorney Hull, is confined to her home on Vauxhall street by illness.

The funeral of Mrs. Ida J. Totten, wife of Charles Totten of No. 21 Starr street, whose death occurred a few days ago, was held this afternoon at two o'clock at local undertaking rooms. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Relatives of Mrs. Totten acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The Knights of Columbus conferred the first degree on a class of candidates this evening at the home of the organization. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of members.

Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians will hold their regular meeting tomorrow night in Temperance hall, corner of Hunting and Jay streets. Following the session several hours will be spent socially by the members for an entertaining program has been arranged for their diversion.

With the approach of July fourth, as anticipated, the celebrators of that day in New London will be compelled to conduct the celebrating in a rather sane manner as has been the case for several years, or since the outbreak of the World war. Director of Law Frank L. McGuire, following a conference recently between City Manager James H. Barlow and Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney is preparing an ordinance to govern the sale and discharge of fireworks and the measure is scheduled for submission to the city council at the next regular meeting of that body, which will be held next Monday night. The ordinance will prohibit the sale or use of blank cartridges at all times and will make it mandatory that the discharge of fireworks shall be the night before the Fourth or during the holiday. All dealers who have fireworks for sale will be compelled to take out a license as heretofore.

Miss Eva Constantine, neugin of Theodore J. Constantine of No. 24 Rosemary street, was married to George Loios of Newark, N. J., last Sunday afternoon, the ceremony occurring at the home of Mr. Constantine and in the presence of a large number of acquaintances of the contracting couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrill Fielding of Mohegan announce the marriage of their daughter, Loretta C. Fielding to Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert Schultz, a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Idaho. The marriage was solemnized May 5th at Los Angeles, in which city, the couple will make their future home.

PENHALLOW'S BODY FOUND IN NEW HAVEN HARBOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 16.—The body of Clarence Penhallow of New London was found floating in New Haven harbor beneath the city dock by boys early this evening. The body was in such a state of decomposition that it had to be removed from the water on planks.

Penhallow, who was a member of the crew of one of the Thames Towboat Company barges, was drowned about the first of the year when a dory overturned throwing him into the water.

WOMAN SO BLUE SHE CRIED

Because of Ill Health—Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Burlington, Ia.—"I used to dread the time for my monthly period as it came every two weeks and lasted for two weeks, and during that time I would have the blues and cry. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am so happy I can hardly express myself. I have gained several pounds and look fine. I have recommended your medicine to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial. I hope your medicine will give others the relief it did me."—Mrs. RALPH GAIL, 2031 Des Moines St., Burlington, Ia.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for ailments common to women. It has been used for such troubles for nearly fifty years, and thousands of women have found relief as did Mrs. Gail, by taking this splendid medicine.

If you are suffering from irregularity, painful times, nervousness, headache, backache or melancholia, you should at once begin to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is excellent to strengthen the system and help to perform its functions with ease and regularity.

The Vogue of the Victoria

For several years the public has evinced for the Cadillac Victoria, regard amounting to positive affection.

The preference for this model, growing stronger every year, is due primarily to its especially wide range of utility and to the efficiency of its V-Type, 90° eight-cylinder engine.

For shopping, for touring in the country, for business purposes, or the theatre, the Victoria is equally serviceable. Not too large for a single passenger, it easily accommodates four people.

Because of its pronounced riding smoothness, ease of handling, convenience of entrance and exit, and rich appointments, it is as popular among women as among men.

In appearance, the Cadillac Victoria is an artistic car, distinctive, beautiful, eminently worthy of its owner's pride. Created by Cadillac, it is one of the most widely imitated body styles.

Combining Cadillac dependability and power with its own special advantages, the fine Victoria enjoys a demand which has established it as the foremost exponent of its type and kind.

WESTERLY

Session of superior court was resumed in the Washington county court room on Union street Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock with Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner on the bench. The case set down for trial was called. It was the case of Amos L. Kenyon, overseer of the poor of the town of Hopkinton, complainant vs. Wilfred Palmer, represented by Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun, with Clarence E. Roche for Kenyon. The case was one of bastardy in which Wilfred Palmer was charged with being the father of an illegitimate child of Mary Pukas of Hope Valley for whose support this action was taken to relieve the town of Hopkinton of the burden. Before proceeding with this case Judge Sumner inquired if the cases following this one would be ready for trial. The judge stated that he could not come down to Westerly and waste time by calling for cases and not finding them ready.

The judge added, "If this case is concluded at 4 o'clock, you gentlemen must be here and ready to proceed, otherwise the case will be called and passed. Attorney Roche stated that he was ready in the next two cases, Victoria M. Brown, adm., vs. Adolphus Le Bonte and Victoria M. Brown vs. Adolphus Le Bonte, provided Attorney Archambault was present, but would not insist on trial if he was absent. Attorneys Roche and Ledwidge respectively responded ready in the next case, Eva F. Kelly vs. Patrick T. Wing. The cases, Ledyard S. Anthony vs. David Fitzgerald, Alfa Gallagher, Charles Taylor vs. William E. Cook, were answered as ready.

The following jury was impaneled: Walter H. Gardiner, North Kingstown; Frank Smith, South Kingstown; John Jacob Blass, Westerly; James Brady, Hopkinton; Stephen Fargo, Westerly; Frank Mills, Charlestown; Thomas F. Clemmens, Westerly; Geo. W. Hathaway, Exeter; Fred Stramp, Richmond; George E. Wood, Narragansett; John B. Eaton, Westerly; Ethan Pendleton, Westerly; Sylvester W. Easterbrook, South Kingstown; George E. Hallowell, South Kingstown; Thomas F. Quinnen, Narragansett; William E. Jordan, North Kingstown; Edwin W. Eccleston, North Kingstown.

The following were challenged: Frank Mills, Charlestown; John B. Eaton, Westerly; George W. Hathaway, Exeter; Fred Stramp, Richmond; William E. Jordan, North Kingstown. George E. Wood, Narragansett was made foreman.

At this point Clerk Caswell raised the question whether the case was not a criminal one. Judge Sumner stated that as only a judgment was asked and not a penalty it was a civil one and the trial proceeded. Alexander Pasek of Hope Valley was questioned as to his qualifications as interpreter for the first witness called. Mary Pukas was of Polish nationality. It was necessary for him to act in that capacity.

Mary Pukas, 37 years, of Hope Valley, testified that she was the mother of three illegitimate children. The first child was born in this town was now about [illegible] old. She identified that she first met the respondent, Wilfred Palmer in Hope Valley, July 4th, 1921, and that they had met from that time to February 1, 1922, since which date she had seen the defendant but once, in March. It was brought out by Attorney Rathbun in his cross examination that the witness could not enumerate the months in the year. The progress of the examination was very slow as it was very difficult for both the interpreter and the witness to grasp the meaning of English words used. At 11.40 the spare jurors were excused to report in the court room at 2 p. m.

DRIVE AGAINST STEEL SHARES

New York, May 16.—Professional bear traders launched another sharp drive against the steel shares in today's stock market, forcing most of the leaders to new low records for the year. Their failure to bring out any extensive forced liquidation in other quarters, however, led to a covering movement in the early afternoon in which much of the ground lost during the morning was recovered.

Scattered selling took place throughout the session in individual stocks subjects to special influences, new low prices for the year being recorded by Postum Cereal, off 6 1-8 points; Famous Players, off 3 3-8 points, and Standard Oil of New Jersey, International Harvester, Worthington Pump, American Agricultural Chemical common and preferred, Lorillard Tobacco, Dome Mines and Sears Roebuck, the net losses in these issues ranging from small fractions to 3 points.

Just before the close short interests started a drive against the copper stock, which were particularly susceptible to pressure because of the relaxing price tendency of the red metal, now quoted at 15 1-2 cents a pound, or two cents below the year's high. Utah broke 3 1-2 points, Kennecott, 1 and the others fractionally, heaviness of these issues brought about some selling in other quarters, net losses largely exceeding net gains at the close.

Weekly iron and steel reviews again emphasize the restricted nature of new buying and the resultant falling off in forward business. No significant changes are reported, however, in the prices of standard products. U. S. Steel common dropped today to 96 7-8, the lowest price this year, and then rallied to 97 3-8, off 5-8 on the day. Bethlehem and Crucible steels also established new lows, but the net losses were limited to fractions.

Publication of statistics showing that railway traffic in the first quarter of this year was the greatest in the history of the period failed to arouse any interest in the rail shares, which declined with the rest of the list. The losses, as a rule, were small although Canadian Pacific, Lackawanna and Western Maryland preferred each closed a point or more below yesterday's final prices.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, but dropped to 4 in the early afternoon, closing at that figure. Time money was virtually placed on a 5 per cent. basis. Large sums being available at that figure. The bulk of prime commercial paper continues to move at 5 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates were slightly easier despite the department of commerce's announcement that imports exceeded exports by more than $60,000,000 in March, the greatest month's excess of imports over exports on record. While such an excess would have resulted in heavy gold shipments to this center and possibly a marked improvement in exchange rates before the war, it has been counteracted by the vast sums payable here by Great Britain on her war debt. By the enormous decrease in interest payments on American securities owned abroad and by the sizeable reduction in ocean freight indebtedness. Due to a slump in foreign trade and the greater activity of the American merchant marina. Demand sterling dropped 1-4 of a cent to $4.62 1-2 and French francs slipped 3 points to 6.64 cents. German marks sold at $31.50 a million, or within $1.50 of the extreme low for all time. Norwegian exchange established another new low at 14.13 cents.

KIDNEY TROUBLE BECOMES SERIOUS

"Suffered with severe headache, backache and pains in my legs and under my shoulder blade. My kidneys and bladder were in bad condition. I was weak and nervous and felt tired and worn out. Walking made me short of breath. Every morning my face and hands were bloated. Medicines failed to help my condition and doctors advised an operation," writes Maggie Nelson, Mossdale, Pa. "Fortunately I read about Foley Kidney Pills, tried them and got relief." Lee & Osgood Co.

Some notice was taken, too, of 17,622,000 bushels decrease in the world's available supply of wheat.

The corn market showed independence of wheat. Reports of seed rotting in the ground were emphasized by knowledge of seriously delayed field work and by meagerness of receipts.

Besides North American stocks of corn were figured as 19,500,000 bushels less than last year, and Argentine crop estimates were for a yield of 37,000,000 bushels less than in 1922. Oats followed the corn advance.

Provisions were higher with hogs and on account of the bullish showing of the semi-monthly report on stocks of lard here.

JEWETT CITY

Mrs. B. C. Bliss, regent of the Anne Godwaser Chapter, D. A. R., announces the arrival of the street cans to be placed at points about the borough for the reception of refuse, this, in accordance with the chapter's policy of campaign for cleaner highways. The co-operation of Warden Matthew Geary and the borough officials was willingly assured. The cans are artistic in design, 40 inches high by 11 square, painted olive green, with a pointed cone top, fitted with an automatic swing cover, that closes instantly when the pressure of the deposited article is removed.

A cleanup day in the schools, in cooperative with the chapter's plan. The fraternal orders in the borough are to be consulted relative to sharing the expense.

Deputy Sheriff John T. Nolan, saw two men Tuesday evening driving a Willis Knight on the borough streets. Certain irregularities about the appearance of the men, first attracted his attention, later arousing his suspicion. The driver Jerry de Cote of Central Village admitted that he was driving a machine owned by John Richards of Voluntown and that Richards was in Woonsocket.

Further investigation by the sheriff disclosed the fact that the Willis Knight had no registration numbers. De Cote had supplied the deficiency by taking a set of Ford numbers, from his own car. Cote had a driver's license.

Officer Dolan put the car in storage until such time as it is duly registered. The driver will appear upon his own recognisance for a hearing Monday.

met with the ready cooperation spirit, when suggested to the others who enjoy the Starr table service.

A number of presents were given including a substantial gold coin in a regulation presentation case. Mr. Truesdale, was selected for the speech making and it is reported that he did himself proud. There were many enjoyable features connected with the evening's celebration.

The supper presented an elaborate menu:

Grape Juice
Roast Stuffed Native Chicken
Grape Jelly Boiled Potatoes
Celery Pickles Asparagus
Strawberry Shortcake
Assorted cake Fancy cookies
Fruit Tea
Cigars

At this point an original poem by Mr. Truesdale proved an added attraction.

The guests included:

O. F. Miller, T. J. Moran, N. Coughlin, Fred T. Taylor, Rev. John W. Payne, Wallace H. Payne, Arthur Mowry, Henry Popham, Miss Rose Sharkey, Mrs. Adelard Dufresne, Miss Margaret Grant, S. R. Truesdale and Charles F. Campbell.

An interesting letter has been received in the Paul family from Mrs. Harold Hewett of Hartford.

Pleasing information is told of her son David, a native of Jewett City. He sang, as a member of the boys' choir in St. John Episcopal last Sunday. From the chorus of twenty young Hewett was given the solo numbers. Five weeks ago David sang in a Hartford theatre. Local friends are congratulating him on his musical skill and advancement.

Those who attended the conference of churches in Hanover, Wednesday from the Jewett City churches were Deacon and Mrs. G. A. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. J. T. (Supplic Ode)
"And Dawn Kirchhoefe" Brahms
(In the Churchyard)
(Margrete Gerstenberg)

Sigrid Onegin created a sensation as a new member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Her voice has the glorious richness of tone desired for in great contraltos. Like other artists of the New Hall of Fame she selected Brunswick to immortalize her voice because of its faithful interpretation of the difficult tones, its clearness and brilliant interpretations. Mme. Onegin gives the two beautiful Brahms selections a rendition full of glowing color and rare loveliness of expression. Be sure and hear them.

New Brunswick Records are on sale every day. They can be played on any phonograph—but on The Brunswick.

STANDARD TIME NOT ACTUAL SUN TIME

So much protest has been raised to "daylight saving," that it is subversive to scientific, logical and even pious methods to marking duration of time, that The New York World recently printed a samp's statement of the real means by which the public knows what time it is.

Strictly speaking, there has not been a day in 1923 when the clocks and the sun told the same story of the time. The nearest toward unanimity of these two authorities was on April 16, but then the sun reached the meridian at Washington 1.83 seconds before the clocks announced that it was noon. On Nov. 3, it will have been gaining so rapidly on time as we know it in daily life, that there will be a difference of 15 minutes and nearly 23 seconds between it and the clocks while on last New Year's day it was going so slow that it was 14 minutes and 57 seconds late in reaching the meridian, according to timepieces which are absolutely correct. Today, May 16, the clocks are 3 minutes and 25.27 seconds different from the sun, and the divergency is increasing at the rate of a second every five minutes.

This shows that time as we reckon it is whether daylight saving or ordinary "mean time" as it has been known for hundreds of years and will be known until 1925, when it gives place to "civil time," is purely arbitrary and has a very shifting relationship to "apparent" time, which is figured from the second the sun passes directly over the observer's [illegible].

SEEKING RELATIVES OF WILLIAM JEFFERSON DAY

A letter from Detroit to Police Chief George Linton seeks information of any relatives of William Jefferson Day, who died May 1, in Pittsburgh, while employed as a salesman for the Mohawk Art Institute of Detroit. It is believed he had a sister in this city at one time. The letter is written by J. H. Morris, Hotel Woodruff, Detroit.

Those who remember William Day here say that he is a son of Mrs. Charles W. Huntington, who formerly lived at 122 Broadway, and who died on July 9, 1919. He was her son by her first marriage and she also had a daughter, Mrs. Arthur B. Peckham, now said to be of Newburyport, Mass. He was employed at the Broadway theatre at one time.

Anyone who knows of the family might get in touch with Chief Linton as the writer of the letter would like to get all information as to Mr. Day, who worked for the Detroit company about three years.

WINS ADVANCEMENT ON LAFAYETTE COLLEGE STAFF

John A. Prior, son of Judge John F. Prior of Moosup, has been elected assistant professor of Mechanical Engineering at Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., where he has been an instructor of engineering the past three years.

Mr. Prior is twenty-seven years of age, a graduate of Plainfield High school, class of 1913, Sheffield Scientific schol, Yale, class of 1916, and received the degree of M. E. at the latter institution in 1920.

He is a veteran of the World war, a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, of Yale Chapter Society of the Sigma Xi and of the Yale Engineering Association.

More food energy can be produced in a given area from sugar beets than any other crop of the temperate zone.

NORWICH, CONN., THURSDAY, MAY 17, 1923.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Thursday, May 17, 1923.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

The storm that was central over Illinois Tuesday night has moved northeastward, and it has been attended by showers almost generally east of the Mississippi river and by strong shifting winds in the Atlantic states. The temperature was higher Wednesday in the Atlantic states north of Virginia.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Thursday and Friday in the Washington forecast district, except that showers will probably continue Thursday morning in New England and in the interior of New York.

The temperature will be lower in the middle Atlantic and north Atlantic states Thursday.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Strong southwest and west, and weather overcast, with probably local rains Thursday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh to strong west and northwest, and weather partly overcast Thursday.

Forecast.

For Southern New England: Cloudy and cooler Thursday, possibly showers Thursday morning. Friday fair, continued cool.

Observations in Norwich.

The Bulletin's observations show the changes in temperature and barometric changes Wednesday:

TAFTVILLE

The Union St. Jean Baptiste Society held a special and largely attended meeting in the Parish Hall Wednesday evening, the plan being to organize a drive for new members. There were two out-of-town speakers who addressed the audience on the benefits of belonging to the order, and a social hour followed the addresses.

The committee in charge of the Childrens' day exercises at the Taftville Congregational Church met on Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Gertrude M. Young of North Third Avenue. The other members of the committee are Miss Elsie Heap, Mrs. Everett M. Pingree and Mrs. George W. Weller, Jr.

The Ladies Benevolent Society of the Taftville Congregational church met Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors. As this was the last meeting before the summer recess, there was a large attendance. The president, Miss Gertrude M. Young presided, and following the business session, a social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. Luther D. Packer, Mrs. Thomas P. Sears, Mrs. Albert Bardsley and Mrs. John Hoeston pouring.

Mr. and Mrs. John Krauss and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and their daughter, have returned to New Bedford after spending a few days with Mrs. Nicholas Krauss of Lisbon. The party were able to return in their car, which had been repaired, after being struck by a Ford car, Saturday evening, while it was parked in front of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Krauss of Norwich avenue.

Oliver Lemire of Providence street has resigned his position in the spinning room of the Ponemah Mills.

John W. Brierley of South Fourth avenue has been able to return to his work after being confined to his home for some time by illness.

The Wequonoc baseball team defeated the Sacred Heart nine Wednesday afternoon by the score of 3 to 2. The Sacred Heart team scored one run in the second and another in the eighth but the Wequonocs brought in three in the ninth. The battery for Wequonoc was Phalen and Gero, for Sacred Heart Franiski and Simino.

BANK BOOK GIFT IS SAME AS WILL BEQUEST

Possession of a bank pass book, provided the holder can furnish proof of the death of the original owner, entitles him to withdraw all funds recorded therein for his own use, according to a decision handed down in the Tolland superior court at Rockville by Judge George E. Hinman in the case of the Savings Bank of Rockville against Mrs. Lottie M. Talcott.

Mrs. Emma Douglas of Talcottville gave her pass book registering funds amounting to $1,242.41 to Mrs. Talcott before she went to a hospital to undergo a serious operation which proved fatal. In settling her estate the husband and son protested the money belonged to the estate, but Judge Hinman ruled the prior gift of the pass book as equivalent to a clause in the will bequeathing personal possessions and ordered the bank to turn over the funds to Mrs. Talcott.

Double Birthday Party

A double birthday party was held at the home of Mrs. Harry L. Clark Saturday afternoon, May 12, in honor of their son and daughter, Russell and Dorothy. The table was trimmed with pink and white with two pretty birthday cakes. Games were enjoyed by the little ones. There was a peanut hunt. The first prize was won by Miss Lillian Kyle. Second prize by Miss Mildred Hoelck. Ice cream and candy was served by the hostess. Those present were Richard Kyle, Alfred Brody, Donald Brody, Lillian and Margaret Kyle, Mildred and Rita Hoelck.

Milford—The board of selectmen was authorized to borrow $25,000 in anticipation of taxes to be collected to defray current expenses at a special town meeting.

SENATE ALSO AGAINST GOVERNOR ON TWO BILLS FOR NEW HIGHWAYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, May 16.—Governor Templeton's veto of two highway bills which was overridden by the house Tuesday was given the same treatment in the senate today.

The vote on each bill was 27 to 2 in favor of passage, notwithstanding the veto. Only Majority Leader Ells of Waterbury, the governor's selection for a superior court judgeship and Senator French of Thomaston stood with the governor.

The first bill was House Leader Buckley's providing for a trunk line highway through Tolland county and leading to Crystal lake, and the second provides for a New London and Middlesex county highway from Norwich to Hadlyme.

After a brief explanation of Senator Wilder the bill to allow Sunday concerts was passed by an unanimous vote.

Private Banks

Senator Brooks in explaining the substitute bill concerning the supervision of private banks and money exchange agencies by the bank commissioner said the bill was required in the interest of the public. There has been a great deal of scandal in the past in the transmission of money through agencies. These agencies as well as the banks would be under the control of the bank commissioner in the future. The bill gave the power to examine the affairs of the banks and agencies.

Senator Bakewell who introduced the original bill commended the substitute bill and recommended its passage.

HOUSE

The house was called to order at 10.15 with Speaker Nickerson in the chair.

The bill amending the charter of the Bridgeport Y. W. C. A. recalled from the office of the governor and upon motion of Garist of New Britain the bill was reconsidered. Explanation was made that the provisions of the bill were not now needed. The bill was then rejected.

Booth for Superior Court Judge

At this point Secretary to the Governor A. T. McCook, presented a communication from the governor, nominating John R. Booth of Danbury to be a judge of the superior court to succeed James H. Webb, whose term will expire in December, 1924. The communication was tabled for calendar.

Reports of the state librarian and commission on public records were approved and ordered on file in the office of the secretary. The committee of conference on the woman jury bill reported that they had been unable to agree and recommended that the house adhere to its former action and it was so voted.

All matters on the calendar were passed without opposition except the report of the committee on claims on the act reimbursing the town of Farmington for one-half of the expense of building a bridge in that town. It was a divided report, the committee standing six to six.

This was a case where a bridge was in a dangerous condition. The town wanted a new bridge and the highway department desired to repair the old one. The town built a new bridge, under plans furnished by the high way department, and has paid for one-half of the expense and now desires the state to pay for the other half. The town had considered it a poor policy to spend several hundred dollars for repairs that would last but a short time. Today under the law, as passed at this session, the state would have to pay the entire expense. The payment of the claim was strongly urged. The bill was passed with but three or four dissenting.

Dr. Eddy of Canton, chairman of the committee on public health and safety, explained the bill concerning the practice of midwifery. This bill has been trotted back and forth from the committee and the assembly several times. As it has been decided by this assembly that rules and regulations concerning penalties made by commissions have no standing in the courts, the committee had incorporated these in regulations in the bill. The bill was then passed. The bill empowers the state department of health under the provisions of chapter 151 of the general statutes to make such rules and regulations concerning the practice of midwifery as it may deem desirable. It covers the care of her person and equipment, defines the care that shall be given mother and child, and directs under what conditions a midwife must call upon a physician for assistance and advice. The bill was passed.

Several reports of a favorable nature were received from the senate and were placed on the calendar. Among them was the bill allowing concerts of classical music on Sunday afternoons. This is the same bill that was sponsored by Mrs. Hooker of Hartford two years ago and which failed of passage. The act appropriating money for the Danbury Normal school, approved in the senate and rejected in the house, was up again today, when the senate requested a committee of conference, which was granted by the appointment of Keith of Putnam and Shepherd of Portland on the part of the house.

Recess Probable Wednesday.

House Leader Buckley announced just before adjournment that the business of the assembly was practically finished and that it was his purpose to ask for adjournment till tomorrow, and then till Tuesday next. The judgeship matters could be disposed of by Wednesday of next week and then a recess could be taken until June 5th.

Mrs. Vinton of Mansfield was called to the chair and conducted the business of the house in an efficient manner. She is the third woman member called upon by Speaker Nickerson during this session.

Adjournment was taken to Thursday at 10.15.

CENTRAL VERMONT RECEIVES $15,000 FROM BRATTLEBORO

The Central Vermont Railroad Co. at last gets the $15,000 that was promised to the road ten years ago on condition that certain improvements were made about its station in that place. Finally satisfied with the company's fulfillment of its part of the contract, Selectman Freeman Scott on Monday turned over to the Central Vermont officials a check for the sum.

Prior to the date of the promise of the payment Brattleboro's freight depot was behind its passenger station on a flat where mud several inches in depth prevailed in wet weather and deep dirt in dry. There was access to it by only one approach and no means of avoiding the mire.

When the new passenger station was built on an elevation in front of the old station the railway company promised to better the freight station facilities on condition of the town's contribution of $15,000 to the expense. Not until now, however, has the improvement been considered satisfactory.

KONSIEWSKI TRIAL STARTED IN CRIMINAL COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, May 16—The trial of John Konsiewski of Norwich, charged with transporting a female for immoral purposes and living off the earnings of a prostitute, was started in the superior court here today and it is probable that the case will be concluded tomorrow. Konsiewski was arrested on a bench warrant last week and since has been at liberty, having procured a surety on his bond of $1,500. He pleaded not guilty at the time and elected trial by jury.

Much of the time today was occupied in the introduction of testimony of Lillian McCabe, who claims to reside in New York and New London. The girl testified to having first met the accused at a social function in New London and that two weeks before she herself was arrested in Norwich, she met Konsiewski on the streets of Norwich where the accused had an appointment with a male friend. After a brief conversation the girl was escorted to a house in Preston, where she made it her home some time and where the trouble started which ended in her arrest and the subsequent apprehension of Konsiewski.

All the evidence for the state was in when court adjourned for the day.

With the conclusion of the Konsiewski trial it is believed that the remaining business of the session will be transacted with rapidity for other cases are to be disposed of will result in the accused either pleading guilty or their cases will be continued until the next term of court.

In the case of the state against C. F. W. Wilbur, an aged woodchopper, who is alleged to have slain Frank Early, another woodchopper at the latter's shack in Salem several months ago, no trial will occur for Wilbur will plead guilty and will receive a sentence in prison.

Wilbur visited the shack of Early and there partook of the hospitality of the owner, being provided with such as there was to eat and given a place to sleep. Wilbur did not apparently appreciate the kindness shown him and became engaged in an argument with Early over the living conditions there and attacked Early with a club, begting his benefactor to death. Wilbur was arrested a few hours after the commission of the crime and since has been a prisoner at the Norwich jail.

Branford—Mrs. William Johnson died at the West Haven sanatorium following an operation. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Barnes and Esther Johnson, and one son, Arthur.

SHOWS ROTARIANS WHAT PHYSICAL EDUCATION DOES

Physical education and the benefits derived from it in the public schools was ably explained by Dr. A. G. Ireland, a member of the state board of education, at the noonday luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday at the Wauregan hotel. Frank Welch, a member of the program committee, introduced the speaker who said in part:

Connecticut is one of 29 states where there is a program of physical education in the public school. Many of the older teachers in the public schools know little of the modern method of physical education and the state board is conducting a campaign instructing the teachers in this work. Physical education is being recognized as one of the important branches in the public school as the development of the body through supervised athletics makes the mental working of the children more keen and alert. Not only that but the lessons taught in competitive sports tend to mold the character of the boys and girls who participate in them.

A hundred years ago the three R's were taught in the little red school house and deemed sufficient to fit the boys and girls for the duties of life. Today the problem has changed and while it is necessary to teach the three R's there are many more things that must be taught if we would build for better things. The aim of the physical education plan is to give strength, health, happiness and to fit the child for the world. There are 25 million children being educated in the public schools today and it is one of the duties of the educational boards to see that these children get sufficient recreation besides simply teaching them their lessons. We compel the child to go to school and then we must give some thought to his health and the development of the character. We must make the boys and girls better citizens, good neighbors and friends and better parents.

In the growth of the child there is no getting away from the education of nature. We see it is animal life and we have followed it through generation after generation. There are certain principles that nature follows to make the boy and girl strong and healthy. Boys and girls obey nature's impulses to play, to run and jump and many other things so that through observation and experience they will be fitted for life. The childhood of the boy and girl is a plastic period in which character can be molded to the best advantage. We who have passed through that period can go out and enjoy a ball game and get lots of fun out of it, but we do not look at it the same as the boy. To the boy there is a deep earnestness in every move on the athletic field. He goes into the game to win and to do his best, he puts his whole soul into the zable and fights as though his life depended on it. In this way he learns the rules of the game of life and he is more fitted for the battles of life. Even in the little games taught on the playgrounds there are lessons to be gained that will benefit and mold the character of the boy and girl. The child learns to think quickly, to use strategy and be self-reliant. Under supervision he is taught that honesty in play is necessary and he never forgets it. Race hatred and class distinction are eliminated on the athletic field and this also goes to make up the character of the child. In the games the child is brought out and is no longer shy and self-conscious but learns determination, confidence and self-control. All this knits together the best principles of character.

Then there is the gymnasium work physical exercises which tend to make better coordination of mind and muscle and make the child more able to learn. The athletic field is the laboratory of conduct and character and has come to be recognized by educators as essential in the education of young Americans.

Mr. Ireland's talk was very interesting and was in keeping with the Rotary club policy of Boys' work.

At the business session at which President Charles A. Saxton presided routine business was transacted. President Saxton reported that about 35 members of the club attended the Ladies' Night of the New London Rotary club in New London on Tuesday evening. Secretary Weymouth announced that the local club had been invited to attend a meeting on the Putnam club on May 28th at which time the Willimantic club will present a Rotary banner to the newly instituted club.

F. Russell Smith was song leader for the day and several selections were rendered by various members of the club. There was a very harmonious selection by three of the local exponents of Walton, Lew Young, Joe Curtis and Joe Weymouth. There were two very pleasing solos by Lou H. Serre of Bridgeport who was a guest of the club.

The baseball team will hold practice this (Thursday) evening at the Academy campus. Everyone is urgently requested to be on hand as a game is in view for the near future.

CHIEF STANTON RETURNS FROM CHICAGO CONVENTION

Chief and Mrs. Howard L. Stanton returned home Tuesday night from Chicago, Ill., where Chief Stanton has been attending the 27th annual convention of the National Fire Protection association. The convention was held in the Hotel Drake, one of the finest in the city. Chief Stanton was again placed on two of the important committees, one, the hydrants and valves committee, the other, the fire department committee. In addition to these places Chief Stanton has been placed on the resolutions committee. The convention was one of the largest in the country.

While in Chicago Chief and Mrs. Stanton visited many points of interest and saw Chicago in the grip of a severe snow storm about a week ago, one that touched some parts of New England.

Appreciation to Fire Department.

The fire department has received a check for $10 from Mrs. Charlotte E. Kibbin, of 47 Pearl street accompanied by a letter of appreciation for its work at a recent fire at 52 Pearl street, which at times threatened a garage on her property. The check has been turned over to City Treasurer Avery by Chief Stanton and the men of the department have expressed their appreciation for the gift.

JUDGE THOMAS TO TRY FEDERAL COURT CASES

Judge Edwin S. Thomas will occupy the bench at the May term of the United States district court, which opens in Hartford May 22. Judge Mayhan B. Howe of Burlington, Vt., who sat at several sessions in this state during the winter, is not expected to return this spring, as the federal docket is now in such a condition that Judge Thomas can handle the cases without aid. Practically every criminal case on the federal dockets in Connecticut will come before Judge Thomas for disposal at this session.

FINANCIAL INTEGRITY AND THE SANCITY OF OBLIGATION

Prescribed as Remedy for Present World Conditions by President Harding at Unveiling of Statue to Alexander Hamilton, First Treasury Secretary—Warns Against Factions Which Are Challenging Both Civil and Religious Liberty Without Which There Can be No Real Human Liberty.

Washington, May 17.—Alexander Hamilton's services to the American republic were eulogized by President Harding and other speakers at the unveiling here today of a statue commemorating his achievements as one of the nation's founders and as the first secretary of the treasury.

The president, in his address, described Hamilton as "the master builder" of the republic and invoked his conception of financial integrity and the sanctity of obligation as a remedy for present world ills.

"Apply Hamilton's conception of financial integrity and the sanctity of obligation to world conditions today," said the president, "and let there be asserted a leadership which rises above prejudiced opinion, whether that prejudiced opinion had its beginning in war, or is emphasized by geographic divisions, and humanity will turn to the rational and only way of restoration. There will be the substitution of hope and resolution where hatred and resentment are now hindering recovery. There will be less thought of yesterday and more of tomorrow."

The unveiling ceremonies, at which Mr. Harding made the principal address, were held on the south plaza of the treasury building, where, through the combined efforts of congress and the Alexander Hamilton Memorial association, the statue was erected. Secretary Mellon presided, a former secretary of the treasury, William G. McAdoo, was present, and Justice Josiah Van Orsdel of the District of Columbia court of appeals, representing the Hamilton Memorial association, presented the statue to the nation.

Three descendants of Hamilton participated in the ceremonies, Miss Eleanor E. Hamilton of Washington, a great-granddaughter, pulled the cord which unveiled the statue. The invocation and benediction were pronounced, respectively, by the Revs. Edgar A. Hamilton of Baltimore and Edgar L. Hamilton of Anderson, Ind., great-grandsons. As the large American flag which had veiled the monument was drawn to the flagstaff on the treasury building the coast guard, which was founded by Hamilton, rendered its tribute through a salute fired by two cutters anchored in the Potomac.

Such principles as Hamilton lived by, combined with "a leadership which rises above prejudiced opinion, whether that prejudiced opinion had its beginnings in war, or is emphasized by geographic divisions," President Harding declared, would turn humanity "to the rational and only way of restoration."

"There will be the substitution of hope and resolution where hatred and resentment are now hindering recovery," he added. "There will be less thought of yesterday and more of tomorrow."

Without mentioning directly the pressing problems incident to international financial obligations, Mr. Harding dwelt particularly upon the value of Hamilton's services in putting the "seal of sanctity upon the financial honor" of the American republic. He stressed "the rugged honesty of this patriot-statesman, because honesty will cure ten thousand ills of today," and asserted that "honesty among nations will dissolve their differences so that new and lasting friendships may be bound by the ties of fraternity and mutual trust."

"Honesty of leadership will spare us the popular misconceptions which are ever menacing to democracy," he continued. "Honesty in statecraft will point the way to impregnable heights. • • • Honesty in politics will reveal unerring public opinion, and honesty in public service everywhere will diminish public waste and extravagance. Honesty in manhood and womanhood will abolish the sources of discontent which threaten the world's civilization, and will bring us to conviction regarding the fundamentals of the social fabric, without which fundamentals there can be no human progress."

The president deplored the development of factionalism, and pointed to the "seemingly inspired fear of factionalism" held by Hamilton, who, he said, "fought it in the making, and warned us of today against its development."

Despite this warning, Mr. Harding said, factions have arisen which would invade the constitutional rights of others or subvert the constitution itself.

"We have our factions which seek to promote this or that interest, without regard to the relationship to others, and without regard for the common weal," said Mr. Harding. "We have the factions of hatred and prejudice and violence. We have our coalitions which would invade the constitutional rights of others or subvert the constitution itself. We have our factions challenging both civil and religious liberty, and without them both made everlastingly secure there can be no real human liberty. We have the fatal factionalism which contemplates obstruction to the execution of the laws.

"No nation will survive where this factionalism is endured. Hamilton warned us that however such combinations or associations may now and then answer popular ends, they are likely themselves to usurp the reigns of government, destroying afterwards the very engines which have lifted them to unjust dominion." Washington uttered the same caution. It was Hamilton's conception that the federal influence would crush out the factions, taking heed, of course, whenever a call to real justice had in any way inspired.

"If we will carry on, visualizing the nation of which he dreamed; if we will maintain the national viewpoint and emphasize the interwoven intimacy of all activities, interdependent, where none may permanently prosper without a prosperous whole; if we will throttle the false cry of class where none need exist in the beckoning of American opportunity if we will be as hopefully American and as wholeheartedly American as they were in the immortal beginning, the future will be secure. These we must do, no matter what political sacrifices are made in the recommitment."

EDUCATIONAL IMPORTANCE OF MOVING PICTURES

New ork, May 17—Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, testified today for the government to show the importance of motion pictures in influencing and dominating public opinio, at the federal trade commission investigation of charges that the Famous Players-Lasky corporation and six affiliated organizations constitute a trust.

The government during the war, he said, found that the most effective system of education for soldiers was by use of motion pictures and the American legion proposes to use motion pictures to educate the public for better citizenship.

"I know of no better method of educating public opinion in the United States at the present time than motion pictures," he asserted. "The film is the greatest power to influence and dominate opinion in America."

OFFICERS OF THE CATHOLIC WOMEN'S BENEVOLENT ASS'N

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 17.—Mrs. Ellen L. Loughlin of New York was re-elected president at the closing session of the supreme convention of the Catholic Women's Benevolent association this afternoon. Mrs. Cecilia D. Patto of Saratoga Springs was chosen vice president. Other officers were: Supreme chancellor, Mrs. Margaret E. Hurley, Bridgeport, Conn.; secretary, Mrs. Sara E. Skelly, New York; treasurer, Mrs. Rose Calhoun, New York; orator, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, New York; marshal, Mrs. Marie Mantz, Baltimore, and guard, Mrs. Evelyn Ward Rehman, Brooklyn.

THREE YEAR SENTENCE FOR BANK PRESIDENT

Boston, May 17.—Frank L. Taylor, who as president of the First National bank of Warren allowed Joseph B. Marcino of Chicago access to the vaults, from which $212,000 was taken, pleaded guilty today to misapplication of the bank's funds to that amount. He was sentenced to three years at Plymouth county jail by Federal Judge Morris. A second indictment, alleging embezzlement, in which Marcino and Abraham Goldman of Chicago, Marcino's father-in-law, also were named as accessories, was held in abeyance.

TO RE-ENACT SLAYING OF CLARENCE PETERS

New York, May 17.—Assistant Attorney General Chambers announced plans late today for a re-enactment tonight of the slaying of Clarence Peters, Haverhill, Mass., youth, at the spot near Kensico reservoir on the outskirts of White Plains, where Walter S. Ward, wealthy baker's son, claimed to have shot him in self-defense in May, 1922.

SEES NOTHING SHOCKING ABOUT BEDROOM SCENES

New York, May 17.—The assertion that "there is nothing shocking to the twentieth century normal mind about bedroom scenes," was made before Judge McIntyre and a jury in general sessions today by Harry Weinberger, owner of the play "The God of Vengeance." The play has been branded as "indecent" by authorities and twelve members of the cast are on trial with Weinberger on charges of producing it.

Assistant District Attorney John F. O'Neill testified that the play pictured vice as attractive and might have the effect of giving young girls who witnessed it an improper view of life. Mr. Weinberger in reply asserted that "sex is being taught in our public schools and faced frankly."

Edwin Markham, author of "the Man with the Hoe," a witness for the defense, took the stand, but owing to the lateness of the hour was unable to present his opinion as to whether the play was moral.

Washington, May 17.—The state department was advised today that American Consul Tuck at Vladivostok and other member of the consular staff left that city yesterday for Tokio, thus completing the withdrawal of American consular representatives from the territories of soviet Russia.

The consul and his assistants withdrew under the requirements of the soviet officials applying generally to foreign consuls in Vladivostoff which were found impossible of acceptance on the part of the United States.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF AN AMATEUR RADIO STATION

Hartford, May 17.—An amateur radio station has succeeded in transmitting signals approximately halfway around the world, establishing a new long distance record, according to a communication received today at the American Radio Relay league headquarters. A ship operator reports that he heard the station operated by R. W. Rouse at Galveston, Tex., 100 miles southeast of Ceylon, in the Indian ocean, 11,000 miles distant.

INTRUDER WAS HELD UP BY GARAGE OWNER

Greenwich, May 17.—Fred Mayer, who said he lived at 1103 Lebanon street, New York city, faced a gun in the hand of Roy Green, garage owner, early today, while in the garage, and was held until police came and arrested him, charged with burglary. Green was aroused by the alarm which connects his home and the garage, and he went out to find out the trouble. Mayer was held in $3,000 bail for the superior court by Judge James R. Mead.

Strong Earthquake In Quito Ecuador

Two Persons Have Been Killed and Many Injured—Much Damage Was Done to Property.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 17.—(By the A. P.)—Two persons have been killed and many injured and much damage to property has been done by a strong earthquake in Quito and that vicinity, according to despatches received from the capital.

Numerous buildings, including the government palace, the city hall, the cathedral, the archbishop's residence, the astronomical observatory, the military academy, the railway station and hundreds of residence have been damaged.

The military academy has been abandoned owing to the dangerous condition in which the shock left it.

Quito is a city with a population of about one hundred thousand. It repeatedly suffers from earthquakes. It is situated in a ravine east of the volcano Pinchincha at an elevation of 9,350 feet above sea level and lies about 150 miles northeast of Guayaquil.

In the Plaza Mayor, one of several handsome square of the city, are situated the cathedral, the town hall and the palaces of the archbishop and the president of the republic. The city carries on considerable business in the manufacture of cotton and woolen goods, blankets, carpets, leather, lace, jewelry and articles made of "Mexican onyx."

HOW GROTON IRON WORKS OBTAINED $361,275 PAYMENT

Washington, May 17.—A story of how the Groton iron works obtained the first payment of $361,275 from the Emergency Fleet corporation under its contract for the construction of six steel steamers by representing that it had paid cash for materials for those ships when it had given checks in excess of its funds in the bank was told to the jury in the Morse trial.

The evidence showed that on September 4, 1917, B. W. Morse, secretary of the Groton concern, wrote to the New York office of the fleet corporation that the company had paid $450,000 in cash for six steam turbines to be built by the General Electric company and that this entitled the Groton company to its first payment under the contract. Later he executed an affidavit that the Groton plant had materials on hand or obligations for the same in excess of five per cent. of the cost of the ships.

J. W. Smith and F. S. Hartman, New York, agents of the General Electric company, testified that on September 5, E. A Morse, president of the Groton iron company, and B. W. Morse visited Hartman's office and, explaining that they wanted to pay cash for the turbines, delivered two checks, one for $400,000 and the other for $50,000. Smith said he tried to have the checks certified the next day by the bank on which they were drawn, the Public National bank, New York city, but was informed that the Groton concern had insufficient funds to meet them.

The $400,000 check was certified by the bank on Sept. 11, 1917, Smith said. Previously it had been shown by documentary and oral evidence that the fleet corporation check for $361,725 had been delivered to B. W. Morse on that day. The $50,000 check was not collected until October 24, 1917. Smith said, but both he and Hartman testified that throughout this time the contract for the turbines was in full force.

ABOUT REPEAL OF MULLAN-GAGE PROHIBITION LAW

Albany, N. Y., May 17.—Interference by President Harding will have no influence whatever upon the action of Governor Smith in signing the Cuvillier bill repealing the Mullan-Gage prohibition enforcement laws because it is a state, not a national matter, Senator John J. Dunnigan, democrat, the Bronx, co-sponsor for the bill, declared, in a statement tonight.

"President Harding's letter to the Newburg fanatic who called upon him yesterday in the event of Governor Smith approving the Mullan-Gage repealer to "suspend" the governor and those of us in the legislature who voted for the bill as "traitors!" declared Senator Dunnigan, "bears out the threat made by the drys • • • • when the bill was passed, that they would bring powerful influences at Washington to bear upon Governor Smith to veto the bill.

"President Harding's interference will have no effect whatever upon the action of Governor Smith because he knows what the people in this state want. This is purely a state matter and not a national one. • • •

"This is an attempt • • to force a divided responsibility between New York state and the nation and • • • to shield the federal authorities from being compelled to do their distasteful duty. They have no desire to enforce the Volstead act, or they would have done so long ago."

ASK THE REMOVAL OF DUTY ON SUGAR

New York, May 17.—The executive board of the New York Housewives' Sugar committee, representing 800 civic organizations, today forwarded an appeal to President Harding to remove the duty on sugar. The letter was drafted by Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, deputy commissioner of markets, and was approved by the committee.

The removal of the tariff, it was declared, would result in lower prices. It was also pointed out that present sugar prices did not result solely from speculation.

BROCKTON BOOT AND SHOE WORKERS TO STRIKE TODAY

Brockton, Mass., May 17.—Two locals of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, the trers and edgemakers, voted late tonight to strike tomorrow in sympathy with the dressers and packers who went out earlier in the week. The membership of the edgemakers is elected at 500, and the tracers between 700 and 800.

PADEREWSKI CONTRIBUTES $500 TO ORPHANAGE FUND

New Britain, May 17.—Rev. Lucyan Bojnowski, pastor of a Polish Catholic church, today received a check for $500 from Ignace Jan Paderewski, the pianist, as a contribution toward a fund for the erection of a large orphanage in this city.

How to Consolidate Railroads of the East

Daniel Willard Would Have All New England Roads Merge in Single Regional System.

Washington, May 17.—Executive modifications in the tentative government plan for railroad consolidations in the east were advocated today by railroad president appearing before the inter-state commerce commission. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, while concurring generally with the commissions project to combine his road with the Philadelphia and Reading and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, expressed the opinion that the New York, New Haven and Hareford, and all other New England lines should be left to merge in a single regional system, serving the territory east of the Hudson.

Mr. Willard also suggested that the Chesapeake and Ohio, Virginian, and Norfolk and Western, coal carried, be left to head separate groups, instead of being attached to trunk lines. The commission's tentative plan calls for attaching these roads and the New Haven system to various east and west trunk lines.

A. T. Dice, president of the Philadelphia and Reading, rejected the consolidation plan insofar as it would affect his road, almost completely, though complimenting Professor W. Z. Ripley, the commission's expert in charge of the planning. The Reading system should not be attached to the Baltimore and Ohio, he declared, but should be united with the Lehigh and New England, Central Railroad of New Jersey and Lehigh and Hudson River into one corporation rendering terminal service in eastern territory to all of the trunk line railroads. The importance of the Reading system as a terminal railroad, he said, would enable it, if attached to any one of the east and west trunk lines, to focus an inequitable amount of traffic to the railroads to which it had been joined.

A compact consolidation of the four railroads named, Mr. Dice declared, "can give better transportation service than would be possible for an unwieldly artificial system serving a number of sections of country which are in active competition.

SITUATION BETWEEN TURKEY AND GREECE IMPERILLED

Lausanne, May 17.—(By The A. P.)—The great Mohammedan festival of Bairam, when the followers of Mohammed relax and rejoice after their thirty days of fasting brought no response or gaiety to Ismet Pasha today, nor luck to the Near East conference.

The situation between Turkey and Greece tonight over the problem of reparations is grave, and the conference presumably is imperilled because all direct efforts today by Ismet Pasha and Eliptherios Venizelos to settle this dangerous issue "out of court" failed absolutely. The Angora and Athens leaders after a fruitless discussion agreed to disagree and submit the issue to the conference in an attempt to find a solution.

Ismet insisted that Turkey could pay no reparations whatsoever to Greece, but expected to receive an equitable sum for damages caused by the Greek armies in Asia Minor, when, he asserted, they burned towns and villages during their retreat and laid waste the whole countryside.

Turkey, he declared, could not abandon the principle of Grecian reparations, but, in a spirit of conciliation stood ready to leave fixation of the actual amount to arbitrators.

M. Venizelos attempted to show with figures that the Hellenic nation was in such a serious financial condition that all payment of reparations was out of the question. On the contrary, he contended, Greece should receive reparations from Turkty because of the economic disaster caused to the Greeks when they fled from the Turks, abandoning homes and fortunes.

BUILDING STRIKE LOOMS UP FOR JUNE 1 IN NEW YORK

New York, May 17.—Demands of the building trades council, which claimed 90,000 members, for a blanket pay increase of $1 a day and a collective agreement for a year were refused at a conference today by the executive committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association. The refusal will result in a general strike effective June 1, Thomas B. Clarke, president of the council declared.

Clarke asserted that 62 out of the 77 union locals affiliated with the council had previously voted to strike of their demands for the wage increase were refused.

Employers, in refusing the demands, insisted a general strike was not likely and asserted that their offer of a bonus system would be acceptable to the majority of the locals connected with the council.

Stoppage of the building construction as recommended at a general conference of heads of various phases of the building industry, were condemntd as a menace to the nation's prosperity by Noel Sargent, manager of the open shop department of the National Association of Manufacturers. The move, he said, would cause a depressing effect among manufacturing industries engaged in furnishing supplies for construction.

Sargent asserted building costs were higher in New York than in any other city because of the closed shop policy, which gave the building craftsmen a monopoly.

STRIKE ENDS AT WARREN MANUFACTURING CO. PLANT

Providence, R. I., May 17.—The 1,300 operatives at the Warren Manufacturing company plant, Warren, R. I., will return to work tomorrow morning, following a five-day shutdown occasioned by a walkout of the Loomfixers' union Monday morning. Of the three non-union men whose employment occasioned the difficulty, one has been admitted to the union, one has found employment elsewhere, and the third has declared his intention to retire.

Hartford, May 17.—The department of motor vehicles has just issued a letter to police forces throughout the state asking for active enforcement of the law relating to the location and condition of markers on automobiles. It is expected that the situation, which is now bad, will be materially improved within the next few days by means of police warning and prosecution.

BRIEF ULTIMATUM ISSUED BY AMERICAN MINISTER TO CHINA

"Get the Foreign Captives Out of the Grip of the Bandits and Talk Terms Afterwards, Otherwise There Will be 'Drastic Action' ".—Louis Friedman, a Captive, Reports Negotiations Progressing Slowly—No Cash Ransom Has Been Demanded.

Tsaochwang, Province of Shantung, China, May 18.—(By The A. P.)—Get the foreign captives out of the grip of the Suchow bandits and talk terms afterwards, otherwise there will be "drastic action," was the ultimatum laid down to Chinese government officials here late yesterday by Dr. Jacob G. Schurman, American minister to China.

READY TO NEGOTIATE WITH CHINESE AUTHORITIES

Washington, May 17.—A Peking dispatch to the state department today said that Consul John K. Davis and Major Philoon, assistant military attache, at Lincheng, had reported that the bandits had stated they were ready to negotiate with Chinese authorities for the release of the Americans and other foreigners recently captured. The message said that a representative of the Chinese government would leave on the morning of May 17 to begin the negotiations.

The message which was from Minister Schurman said the terms of the brigands for release of the prisoners apparently had not been formulated as yet but were understood to include the raising of the siege of Paotzeku and the restoration of all the bandits to the Chinese army. Apparently no cash ransom, it was stated, had been demanded.

SAYS NEGOTIATIONS ARE PROGRESSING SLOWLY

Shanghai, May 17.—(By The A. P.)—Leon Friedman, held captive by the Suchow train bandits in their mountain stronghold of Paotzuku, today managed to get a message out to his brother, Max Friedman, here, stating: "Don't expect release for several weeks; negotiations progressing slowly; health good."

"POLLUTION BILL" YET BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Hartford, May 17.—With the "pollution bill" virtually the sole remaining piece of important legislation ready for action in the senate, both branches of the general assembly today cleaned up and will devote next week to gathering in the odds and ends of legislative work. In addition to the pollution bill, the nomination by Governor Templeton of John R. Booth of Danbury to be a judge of the superior court for eight years must be confirmed. There has been no criticism of this appointment and it is not expected that there will be any opposition.

The pollution bill, which was reported by the committee, has no less than three amendments already attached to it. The amendments in great measure decrease the powers of the commission created under the bill and are more acceptable to manufacturer than the oroginal bill, according to their proponents.

Senator Trumbull's amendment, which is believed to have the best chance of passing, provides that the commission may order any person found polluting the waters of the state to install adequate means to reduce or eliminate such pollution. Persons objecting to the rulings and orders of the commission are given the right to appeal to the superior court. The amendment offered by Senator Ellis is similar in outline.

Today Senator Brooks offered an amendment which would specify the three members of the commission, one of whom would be appointed for six years, the second for four, and the third for two. They are Prof. Lafayette B. Mendel of Yale, a recognized authority in physiology; Frederick C. Walcott of Norfolk, chairman of the fish and game commission, and E. Allen Moore, a manufacturer of New Britain, who has made a study of stream pollution.

PROGRESS OF PROBE OF THE HOUSE OF DAVID

St. Joseph, Mich., May 17.—The disappearance of a witness desired by the state, the sending of a colony husband to jail for failure to answer questions and the physician made up part of today's activities attendant to the one man jury investigation of the House of David by Judge Harry Dingeman.

The witness who disappeared was Etidorpha Smith. Temporizing with Sheriff Bridgman whe nhe first went to the colony with Dr. G. H. Ramsey to examine the girl who the colony physician said was not in condition to appear, the colony members later informed the sheriff that she was not in the colony. This led to the summoning of Francis Thorpe, cult official, Dr. L. B. Estes, colony physician, and Florence McCaslin, nurse, and James Moore, the forty-five year old stone mason who married Etidorpha Smith in 1921.

Mr. Moore was on the stand but a short time when he was taken to jail on his refusal to answer questions.

MODERATOR OF GENERAL PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17 (By the A. P.).—Dr. Charles F. Wishart, president of the Wooster college, Wooster, O., today was elected moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, defeating William Jennings Bryan on the third ballot.

The Commoner had led a field of four on the first ballot and of three on the second, when he came within 18 votes of election, but after all other candidates had withdrawn, Dr. Wishart forged ahead.

Friends of Dr. Wishart based their campaign on the claim that an ordained minister was needed to direct the highly specialized work of the church and on Mr. Bryan's views on the theory of evolution, holding that his position as a leader of the fundamentalists would not be conducive to unity.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HARDING AT HORSE SHOW

Washington, May 17.—President and Mrs. Harding, both admirers of fine horses, today attended the annual spring meeting of the National Capital Horse show. Mr. Harding personally presented "the president's cup" to the winner in the hunter's class.

Returning from the show, the president and Mrs. Harding passed former President and Mrs. Wilson, who were out for their afternoon motor ride. The two cars, however, had passed before either party recognized the other.

WISCONSIN SOLONS VOTE FOR THE SALE OF BEER

Madison, Wis., May 17.—The Burke state resolution memoralizing congress to modify the Volstead act so as to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer was concurred in by the assembly today, 44 to 31, and will now be forwarded to congress.

HOSPITAL LIENS ON ACCIDENT INSURANCE POLICIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, May 17.—Liens on accident and liability policies in favor of hospitals are provided for in a bill that was passed in the house today: Under the bill the law will apply as follows:

Any hospital receiving state aid which shall furnish medical or other service or materials to any patient injured by reason of any accident not covered by the workmen's compensation act shall have a first lien on the proceeds of any accident and liability insurance policy issued by any company authorized to do business in this state, which proceeds may be due to such patient, either directly or indirectly, to the extent of the actual cost of such service and materials, provided such hospital, after commencing to render such services or provide such materials and before payment by such insurance company, shall serve written notice upon such insurance company at its principal home office, if the company issuing such policy shall be located within this state, and upon the insurance commissioner of this state by registered mail if such insurance company shall be located without the state. Such notice shall be in duplicate and shall contain the name of the injured person, if known, the name of the company or companies issuing such policy and the amount expended and an estimate of the amount to be expended in the services rendered to or the materials provided for such patient. Whenever the liability of such company or companies, either directly or indirectly, to the patient shall have been fixed, such insurance company shall pay directly to the hospital the amount due to it, provided such amount shall be agreed upon by all of the parties interested; and a receipt by such hospital shall be evidence of payment of such amount by such company or companies on account of their liability to the insured. If the interested parties shall not agree concerning the amount due such hospital, either party may bring an action of interpleader to any court having jurisdiction.

"BOMBS" PROVED TO BE FIREWORKS EXPLOSIVES

New Haven, May 17.—The two objects found under a freight car by a railroad police officer at Belle dock yesterday and sent to a Yale laboratory for analysis proved to be bombs used in aerial fireworks displays. The explosive in them was a composition for production of spark showers after discharge.

The objects, in cardboard containers and wrapped in waxed paper, had partly burned fuses. When picked up they were dropped into a water barrel, fished out, turned over to the fire marshal and then sent to Yale.

Prime Minister Of Sweden

M. Trygger, in a new photograph just received in this country. He is the prime minister of Sweden, and although the King is head of the country, yet the people are ruled more democratically than a Republic. The farmers, most of whom are Socialists, are in control, and there is little friction between the rulers and those ruled.

Frank Brown was sentenced to spend thirty days in Brooklyn jail Thursday morning at the session of police court with Judge Frank H. Foss on the bench. The police department received a complaint that autoists were reaming about the railroad tracks in the vicinity of Milk street and were in danger of being struck by passing trains. An officer was despatched but the other two men had left and Brown was placed under arrest. He pleaded guilty to being drunk. The records showed that Brown had been convicted of the same charge on at least five previous occasions.

John Desrosier drew a fine of $10 and costs totalling $17.65, when he pleaded guilty to operating an unregistered automobile. State Policeman Raymond Kelsey of the Stafford Springs barracks testified to stopping the accused on the Columbia road, finding that the Cole automobile which the defendant was driving was bearing markers taken from a Studebaker machine formerly owned by Desrosier. The accused had his driver's license. He stated that when he turned the Studebaker over to a dealer in Hartford recently, he did not have the necessary funds to procure the registration.

Donald Woodward, aged 17, and Joseph Hutchins, 16 years old last Wednesday, were arraigned before the Columbia town court Wednesday and were charged with operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license. State Policeman Fred T. Caron of the Stafford Springs barracks testified that upon investigation it was found that the young men had been operating automobiles for some time, although they had not yet reached the proper age to secure a driver's license. The case was heard before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews of The Ridges, and fines of $20 and costs, amounting to $26.33 were imposed in each case.

Mrs. Martha Tew, the widow of James J. Tew, died Thursday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis Ashton of 31 Beacon avenue, Holyoke, Mass. Mrs. Tew, who is widely known in this city, leaves one son, Willard Tew, of Eagleville and a daughter, Mrs. Francis Ashton of Holyoke. She was a member of W. B. A. of Maccabees in this city where she resided for many years until quite recently when she went to make her home in Holyoke.

The remains of John G. Peterson were placed in the receiving vault at the Willimantic cemetery Thursday afternoon following funeral services held at the late home at North Windham by Rev. H. L. Johnson of Norwich. The body will later be conveyed to Bridgeport for burial. Avery and VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Four candidates were initiated at the last meeting of Francis S. Long Woman's Relief Corps, No. 23, held in the G. A. R. rooms with President Mrs. Margaret MacArthur in charge. Ruth James acted as musician. An invitation from Chaplain Ingersoll of the Salvation Army to attend a meeting in the Army June 17, at 3 o'clock, was accepted. Colonel W. A. McIntyre, a noted orator, who was honored at the 1921 convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at Atlantic City, will be the speaker and the New England Staff band of thirty pieces will be heard in several selections. It was voted to provide a dinner for the members of the Grand Army of the Republic on Memorial Day at noon.

Reports of the 46th annual convention held in Hartford on May 9 and 10 were given by Mrs. Lottie Gilman and Mrs. Mary Rose, who were the delegates.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Mrs. Louise Goss of Hartford and Mrs. Maud Deming of Andover, both being past officers of the local corps. Mrs. Deming was selected as junior vice-president of the department.

The meeting was preceded by an excellent supper consisting of cold meat, pickles, potato salad, rolls, cake and coffee, served by the executive board with Fannie Larkin as chairman.

Various letters from taxpayers without any signature other than "Taxpayer" have thrown interested parties into a heated controversy in regard to the care of the Withmanville cemetery. The first letter published was one of criticism in regard to the ability of Caretaker Martin and his three helpers. It was alleged that the condition of the burial plots and gravel roadways in the cemetery was pitiful. The writer charged that a probable excuse for such conditions was that the chairman of the cemetery committee had been very busy in a controversy of his own. Another letter from a party of different opinion states that the charges were all of a false nature in every detail and credits the fine appearance of the cemetery as viewed by himself and two others.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

A very fine balanced program opened yesterday at the Broadway theatre for the last half of the week.

The B. F. Keith attractions in order are as follows:

Chester and De Vere, the human locomotives, are nimble footed darky dandies. They have some splendid dancing steps and a little comedy patter.

Jean Hollis, the kewpie doll, followed with some character songs and witty patter.

Emma Earl Three in third spot offered a comedy novelty variety.

Morris and Flynn in a smart cycle of songs and a dash of comedy filled 4th position.

Witt and Winters, a pair of aces closed with an acrobatic feat.

"Sixty Cents an Hour," Walter Hiers' second Paramount starring vehicle, had its premier at the Broadway theatre last night, where it was received with enthusiasm by a large audience.

Those who saw Mr. Hiers in "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime," will be more than pleased with Sixty Cents an Hour, which tells of the trials of a husky young soda clerk in his struggle for success, which is finally achieved. This is unquestionably one of the finest comedies of the season.

Features in the support of the star and playing the role of leading woman is Jequeline Logan, who played the corresponding part in the comedian's first picture. Others in a strong supporting cast are Ricardo Cortez, Charles Ogle, Lucille Ward, Clarence Burton and Cullen Tate.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Rex Pagram has scored again. We have never been able to write anything less than that about one of Mr. Ingram's productions and probably we never shall. This director seems satisfied with nothing less than perfection, not a mere technical perfection but that super-perfection which means artistic realism, finesse and distinction—and all of these he has attained in his latest production for Metro, Where the Pavement Ends, which is the feature at the Strand theatre today and Saturday.

Where the Pavement Ends is different from anything Mr. Ingram has ever done, but it bears that stamp of real genius which characterized The Four Horsemen, The Prisoner of Zenda and Trifling Women. It is an extraordinary photoplay in every particular, in direction, acting, settings, story and photography.

It is a tale of how love came into the life of the daughter of a South Seas missionary. What better setting for a tale of romance than the far away islands of the Southern Pacific. Here is romance in its essence. The very atmosphere breeds romance—the clean, white beaches leaping in the brilliant sun, the tall waving palms against a glowing sunset, the soothing breezes of a moonlit night. And all this strong, exotic atmosphere of luxurious nature and heart-filling romance is transferred to the screen with amazing reality.

Little wonder that Matilde dreamed of love, and little wonder that love came to her in so strange a way. But the path of love for her was not smooth. There was Gregson, the villainous trader, and enemy of the man she loved. He was the richest man on the island and her father wanted her to marry him. And Gregson wanted her. The conflict between the man who symbolized love and the man who represented passion brings the story to a thrilling and satisfying climax.

Beautiful Alice Terry portrays the part of the missionary's daughter with remarkable skill. Ramon Novarro plays opposite her with magnificent power and appeal. Edward Connelly, as the missionary, and Harry T. Morey as Gregson display rare ability.

Other pictures on the bill include Pearl White in Plunder, and the Pathe news.

Brass, Famous Story of Marriage and Divorce Splendidly Done.

Monte Blue and Marie Prevost, in a fine a combination of screen players as ever took leading honors, made things hum with action in Brass, which came yesterday to the Strand theatre for a week's run as the feature attraction of the bill.

Brass is the screen adaptation from Charles G. Norris' novel of marriage and divorce, which enjoyed best seller vogue throughout the country. So perfect is the picture version that one wonders whether the author had the cast of actors in mind when he wrote his story, or whether the uncanny skill of Director Sidney Franklin selected just the right cast. In any case, a superb picture is the result one that should not be missed by man, woman or child in search of an exciting all-absorbing picture.

Philip and Marjorie Baldwin are young, married and miserable. Marjorie long for the gayety of dances and cabarets, and Philip is jealous. Their child makes no difference, and the divorce follows logically. Marjorie marrying the man she had been flirting with with, Philip drifting helplessly along while two women of different types fall in love with him. The ending is too rich to be betrayed in a review, but out advice is that you see it.

Others contributing to the success of this Warner Brothers classic of the screen are Harry Myers, Vera Lewis, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss Dupont, Margaret Seddon, Helen Ferguson, Edward Jobson, Harvey Clark, Cyril Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Gertrude Bennett and Ethel Grey Terry. Julien Josephson wrote the scenario.

A comedy and news were the other subjects.

Ed Wynn in The Perfect Fool

In presenting Ed Wynn The Perfect Fool, which is his newest, up-to-date musical and laughing riot, which comes to the Broadway theatre for one night only, Wednesday, May 23rd.

A. L. Erlanger, in association with E. C. Whitney, feel confident that this clever comedian, who leaped to stardom two seasons ago with his "Carnival" has gone himself one better in this—his newest and best offering, The Perfect Fool, is a merry mixture of clean, wholesome comedy, melodies of the lilting, whistleable sort, the zenith of new, unique terpsichorean novelties, costumes to dazzle milady's eye, scenic embellishment of gorgeous splendor in the two acts and nineteen scenes, and a host of surprises concocted by Ed Wynn, who is also responsible for the book and lyrics. In the unfolding of the many ludicrous situations and scenes, Wynn is seen in various kaleidoscopic antics and a series of inartistic stunts. Julian Mitchell has staged the production, carrying out Wynn's ideas in his master manner. Antonio Bafunno will have an augmented orchestra to properly look after the score, and an unusually large chorus of pretty girls and carefully selected coterie of associates will assist in the Wynn style of entertainment. Seats are now on sale at box office.

Sale of Otrobando Avenue Home

There are two acres of level land for garden purposes. Also a variety of fruit. The new owner plans to make some improvements in the property.

Ether is made on a large scale by mixing sulphuric acide and alcohol in certain proportions, and then distilling the mixture with more alcohol.

DUWELLS TRIM SWANEES IN LOOSE GAME; FARRELL PROTESTS PLAYERS

In the fourth game of the Twilight league Thursday evening at the Fairgrounds, the Duwell club hit Tennant, the Swanee hurling mainstay, hard and scored five runs, enough to win the game from the Swanee Stars. The final score was 5 to 3. Manager George Farrell of the Swanees protested the game, claiming that three of the Duwell players, Tim Murphy, Francis Murphy and Lemieux, were ineligible to play. The game was played with the result that through the Swanee's eight errors the Duwells won out.

The crowd at the game was the largest since the opening night and although the game was somewhat loosely played on the part of the Swanees there were exciting moments. Tennant, the Swanee youngster, deserved a better fate and his lack of support was what beat him. The Duwells played good ball during the greater part of the game and secured nine hits off Tennant. Hal Stone pitched good ball, allowing only four hits and his support was sensational at times, especially by old Tim Coughlin at first base. The Duwells pulled three double plays, all coming at critical times.

TIGERS BEAT RED SOX; HEILMAN FAILS TO HIT

Detroit, May 17.—Pillett and Murray dueled here today in the first game of the Boston-Detroit series, Murray permitting the smaller number of hits but allowing the most runs, Detroit winning, 6 to 2. Passed batsmen, followed by hits, accounted for the Detroit scores. After hitting safely in 22 consecutive games Harry Heilman, Detroit outfielder, failed to register a safe blow today. It was announced that two bones in Bobby Jones' right foot were broken when he slid into the plate in Monday's game with New York. The Tiger third baseman will be out of the game several weeks. BROWNS TRADE HENRY FOR FIRST BASEMAN SCHLIEBNER

St. Louis, May 17.—The St. Louis Americans today traded Pitcher Frank "Dutch" Henry to Brooklyn for Fred Schliebner, a first sacker, it was announced here. All other clubs in the American league waived on Henry. The trade was made in an effort by the Browns to get a first baseman during Sisler's absence due to a vision defect, it was explained.

The Brooklyn Nationals gave the St. Louis Americans $2,500 in cash in addition to First Baseman Fred Schliebner in exchange for Pitcher Frank Henry, a southpaw, the Dodger club announced, today.

Henry was one of the leading pitchers in the Southern Association last season, ranking fifth in effectiveness with 19 victories and only four defeats. In 1921, he was with with the Orlando, Fla., club.

All other National League clubs waived the services of Schliebner, who was obtained by Brooklyn from the Little Rock, Ark., club of the Southern Association.

RUDOLPH PITCHES BOSTON TO VICTORY OVER PIRATES

Boston, May 17.—Dick Rudolph pitched Boston to a 1 to 0 ten inning victory over Pittsburgh today. It was his first start of the year and his first full game in four years. The winning run came with one out. Boeckel singled and took third on McInnis' hit and run single to short left. Traynor made a good stop of Felix' grounder, but his throw to the plate hit Boeckel on the head and he scored. Nixon fielded sensationally. The score:

ALEXANDER PITCHES LOOSE GAME AGAINST CUBS

Philadelphia, May 17.—Chicago enjoyed one big inning today and defeated Philadelphia in the opening game of the series, 7 to 4.

Alexander was taken out in the sixth after his record for perfect control games had been shattered, three Phillies drawing passes. Meadows pitched fine ball until the seventh when he was driven from the mound. "Cy" Williams hit his 14th home run of the season in the 4th inning. Score:

GIANTS POUND RED PITCHERS AND WIN

New York, May 17.—The New York Nationals pounded Pitchers Donohue and Keck of Cincinnati almost at will here today, and easily defeated the Reds in the first game of their series by a score of 12 to 5. Meusel and Kelly each hit home runs for New York with two runners on the bases. Bancroft, Meusel and Young each scored three runs for the Giants. Jesse Barnes pitched his first complete game of the season for New York. Roush did most of Cincinnati's damage against Barnes, hitting a home run, a double, a single and a sacrifice fly in four times up. Score:

WINDHAM HIGH EASILY TRIMS KILLINGLY TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 17.—Killingly High school suffered defeat at the hands of the Windham High baseball nine Thursday afternoon in the opening game on the Windham schedule, played at Recreation Park, Willimantic. Blackley of Killingly opposed Miela in the box. Seven hits were scored from Blakley but errors from his associates combined with Miela's fine twirling accounted for Killingly's downfall. Only three hits were scored from Miela's delivery.

Windham broke the ice by scoring its first run at the start of the game, followed by three additional runs in the fourth inning and two in the sixth.

Killingly's lone counter came in the sixth inning when Blakley, who previously had singled rode home on Vadas' triple to left center.

Wilmarth featured in the field for the victors, accepting eleven chances without a slip-up. Final score: Windham, 6, Killingly 1.

John J. Sullivan was umpire of the game.

SENATORS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM WHITE SOX

Chicago, Ill., May 17.—Doubles by Fisher and Goslin and Evans' sacrifice in the tenth inning gave Washington the winning run in its 3 to 2 victory over Chicago in the first game of the series. Thurston, the former St. Louis pitcher, worked well for the locals, while Warmouth was replaced by the veteran, Walter Johnson when the White Sox rallied in the tenth. The score:

ALBANY HITS BISH HARD AND TRIMS BOOSTERS

Worcester, Mass., May 17.—Hard hitting by Albany batsmen coupled with Bish's wildness gave the visitors an early lead and they won handily, 8 to 5. Edmondson was effective until toward the end. Bennett was especially effective against left handers, striking out nine men in six innings. Rosenthal kicked himself out of the game because Bennett made him look so bad with curves. Score by innings:

CORBIEY WINS VERDICT OVER GRIFFIN IN STAR BOUT AT DANIELSON SHOW

Danielson, May 17.—A capacity house representing every section of Eastern Connecticut saw the boxing matches at the town hall Thursday evening and judging from the applause and excitement the crowd got its money's worth.

The star bout of the evening, a ten round affair that went the limit, Tommy Corbiey of Rochester, Mass., was given the decision over Johnny Griffin of Worcester. The weights announced were, Corbiey 137, Griffin 135 pounds. This bout lacked speed in the early stages but it developed into a real battle after the 5th round and there were times when the entire line of spectators were on their feet tensely watching for a knockout. Griffin put up a game battle but was slightly outclassed by Corbiey who is one of New England's promising lightweights.

The semi-final proved to be one of those things that sometimes happens even in the best regulated boxing clubs. Tommy King of Brockton flopped to the floor in the second round of his bout with Steve Ketchell of Providence. Apparently he had been laid low by one of Ketchell's heavy swings, but the fact was he had been barely touched and had faked the knockout. The referee did not even count and Commissioner Murphy of Hartford, who was present, ordered Manager Frank Barber not to pay King a cent for the bout, and this order was carried out. The bout was to have gone 8 rounds, King weighing in at 170 and Ketchell at 168 1-2 pounds. Both are very clever boxers and the first round was an exceedingly pretty one. It was this fact promising a fine match that made King's quitting so contemptable. Commissioner Murphy said after the bout that one more stunt like this on King's part would result in his being barred from boxing in Connecticut.

The amusing event of the evening was a preliminary event to have gone six rounds between Irish Billy Glynn of Norwich and Battling Grant of Sterling. Glynn weighed 136, Grant 146. In the first round they barely made a single pass at each other, during what resembled a marathon dance around the ring. The crowd booed and the referee chased them to their dressing rooms. After the next bout it was announced they would be given another chance but when Glynn appeared Grant did not show up and the bout was declared off again. However, after the King-Ketchell fiasco, Glynn and Grant went at it in a whirlwind slugging match, Glynn putting Grant down for the count in the second round.

In the other preliminary Young DeForest of Danielson and Young Beauregard of Taftville went six fast rounds to a draw. Beauregard weighed 108, DeForest 110 1-2 pounds. The boys were very fast and exceedingly game and while Beauregard forced the fighting the greater part of the way the match was evened up at the close.

Jigger McCarthy of New Haven was the referee and a very good one. He kept the fighters going every minute, watched every move carefully and his work was highly appreciated by everyone.

GOLFERS OFF TODAY IN QUEST OF WALKER CUP

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 17 (By the A. P.)—On the historic St. Andrews golf course, the very home of golf, eight of the best amateurs of the United Kingdom will begin tomorrow their effort to take the Walker cup away from the Americans who came to England with the especial purpose of retaining that emblem and team supremacy in world golf.

Eight 2-ball foursomes will be played tomorrow over the centuries old course, from which golf spread around the world, and on Saturday, a similar number of matches in singles will finish the Walker cup competition of 1923.

Captain Robert Gardner of the American team, and Robert Harris, leader of the British players, this afternoon selected the men who are to make the struggle in the foursomes.

There were no surprises over the players picked to represent Great Britain, but everyone who has been following the play of the Americans, and this includes almost every visitor to and every resident of St. Andrews above the age of twelve, was surprised to discover that Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Oregon, and Fred Wright, Jr., of Los Angeles, were not included in Gardner's list.

Dr. Willing, on his record since reaching England, is second only to Francis Ouimet among the dozen of amateurs who crossed the ocean a month ago. The Oregonian tied Ouimet in stroke competition for the St. Georges cup, which Ouimet finally won, and remained in the running for the championship at Deal until every American except Ouimet had been eliminated. He went down two and one to Roger Wethered, the same score by which that brilliant British youth disposed of Ouimet the following day.

Wright was the last American to stick in the lower half of the championship draw. Since coming to St. Andrews three days ago for practice, Dr. Willings' play, for steadiness and sureness, surpassed that of any of the American players on the figures shown by his card. Only this morning in playing in foursomes, in which Gardner also participated, Willing got a 76. This score was made in a howling, stinging gale, and was better than any other turned in today, either by an American or a British player.

Captain Gardner in explaining why he had not chosen Dr. Willing for the foursomes tomorrow said it was his desire "to give everybody a chance." He added that he would put Willing and Wright in the singles on Saturday, removing two of the members of the American team who play in the foursomes tomorrow. Gardner said he considered Willing a better player in singles matches than in other competition.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the first match will start with Jess Sweetser and Ouimet opposing Roger Wethered and Cyril Tolley. Then will follow Gardner and Max Marston, playing against Harris and C. V. L. Hooman; George V. Rotan and S. Davison Herron against E. W. E. Holderness and W. L. Hope, and Harrison R. Johnston and John F. Neville against John Wilson and W. A. Murray.

This afternoon, for the first time since leaving Rye three weeks ago, Jess Sweetser got back on his game, which heretofore had not been satisfactory.

HAGEN AND SARAZEN COME THROUGH SAFELY

Leeds, England, May 17 (By the A. P.)—Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, holders respectively of the British and American open golf championships, today successfully came through the first and second rounds of the professional tournament now in progress here.

Hagen had a hard struggle in the morning round before shaking off T. Barber, of Alderley Edge, whom he was able to beat only on the 21st green. In the afternoon Hagen was outdistanced by M. J. Bingham of Stourbridge for a considerable period, but by careful play he wore down the midlander and won 6 up and 4 to play.

Sarazen in the morning round defeated Mark Seymour of Rochester, England, 5 up and 3 to play, and in the next round met George Gadd of Roehampton. They were all square on the home journey and Sarazen won on the penultimate green.

The defeat of Joe Kirkwood, former Australian champion, in the first round by H. C. Kinch of Woodcote Park created a sensation. Kinch won by 3 up and 2 to play. Kirkwood failed completely

CONNECTICUT AGRICULTURE.

Possibly Connecticut, or at least those who are directly concerned, will turn over carefully the thoughts that have been advanced by President Friday of the Michigan State Agricultural college. They are in keeping with what others have been pointing out, but perhaps new interest will be awakened by the fact that they come from an outsider. We have been told what an observer has seen, what he considers the trouble and what in his opinion the remedy is. Whatever efforts are stimulated thereby will be beneficial but it would be a gratifying result if it were so that it set in motion a movement for doubling the agricultural activities of the state.

Dr. Friday directed attention to the fact that on the 22,000 farms of the state there is not produced enough food to care for domestic uses necessitating the bringing in of large amounts. The need is for an increasing of the farm products, the production of what the consumers of Connecticut must have and what Connecticut is in a position to more nearly furnish. There is need for devoting more attention to the growing of more farm products, more fruit, more timber, more poultry and possibly more beef. There is a great amount of land that is virtually going to waste, and there is a big acreage that can, if properly utilized, produce far more than it does.

As might be expected he laid stress on the fact that encouragement and instructions must be given to the tillers of the soil. It is time to get away from the old order of things and to insist upon more intensive farming and greater efficiency. In giving aid to the farmers, which he declared to be necessary, he pointed out that the function of the agricultural college was to provide expert service to every farm owner or operator.

Farming in Connecticut may not be carried out on the scale of some other states but there is no reason why it cannot be made to produce greater results in the way of filling state requirements and fatten the pocketbooks of the farmers.

THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION.

Ten years ago this week the Rockefeller Foundation was chartered in New York state. It was something new and because of the sum involved and the wealth of the man who gave it his name suspicions were aroused. It was difficult for some to believe that it wouldn't result in something different than what was claimed.

The proof of the pudding lies in the eating. Having gone through its first decade it is possible for those whose fears were aroused to regard it in a different light and see where the funds have been employed for the benefit of mankind to a far greater degree than they had ever anticipated.

The Rockefeller Foundation has spent the handsome sum of $76,757,648 for such commendable purposes as public health, medical education, war relief and other philanthropic work. It has not only spent its income but it has delved into the general fund to the extent of $17,500,000 and it has pledged in addition the sum of $18,500,000 for various medical schools and public health projects.

What a service it has rendered to mankind is indicated by the fact that it directed the expenditure of more than six million dollars for the control of hook worm, malaria and yellow fever and in county health and laboratory service. It has entered the field of providing much needed teachers for countries where they are greatly needed that there may be instructions and work for the relief of diseased humanity. This country has not received the entire outlay by any means. It goes where it is believed the greatest need exists.

Not only was it intended to open a new work and provide the funds for meeting the expenses but it has most successfully accomplished its object. Fortunate indeed is it that there is such a fund that can be looked to for meeting such requirements, and safely may it be said that while there is great appreciation for the service that it is rendering today it will be manifoldly increased as the results of it continue to pile up in the years to come.

REFORESTATION.

With the department of agriculture endeavoring to arouse the country to a full realization of the fact that serious inroads are being made into the timber supply of the country, it does well to draw attention to what has actually been done, and in emphasizing the need of making some use of the land which has been cut over for the development of timber for future requirements. If it is needed for agricultural requirements well and good, but there is much of it that is unfit for such use and the logical step is to devote it to the growing of what it has previously produced and begin at once the reforestation which is called for and which pays.

How great the need is for action of this kind is disclosed by the situation in Wisconsin where there are about 18,000,000 acres of cut over land, while in the lake states alone the acreage of this kind is estimated as high as 30,000,000.

This territory is so extensive that it would require not only many years but centuries should there be an attempt to clear and settle it, even though the settlement each year was in keeping with similar settlements for the past several decades.

When it is realized that the forest lands are being cut over at the rate of about 10,000,000 acres a year it reveals a situation that calls for attention rather than neglect. Now is the time to begin to provide for the supply 25 to 40 years hence. The situation is one that will not take care of itself and do it right.

There is some help of an important nature that is bound to be obtained from the de-inking of newspapers and utilizing again the paper pulp that is obtained. This will serve to relieve the drain upon the sources of wood pulp at the present time, but it doesn't overcome the necessity of providing for more pulp wood and that timber that is required for other purposes. The department of agriculture is therefore endeavoring to get action in a much needed direction.

RAIDING THE FLOWERS.

Wild flowers are expected to take care of themselves. That is provided for by nature but the difficulty lies in the fact that nature is not permitted to carry out its program.

Admirers of wild flowers carry the impression that they require no attention, that they come forth every spring, blossom and go to seed and no one has to give them any thought. That is the fact if they were given the proper show. It is where the course of nature is interrupted that the plan is upset. There is much said from time to time about the disappearance of certain wild flowers but sufficient thought isn't directed to the fact that the pulling up of the plants has much to do with it. If the wild flowers are uprooted as fast as they appear and if they have no chance to blossom, go to seed there is bound to be a scarcity.

It is unfortunate that there is not more consideration given to such wild growth that it may be properly preserved from year to year. Much the same attitude is manifested toward them that certain ones show toward the flowering plants in well kept beds and grounds. Because they look pretty they haven't the self restraint that will prevent them from picking them or even digging them up. Devastation of vegetation and flowers by certain individuals is deplorable, and yet it is much the same kind of raids made upon the wild flowers that make it necessary for appeals in their behalf each year.

THE RIGHT POLICY.

When this country let it be understood that it was not disposed to cancel the loans that were made to European countries during the war it turned their thoughts to the problem of payments.

Already it has been arranged that the British debt will be paid, with interest, within a period of 63 years. Finland, though it doesn't owe but about nine million dollars has been impressed by the terms offered by this country and will meet its obligations under the same arrangement as the British.

We have received a commission from Czechoslovakia which is desirous of settling its debts to the United States and the latest announcement is to the effect that Italy intends to repay the money that it obtained here just as soon as it can do so.

Had this country listened to the talk of cancellation and given any encouragement in that direction it can be readily understood that little or no thought would have been directed by Europe to the question of paying its debts. These countries do not constitute all that owe this country but gradually they are falling in line. It is as it should be. For the peace of the world it is well that there should be an insistence upon the payment of war debts.

FROST FROM THE NORTH

"You've been tearing down your dividing fences, haven't you?" asked the visiting cousin from the north, shore. She was standing at a window overlooking the back yard. "How it opens up things! I can count the garbage cans of four families. That takes in your whole row, doesn't it?"

The south side hostess, who had been chattering freely, answered "Yes."

"And what's that funny looking cement work in the fourth yard?"

"A lily pond."

"A lily pond among the cliff dwellers! Isn't that ripping?"

No reply.

"What's the matter," asked the north shore cousin, taking notice.

"I'd like to tell you, but I'm afraid you're geographically unable to get it. Still, I don't know—maybe you could. Last spring we four families decided that, instead of having narrow back yards separated by high board fences, we'd throw them all together and make them into a real little park. Of course, it's almost winter now"—a half-appealing note crept in—"and things begin to look rather bare. But you can get the idea. The lily pond is part of it."

The north shore cousin studied the landscape again. "I see," she said. "And were the lilies nice?"

"Well, there haven't really been any lilies yet; the drainage or something isn't right. But I was telling you. There was quite a little colony of us working out there night after night, and the more we dug and sowed and planned things, the less able we were to see it just as outsiders would.

"For instance, the flat buildings all around us—we forget them. Even that long court building that fronts on the side street and runs clear across the back of our lots. Except when Chet and I would joke the other families and glory over them a little because we had a tree to screen us from the windows and back stairways of that building, we hardly thought of it. That's our tree, you know, in the corner of the garden."

"The garden?" Oh, I see."

"Well, we decided not to say back yard any more. And after a while, when things got to blossoming, and we had our chairs painted, and my hammock was up it looked so nice to us that we felt like asking our friends out here. And the first one I asked was Aunt Virginia. That makes you gasp, doesn't it?

"I hadn't forgotten her wonderful Kenilworth garden, but she seemed interested when I told her about the ingenious things the man next door had done to improve the place—those trellises and that little stone walk and such things! so I showed her. It didn't take long. She gave one wide look around and then, as she very promptly turned to go in, she said, 'Well—at least I respect his desire to beautify his home.'"

"And so do I," the north shore cousin chimed in warmly. "I was just thinking, it's a protest, anyway."

An odd little sound escaped the south side hostess. "Uncle Newcastle came next," she went on, in a dryer tone. "Mrs. Boardman, in the second house, had just had her sleeping-porch painted, and she had fussed a long time to get a certain blue-gray-green color that she thought would suggest Venice, and add to our general effect.

"And the only thing Uncle Newcastle saw was that porch. He said: 'You may think I make too much of it, my dear, but I feel a thing like that. Out in Highland Park we love our homes!'"

"That's true, too, dear; we do," was the innocent rejoinder.

The south side hostess wasted an expressive glance. Then, "I didn't exhibit again for some time. But one night Chet and I were sitting out there and he was smoking, and it seemed so pleasant that when the Speeryors from Evanston drove up I asked them to join us. They used to live on this street, you know.

"First thing he did was to begin flapping at his silk ankles with his hat. 'These south side mosquitoes!' he said. 'I'd almost forgotten them. Say, this is city life, isn't it—sitting here under all these windows full of eyes and ears, trying to take a little comfort.' And his wife whispered, 'Hush—they'll hear you.'—and then to me, 'Do they shake their tablecloths on your heads, dear?'"

A north shore giggle greeted this and on hearing it the south side hostess concluded, with sudden dignity, "But perhaps you'd like to know what Mary Puzzell said? You know what lovely grounds they have. She happened over one evening, and Chet let her come right through to where I was lying in my hammock. The electric lights in the windows of the apartments were on, and our tree was casting wonderful shadows on the grass—and Mary said, 'Fascinating! It's like an Italian garden, with all these high walls and overhanging balconies'."

"There!—isn't that Mary Puzzell all over?" cried the north shore cousin. "She'd think of something sweet to say, no matter what happened!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

White Way For Norwich

Mr. Editor: The White Way for Norwich is on the stage again. Does Norwich really and truly need a White Way? Or suppose we ask the question this way—are there not several things that Norwich needs more, and needs right now or soon, than it does a White Way? Perhaps some of our White-way-for-Norwich advocates have been in other cities of straight and stately streets lighted with the so-called White Way lamps on art-columns. But the streets of Norwich are neither straight nor impressive with any dimensions of stateliness. The streets of Norwich are just the street of Norwich; they are narrow and crooked streets; they are beautiful and charming street, and it is their very narrowness and crookedness that contributes so greatly to their charm. The streets of Norwich will always remain crooked and narrow. They are also quite well lighted already. In fact Norwich has a surplus of light—such as it is!

And then there is the cost of the White-Way outfit. Everything in metal is at war-peak prices. Perhaps that is just the reason the art-column boys want to get rid of their stuff right now. That's what in these days would be called good business; but when we think of art-colmns at war-peak prices, what are we going to say about our mounting tax rate? Before we involve ourselves in White Way indulgences couldn't we better put aside money for the coming $25,000 tax map? If Norwich has a burdensome amount of money to spend, couldn't we turn it over to the Backus hospital for a fully equipped pathological laboratory, where our milk inspector's samples could be tested in a few hours from their taking? Samples of Stony Brook and Fairview water could be tested there each week, could they not? By such frequent tests we might be able to bring the city water to such perfection that the chlorinating plants could be dispensed with.

Again there is the milk inspector himself. A milk inspector cannot inspect milk, if his salary is so small that he can hardly see it. On that account let us rather pay our milk inspector such a salary that he will feel able to give the city's health real protection, if milk inspection is a genuine necessity.

Milk inspection came upon Norwich just as this White Way plan appears to be coming upon Norwich—that is, under the plea to keep, or put, Norwich "in step" with some other cities in the state, just to have Norwich in fashion; but milk inspection is a joke, has always been a joke, and always will be a joke until more money is appropriated for the office. And so it seems proper to urge the hold-up of the White Way plan until some of our more necessary and unfinished projects are brought to completion.

White Way art-columns in the little charming streets of the Rsoe of New England will rob those streets of much of their charm. In our little streets the dignity of the art-columns themselves will suffer a loss of dignity, a loss of impressiveness; for they would be out of their proper setting. Let us avoid what looks like a mistake. Let us keep our charming little lights in our charming little streets, and so maintain the harmony of lights and streets—having due regard for our tax rate at the same time.

G. WARREN DAVIS.

Norwich, Conn., May 17th, 1923.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Seymour L. Cromwell, who has been honored with re-election to the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange, has already filled that position for two terms. Mr. Cromwell was born in Brooklyn and educated at Harvard and the University of Berlin. In preparation for his business career he did clerical work in a bank, a railroad company, a warehouse company and a gas company. He bought a seat on the New York Stock Exchange in 1896, was elected a governor of the exchange in 1914, and became president in 1921. For many years he has been prominent in charitable and boys' welfare work, both in New York and in New Jersey, in which last-named state he makes his home. At the present time he is president of the Fatherless Children of France, Inc., an organization which has adopted and cares for 320,000 French war orphans. In recognition of his work in connection with this organization the French government has made him an officer of the Legion of Honor.

Stories That Recall Others

Rather Farseeing

Six year old Mary Ellen was visiting her aunt one rainy afternoon when auntie came home from work carrying a small, new blue umbrella. With a flourish auntie presented her small niece with the umbrella. "I knew you didn't have one, so I just decided to buy you a present, dear."

Mary Ellen thanked her. But later she confided to her other auntie. "I knew she bought that umbrella to keep herself dry, and just gave it to me. I hope the next time it rains she'll forget her overshoes at home cause I never did have any of them."

Some Hider

This fellow escaped from prison through a tunnel which he had constructed secretly.

After two days' freedom the fugitive was captured, and asked to explain what he had done with all the soil he removed in building the tunnel. Fearing to incriminate any of his accomplices, he replied:

"You see, it was like this—I dug another hole and hid everything that came out of the tunnel."

Wives of Famous Men

Louisa Smith, Wife of Buffalo Bill.

Louisa Smith's first encounter with William F. Cody, later and more popular known as Buffalo Bill, was exceedingly informal. Cody had been brought to the Smith home by a mutual friend and before he had even been introduced was the astonished recipient of a resounding slap on the mouth from Louisa, the punishment for a prank played by the other man. From this rather memorable night began a friendship which soon grew into a great love.

Louisa, whose home was in St. Louis, was very young when she met Bill Cody, then a private in the army. She had but recently finished her education at a convent. Their marriage took place shortly and their life together was extremely happy.

Mrs. Cody proved an ideal wife for Buffalo Bill. She was with him on a great many of his exploits and enjoyed them as much as he did himself. Intrepid and daring, there was no expedition which appeared too dangerous for her to go on.

"If Bill's not afraid," she used to say, "then how can I be?" She understood him perhaps better than any one in the world, and the most interesting story of his life appears in the charming volume from her pen.

Mrs. Cody outlived her husband, as well as all of her children, and the latter part of her life, spent in retirement in the West, was lived in a dream world, populated by her loved ones. Through all her bereavement she never grew bitter, her courage and her faith in eternity buoying her up.

"My life is lived," she said. "I am waiting for the Great Adventure, until the time comes for me to join my dear ones."

Torrington—Dr. William J. Hogan was appointed borough health officer for a term of four years at a meeting of the board of wardens and burgesses. The vote was 3 to 3 and Warden George N. Farnham broke the tie. Dr. Hogan succeeds Dr. Elias Pratt.

MYSELF

I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know.
I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye.
I don't want to stand with the setting sun
And hate myself for the things I've done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf
A lot of secrets about myself,
And fool myself as I come and go,
Into thinking that nobody else will know
The kind of a man I really am:
I don't want to dress up myself in sham.

I want to go out with my head erect,
I want to deserve all men's respect;
But here in the struggle for fame and pelf
I want to be able to like myself,
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I never can hide myself from me;
I see what others may never see;
I know what others may never know;
I never can fool myself, and so
Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience-free.

Reduce Those Dangerous Swollen Veins
Doctor's Recent Discovery Also Heals Boils, Carbuncles, Abscesses, and Open Sores in a few Days
Physicians are prescribing and hospitals using a new and harmless, yet very powerful germicide that not only causes enlarged or varicose veins and bunches to become normal, but also reduces goitre, enlarged glands and wens.
Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not produce the results anticipated, you can have the price refunded.
It is not wise for anyone to allow swollen veins to keep on enlarging. Often they burst and cause weeks of pain, suffering and loss of employment. Start the Emerald Oil treatment as directions advise and improvement will begin at once. Your druggist can supply you.

OBITUARY.

James F. Knight.

In the death of James F. Knight, which occurred Tuesday afternoon, May 15, at 4.30 o'clock, Lisbon loses one of its oldest and most honored citizens. Mr. Knight was born in North Stonington May 27, 1838, and on June 19, 1859, was married to Abbie J. Grey of Voluntown by Rev. N. T. Allen in Jewett City. To this union were born ten children—five of whom, with the wife and mother, survive the deceased: Eugene of California, James of Plainfield, Horace of Lisbon, Georgiana Richmond of Plainfield, N. J., and Eunice Wood of Trenton, N. J. There are also eleven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren who survive him to honor and cherish his memory.

On the breaking out of the Civil war, Mr. Knight enlisted in the northern army, Aug. 22, 1862, in Company G, 21st regiment of Connecticut volunteers, Capt. E. Perry Packers commanding, and was honorably discharged June 16, 1865, at Richmond, Va.

During his service of nearly three whole years Mr. Knight participated in some of the most desperate battles of the war, Gettysburg, the battles of the Wilderness, Seven Oaks and Bull Run, the siege of Petersburgh and the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox.

Mr. Knight was a member of the G. A. R. post of Central Village and while he was able to attend its meetings loved to be among his comrades. He was of a retiring disposition and spoke seldom of his army experiences, but he loved his country ardently and said often: "This country is the greatest country on earth, worth living for and dying for." Mr. Knight was a member of the Congregational church, joining that communion with his wife while resident in Ekonk in 1891. His membership was transferred to the Newent church under the pastorate of Rev. Edward Bradford Robinson in 1898.

60 HENS MADE PERFECT SCORES IN THE WEEK

In the twenty-eighth week of the Storrs laying contest 60 hens, including 13 Barred Rocks, 4 White Rocks, 4 White Wyandottes, 24 Rhode Island Reds and 15 Leghorns all made perfect scores by laying seven eggs each. Elbert C. Dickinson's pen of Reds from South Hadley Center, Mass., supplied four of these pro tem perfect layers. All the others were well scattered. Unfortunately an egg a day performance does not usually long continue. In the last ten years there have been one or two outstanding exceptions, as for example a Barred Rock from New York state that laid 77 consecutive days in 1920, a Canadian Plymouth Rock laid 75 days without a miss last year and in 1919 a White Leghorn from Pennsylvania chalked up 64 eggs with no intermission.

The total yield for all pens in the twenty-eighth week was 4,583 eggs or a yield of nearly 66 per cent. This was five and one-half dozen more than was expected for this period, the estimate being based, of course, on the performance of previous years. Hollywood Farm's pen of Leghorns from Hollywood, Wash., was first for the week with a production of 52 eggs. George Phillips' pen of Leghorns from North Haven, Conn., and Afton Farm's pen of Reds from East Dummerston, Vt., tied for second place with 59 eggs each. White Rocks entered by Albert T. Lenzen from North Attleboro, Mass., made third place with a mark of 57 eggs. Ernest H. Scott's pen of Leghorns from Farmington, Conn., Pinecrest Orchards pen of Reds from Groton, Mass., and W. H. B. Kent's pen of Barred Rocks from Cazenovia, N. Y., all tied for fourth place with 56 eggs each. There were two slight changes among the leading pens, Hollywood Farm myed up into third place in the Leghorn group instead of Hilltop Farm from Suffield, Conn., in the Barred Rock class a New York state pen replaced the Ontario pen for fourth position.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

Plymouth Rocks

HAS THREE BROKEN RIBS FROM BOOM ACCIDENT

John Grain of West Hartford, who was injured Wednesday when the boom of a hoisting derrick fell on him at the Eastern Connecticut Power plant at Uncasville, is suffering with three broken ribs. One of the ribs is resting against the lung. It cannot be learned for about 24 hours whether or not he has other internal injuries.

His wife and daughter came to New London Thursday afternoon and visited him at the Lawrence Memorial hospital, where he was taken following the accident.

Work on East Main Street

The street department had the scraper at work on East Main street Thursday and residents in that section of the city feel thankful for the decided improvement in the surface of the road, which heretofore has been filled with ruts and holes that made travel anything but comfortable.

Clever Traveling Street Musician

A traveling street musician who used an ocarina for the melody and a harp for the accompaniment played around the city Thursday, rendering selections that were far above the usual standard of such performers.

FALSE ALARM CALLS FIREMEN TO BOX 73 ON WEST MAIN STREET

Residents of West Main street in the vicinity of the intersection of West Main and Connell streets were disturbed about 10 o'clock Thursday evening by a gang of boys who were walking by shouting and singing, and shortly afterwards a bell alarm from Box 73 at Connell and West Main street corner was sent in, calling out the fire department. It was not until the firemen arrived at the box that the discovery was made that the alarm was a false one.

When the first piece of fire apparatus arrived there was no one in sight around the box and everything was peaceful and quiet in the neighborhood. Investigation by Chief Stanton and Deputy Chief Taft brought out the story of the boys heard in the vicinity of Connell streets just a few minutes before the false alarm was rung in.

The police were notified and with several tips were working to find the guilty ones. Evidently the person or persons who sent in the box thought it was a joke but if they are discovered they will find it is an offense that will bring swift punishment. It has been sometime since the department has been bothered with this type of rowdyism and when the guilty person is found the officials promise to make an example of him.

There is always more or less danger when the department is called out and as several people said Thursday night, the sounding of a bell alarm for fire near their homes strikes fear into the hearts of all residents of that section of the city who at the time are away from home, and for some time must wait anxiously before they know where the fire is located.

These people stated Thursday evening that although the offense against the law causes trouble for the department there is also that greater reason for punishment of the guilty persons, the fear that home and loved ones may be in danger. They feel that anyone guilty of the act of ringing in a fire alarm as a joke should be given the limit of punishment provided by law, which they richly deserve.

Following the false alarm for fire and before the firemen had placed their machines after the long run a telephone call came in for a fire on Falls avenue. A Velie runabout at Con's Garage on Falls avenue for repairs was on fire but the West Side company had extinguished the fire with chemical when the central station apparatus arrived. The seat cushions were slightly damaged by the fire which is believed to have started from a lighted cigarette carelessly thrown into the car by a passerby.

The car was reported to be owned by Timothy Sullivan of the Norwich state hospital.

AUTOMOBILES CRASH ON JEWETT CITY BRIDGE

An Essex coach, registration No. 13-969, Dr. Harry McLaughlin of Jewett City and a Franklin roadster, registration No. 99-663, Eugene Leblanc of Taftville, collided about midnight Thursday on the socalled Lisbon bridge at Jewett City with a crash that was heard in the village and brought officer Dolan from his house nearby to investigate.

Both cars were badly damaged and a boy in the Leblanc car who was thrown over the rail of the bridge onto the sidewalk was taken home suffering severely from shock. He was reported to have been the only one injured in the accident.

Dr. McLaughlin's car was reported to have been driven by George Nolan of this city at the time of the accident and was on the way to Jewett City. Leblanc was returning from the boxing bouts at Danielson.

The cars crashed on the narrow bridge, the doctor's car running on for a way off the bridge and onto the highway where it left front wheel collapsed. The front end of the car also sustained considerable damage in the collision.

The Taftville man's machine hit the bridge head on, knocking off both wheels on the right side fenders and hood and coming to a stop on the bridge in a very much wrecked condition.

Officer Dolan found that Leblanc was without his driver's license.

TWO FINED $200 ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

Louis Gomez, 35, an Tony Roderick, 32 who were arrested Wednesday night at 70 Granite street where the police found a still and other equipment and material for making moonshine and a quantity of finished product were each fined $200 and costs by Judge A. T. Libby in the police court Thursday morning on the charge of violation of the prohibition law. They settled by paying $209.50.

William Davis and Marion Davis who conduct a boarding house at 13 North High street were each fined $25 and costs. The fine was suspended on the agreement to move from the place in a month. They were accused of keeping a disorderly house. Nine men who were arrested when the police raid the house Wednesday evening were discharged.

Mayflower Descendants Will Meet.

By invitation of the New Haven members, the Society of Mayflower Descendants of Connecticut will hold its spring meeting at the New Haven Lawn club on Tuesday, June 5. A reception from 6 p. m. until 12 m. will be followed by luncheon. Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale university will made an address and a musical program will be given. Later the members will take a tour of the Harkness Memorial quadrangle. Acceptances should be sent to Mrs Clarence B. Bolmer, No. 1353 Chapel street, New Haven. The reception committee includes Mrs. Charles H. Armstrong, Mrs. B. P. Bishop of Norwich, Mrs. Ebenezer Bishop, Mrs. Herbert L. Crandall of New London and Miss Addie S. Arnold of Hartford, chairman. Mrs. Clarence B. Bolmer of New Haven is chairman of the committee on arrangements, which includes Miss Katherine Cook, Mrs. Frank A. Corbin, Mrs. Edward B. Field and Mrs. George L. Kingsbury.

Religious Education Summer School.

The fifth annual session of the Connecticut summer school of religious education under the auspices of the Connecticut Sunday School association at Wesleyan university Middletown, opens on June 26 and continues for one week to July 3. The school is held under the supervision of the board of religious education of the Sunday School association and the study includes Bible courses, psychology, pedagogy, departmental courses and special courses, all dealing with religious education.

Gasoline Price Drops.

The price of gasoline took a further tumble Thursday, when one refining company announced another cent cut, the third inside of a week and a half. This makes the wholesale price 21 1-2 cents, plus the one cent state tax, and will bring the retail price down to at least 26 cents, and possibly 25.

Wireless Waves.

Wireless waves travel with a velocity of 300 million meters per second. They have the properties of the more familiar and shorter kinds of waves, such as light, heat and X-rays. Radio waves from a transmitting station spread out symmetrically from the station with uniform intensity, very much as waves spread out on a quiet pond when a pebble is dropped in. In a given direction from the transmitting station, at a given instant the distance between successive wave crests is the wave length.

CONNECTICUT CATTLE FOR WORLD'S DAIRY SHOW

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Thomas Holt has returned from Syracuse, where he attended a joint meeting of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce, the New York state conference board of agricultural societies and the New York Co-operative council, at which plans were made for the holding of the national dairy show and the world's dairy congress in October of this year. This will be the first time the world's dairy congress has ever been held in this country, and already President Harding has issued invitations to all foreign nations to send delegates. France has replied that 20 delegates will come from that country and the Netherlands will send 10 delegates.

It is planned to make the national dairy show this year one of the greatest ever held in this country and New York state is co-operating extensively in the plans, owing to the fact that the show is to be held in Syracuse. It is usually held in Chicago, but there has been none for the past nine years.

Clifford E. Houch general manager of the Connecticut Milk Producers' association, and Benjamin Ellis of the Connecticut Agricultural college were also at the Syracuse meeting. There were 45 state delegates Monday night and 11 states were represented.

Several Connecticut cattle breeders are expected to send stock to the Syracuse show, and there will be a general effort to have this state represented in all the exhibits.

MUCH INTEREST IN WARE-NORWICH GAME

Much interest in the clash between the Ware Town team and the Norwich baseball club at Recreation park on Norwich Town hill between Ware and Thursday Manufacturers towns. There have been a number of inquiries from fans regarding the time of the game and the best way to get to Norwich, a showing by the Ware team has aroused much following in the Bay state. Chet Nichols as the drawing card for the Ware team and his pitching has put him up among the top-notchers in the semi-pro circles which means a good deal, considering that there are many good hurlers around New England not connected with organized baseball.

Nichols had a while of a pitching record last season and although a year older has not lost any of his steam or breaks and is going strong. With Flaherty on the receiving end the Ware battery is one that will bear watching this season. The team is practically the same as last season when it was ranked among the leading semi-pro teams in the state. Manager O'Leary has a better team this season than last and from comparing performances for the team a year with that of last it is certain that Sunday's game may be a victory for either Ware or Norwich as favorably do the teams match. Mike Boyce has demonstrated that he is a pitcher of sterling quality and is the equal of the famed Nichols. With either Bergen or Owen Keefe doing the catching the batteries of the two teams compare favorably. The local team always has been good in hitting as the Ware aggregation. In fielding there is one but a couple both teams having strong infield and outfield defenses. Therefore Sunday's battle should prove to be one of the best of the season.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Trap shooting seems destined to come to the forefront as a very popular pastime with members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club. More than a score engaged in a practice shoot at the club's grounds in the Allen Hill section of Brooklyn Thursday afternoon and a gallery of nearly as many more watched the proceedings. For several hours the trap was working almost constantly and hundreds of clay birds were shot at by members of teams of five indulging in the shoot. It was late afternoon before the ardor of the sportsmen slackened enough to call it quits for the day.

In the afternoon's events Dr. J. S. Maslen of Danielson and Dr. W. W. Adams of Moosup turned in records respectively of 23 and 27 out of 50, these the best records for 50 rounds during the afternoon. Each made a 21 out of 25. Another good score was by E. C. Wood, Attawaugan, who got 18 out of 25. Another especially good showing was by J. Walter Atwood of Wauregan with 20 out of 25.

This was the first of the practice shoots to be held prior to the big event scheduled for Memorial day and it was so successful as to make the club feel that the sport will be very popular.

The club has selected an ideal location for its trap shooting and has expended several hundred dollars in making it ready for use. A commodious and heavily planked shooting platform has been built and adjoining it is a little club house with the necessary appointments for such a building. The building is not entirely completed as yet, but will be in a day or two.

Clean up the markers on your automobile or motorcycle or the police will get you. Police departments in every city, borough and town in the state have been notified by the commissioner of motor vehicles that a campaign is on for clean markers, as is required by the laws of the state. Many drivers are negligent as to keeping the registration numbers on their cars clean and it is essential that they do so in order that the numbers maye be legible at all times and so they can be read at a distance of at least 50 feet at night.

All of these things are pointed out in a circular letter received by Chief John McFarland of the Danielson department and the request made that the local police co-operate in the state-wide movement now underway. Connecticut is the first of a group of states to undertake such a campaign. Connecticut's registration plates have been shown by tests to be the most legible of any eastern state, so there is little excuse for a motorists getting into difficulties through them if he will devote the very few minutes required to put them in condition to meet the requirements that the state is now insisting shall be maintained.

About 20 feet feet of stone wall bordering the state highway running from Dayville four corners past the Killingly town farm was battered down Thursday when a ponderous Mack truck got out of control and plowed into it. The wall did not stand the jam as well as the truck, which came through with only one bolt on the steering connection disjointed. The truck is owned by a Worcester concern and was being driven by a young man when it plunged off the road and into the wall.

Announcement is made that a movement is to be organized in Danielson for the better enforcement of prohibition in the borough. Rev. A. E. Gallup of the Pentecostal church is sponsoring the movement, which will have the support of others pastors and churches. A mass meeting to be held here later is expected to crystalize the movement into real activity. A representative of the Anti-Saloon League of Connecticut is expected to address the meeting.

Richmond L. Scott has been named to be principal of the Danielson grammar school as successor to Elton E. Knight, who recently tendered his resignation. At present Mr. Scott is principal of the Central grammar school at West Newbury, Mass. Mr. Scott is 25 years of age. He is a graddate of the Farmington, Me., High school and of the Maine Normal school. For two and a half years he was a student at Boston university. Prior to teaching at West Newbury he was for three years principal of the Carthage and Flagstaff High schools in Maine.

At Brooklyn Thursday evening the classical drama Pilate's Daughter was presented by the cast that gave it in St. ames' hall here last Sunday. The play was presented with the same success at Brooklyn as in Danielson and was very well received.

That boxing is enjoying great favor with fans from all over eastern Connecticut was again demonstrated Thursday evening when the crowd that filled the town hall for the bouts staged there were representative of about every community within a score of miles. There were large parties from Plainfield, Sterling, Taftville, Norwich, Putnam, North Scituate and all the smaller places for miles around. The majority of them came in automobiles, making unusually heavy traffice before and just after the bouts in the business center of the boruogh.

Advocacy of making an improved highway out of what is now known as the Maple street route to Goodyear is again heard. Here is a project that would more closely link this community of the town to Danielson, and it is held, would be a strong factor in increasing trade relations between the two places, whereas at the present time Putnam shares largely in Goodyear's out of town expenditures because of transportation and route choices It is about three miles to Goodyear via North street while over the present highway route through Dayville the distance is above five miles.

Giant German carp are again reported as being seen in numbers in the Quinebaug river this spring. These great fish are of little use for food, though some skilled in preparing them for the table have a liking for them. They are the largest of the fish to be found in local streams and specimens have been taken that weighed 22 lbs though the average is from 8 to 12 pounds. Few of these fish have been taken hereabouts in recent years.

In view of the fact that the embargo on hard coal will be lifted there is anticipation that coal held up on local dealers for many weeks will begin to come through in the near future. There will be a ready market for it, too this spring, for few care to be caught in such a near famine as existed in that class of fuel hereabouts during the past winter.

Which is the oldest house in Danielson? There is a little question that will puzzle even old resident of this place. That those who may be interested sufficiently in the matter to give some thought to it no more will be said about it today other than to mention that there is a house in Danielson built in 1696, and still in daily use.

John Dooley, 54, a resident on Furnace street, died at his home there Thursday morning. He was a native of Hampton and had lived there the greater part of his life before coming to Danielson. He leaves his brother, Martin, with whom he made his home, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Goodness, also of Danielson.

Rhode Island officials charged with the proper authority have approved the issuance of a certificate to Herbert J. Barnett of Danielson to operate a bus line between Danielson and Providence. Mr. Barnett is making plans to establish the line, but said Thursday that he was not ready at that time to make announcement of the exact date of establishing service, which will be maintained by two new modern busses. The route to be followed will be via new state highway to Little Rest and Hartford avenue.

Preparations are again being made to oil certain streets in the borough This practice was adopted last year and proved so satisfactory that it will be continued. Academy, sections of Broad, School and Mechanic streets are some of the thoroughfares to be oiled and, of course, Center street, one of the busiest in the borough.

Rents are again on the upward trend in Danielson. This is chiefly due to the fact that there is a housing shortage and very little new construction under way. One family bids against another for a rent and up goes the price. An instance was cited Thursday in which a cottage now renting for $20 a month is sought by one who would live in it at $35 a month. This is an extreme case, but the general trend is decidedly upward.

Members of Moriah lodge of Masons will attend services at the Baptist church next Sunday morning. The quartet of the lodge will sing at the service.

Theodore F. Bailey was reported Thursday as very seriously ill at his home on Broad street.

Henry C. Newman of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

Mrs. Ethel Richmond was a visitor in Worcester Thursday.

John Jaegar has advanced will toward complete recovery after being very seriously ill.

HELD AT KINGSTON ON SERIOUS CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, May 17.—Roswell Moffitt, wanted to answer to a charge of rape, alleged to have been committed a few days ago in the town of Plainfield, is being held at the Kingston, R. I., jail, for the state police from the Danielson barracks and will be brought back to Connecticut as soon as arrangements can be made to extradite him.

Roswell has a state prison record, having been convicted in this county in 1918 on an arson charge. He served a term of years for setting fire to a barn.

In the present case it is alleged that he accosted a Central Village girl 16 years of age while she was passing through a wooded section on her way to school and from this meeting between the two the charge of rape has been made. The girl, it appears, did not know Moffitt by name at the time, but will be able to identify him as her assailant.

The situation at the Manhasset Manufacturing Company's plant remained the same on Thursday. The men claim that about thirty-four operatives went in Thursday morning but this is denied by the mill officials. A count at the four gates of the plant made by the men Wednesday totalled, they claimed, 125. This did not include any operatives not engaged in the production of cloth such as carpenters, machinists, painters, etc. The union leaders claim the plant is crippled beyond productive profit. This view does not coincide with that of the mill officials as it is said that some of those out have returned to work and some new help that has come along seeking employment has been hired.

There has been much interest in Putnam over the announcement that Charles Clark Knowlton of New York, president of the H. K. H. Silk Company and one of the founders of the Hammond & Knowlton silk mill, the pioneer mill of this section, is to cause to be erected in Warrenville in the town of Ashford a town building to cost approximately $50,000 as a memorial to the Knowlton family, natives of the town. Mr. Knowlton was for years a well known figure in Putnam as he made occasional visits to the factory. Although 79 years old he is at his New York office every day.

Mr. Knowlton was born in Ashford near the Mansfield line, September 22, 1844. He is a cousin of George A. Hammond of Putnam. His father, J. W. Knowlton is from the same stock as General Knowlton, to whom the state of Connecticut provided a statue commemorating his services as a commander. After attending the public school of Ashford Mr. Knowlton finished his education in Rockville.

Finishing his education Mr. Knowlton went to New York in the fall of 1863 and went to work in a silk sales office. In 1864 he went to Boston and became a member of a firm of silk distributors.

It was in 1873 that the firm of Hammond & Knowlton was established in Putnam. Mr. Knowlton has always had charge of the selling end of the business while Mr. Hammond did the manufacturing. The concern prospered from the first and removed from a small mill on the west side of the river to a mill on the Harris mill property now occupied but which was greatly enlarged in 1892. The concern some years ago became interested in the New London Wash Silk Company at New London, manufacturers of wash silks and later purchased the Eureka Silk Company of Canton and removed it to Putnam. A few years ago a consolidation of the Hammond, Knowlton Company with the Hemmingway Silk Company was brought about and the concern is now known as the H. K. H. Silk Company and Mr. Knowlton is its president.

George L. Bogue of Canterbury has bought from Mrs. Minnie Milligan of Danielson the so called Russell Shippee farm in East Putnam which he intends to occupy.

Emile Breault has graduated from the carpentry department of the state trade school and has accepted a position with a contractor in Webster. The carpentry department of the school has a contract to build a garage for the Quinnatisset Country Club in Thompson.

The meeting in the town of Thompson relative to school house conditions at Mechanicsville has been postponed for a month. Owing to the change of ownership of the French River Textile Company in the village the situation has changed or at least the attitude of the new company has not ben definitely learned as yet. Before the property transfer the company offered land on which to erect a new school house. Whether the new owners will ratify the offer made by the former owners has not as yet appeared.

The first banquet of the Fish & Game club, comprised of members of Putnam, Thompson, Woodstock, Pomfret, Ashford and Eastford, was held at his Putnam inn at 8.30 o'clock, Thursday evening. Following a talk by John W. Titcomb, state superintendent of fisheries and game, there was a general discussion relative to the propagation of fish and game in this section of the state.

State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne left Putnam Wednesday and with a party of Hartford friends will spend two weeks fishing the lakes and streams of New Brunswick.

Silas M. Wheelock has returned from a business trip to Boston.

At the home of Mrs. J. J. Russell, Main street, Wednesday afternoon a number of ladies were entertained at a whist. Eight tables were in play. Refreshments were served.

The additional electric signs being erected on Main street will add to the attractiveness of the business section evenings as the signs are lighted even on nights when the stores remain closed.

Notwithstanding that the weather man prognosticated a cold wave Putnam people were well pleased when they awoke Thursday morning to find a warm, sunshiny day in keeping with the month and date. In some homes furnace fires are still burning.

The engagement of Miss Alice Geraldine Porter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Porter of Winthrop, Mass., and Stanton Wallis Ballard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton A. Bullard of South Main street, this city, has been announced.

Building operations which, when finished, will result in an enlarged club house at the Putnam Country club, were begun this week. On account of the unfavorable weather the golf season has not progressed to the point usual in the middle of May. But according to the plans being made the season's advance will see many attractions soon under way.

Mrs. Hiram Brown is visiting her sister in Pomfret. She has so far recovered from an accident in which bones in her ankle were broken as to be able to discard her crutches.

A systematic campaign to raise the $20,000 necessary for a nurses home at the Day Kimball hospital is now under way. In Putnam and all of the surrounding towns meetings are to be held to further the publicity of the campaign and to enlighten the people as to the need of such a home as it is hoped to build.

Kellogg's Bran is nature's relief from the terrors of constipation!

Never make light of constipation or any one of its symptoms—there is no telling what disease you may be heading into! The one thing to do—IMMEDIATELY—is to fight constipation to the last ditch! Not with pills or cathartics; they cannot give you lasting relief! Not with foods with a low bran content; they do not have the bran-bulk to do the work!

What you need, what will give you permanent relief is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Kellogg's is scientifically prepared to relieve constipation. It will relieve the chronic case or the mild case. You need it, your family needs it!

But, you must eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—each day! At least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases this amount with each meal! And, eating Kellogg's Bran is a delight rather than a hardship. It has a delicious, appealing nut-like flavor that wins the most fastidious appetite.

Every day when you eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal, sprinkled on your favorite hot or cold cereal or cooked or mixed with hot cereals, think of the health every spoonful contains for you! Think how Kellogg's Bran is sweeping and cleansing the alimentary tract; how it is driving out the toxic poisons and freeing your system from dangers of dreaded diseases! Your physician will recommend it.

Kellogg's Bran is extra-delicious made into countless bakery batches. Recipes on every package.

All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran; it is also obtainable at first-class hotels and clubs in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins clogged.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

WESTERLY

Assistant Lighthouse Keeper William Rhodes of Bridgeport, stationed at Watch Hill Point lighthouse, suffered serious injuries on Wednesday afternoon at the fog horn house on the end of the point. The assistant keeper was endeavoring to start the engine with a blow torch filled with alcohol when it exploded, the force of the explosion expending itself on his left side, his head and neck receiving intense burns from the blazing liquid and gas. Blinded by his burns, his hair, eyebrows and eyelashes singed, with the skin pealed from his face, his cries for help not only attracted the attention of Lighthouse Keeper Anderson, but Amos E. Broadmeadow, in charge of Coast Guard Station No. 58 just beyond the lighthouse. Boatswain's Mate James Fletcher, and Surfmen Roode and Collins and all rushed to the relief of the injured keeper. It was just a week ago that "Skipper" Broadmeadow had asked Dr. E. R. Lewis, 95 High street, Westerly, Coast Guard surgeon, what should be done in case of gasoline burns and had been informed that the application of lubricating oil to the burned flesh would be most helpful.

Profiting by this knowledge oil was dashed on after the flames had been extinguished, a hurry telephone call was sent for Surgeon Lewis in Westerly, and all the service men helped give first aid to the suffering man. The accident occurred about 1.45 p. m. At five minutes of 2 Dr. Lewis, and Frank Ferraro left Westerly for the point. At 3.10 bandages were being applied to the burns, suffered by the assistant keeper, at that time in the lighthouse building. Great credit is due the service men for their first aid attention without question prevented most serious results.

Surgeon Lewis' prompt attendance contributed greatly to the patient's relief. Besides finding the side of the head and neck a burned mass of flesh pealing and hair singed, the loss of sight of both eyes resulted and it was at first thought that the loss might be permanent. Examination on Wednesday revealed that the sight had been regained. So badly was the man burned that it was necessary to cut a slit for breathing through the nose as well as another slit for the mouth where a tube could be inserted for taking nourishment. It is thought that some time will elapse before recovery can be complete, although much relief from suffering at the present time was afforded by the prompt attention of all concerned.

William G. Smith, 4 Park avenue, was host at a card party at his home Wednesday evening.

Alphonse Capron is seriously ill at the residence of James Jordan, 44 Liberty street.

Mrs. John Grant, 40 Spruce street, who has been sick for the past four months, is in a critical condition.

Arnald Cliger of Main street was arrested by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown Wednesday noon. On being presented in police court he was fined for intoxication.

Officer Curtin took into custody on Thursday Frank E. Bennett, who was ill and wandering about the streets. His condition required the attention of Dr. M. H. Scanlon.

John Roberts Kelly and Rosselo Granopta, both escaped from the state institution at Breyster's Neck. Granopta was placed under arrest in Bradford on Tuesday and sent back Wednesday to the institution. Kelly was returned Thursday.

In the probate court Thursday the inventory of the estate of Sarah E. Aldridge was allowed and ordered recorded. Estate Lucy A. Arnold, petition of Grace D. STONINGTON

Capt. James H. Sistare, one of the best known hotel owners in this section died at his home, Captain Jimmies Inn, Thursday morning, after a long illness. Captain Sistare, for many years prior to his building Capt. Jimmies Inn, the famous inn at Lord's Point, was proprietor of The Palmer House at Noank, where many notables stopped to enjoy his famous dinners.

About 8 years ago the deceased opened the present inn. Capt. James Sistare, was a most congenial man, broad minded and made many friends. He was born May 2, 1862 at New London and was in his 62 year. He was the son of James and Charlotte (Hobron) Sistare of New London. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Sistare, and two brothers, J. D. Sistare, of Groton and Joseph Sistare of Noank. The deceased was a member of the Noank Baptist church and a member of Charity and Relief Lodge A. F. and A. M., of Mystic and Stonington Lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F.

The chapel at Wequetequock is to be repaired. There is much work to be done on the roof and in the rear of the building.

A large number journeyed to Pawcatuck Wednesday evening from Stonington and Mystic, to attend the presentation of the musical comedy give by Stonington High school athletic association.

Miss Amy P. Sharkley is visiting in Somerville, Mass.

The Stonington High school program has been completed. The commencement exercises will take place on the evening of June 22. The members who will take part in reading essays are: Helen Bucklin, John Wilcox, Maurice Roux, Constance Delagrange, Raymond Mermet and Isabel Grinnell.

E. J. Gates of New London, was a caller here this week.

Mrs. Hyatt of Newark, N. J., is visiting friends here this week.

MYSTIC

Mystic people had the pleasure of listening to a famous Metropolitan Grand Opera singer, Orville Harrold, leading tenor and Clude Burrows, baritone, Thursday evening at the Union Baptist church. The recital was one of the finest ever heard here. People came from New London, Norwich, Westerly, Stonington and Noank to hear the two great singers.

Burrows is a native of Mystic and at one time pitched for the championship Westerly High school team. Later, he played with the Pittsburgh National baseball team. Burrows gave up baseball and studied music in New York, and now he has reached a high musical standard, singing with Orville Harrold constantly.

The initial appearance of Harrold, famous Metropolitan Opera tenor, marked a new era in musical circles for southeastern Connecticut. He possesses a voice of unusual quality, singing grand opera selections as well as popular pieces. Columns of superlative comment upon his ever increasingly fine singing were read from one end of the country to the other, and his career was sensationally featured as a shining example of native American achievement. His success in concert oratorio and festival has been equally great wherever he has appeared, and he has proved one on the finest acquisitions of years to the musical life of merica.

Harrold has just recently sung for Worcester Festival which is one of the notable musical events of the year in New England.

The Mystic Concert association contemplates having at least one famous artist appear in Mystic each year. The officers of the organization are S. A. Boylen, president, A. O. Colby, secretary and John Rossie, treasurer.

Guarantors—Judge Arthur P. Anderson, William Backus, Charles I. Barstow, Arthur Boylen, Clyde Burrows, E. E. Church, Fred Colby, Geo. Costello, Samuel Curlenjik, Charles H. Davis, George Emons, Peter Flynn, George Foley, Edwin W. Gaskell, Albert W. George, E. C. George, Benjamin H. Hewitt, Judge Frank H. Hinckley, Frank Karl, Llewellyn E. Kinney, George Koch, Conrad Kretzer, Walter H. Lathrop, George S. Leonard, Arthur H. Meyers, Clarence T. Noyes, John F. Noyes, Clarence O. Reynolds, Charles Reynolds, Ernest Rossie, Hans Schiffer, Alpheus Schoonover, Walter Shea, Charles K. Stillman, Percy V. Stone, Thomas J. Weir, Charles E. Wheeler, Clarence Wilcox, John Rossie.

The Visiting Nurse Association have elected its officers as follows: President, Mrs. Julia B. Coats; first vice president, Mrs. C. E. Wheeler; second vice president, Mrs. H. B. Noyes; secretary and treasurer, John B. Grinnell; directors for three years, James Cooper, C. E. Wheeler, Walter H. Lathrop. A drive for membership is to be started June 4 and will end Saturday.

Rev. and Mrs. O. G. Buddington are visiting relatives at Princeton, N. J.

CUTTING DOWN APPROPRIATIONS FOR DANBURY NORMAL DORMITORIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, May 17.—The house today voted to reconsider its action in opposing the bill for a $300,000 appropriation for dormitories at the state normal school at Danbury, but House Leader Buckley prevented its passage by immediately moving that the bill be tabled so that an amendment might be offered carrying a smaller appropriation.

It is intimated that a compromise amendment will carry an appropriation of $100,000.

HOUSE.

The house was called to order at 10.15 with Speaker Nickerson in the chair.

Favorable reports were received from the committee on appropriations for a state park in the town of New Fairfield and the state normal school at New Britain.

House Leader Buckley offered a resolution which was passed, appointing a committee of one senator and two representatives to ascertain the status of pending legislation. Mr. Buckley and Mr. Brainard were appointed on the part of the house.

For Danbury Normal Dormitories.

The matter of an appropriation for dormitories at the Danbury Normal school came to the front again this morning when the committee on conference reported that they were unable to agree and recommended that the house adhere to its action in rejecting the bill. Mr. Andrews pleaded for a fair consideration of the matter. Investigation has shown that the finances of the state are in a condition to grant this appropriation. There is not a particle of doubt as to the necessity for these buildings. Gregory of Norwalk made an earnest plea for the passage of the bill over the report of the committee. Pierpont of Ridgefield, Bell of Salisbury, spoke to the same purpose. Miss Weaver of New Milford said that there were four girls in their town who were obliged to arise at 4.30 in the morning to get to the school as they were unable to obtain board and lodging in Danbury. Treat of Bridgewater said that while he appreciated the good work that had been done by the committee he felt that this bill should be passed. Holbrook of Thomaston said the bill was endorsed by the committee on education and it was a measure that should be passed. Doctor Allyn of Waterford defended the report of the committee and felt that their report should be sustained. Mr. Keith, chairman of the committee, said that every member of the committee had signed the adverse report. They were familiar with the condition of the state finances and they had been obliged to deny some of the requests, only what they considered the most meritorious had been granted.

At first the request had been for $300,000, then for $225,000, and at the committee of conference a plea was made for $100,000. No one seems to know just what the proposed buildings are. Mr. Andrews said that since the Danbury appropriation had been turned down, others for more essentials had been favored, amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Judge Hubbard of Greenwich urged the passage of the bill.

Major Buckley, while he had not participated in the discussion as he was not familiar with the conditions existing at Danbury, said he was familiar with conditions at Storrs college. The statement of the gentleman from Danbury that an appropriation asked for had been withdrawn in order that it might be made to Danbury was a mistake. The application had been withdrawn when they realized the condition of the state finances. Shepherd, of Portland, defended the action of the committee in trying to keep within the means of the state. Mr. Southwick of Cromwell said that when he was a kid every dime was closely scrutinized before it was spent and the members of the family had been taught to make the garment fit the cloth. The committee should be sustained. Kelley of Colchester moved the previous question and Chairman Keith closed the debate. The committee had finished their work, the result remained with the assembly, and he asked that the committee be sustained.

A viva voce vote was unnecessary. A standing vote on the question of adhering to the previous vote was lost by a vote of 80 yeas and 95 nays. On motion to table the vote was voted by 132 yeas and 29 nays. Mr. Buckley asked that the committee get together and ascertain just what was needed.

Rejected Women on Juries.

Concurrent action was held with the senate in rejecting senate bills. The bill presented in the senate yesterday by Senator Doty against women serving on juries which was passed by that body came from the senate this morning. Mr. Darbie of Killingly said that considerable time had been given to this matter. All that was embodied in this bill had been considered by the committee and they did not favor it and moved that the house refuse to receive the bill. Mr. Brinsmade asked that the bill be given consideration on its merits by the house, Fenton of Windham argued for the admission of the bill and consideration of the same. The speaker ruled that he could not rule upon the motion, except that it is new business, and that "the house must determine the matter." Two-thirds of the members must vote to receive the bill. Major Buckley said that every phase of this question had been considered by the committee and that they had decided against this form of legislation and no good reason has been given for re-opening the matter. It has been rejected by committee and house and that action should stand.

By voting not to receive the bill, Mr. Brinsmade of Washington said that the house had had no opportunity to discuss the bill in its present form and he wanted them to have that chance now. The previous question and the motion of Bell of Salisbury that the house receive the bill was lost by 102 nays and 66 yeas.

The house also concured in adding amendment of the aircraft bill which forbids low flying over any field where any athletic contest or game is being held.

The bill appointing a commission to codify the school laws was received from the office of the secretary. Several amendments were made to the charter of the city of Torrington.

Mrs. Frink of Canterbury was called to the chair during the consideration of calendar matters.

Against Banks as Lawyers

The bill concerning the practice of law by corporations and associations was opposed by Mr. Thompson of Orange on the ground that it was class legislation. Averill of Branford and Sturges of Woodbury said that legal documents should be drawn by men trained to do this work. There is nothing in the bill to prevent any firm or corporation doing its own business. Major Buckley said that banks were chartered to do a banking business and not a legal business. This bill will prohibit them doing business other than their own. Nash of Norwalk said that this work could be done more economically by Trust companies and banks than was done by the legal fraternity. The previous question on motion of Mr. Kelly of Colchester was ordered and the bill was passed.

The passage of the bill allowing Sunday concerts was opposed by Merz of New Haven. The bill was passed with but few dissenting votes

SENATE

On the motion of Senator Ellis the senate passed, in concurrence with the house, a resolution raising a committee to investigate the status of legislation before the general assembly. Senator John N. Brooks was appointed on the committee on the part of the senate.

Senator Brooks offered amendments to the bill incorporating the city of Torrington which was passed.

Senator Park briefly explained the bill changing the system of nominating candidates for local offices in West Hartford. The bill abolishes the system of nominating candidates by petition and substituted the caucus system. He said there was no opposition to the bill before the committee. The bill was passed.

Senator Rogers explained the bill relating to the compensation of clerks and others in state departments, commissions and boards. It provided that changes in statutory salaries shall be changed only by the general assembly, and that in the case of other salaries the changes shall be made by the board of control on the recommendation of the board of finance. The bill was passed.

On the motion of Senator Ash, the senate concurred with the house in passing the bill relating to fishing in Alexander's lake, Windham county.

Senator Trumbull called from the calendar the bill to reimburse the town of Farmington to the amount of $12,500 for the building of a bridge over the Farmington river in Unionville. The bill was passed.

Psychiatric Commission

The committee on appropriations reported favorably on a bill creating the state psychiatric commission and naming Harry P. Bissel of Ridgefield Jacob Beisegel of Woodbridge, John H. Hill of Shelton, Dr. Paul Waterman and Alexander W. Creedon of Hartford members of it. The commission is authorized to investigate the provision in the state hospitals for the care of insane, feeble minded, epileptics, and delinquent criminals. The commission is allowed expenses and has the power to fill vacancies in its membership. The bill was tabled for calendar.

On the motion of Senator Brooks the senate passed a bill permitting the town of Southington to elect a tax collector under the general statutes.

Pollution of Streams

Senator Trumbull called from the table the bill relating to the pollution of streams. Senator Brooks offered an amendment for the creation of a commission and naming Lafayette B. Mendell of New Haven; Frederick C. Wolcott of Norfolk; and R. Allen Moore, of New Britain, members of it, and empowering the governor to make appointments to the commission when vacancies occur. The amendment was tabled for printing in the journal.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

The Organ Grinder Appears.

Now, let me see. Didn't I just promise to tell you what Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit did after leaving the Big Brown Bear's cave? Well, they drove away in the Luckymobile as nicely as you please, until all of a sudden they saw a little mouse walking by the roadside. I guess she was going to town to buy a new hat or maybe a gown. Well anyway, Uncle Lucky stopped the Luckymobile and said:

Giving ten carrot pennies to the monkey.

"We'll take you for a ride."

"You're very kind," answered the little mouse, jumping into the Luckymobile, and away they went down the road, until they came to the town of Bunnybridge. Just as they turned down Chestnut street, an organ grinder with a little monkey began to play:

"Rock-a-by, little squirrel, on the treetop,
Below in the forest, the bunny boys hop.
And the chipmunks and foxes and four-footed things.
Are playing around in the wood fairies' rings.".

"You ought to go into the forest and play your organ," said Uncle Lucky, giving ten carrot pennies to the little monkey.

"Is it far from here?" asked the organ grinder, a gray-haired old man in a ragged coat.

"I'll take you there," said Uncle Lucky, as the little mouse jumped out of the Luckymobile and hurried into a hat store.

Then, kind Uncle Lucky started back again for the Shady Forest for he knew that the Forest folks would be delighted to hear the hand organ and see a little monkey dressed in a red coat.

Well, by and by, after a while, they came to the Old Chestnut Tree in the top of which lived Old Squirrel Nutcracker and his family and in a little hole in the ground, down among the roots lived Chippy Chipmunk.

"Now play a tune," said Uncle Lucky to the organ grinder, who at once put the big leather strap over his shoulder and, turning the crank, began to play for all the Forest Shady folks who had gathered around him to hear the music.

Timmy Meadowmouse came in from the Sunny Meadow and Granddaddy Bullfrog hopped up from the Old Duck Pond. Soon Cocky Doodles, Henny Jenny, Turkey Tim and Goosie Lucky arrived with Ducky Waddles from the Farmyard. After them came Busy Beaver and Old Barney Old. Then Mr. Buck and Mrs. Deer and Miss Doe ran up from the dell followed by Mrs. Grouse and her brood. Yes, sir, soon everybody was there to hear the organ grinder's music and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Planting of Shade Trees

On the motion of Senator Brooks the bill concerning the planting of shade trees along state highways was taken from the table. The senator offered an amendment changing the phraseology of the bill so as to make it permissive instead of obligatory. The amendment was adopted and the bill as amended was passed. The bill reads:

Section 1. Within two years from the completion of any trunk line or state highway, the highway commissioner may cause shade trees to be planted along the bounds of such highway outside of city, borough or village limits, at intervals of thirty to fifty feet, where in his opinion, physical conditions make it practical. Such trees shall be the property of the state.

Section 2. This act shall take effect from its passage.

The senate adjourned to Tuesday next at 10.15 standard time.

Under the law of Mexico, it is twice as much an offense to mutilate the face of a woman than that of a man. The idea of this is based on the fact that to a woman her beauty is a great asset; to mar it, therefore, is a very serious personal injury.

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart":

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years, and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it, and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 530 Sprague St., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet, chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so sure or speedy. 35 cents, 60c, $1, $2.50, $5.

FRECKLES

Now Is The Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine — double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

CLIMBING THE LADDER OF SUCCESS.

(Written Specially For The Bulletin)

In one of the big New York city newspapers appeared, the other day, a rather striking cartoon. It consisted of four separate pictures illustrating four separate statements. The four pictures, of course, I can't reproduce here for you, but the four statements which they illustrated I can. Here they are:

"An orphan at eight is now one of the world's greatest mining engineers and economists.

"The son of a plasterer is now the world's greatest neurologist.

"A printer's apprentice is now president of the United States.

"But they didn't get there by hanging around the corner drug-store."

Get the point?

Not that there is any great danger of us farmers hanging around any corner drug-store. Such institutions are not found in the country districts.

But the "general store" and the blacksmith's shop and the automobile repair shop are usually within reach of most of us. If we will change the name of drug-store to one of these we will appreciate the force of the argument.

Did you ever know a farmer to attain success in his calling by spending his time at the store or the blacksmith shop or any other rendezvous of local gossip and shiftlessness?

While the cartoonist's picture was aimed at city people, we hayseeds can find an application for it nearer home, if we choose to look.

But it isn't merely to suggest that possibility that I'm talking today. It is a broader application of the thrust which I have in mind—one which applies to farmers and shop workmen and laborers of every sort, everywhere, and all the time.

The cartoonist points out a few eminent cases of success which appeal to the imagination of us all. No very truthfully remarks that not one of them was attained by "hanging around the corner drug-store." He uses the said drug-store merely as a symbol, a concrete fact which his city readers can visualize with ease.

That symbol represents a much larger and more general idea. To make it fully would have taken more space than was permitted to a legend under a picture. Just as to adequately represent the various forms of success which have been attained would have taken pages instead of quarter-columns of the paper. So he "boiled it down."

The real lesson of his effective pictorial parable is that no man who has achieved high success in any field of endeavor has ever done so by loafing on his work or shirking its blisters or dodging its hard spots or trying to work less hours or scheming to see how little work he can do and keep his job.

"Those who never do more than they get paid for never get paid for more than they do," says one observer and philosopher. This is just as true as if it was inspired—which perhaps it was.

The road which thousands and thousands have trodden to success is always a straight and narrow one, always clipped closely between unvarying limits. These limits may be climbed over easily enough, and the going may often be found much easier outside of them than between. But that easy going is never towards the goal of success—always away from it. Why, so long as two thousand years ago, the old Romans knew enough to understand this fact and put it into two Latin phrases which have come down to us. "Per aspera ad astra" is one which means, literally, "through hardships to the stars." The other is equally terse. "Facilis descensus Averni," which means, literally, "easy is the descent to hell."

Those old Romans knew that success was to be won only by ignoring hardships, by scorning ease, by climbing heights deemed unscalable by average mortals. They likewise knew that those who made ease their object and revolted against hardships were surely on the road to the scrap-heap.

The truth they saw two milleniums ago is the truth today and always will be the truth. As a matter of fact, we moderns have less excuse than they for denying it or ignoring it. We have two thousand years longer experience behind us to accumulate proof of its truth.

And yet the tendency of the modern world, especially that portion of it which arrogates to itself the name of "labor," is bluntly and squarely one of contempt for this age-old truth. We have all of us heard of strikes for fewer hours and of strikes for higher wages. Did anybody ever hear of a strike for the chance to work harder and accomplish more?

And yet, it is only by the hardest sort of hard work, irrespective of hours or conditions, that the man who hates work the most can hope to rise above its necessity.

I assume that really and from the bottom of his heart every one dislikes hard work. He finds it just what it is, a hardship, and, if not a curse, at least a sore burden upon his desired freedom. He almost instinctively shrinks from it. The men who actually "love to work" and boast thereof are either curiosities—or liars.

Yet the only way to escape from the need of hard work is by going at it with hammer and tongs and banging our way up and out of it by doing a good deal more of it that is necessary merely to keep from being overwhelmed by it.

It's like the man in the best half-a-mile above Niagara. The easiest thing for him to do is to pull in his oars and drift—till he goes over the falls. But if the solid banks look more attractive to him than the cataract, and he wants to get to them, he will out with those oars and pull to the limit of his strength and a little beyond it. He will deliberately choose the hardest job in order to get to shore. He will not steer down stream where the only need of an oar is to keep him head on, but will steer across the rapid current and strain his sinews to the cracking point to make the shore.

You see, it all depends on the object sought. If immediate comfort and temporary ease are the chief objects of life, regardless of the outcome, then one drifts with the current to everlasting smash, and is done with it. But if success is the object, then one fights the current and works desperately directly against its force.

In China and India and some other backward countries, every child is born into a fixed condition of life. Was his father a coolie? Then he is one, he and his son and his son's sons to the remotest generation. No one of the succession dreams of rising out of the coolie class into that of the mandarin or the Brahmin. Theoretically two of the younger nations profess to condemn this stagnating plan. We denounce it with our mouths and look down upon its practitioners with contempt.

Yet that is exactly the system which we are tending towards and towards which certain so-called "labor" elements are trying to drive us. A system in which the laborer is to remain always a laborer and therefore without ambition to rise; with only a sullen discontent and a selfish desire to make his hopeless condition as easy and as little galling as possible.

Take this eight-hour day movement for illustration. If men were of necessity just dumb, driven cattle, with no outlook possible except through the yoke or the collar, then one could understand it. I confess frankly that eight hours is as much as any horse or ox ought to be worked. I confess with equal frankness, that it is probably longer than most men want to work. The ox laborers without incentive or hope—just pure drudgery. If the man lowers himself to a like level, then eight hours is enough, perhaps too much to ask him to work.

But isn't there a difference between a man and an ox, outside of any beyond the horns? The ox has never hope to do anything but haul the plow or the load. But the man can hope to rise beyond the necessity of such drudgery.

He cannot rise beyond it, however, unless he makes the rising his aim and object, and strives for it with a single purpose. It is unquestionably wise to ameliorate, so far as possible, the conditions of work. But it never was and can never be made easy. I was much struck by a recent article by Dean Davenport of the Illinois college of agriculture discussing this eight-hour plan. May I quote a bit from it?

"The writer never knew or heard of any successful farmer or business man who worked only eight hours a day. How about the physician, the teacher, the housekeeper and the mother?"

"The laborers' homes are not run on the eight-hour plan and cannot be."

"It is only the aristocracy of labor that can exist upon the eight-hour plan, and then only on the principle of the pound of flesh taken from next the heart of those who work all day and often far into the night, as all successful men have done years untold and will continue to do. Life is no joke nor is it a continual picnic. The world has set up a high standard of living and it takes work to realize it. We can all have the eight-hour day—at a price, but the price will be either decadence for everybody or grinding toil and anxiety for those not in position to exact an advantage."

It all comes back to the question of what a man is aiming for. As someone once said: "It is not so much where a man stands as which way is he moving?"

Does he frankly abandon all ambition to win upwards? Does he expect to remain simply a drudge all his life? Then one cannot blame him for wanting his drudgery made as easy and as short as possible.

On the other hand, does he hope to make the most of himself and his opportunities? Does he refuse to anchor himself to the first mud-bank at hand and ride there till he rots? Does he cherish an ambition for success? Then he will think of such as hours and wage-rates as of secondary importance. He will not cast them wholly out of consideration, or ignore them utterly. But they will become of less importance in his eyes than the doing of better work and more of it. For he will speedily discover that in this world it is the man who does the most and the best work who is promoted—not necessarily by favor of his employer, but inevitably and by the irresistible laws of nature itself.

When a man manifestly regards his pay-check as less important than his output, he is that instant on the road to success. But when he makes output secondary to a decrease in work-hours or an increase in wages, that moment he forfeits his opportunities and sentences himself to unsuccess if not failure.

If every farmer in the world should refuse, tomorrow and thereafter, to work more than eight hours a day, some of our fellow-workmen in the shops and factories would starve to death, next winter. There are days when the farmer can't work fifteen minutes a day, because of weather conditions. There are other days when he can and does and MUST work fifteen hours a day or forfeit all hope of a harvest.

The attempt to make a fine theory fit the harsh conditions of actual life is not only unwise, its eventual outcome will be disaster. The only useful theory is that which explains existing facts. Any endeavor to make facts conform to a pre-conceived theory, no matter how beautiful, is foredoomed to failure.

Merchant Says His Recovery Is Almost Like Miracle

"After suffering for forty years it seems like a miracle to get in good health again, but that's just what I've done by taking the Tanlac treatment," recently declared Joseph M. St. Onge, retired dry goods and clothing merchant, of 28 Lewis St., Central Falls, R. I.

"I had rheumatism so bad I couldn't straighten up, or walk without a cane. I was continually bloated, had violent spells of nausea, terrible pains about my kidneys, constipation and awful headaches, and couldn't half sleep. I can never forget the suffering I endured.

"But, people are congratuating me these days on my wonderful recovery, and I never fail to put in a good word for Tanlac, for it has built me up fifteen pounds and put me in fine shape in every way. I simply feel great, and can't praise Tanlac enough."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Take no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

CLAIMS JUDICIARY COMMITTEE GETS TOO MANY BILLS

President Stanley H. Bullard of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce in opening the annual meeting of the organization at Hartford this week made the organization and work of the general assembly a leading feature of his annual report. He praised the committee on finance and the committee on appropriations for keeping the state of Connecticut on a self-supporting basis, but criticised the plan of organization of the general assembly on the ground that a disproportionate number of bills were referred to the judiciary committee. He gave figures showing that about 30 per cent. of all of the 2,000 measures introduced into the general assembly went to this one committee although there are 41 other committees and 284 other members. In his opinion, the committee faced an impossible task. "It would seem to an outsider," he said, "That altogether too few members of the general assembly are given an opportunity to take part in its important committee work." He thought that the legislature was unusually made up of the leading citizens of the several communities and added that there must be "a large volume of unrevealed and unused ability in our general assembly."

Mr. Bullard deplored the practice until the closing days of the session of holding back important measures until the closing days of the session. He especially scored the practice of reporting new bills without hearings on the eve of adjournment.

He made the following important recommendation to his successor in office and the incoming board of directors.

"For these reasons I recommend to my successor in office and the incoming board of directors that a special committee or some other agency, be appointed to conduct a thorough, nation-wide investigation of the practices of other states in matters of legislation. It would be interesting to know, and the people of the state and the members of our future general assemblies would, I assume, be interested to learn, the names, number, scope and functions of the legislative committees existing in the other 47 states of the Union. Just how this should be done I do not presume to know. Probably a start might be made by sending out a questionnaire to the presiding officers of the upper and lower houses of the several states asking for the names of their committees and the classes of bills that are referred to them. Perhaps a list of the leading bills before our present general assembly might be sent to them with the request that they indicate to what committees they would have been referred in the bodies over which they severally presided. If our Connecticut practice is wise and proper, such an investigation can do no harm; if it is not wise the people of the state and the members of future general assemblies are entitled to know it. The findings and recommendations of such a committee should be published prior to the political conventions and legislative caucuses of 1925, and given sufficiently wide distribution to be of service."

Mr. Bullard reported in detail the work of the Chamber under the general headings of State Affairs, Federal Affairs and Emergency Action. In conclusion he reiterated his warning given in his report a year ago that the federal government by appropriations with a string to them, in the nature of bribes, was continually encroaching upon the progressives of the states.

JOHN KONSIEWSKI SENT TO JAIL FOR SIX MONTHS

(Special to The Bulletin.))

New London, May 17.—The trial of John Konsiewski of Norwich, charged with transporting females for purposes of prostitution and living off the earnings of prostitutes, was concluded in the superior court here this afternoon, when the jury returned a verdict of guilty on the first count and not guilty on the second count. Judge George E. Hinman imposed a sentence of six months in jail. The jury was out 15 minutes.

Judgment was reopened in the case of Gus Zotel, also of Norwich, implicated in the case and who was sentenced to a year in jail last week. Judge Hinman reduced the sentence of Zotel to six months in jail.

It was alleged that Konsiewski and Zotel procured Lillian McCabe, a New York girl, who had removed to New London, to go to Norwich and there provided with a place in Preston to live an immoral life.

With the conclusion of the trial today court adjourned until tomorrow morning at Norwich.

Grace McSheffrey, the 19 year old girl mother, who was acquitted in the superior court late Tuesday afternoon of the charge of manslaughter in abandoning her new born baby by placing it in a vacant lot on the corner of Blinman and Reed streets last January, has been provided with a home since her acquittal with the family of Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs on Bank street. The girl is no longer under the care of the Tubbs family for instead of carrying out her promise to go to the home of her aunt in Massachusetts, she has decided to remain in New London indefinitely and is now at the home of a friend.

The church people of the First Baptist church who had interested themselves in the case, had secured a promise from the girl that she would take up her abode with the aunt and arrangements had been made for a member of the church to accompany the girl as far as Boston where she was to be placed aboard a train that would convey her to the home of the relative and away from her New London friends and environments. Late yesterday the girl changed her mind and stated that she would not go to the Massachusetts city, but would take up her abode, at least temporarily, with her friends.

Automobiles owned by Thomas Samuel of No. 11 Richards street and John W. Carr of No. 29 Garfield avenue, were in collision this morning on Main street, near the corner of Richards street. Both cars were damaged.

Rev. Michael Cray died early this morning at his house, No. 11 Gorton street. He was 67 years of age and is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Breen of Cornwall Bridge, this state, and Mrs. Mary Kennedy and Mrs. Harry Lezarde of New London. Rev. Fr. Cray was a native of Jewett City, being the son of Michael and Mary Cray, but had resided in New London the greater part of his life. Rev. Fr. Cray had been an invalid a great many years.

Mrs. Eva Weyland of No. 157 Bank street reported to the police shortly before last midnight that her son, Paul, aged five years, was missing from home and requested that a search be made for the youngster. The police were unable to find any trace of the child.

Miss Elizabeth Shalett of Blydenburg avenue, Mrs. Owen Miner and son of Groton, Mrs. James Crawford and son of Walden avenue, Nicholas Robinson of Bank street, Mrs. George Brayne of Orchard street and Fred Quattimmolla of Westerly, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

A deed transferring the property bounded by State, Huntington, Church and Meridian streets and which was acquired several weeks ago from William W. Williams of New York, by Frederick W. Mercer, J. P. Taylor Armstrong and Theodore Bodenwein, was received for record at the office of the city clerk today. The price paid for the property, which it is intended to cut into about eighteen store sites, was $100,000, which is the price that Mr. Williams offered to dispose of the property to the city of New London.

When the property was acquired it was stated that Mr. Mercer was the sole purchaser, but it now developes that Mr. Mercer has taken two partners into the deal, each owning a third interest in the estate. No movement has yet been made to remove the dwelling, nor to cut up the tract into the contemplated store sites, although it is believed, that such work will be started during the summer.

Harold W. C. Newcomb and Elizabeth H. C. Armstrong have sold a building lot at the corner of Mercer and Brainard streets to M. Louise and Louise B. Johnson.

William E. Faltoute has sold a house and lot on Fowler court to Jesse C. Glass.

Bryan F. Mahan and Theodore Bodenweis have sold a parcel of land on Norwood avenue to Elizabeth H. Holburton.

Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe of the New London police department, who City Manager Barlow endeavored to retire at the meeting of the city council last Monday night and whose recommendation to place the veteran officer on the veteran reserve list was disapproved by a majority vote, will return to his desk at the police station next Sunday night, unless he changes his present plans. Lieutenant Beebe stated today that he intends to resume his duties on that night as he feels as well to take charge of the night officers with the same capability that has marked his record since he assumed that command a number of years ago. Lieutenant Beebe stated that he feels fit physically and barring a slight weakness of the limbs as the result of the illness that incapacitated him several weeks, his strength is normal.

Mariners and frequenters of the municipal wharf will regret to hear of the death today at his home in Noank of Captain James E. Sistare, familiarly known among seafaring men and rovers of the water hereabouts as "Uncle Jimmie."

The body of Clarence Penhallow, about 30 years of age, was found in New Haven harbor last night, the victim having been drowned last January while attempting to row from the wharf to the barge Virginia Palmer upon which he was employed, will be brought to New London tomorrow, it is expected and will be interred at once in Jordan cemetery.

The condition of Edward C. Potter of Greenwich, this state, where he was a sculptor many years and well known as an expert in that profession, remains unchanged at the Hotel Mohican, where he has been confined to his apartment nearly three months by illness. Relatives and friends of Mr. Potter entertain fears for his recovery.

Police Sergeant Samuel Hick returned to duty today after having been absent two weeks on his annual vacation. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman John Sullivan began their annual respite of two weeks today. Officers Murphy and Sullivan will depart for New York tomorrow where they will spend a part of their vacation period.

In the superior court at Bridgeport Wednesday a temporary receiver for the book and stationery concern of Shraprowe & Chamberlain, which concern has a branch store in New London, was appointed by Judge William B. Maltbie. Application for the appointment was made by Harry W. Shraprowe and Frank S. Chamberlain, who hold the majority stock. The company has assets of $80,000 and liabilities of $60,000.

A still alarm was received at Central Fire Headquarters this morning for a lively blaze on the city dumping ground, off Riverview avenue. The Ockfard Hose company was sent to the scene of the blaze and extinguished the blaze by using chemicals.

An automobile, owned and operated by W. E. Perkins of Crystal avenue and a trolley car of the Connecticut Company were in collision this afternoon on Main street. The automobile was damaged by the smashing of the windshild.

Mrs. William Bruggy and baby of Broad street, Mrs. Ernest La Belle and baby of Groton and William Nott of Groton, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Thomas Fowler of Ocean avenue, was operated upon yesterday at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital. The patient is of advanced years, but at the institution today it was stated that her condition was most comfortable.

Mrs. Eugene Conoley of New London announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Helen Conoley, to George Gossard of Hagerstown, Md. The nuptial mass will be celebrated in St. Mary's church, Washington, where Miss Conoley is employed. The date of the event has been fixed for June 26th.

Edward Nindley, Pittsburgh steel magnate and owner of one of the show places at the Pequot, together with his family have arrived in New London and are now occupying the residence at the mouth of the Thames river.

The degree team of Brainard lodge of Masons will go to Montville tomorrow night in full uniform and will work a degree on a class of candidates of Montville lodge.

At Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital today it was stated that the condition of John Grant, aged 44 years of Hartford and an employe of the Berlin Construction Company, who sustained a fractured rib and a possible puncture of the lung at Uncasville yesterday when a derrick collapsed and fell upon him, was unchanged. It will be a day or two yet before it will have been determined whether the victim's lung is punctured. Grain and other workmen were engaged on construction work at the plant of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company when the accident occured.

New London presented a Hollywood appearance this evening, and will continue to do so for an indefinite period, for early in the evening 26 moving picture actors and actresses, including the star, Lila Lee, arrived here from New York for the purpose of enacting a picture for Paramount. The screen celebrities to arrive tonight joined Thomas Meighan, another star, who had been at the Hotel Mohican a number of days making preliminary arrangements for the taking of the picture.

The company has entered into negotiations whereby they will use the yard of the Thames Towboat company, just north of the Thames river bridge, and which will be one of the central spots for the acting. Besides the Thames Towboat company's yard the scenes will probably go to Noank and enact their play at the former Robert Palmer shipyard. It is the purpose of the promoters of the picture to have old-time seagoing craft predominate in it, and for that reason the New London yard and probably the Noank yard will be where the important scenes for the picture will be taken.

The number of sailors at the submarine base was greatly increased this evening when over a hundred bluejackets arrived at the union station and later embarked for the naval base in boats. Of the new arrivals, 50 were from Newport News, Va.

The barracks to be located by the state police at Groton, the department having leased the former Golden Rule hotel of Harry Zavoritis for a term of three years, dating from the 15th inst., has not been opened yet, but will be, it is understood, within a few days. Supt. Robert Hurley is completing the plans for the opening of the barracks and when these have been completed eight or ten state policemen will be on duty there.

The condition of the highways in New London, which is the worst in many years, and last year the streets were considered to be about as bad as they could be, continues to be deplorable, although work has been started on some of the more principal avenues in an endeavor to have them in proper shape for traffic.

Another danger spot, and only one of many to be reported by the police, was revealed this evening when the police discovered a dangerous spot in the intersecting highway at the corner of Shaw street and Denison avenue. The report will be turned over to the highway department tomorrow.

Mrs. Matilda Grancher, widow of a former well known New London barber, is confined to her home at No. 15 Jay street by illness. Mrs. Grancher is of advanced years and her condition is considered serious.

A flotilla of submarines and their tenders arrived in the harbor today from the Pacific coast, and the vessels are at anchor in the lower harbor opposite the Griswold. The flagship Savannah, the tenders Camden and Bushnell are with the fleet. Rear Admiral M. M. Taylor is in command. The vessels brought several hundred sailors who were about the city last evening. The vessels gave the harbor an animated appearance this afternoon and this evening when the craft were lighted they attracted attention.

Two eagles are located in the woods below the Hotel Griswold in Groton. They have been there during the winter, and have been unmolested, too.

At the close of the morning service at church last Sunday the pastor, Rev. W. S. Woolworth, after a few well chosen remarks, presented in behalf of the members of the church and choir a $20 gold piece to J. George Clark, for 32 his years' services as choir leader. Mr. Clark resigned the first of January.

Gordon Kinnaird was the guest of his parents Sunday. He is located in New Haven.

The Late Lord Carnarvon

The death of the Earl of Carnarvon comes soon after the culmination of the exploit that brought him chiefly into public notice—the discovery of the rich tomb of the Pharaoh, Tut-ankh-Amen, in the valley of the Kings in Egypt, by the archaeological expedition which he headed. He was first reported ill on March 19th, blood poisoning having developed from the bite of an insect.

Auto-Intoxication
(SELF-POISONING)

The Chief Cause of High Blood Pressure

If you have frequent headaches, dizzy spells, sour stomach, nervous attacks or are generally run down, the chances are 9 to 1 that you are a victim of auto-intoxication. That is, poisoning through wastes held too long in the intestinal tract. If it is not promptly relieved it is likely to bring on the dreaded high blood pressure which destroys the tone of the whole body and often brings sudden death.

The bile is the great natural cleansing agent and antidote to such poisoning. When the above symptoms show that the poisons have been too powerful for the curative capacity of the bile, you need a preparation called "Bi-a-lin." Bi-a-lin is mild, pleasant and harmless in its action and helps to restore the natural cleansing power of the bile. The poisons disappear. A wonderful new feeling of power and physical well-being is experienced almost immediately. Such remarkable results have been reported from Bi-a-lin that it has now been put up in convenient tablet form so that anyone may secure it without a prescription. Get it today and you will feel as if you had obtained a new lease on life. Sold by all good druggists such as The Lee & Osmond C.

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED.

New York, May 17. — Encouraged by their success in depressing prices in the last few weeks, operators for the decline continued their search for weak spots in today's stock market, which presented a spotty appearance during most of the session. While nearly 40 stocks were forced down to new low prices for the year, including a number of leading copper, chemical and oil issues, good buying support was forthcoming for the usual leaders, particularly in the steel and equipment groups. While a few stop loss orders were touched off here and there, bear traders were unable to bring out any large volume of forced liquidation, the day's sales running well under 600,000 shares.

Among the issues which dropped to new low records for the year were Standard Oil of New Jersey, Atlantic Refining, Anaconda, Ray, Inspiration, Chino, Nevada and Cerro De Pasco Coppers, Virginia Carolina Chemical A and B, American Agricultural Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, Railway Steel Spring, Postum Cereal, Famous Players, International Combustion Engineering, Household Products, Missouri Pacific, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and American Tobacco A and B.

There were three announcements of increased dividends during the day; U. S. Realty, which increased its annual rate from 6 to 8 per cent; Texas Gulf Sulphur, which went from 5 to 6 per cent annually; and Quaker Oats, which raised its quarterly dividend from 2 1-2 to 3 per cent. Strangely the increase in dividend on U. S. Realty, which controls one of the largest construction conterns in the east, was coincident with the announcement of the program of the American construction council asking that new construction be deferred until the fall months because of the high labor and material costs.

U. S. Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker, American Can and California Petroleum, generally regarded as pivotal stocks, offered good resistance to selling pressure, closing from small fractions to 1 point above yesterday's final figures.

Early selling of the oil shares was based on the bearish interpretations placed upon the long explanation published by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, in its official publication. On the charges of the La Follette committee. The subsequent cut of one cent a gallon in the price of gasoline by the Standard Oil Co. of New York, followed by those of other companies, failed to bring out any large volume of fresh selling. Pure oil's drop to a new low was in reflection of speculative disappointment over the annual report which showed earnings of only $1.27 a share last year as against $2.57 the year before.

Declines in the prices of copper metal have been attributed in some quarters to the disposal of options purchased by speculators months ago. Sales of the metal were reported in the local market today at 15 3-4 cents a pound, as compared with 16 yesterday.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cenut, eased off to 4 1-4 and thence to 4, closing at that figure. Time money appears to be on a 5 per cent basis, large sums for nearly all maturities being available at that rate. Trading in Commercial Paper was quiet, the bulk of the prime names commanding 5 per cent.

Dealings in foreign exchange were extremely dull, reflecting a similar condition in London, which is preparing for the Whitsun holidays. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.62 1-8 and rench francs advanced 3 points to 6.87 cents. German marks held steady around .0021 3-4. Norwegian exchange rallied 16 points to 18.48 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, May 17.—Bond prices continued to sho wimprovement in today's dealings on the New York stock exchange, although there were some recessions among speculative issues. Brokers report their shelves are clearing, an indication that recent issues have been well absorbed, and money rates continue easy.

Most of the active United States government bonds moved higher, the single exception being the Victory 4 3-4s which closed 3-32 of a point lower. Mexican 4s, up 1 1-2, led the advance in the foreign group and French issues again were in good demand.

Good buying power was indicated in the railroad group, gains of a point or more being recorded by Seaboard Air Line s, New York Central Consolidated 4s, and Hudson & Manhattan Income 5s. New Haven 7s, francs, were off a point.

While a majority of the industrial liens showed moderate strength, Cerro De Pasco Copper 8s fell off 2 1-2 points and Punta Alegre Sugar 7s dropped 1 1-4. Kelley Springfield 6s moved up a point.

Total sales (par value) were $10,007,000.

An offering of $4,000,000 City of Atlanta, Ga., 5 pe rcent, two to 28 year bonds at prices to yield 4.35 to 4.50 per cent was made today. There were reports of a $4,500,000 issue of 5 1-2 per cent Republic of Panama bonds to be made at an early date.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Ill., May 17.—Stimulated by unfavorable crop reports from the southwest, the wheat market averaged higher in price today, but demand lacked volume, and for the most part the gains failed to hold. Closing quotations were unsettled at 1-4 cent net decline to a like advance, with July 117 3-8 to 117 1-2 and September 115 3-4 to 115 7-8. Corn finished at 1-2@5-8 cents drop to 1-8 cent gain, and oats varying from 1-4@3-8 cent off to a rise of 1@1 1-8 cents. In provisions, the outcome ranged from 5 cents setback to 5 cents advance.

According to current gossip, the condition of much of the winter wheat crop has been going backward of late, especially in Kansas. Around Wichita, prospective yields were estimated at 5 to 7 bushels an acre compared with 15 to 25 bushels a month ago. The present adverse showing was ascribed largely to dry weather earlier in the season. Complaints of labor Scarcity tended further to lift wheat prices, and it was said Missouri grain crops would as a result be cut 10 to 30 per cent. reduction of spring wheat acreage was also talked of in connection with labor shortage.

Germany was reported to have purchased a cargo of new crop winter wheat, the first such sale announced this season. Export business otherwise, however, failed to develop vigor, and with profit-taking on the part of holders here on the price bulges and with buying curtailed except on setbacks, the market sagged as the day drew to an end. Denials of Kansas crop damage were also of some effect at last.

Downturns in prices of corn and oats resulted from realizing sales to collect profits. The realizing to be due solely to the recent four cent advance in corn.

Provisions were governed chiefly by the action of grain.

JEWETT CITY

The regent, Mrs. B. C. Bliss, announces that it is to be understood, that the expense of the 12 new garbage cans to be placed about the borough streets, has been entirely met by the D. A. R.

The local American Legion minstrels went to Plainfield Wednesday evening and according to all reports gave a most acceptable entertainment.

At the meeting held Wednesday evening on the proposed Jewett City Twilight League, four clubs were represented, which is enough to make up the league. As it is understood that at least two other clubs are anxious to enter, another meeting will be held at the Ashland Club next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

At the next meeting the officers of the old league are requested to be present and every club represented should be prepared to name a candidate for office in the new league.

Now that the twilight baseball is assured for this summer, the crack of the bat will be heard in every nook and corner of the town as the "would bees" and the "has beens" prepare for the campaign.

The teams represented at Wednesday's meeting were the Clarks by Sol Paquette, K. of C. by C. Dudkowski, K. of P. by Jake Wechsler and Ashland by Hal Chase.

Pachaug people are expressing the belief that it would be a good plan to look up the pair of Canadian lynx that infested these parts last winter. If possible discover their lair and destroy their young, thus minimising the probability of an increase in the visits of these unwelcome marauders next winter. Old Chrey Watson sets all fears at rest on that score for he says there is no danger of a lynx increase.

Bob cats that get as far south as these latitudes, he says, are all males. In this matter they are like two other transient visitors, often seen in this locality.

The great blue heron, to be met with almost any late summer day, on the upper reaches of the Aspinook or keeping close to the cedar swamp on the eastern border of Tadpole pond. Then there is the sheldrake, a hardy winter guest to be seen in considerable numbers, in the icy waters of the Quinebaug, or floating down the stream perched on a whirling ice cake.

The Men's Class of the M. E. church met for their regular business meeting for the month of May, at the home of Mr. E. C. Gilbert on East Main Street on Tuesday evening.

Owing to the confliction of time President J. F. Gardner could not be at the opening so the meet was called to order by Vice President Edward L. Thornton. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved, as were the reports of the various committees.

The ushers for the coming month were elected as follows, A. C. Burdick and J. P. Gorman. The collectors who were elected to serve for the coming month are G. H. Thornton and R. N. Robertson. The social committee was instructed to plan for the June meeting of the class.

There were two new members added to the class. The meeting was then placed in charge of the toastmaster of he evening. Rev. H. A. Wilber was he first speaker and spoke of the future of the class. The next number was a solo by Irving M. Thornton, Love's Sweet Song. L. D. Howe was the next speaker and chose for his topic, Architecture—Past and Present.

Rev. J. W. Payne then gave an account of an old time printing office as he knew it. Merton Bartlett next gave an interesting account of Southern life as he knew it, having lived in Georgia for a time. George H. Thornton spoke of a new method in the fishing industry. The president of the class, J. F. Gardner next responded with a few well chosen words. All were then called to the dining room of the home where refreshments consisting of strawberry short cake, ice cream, cake and coffee were served. Following the refreshments cigars were passed.

The final feature of the evening consisted of stereopticon views of Valley Forge and Gettysburg. They were explained by L. D. Howe.

The evening was closed by the singing of the class song and the benediction was said by Rev. J. W. Payne.

There was no little talk last week about the big bull heads that were being taken from Tadpole pond. Many townspeople have never seen any of the new breed and some even doubted the existence of a bull head that weighed a pound or more. This morning in Finn's window, all may see, five caught by Del Heneault on Wednesday, that weigh five pounds and a quarter.

Funeral services were held in Glasgo on Tuesday morning, at St. Anne's church for Mrs. Alida Dayon the young wife of Wilfred Dayon who died Tuesday morning.

Reverend Father L. Paradis, John J. McCabe and James J. Tyler, officiated at solemn high mass.

The bearers were Napoleon Dayon, Edmond Dayon, Wilfred Jarvis, Edward LaChappelle, Wilfred LaChappelle and Lawrence Lebeau.

All the local and Voluntown rifle marksmen, tuned in on the contest that took place at the armory in Norwich, Wednesday evening. The match was between members of the Jewett City and Norwich rifle teams and includes a few of the finished target makers in this end of the state. Captain Palmer of the local team shot with the Norwich team. The score, ten shots off hand:

Funeral services for Alida Jarvis, wife of Wilfred Doyon, were held Thursday morning at 9.45 at St. Anne's church, Glasgo, with a large attendance of relatives and friends from Holyoke, Mass., Norwich, Jewett City, Baltic, Taftville, Moosup and Voluntown. The services were in charge of Rev. Ludovic Paradis, pastor of the church. There were many beautiful floral offerings which showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Burial was in St. Thomas' cemetery, Voluntown, where a committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Paradis. The bearers were Napoleon Doyon, Wilfred Jarvis, Wilfred and Edward LaChappelle, Lawrence Lebeau and Edmond Doyon.

Hourigan Brothers had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Doyon died Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at her home in Glasgo after a short illness of Bright's disease. She was 20 years old. She was born in Glasgo April 9, 1903, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jarvis, and attended the district school of Glasgo. About two years ago she was united in marriage with Wilfred Doyon by Rev. Ludovic Paradis, pastor of St. Anne's church of Glasgo.

She is survived by her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jarvis, and two brothers, Leo and Wilfred Jarvis, and one sister, Delia Jarvis.

The community regrets the loss of one so happy and cheerful and its sympathy goes to the family in their hour of sorrow.

There were beautiful flowers from the husband, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis, brother and sister, Wilfred and Delia Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Doyon, Sr., Mrs. Nelson LaChapelle, Mrs. Amelia Doyon and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Doyon, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Doyon, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gravelin, Mrs. Lucy Peachie, Emphire Doyon, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Herbert, from the godfather and godmother, Mr. and Mrs. Louis LaChapelle, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson LaChapelle and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Jarvis and family, Henry Jarvis, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammond, Miss Jennie Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra James, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beausoleil.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church met at the home of Mrs. Andrew McNicol on Thursday afternoon with 30 present. Mrs. McNicol was assisted by Mrs. Alex McNicol, Mrs. Carle Munn, Mrs. E. S. Hiscox and Mrs. E. M. Hiscox. The members voted to provide the dinner for the King's Daughters' conference of two counties which meets at the Congregational church next Tuesday.

LEBANON

At the First Congregational church on Sunday Rev. W. O. Foster preached a special Mothers' day sermon. His theme was A Tribute to Mother, and the text was John 19: 27, "Behold thy mother." Rev. Mr. Foster explained five lessons we learn from motherneatness, sympathy, character, meaning strength, spiritual living and loyalty. In every phase of life she rings true, and the best way to honor mother is to live a clean, honest life.

There was special music by the choir, Olas Hjorth, tenor, of New London, sang Little Mother of Mine and Teach Me to Pray. As a closing hymn, the congregation joined in singing the century old song, Home, Sweet Home.

At the Y. P. S. C. E. service in the evening Mrs. K. F. Bishop, leader, an interesting program was carried out, as she gave the origin of Mothers' day. A recitation was given by Miss Ruth Campbell. Olas Hjorth sang Since I Found My Saviour and also told some of his experiences overseas. Other numbers were: Song, by the choir; Wear a White Blossom Today, recitation, by Miss Sara Robinson; solo, Rock a Bye Song, Miss Helen Taylor. Interesting reports were made by Mrs. Dorothy Bishop, Miss Edna Madley, and Miss Ruth Standish, delegates to the Acorn Institute held in New London May 5th and 6th.

The Home Missionary society will meet with Miss Ellen Huntington on Friday afternoon.

VOLUNTOWN

A May basket party was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hall in honor of the daughter Margaret. Seven girls presented her a beautiful May basket consisting of fruit, candy and several pretty articles. Later in the evening four boys with their school teacher attended.

Among those present were Miss Lamb, Miss Gray, Irene Bitgood, Flossie Bebo, Emma Bebo, Ella and Grace Bromley, Alice Conlan, Genette and Eva Lamoine, Amy Lamoine, Howard Davis and Floyd Bitgood. Games were played and there were instrumental and vocal selections. Ice cream, cake and soda were served.

Earle F. Bitgood has returned to Voluntown to remain with his parents for the summer.

American exports to Turkey increased from $2,300,000 in 1913 to $42,000,000 in 1920.

No Corn Can Resist "Gets-It"

No matter how long you've had your corns, how bad they may be, whether hard or soft, or what you have tried, believe this—"Gets-It" will end corn pains at once, and quickly you can lift the corn right off the toe or foot, with the fingers. It ends callouses, the same simple way. Norwich Market Growers' Association

All garden crops are retarded by recent unfavorable weather conditions and supply is limited.

Early summer crops will probably be two weeks late in maturing.

Present offerings are limited to curly and head Lettuce, Greenhouse grown and of excellent quality, fine Asparagus, and Pie Plant.

In Vegetable Paints, Lettuce and Cattage are now seasonable while Tomato Plants are available for those so situated that late frosts are not a serious menace.

Be sure to include some vegetable in every order for dinner.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was over the lower lake region Wednesday night has moved slowly east-northeastward and it has been attended by local rains in the Atlantic states north of Maryland. Pressure was high and rising over the states east of the Mississippi river except the northern New England.

The temperature was low Thursday in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic states, western New York.

The indications are for generally fair weather throughout the Washington forecast district Friday and in the Atlantic states Saturday.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Diminishing westerly and weather fair Friday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate northwest and west and weather fair Friday.

Weather Forecast

New England: Fair Friday and Saturday, not much change in temperature.

TAFTVILLE

A workers' conference was held at the Taftville Congregational church Thursday evening, and was presided over by Superintendent Fred Knowles. After the business session, which including making arrangements for the annual children's day exercises at the church, refreshments were served by the members of Victor H Davis' class.

The manager of the Sacred Heart school baseball team gave out the following statement Thursday: The Sacred Heart school team was surprised at the announcement in Thursday morning's Bulletin, in regard to the game played on the Providence street grounds with the Wequonnoc school team. Regardless of the decision of the umpire, Patrick Sullivan, the Wequonnoc school would not acknowledge its defeat. Arthur Roy, ex-umpire of the Taftville Athletic association, and James Troland, manager of the Athletic Association baseball team, and Hyman Schwartz, who were disinterested spectators at the game also decided in favor of the Sacred Heart school team, the score being 2 to 1. This team challenges any grammar school team, with the exception of the Wequonnoc school team.

The Thursday Evening Basketry class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Manager Troland of the Taftville A. A. is being kept busy making connection with fast basketball teams in this vicinity who he hopes to import to give the sporting Taftvillites a good thing for their money this season. The Taftville team is fast shaping up, the few more nights of practice event to see the whole organization performing like clock work.

Fred Prave of New Bedford, Mass., spent a short time this week as the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Prave of South Division street.

Miss Roberta Crowe has returned to South Manchester after passing several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crowe of South A street.

All vacant lots are covered with dandelion blossoms, and many are those who are out gathering them. They have perhaps a peculiar reason for wanting the blossoms, and not the greens. It has been noticed that dandelions have been on the increase since the country went dry, which no doubt is natures way of regulating things.

Ulric Chenette has returned to his home in Hartford after spending the past week with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chenette.

The House Department of the Taftville Congregational church has issued invitations for a social to be held in the lecture rooms of the church this (Friday) evening.

BILL AGAINST CORPORATIONS ACTING AS LAWYERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, May 17.—The bill against the practice of law by associations and corporations, which includes banks and trust companies, which was passed in concurrence in the house today after it had been opposed as "class legislation" designed "for the benefit of lawyers," especially pertaining to drawing wills provides as follows:

Section 1. No corporation or voluntary association shall, by itself or any officer, agent or employee thereof, practice or appear as an attorney at law before any judicial tribunal for any person, firm, association or corporation other than itself, either in its individual capacity or as a fiduciary, or draft or prepare any will, codicil, testamentary instrument or deed of trust, or defray or promise or agree to defray the expense or any part thereof for the drafting or preparation of any such instrument, or promise or render or promise or agree to render any service which could not be rendered by a person not admitted as an attorney at law in his state.

Sec. 2. No provision of this act shall be construed so as to affect any corporation or association acting as attorney in any matter resulting from the issuance of any contract of insurance, guarantee or indemnity in which such corporation or association shall be interested, nor any corporation or association organized for benevolent or charitable purposes, nor any corporation or association assisting persons having insufficient financial means in prosecuting or defending any civil or criminal action nor any corporation or association not organized for pecuniary profit.

Sec. 3. Each officer or director of any corporation and each member of any association violating any provision of this act shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars.

That campers using its public park brought $200,000 worth of business to the city in one year, is the claim of Missoula, Mont.

ASKING POLICE TO KEEP WATCH FOR OBSCURE MARKERS ON AUTOMOBILES

The department of motor vehicles has just issued a letter to police forces throughout the state asking for active enforcement of the law relating to the location and condition of markers on automobiles. It is expected that the situation which is now bad, will be materially improved within the next few days by means of police warning and prosecution.

The subject of obscured markers was taken up at the last conference of motor vehicle administrators and it was suggested that all eastern states take action against drivers negligent in this respect. Connecticut is the first state of the group, and the first in the country, to start a thorough and organized campaign on the subject, although Commissioner Baughman has been quietly checking up on Maryland drivers for some time.

The department reports that there are many cases where markers, being used on automobiles and motor-cycles, are so dirty and obscured that are useless as means of identification; but the state officials are asking the police particularly to check up on markers which are obscured by such accessories as bumpers and tire racks. In many such cases it is impossible to read more than one or two digits.

To emphasize the necessity of legible markers, Commissioner Stoeckel has cited an accident which recently occurred in New Haven. One of the best traffic officers in the state was on duty at Church and Elm streets, but an accident took place and the driver of the automobile attempted to escape responsibility. Nothing prevented his success but the ability of some workmen on the Green to read his number plate as the car dashed by.

The department of motor vehicles reports that Connecticut markers, by actual legibility tests under various conditions, are the most easily read of any plates in the country providing they are displayed according to law. The most recent tests gave Connecticut markers a grade of 53 perfect reading of 60 tests. New York plates appeared second with 47 perfect reading and Massachusetts third with 44.

The Connecticut motor vehicle law provides that markers shall be unobscured at all times, shall be perfectly legible, shall be hung horizontally and not less than fourteen inches from the ground, shall not swing, and shall be visible at night at a distance of fifty feet. These provisions are going to be enforced by the local police.

YANTIC CHURCH SHOWS TRUE CHRISTIAN CHARITY

The Episcopalian congregation of Yantic recently provided an excellent example of true Christian charity. The treasurer of the church corporation forwarded to Father Brennan, of Norwichtown the entire Sunday collection to assist him in rebuilding his church which was completely destroyed by fire last month. This action speaks for itself and little comment is necessary. A Hartford secular paper commented upon this display of practical toleration in the following paragraph: 'It is a particularly soothing story which comes out of Norwichtown about the recent destruction of the Catholic Church by fire and the immediate action of Grace Episcopal Church in the neighboring village of Yantic in graciously offering the receipts from its Sunday morning collection with a letter hoping 'that you will soon be able to again worship in your own church and that your task of advancing God's kingdom on earth will be prospered.' An expression of good will of that sort from one branch of the Christian church to another suggests the real unity towards which all religious bodies should be striving. Institutional unity is probably out of the question, and perhaps undesirable anyway. The unity of all religious believers in the advancement of forbearance and amiability and tolerance may be attainable, and is certainly much to be desired. Nobody imagines for a moment that all people will believe the same things or be moved by the same rituals, but it ought not to be beyond the compass of the human mind to understand that there is room in the fellowship of believers for all sorts of variants and exceptions. Mr. Bryan and others in their attempts to confirm the ignorance of past generations as the fidelity for the science of the present generation have a divisive influence. If he wants to see what real religion is, let Mr. Bryan study this Norwichtown incident and the prevalence of good will over differences in dogma."—Catholic Transcript.

SUNDAY CONCERT LAW PASSED BY SENATE

The following is the Sunday concert law that passed the senate at Hartford on Wednesday.

Section 1—The selectmen of any town, the Mayor and Aldermen or Common Council of any city, or the warden and burgesses of any borough, or any town, city or borough, at a meeting legally warned and held for the purpose, may allow the giving of public concerts in any theatre or hall in such town, city, or borough between the hours of two o'clock p. m. and six o'clock p. m. provided action taken by any such meeting shall supersede and render void any action taken by such officials. At such concerts only standard symphonic compositions and music of a classical nature shall be played, and nothing herein shall permit the giving of moving pictures or stereopticon exhibitions in connection with such concerts.

Section 2—Any person giving any concert in violation of this act shall be fined not more than $500.

Section 3—The provisions of section 6450 of the General Statutes shall not apply to concerts conducted pursuant of the terms of this act.

Long Short Calendar List.

There is a short calendar list of 31 matters to be taken care of here this (Friday) morning at 10 o'clock before Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court when the first short calendar session for the May session of court is held. None of them are divorce matters.

The May session of the civil superior court is scheduled to open here next Tuesday morning and may do so if all the business of the present session of the criminal superior court in New London is disposed of by that time.

26 NEW CASES ON SUPERIOR COURT DOCKET

A new superior court docket just issued by Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the court, contains 26 new cases returnable on the first Tuesday in May.

The summary of the cases in the docket shows 93 jury cases and 518 court cases.

Summer Camp at Crescent Beach

For the fourth season, St. Vincent de Paul Society, of Hartford is planning for a summer camp at Crescent Beach. Last year over 200 children were guests at this camp, being taken down in automobiles proffered by friends of the society. Forty children at a time were given two weeks' outing, donations from generous friends of the society providing them with special pleasures during their stay. Rev. J. Clement Martin, of Hartford, is chaplain of this camp, which is a charity liberally favored by members of all the Hartford Catholic churches. The camp headquarters is The Vincentian Cottage at the Beach.

Given Surprise Party

A very pleasant surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Dodge, Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Mary Wensom, R. N., who soon takes up her duties as matron of a large hospital at Decatur, Illinois, and her sister, Mrs. Enniss and two children, Ruth and Harold Enniss.

A large May basket was hung for Mrs. Wensom by the children of friends of the neighborhood, which was very handsome and well filled with goodies, gifts and flowers.

Luncheon and games were enjoyed.

MAY PARTY HELD BY CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB

A very delightful May party was held Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus home by the Catholic Women's club of St. Patrick's parish. About 30 tables of bridge and whist were played. The prize winners were Mrs. D. J. Hayes at whist and Mrs. Frank L. Farrell at bridge. May baskets of pink and white filled with home made candy were at each table. Each member had a chance of drawing from a large May basket a small prize. Many of them affording much amusement. Ice cream and cake were served which were donated by the pastor Rev. M. H. May to the members in appreciation of the splendid work covered during the year. A rising vote of thanks was given the president. Mrs. James Dutton for the planning and to Father May for his kindness in giving the party which he responded to with a few well chosen words.

The committee in charge of the party was Mrs. James Dutton, president assisted by the officers and executive board. The young ladies who served were Katherine Burns, Katherine Lynch, Margaret Driscoll and Louis Nadonly.

CITY'S NEW ROAD ROLLER WORKING ON WATER ST.

Street Commissioner A. E. Cruthers has received the new $7,000 road roller purchased by the city following authorization at a recent city meeting. The roller is of the latest type with scarifier attachment and weighs 17 tons. With this new roller the work about the city streets will be speeded up. It is expected that upper Broadway will be repaired and leveled as soon as Water St., is finished where the roller is now at work.

Commissioner Cruthers is busy on Laurel Hill and Water street and at the same time is trying to keep up other city streets. When the old road roller is repaired it will be used in light work.

LONG TRIAL LIST FOR MAY COURT SESSION

The trial for the May session of the superior court, as issued by Clerk George E. Parsons, contains 104 cases, of which 32 are jury cases and 72 court cases. One of the jury cases is claimed as privileged and 23 of the court cases are in the privileged list.

Gave May Basket Surprise.

The Community Workers of Greeneville surprised Mrs. C. F. Sears Wednesday afternoon at her home on Prospect street and presented her a beautiful May basket containing a table cloth, napkins and flowers. Mrs. Sears was completely surprised and thanked the ladies for the useful gifts. After a social hour was enjoyed refreshments of pickles, olives, sandwiches, cake, cheese, coffee and ice cream were served.

Those present were Mrs. William Monroe, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. John McDougall, Mrs. George Howard, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Allan Brown and Miss Nellie Hayes.

Primitive method of spinning with distaff and spindle, without the aid of a wheel, is still practiced by the peasantry of various European countries.

ALPHA CLASS ANNUAL WITH MASQUERADE PARTY

Alpha Class of the Universalist church Sunday school held its 11th annual meeting Thursday evening in the social room at the church with an attendance of 30. A masquerade party preceded the business meeting and the evening closed with an excellent supper.

Mrs. Walter A. Bussey was re-elected president, having held that office ever since the class was organized. Mrs. Thomas Wilson was re-elected vice president, Mrs. Minnie Boon re-elected treasurer and Miss Ellen Marvin elected secretary to succeed Miss Ruth Beebe. The annual reports that were presented showed an active and successful year in the work of the class.

May Basket For School Teacher.

When Miss Ruth Clarke resumed her duties at the East Great Plain school, after an absence of two weeks she was presented a bountiful May basket and a basket of cut flowers which showed the high esteem in which she is held by the teachers pupils and parents of the school.

SECRET OF HIS SUCCESS

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this country in a recent article said: "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in the world I owe it all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration, and the greatest helpmate of my life." Health is the first essential of every woman who wants to be a successful wife and to hold the love and admiration of her husband. If a woman finds her energies flagging and dark circles appearing under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, nervousness and "the blues," she should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the medicine which holds the record of helping 98 out of every 100 women who try it. There is nothing better.

Come in and choose your "ALASKA" before the choicest bargains are gone.

PRICES FROM $15.00 AND UP

Saves Ice — Saves Food

The Alaska offers you many special features that cut your food and ice bills and save you work. They are: Seven insulating walls to keep out heat and keep in cold. Famous "cubed cork" insulation, the most effective refrigerator insulating material known. Its myriads of tiny cells, filled with air, act as a barrier to the passage of heat and cold; keep the ice and food compartments cool in warmest weather.

The patented circulation system draws the warm air from the food compartments over the ice, where it is chilled and the moisture removed, returning it to circulate about the food in the food chambers. This constant supply of CHILL, DRY air preserves food perfectly.

The linings of the food compartments are of sanitary, seamless porcelain or white enamel; easy to clean.

The non-rusting shelves are removable; as are also the galvanized steel ice racks.

The patented drain trap prevents the entrance of heat through the drain pipe.

The tight-locking doors exclude heat.

73 FATALITIES IN SCHOOL BUILDING FIRE DURING COMMENCEMENT AT CLEVELAND S. C.

Of the Known Dead 41 Were Children—The Number of the Injured Has Not Been Ascertained—Fire Was Caused by Blazing Oil From a Lamp Which Had Fallen Among the Draperies of the Auditorium While a Playlet Was Being Presented—Four of the Eight Children in the Playlet Are Among the Dead—Audience of 300 Children Became Panic Stricken—Mothers, Trapped on the Third Floor, Hurled Their Children Through Windows—Wooden Structure Had Been Condemned and Was Being Used for the Last Time.

Camden, S. C., May 18.—Seventy-three women and children are known to have lost their lives in the fire which last night destroyed the school building at Cleveland, near here, and search is being made to determine whether five others perished.

The exact number of injured has not been ascertained, although five persons suffering from serious hurts, are in a hospital here. Many others are in their homes, recovering from burns, bruises and, in some instances, fractured arms and legs.

Of the known dead, forty-one were children who were in the crowded school auditorium, witnessing a commencement playlet, when an oil lamp fell, setting the wooden structure on fire. Seventeen men and fifteen women also lost their lives.

Messages of condolence and offers of assistance poured in today from all parts of the state and nation. Most of them were addressed to Mayor Carrison of Camden, and to all he returned one answer: "We appreciate your sympathy. No help needed."

The fire, according to eye-witnesses, started when a hanging lamp over the stage fell and burst, blazing oil catching flimsy draperies and quickly spreading. The audience, numbering about 300 mostly children, became panic stricken. Men in the crowd attempted to quiet those who became frightened, but a rush was made for the one insecure stairway that led to the ground floor.

A jam resulted, the stairway collapsed, and scores were hurled into a closet under the steps. Some were impaled by jagged timbers from the broken stairs. Soon the splintered stairway caught fire. Those not killed by the fall perished in the flames.

Meantime men and boys who had escaped by leaping over railings or through windows endeavored to extricate those trapped. Dozens were pulled to safety. Others leaped from windows, sustaining fractured bones and bruises. Mothers, trapped on the second floor, in some instances, hurled their children through windows.

With the light of the burning building to guide them, men outside the structure did their best to break the fall of those who jumped. Some of the mothers gave their lives that their children might live, for it was reported that in several instances little ones were tossed to safety just as the floor sank with the mothers.

Four of the cast of eight in the playlet, a comedy, were among the dead. All the players were members of the graduating class. One of them, C. C. Bruce, describing the start of the fire and the scene as the flames spread, said that at first it was believed by those on the stage that the blaze could be extinguished, but the flames ignited scenery and draperies, and in an instant the audience was panicky.

No announcement has been made whether there will be an investigation of the disaster, although it was reported that the building had been condemned and that it was being used last night for the last time. Coroner Dixon and his daughter were among those buried late today.

In the crowd standing alongside the grave was Governor McLeod of South Carolina, who earlier in the day had issued a proclamation calling upon the people of the state to aid the fire sufferers.

The day was a topsy turvey affair for Kershaw county. Stunned at first by knowledge of the extent of the disaster which had wiped out, as in a breath, entire families—fathers, mothers and children—the county quickly turned to the work of attempting to identify the dead, burying them, succoring the injured and condoling the bereaved.

All day long little was thought of but the fire. Business houses here closed, for not only had many of the county's solid citizens been taken, but thirteen of Camden's own lay wrapped in winding sheets beside the smouldering embers of what for years had been the center of the Cleveland community. On the doors of many homes crepe was hung.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Ultimatum to German Railway Men.

Berlin, May 18.—A Deusseldorf despatch says that General Degoutte, in command of the French occupational forces, has issued a proclamation ordering German railway men to resume work within 48 hours. Failure by the men to report for duty will bring their expulsion.

France Contributes Million Francs.

Paris, May 18. — Contribution by the French government of 1,000,000 francs to the popular subscription for a monument to commemorate the participation of the American troops in the world war was approved by the senate today without discussion.

Received by Pope Pius.

Rome, May 18.—Pope Pius today received 25 members of the American, English and French delegations to the Congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance. He told his visitors, some of whom are members of the Catholic Woman Suffrage Society, that he was in favor of the movement but was unable to relieve the congress officially as he could not approve some portions of its program, especially that relating to divorce.

GAY ESCAPADES OF WALTER S. WARD PUT INTO RECORD

New York, May 18.—Gay escapades of Walter S. Ward, wealthy baker's son and confessed slayer of Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass., were put into the record at today's session of the investigation being conducted by Deputy Attorney General Chambers into the killing, which Ward claimed to have done in self defense.

Much of the day was devoted to taking testimony of John F. W. Ollson, superintendent of the Polucliana apartments, where Ward had a suite for a few months in 1921 and where Ollson declared, he entertained many young women, until he was evicted because of the disorderly conduct of two young women, one a Titian-haired girl whom Ollson said Ward had described as his "steady."

The two, Ollson said, had gotter. into a fight and hair-pulling contest, which Ward explained by saying they had had too much to drink. Ollson said the girl described as the "steady" frequently stayed from Saturday afternoon to Sunday afternoon in the apartment, while the visits of the others were of shorter duration.

Besides the women callers, he testified, Ward had two men visitors, one a young man, with the appearance of a stable boy or a gardener, who had been given a key to the apartment by Ward.

Earlier, Police Lieutenant McGowan of the force at New Rochelle, where Ward lived with his wife, testified that Ward had disappeared from his home in April, 1922, and that he had been commissioned by Palmer H. Tubbs, police commissioner of New Rochell, and Ward's confidential secretary, to find him. He said he found Ward at the Bowie race track near Baltimore, where he was playing the races. Ward returned home, after a month's absence, only a few days before Peters was killed, McGowan testified.

Testimony that the pistol which Ward turned over to the authorities as one with which Peters had menaced him just before the shooting, was similar to one that had been given him by Police Chief Cody of New Rochelle, caused Mr. Chambers to inaugurate an effort to trace the ownership of the weapon. No such effort had been made by the Westchester county authorities during their original investigation of the case.

BRITISH SHIP OWNERS PROTEST "DRY" RULING

London, May 18.—(By The A. P.)—The foreign office today received a protest from British ship owners against the recent prohibition ruling of the United States supreme court, barring intoxicating liquors from American territorial waters, but it is unlikely the protest will be forwarded to Washington, as requested by the ship men, until the American government indicates the exact methods to be taken for enforcement of the ruling.

It is understood that wide latitude in handling matters connected with the prohibition issue has been given to Ambassador Geddes, and that no protests will be lodged in Washington until his reports indicate that such measures are likely to be beneficial.

BROOKLYN NAVY YARD NOT TO BE SHUT DOWN

New York, May 18. — Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, during an inspection of the Brooklyn navy yard today, denied reports that the yard would be shut down because of lack of construction work on U. S. shipping board and naval vessels. The lay off of workmen at the yard continued today when 60 more men were added to the nearly 230 employes thrown out of work since last Tuesday.

"The yard will positively not be closed," said Mr. Roosevelt. "It is about the most important yard we have on the Atlantic coast. The navy department is strongly behind it and is greatly pleased with the yard's efficient and splendid record."

2,500 SHOE WORKERS ON STRIKE IN BROCKTON

Brockton, Mass., May 18.—Brockton shoe manufacturers claimed tonight that the industry had lost $1,000,000 in orders since the strike began here early in the week. There are 2,500 workers now on strike and four large factories closed down.

The lasters' union tonight decided to hold a special meeting tomorrow to take a strike vote. This body has a membership of 1,200.

BANK ROBBERS PROVIDE NEW GAME OF CHANCE

Saskatoon, Sask., May 18.—Bank robbers who recently started their spring drive on border banks, have provided the young sporting blood of this town with a new game of chance. A pool has been organized, each contributor getting the name of a border town. The man holding the name of the next town visited by bank robbers takes the pot.

U. S. Consulate in Mexico City Bombed

Doors and Windows on the Lower Floor Destroyed—No Casualties.

Mexico City, May 18.—(By The A. P.)—Two bomb explosions on United States government premises in Mexico City have occurred this month, the first at the American embassy on May 4 and the second today in the building housing the American consulate general. The fact of the first explosion did not become known until after the bombing at the consulate building today. Neither bomb did material damage.

This morning's outrage occurred at 2.35 o'clock, when a bomb was exploded at the side door of the consulate general, damaging the door and destroying the windows on the lower floor, but causing no casualties. The consular offices themselves were not affect the damage occuring to the furniture and windows of the office in the consulate building occupied by a Mexican attorney.

The first explosion, it was learned, occurred at three o'clock on the morning of May 4 in the garden of the embassy building, near the terrace, a fragment from the infernal machine clipping a chunk off the embassy building.

Inquiries at the American embassy and consulate failed to bring to light anything connecting today's explosion with the outrage of May 4, Claude Dawson, the consul general, stated he had not received warnings or threats.

Gilberto Valenzuela, under secretary of the department of the interior, declared his belief that this morning's bombing was the work of enemies of the government especially in view of the fact that the mixed commission negotiations relative to recognition by the United States are going on.

The office which was wrecked opens on the sidewalk across a courtyard from that part of the building facing the Plaza De Reforma, the second floor of which is occupied by the consulate.

Testimony offered by the police indicated it was a giant powder bomb because of the great cloud of smoke and because the bomb's force exerted itself inward instead of blowing a hole in the office door.

Testifying in the district court, Carlos Castillo, whose office was wrecked, declared he could not imagine who would have a motive against his office. He could not explain how an anonymous letter threatening progressive measure of punishment, could have been placed inside the office. The letter, which was discovered after the explosion says:

"This is the beginning of your sentence, because it never has been our intention to destroy you with one stroke. We are leaving you in misery, as you have left us. Formerly your protectors, now your victims."

A postscript reads: "This is how justice is administered."

A soiled cap, bearing the red and black communist colors was found in the wreckage.

The fact that Castillo formerly was secretary of the company which published the defunct newspaper "Gronos" regarded by advanced labor organizations as opposed to the modern trend of labor and agrarian policies, is considered in some quarters to be significant.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF STATE WOMEN'S CLUBS

Waterbury, May 18.—The 27th annual convention of the Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs closed a two-day session here this afternoon.

A nominating committee for the 1924 elections was appointed as follows: Mrs. M. B. Brainard, Enfield, chairman; Mrs. Jane Fullerton, Willimantic; Miss Frances Fairclough, Danbury; Mrs. William Hoppin, New Haven; Mrs. William Roy Smoth, Meriden.

The next annual convention will be held in Meriden. Westport was selected for the mid-year meeting, and the annual luncheon will be at Wilimantic.

The convention raised a fund for a clock which will be presented to the general federation headquarters in Washington, D. C.

CHILE HAS CONFIDENCE IN THE UNITED STATES

Philadelphia, May 18.—Contact with business men of this country has produced among the people of Chile a feeling of confidence in the United States, Senor Don Beltman Mathieu, ambassador from Chile, said today at a luncheon tendered him by the Philadelphia chamber of commerce.

"Chile is looking to the United States," he declared. During the war she traded almost entirely with this country and so was able to increase here volume of business and awaken confidence which should exist exist between these two nations."

DONE WITH YOU IN MIND

When the sun shines, when the flowers bloom, when the baby laughs, when dinner sends out its inviting aroma—when any one of a thousand other things happen which attract your attention—you are being advertised to.

The whole purpose of any advertisement is to excite your curiosity, gain your interest, arouse your desire; to tell you something you don't know; to remind you of something you have forgotten; to convince you of something over which you have been hesitating; to help you get the best at least cost.

In short the purpose of an advertisement is, in one way or another, to make you happier.

Think it over. Read the advertisements in The Bulletin and see if that isn't so. Getting the habit of reading the advertisements is to get in touch regularly with opportunities that are being offered you.

Communists Clash With Police in Ruhr

One Communist Was Killed and Ten Were Wounded—Nine Policement Hurt.

Essen, May 18.—(By The A. P.)—A communist was killed, ten communists were wounded and nine policemen were hurt today in the latest clash between groups of communists seeking to force strikes in the mines, and the police who are resisting their efforts to take control. The fight took place at the Ministerium mine, near here, the police beating off an attack by the communists who were armed with pick handles and similar weapons.

Other collisions occurred at several other mines where the communists had gone to urge miners to strike for higher wages.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS SEIZE TUG AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, May 18.—The ocean going tug Alexander, owned by James Daly of New York, was seized by local customs officials this afternoon and the craft is now in charge of a local inspector at the wharf of the F. H. and A. H. Chappell company. The tug is one of several that is suspected of having operated off New London for some time in the distribution of liquor and alcohol. The Alexander is reported to have received much of the alcohol cargo of the steamer Yankton that was wrecked off No Man's Land a number of weeks ago and it is believed that the alcohol was delivered to smaller craft between No Man's Land and Montauk Point.

When the customs officials boarded the tug it developed that all of the crew, including Capt. C. T. Cox, had deserted the boat and the only member of the crew aboard was one which had been hired but a few days ago. The boat will be held in port until word as to her disposition is received from the customs officials in New York.

The seizing of the Alexander came about as a result of the local officials receiving information from the New York officers several days ago that the Alexander was suspected of being a rum-runner and that if the craft put into port, to seize her. The craft put into port last Saturday, presumably for the purpose of awaiting orders. The New York customs officials were notified that the Alexander had reached port and today word came back to seize and hold the tug.

The Alexander is a large craft, being of 154 tons, 107 feet long, 22 feet breadth and draws ten feet of water.

INQUEST ON DEATH OF RECLUSE HOLTZ MONDAY

Bridgeport, May 18.—Subpoenaes will be served upon a number of residents in this section to appear at an inquest to be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon by Coroner J. J. Phelan in Topstone inquiring into the death of George W. Holtz, 72-year-old hermit, who was brutally slain on May 4, and whose body was recovered from Umpawaug lake at midnight Friday, May 11. State police have questioned practically every resident of the Topstone section, also known as Sanford station, and while no intimation has been given as to the number of witnesses to be called, it is thought that the majority of those interviewed by the authorities to date will be called to testify at the inquest. The authorities investigating the slaying have been unable to definitely establish a motive for the slaying, and it is not expected that the inquest will develop anything that will tend to throw light on the mystery, unless some tangible clue is uncovered within the few hours proceeding the coming inquest. State police are pressing their investigation into the crime with vigor.

PLANNING SAFETY CODE FOR BUILDING PERMITS

New York, May 18.—A safety code for building exits planned to eliminate the condition held the jury responsible for the catastrophe at Camden, S. C., last night when more than 70 persons lost their lives in a school fire, this being worked out by 21 national associations, it was announced today by the American Engineering Standards committee under whose supervision the code is being formulated.

The committee, it was declared, will bring this code to the amention of school authorities, governmental departments and parent-teachers' associations throughout the country so as to minimize the danger of panic.

STATUS OF NEGOTIATIONS WITH CHINESE BRIGANDS

American Minister Schurman Reports to the State Department That the Prisoners Might be Released Within Two or Three Days—A Message From Tientsin Says Five of the Chinese Captives Have Been Shot—Marcel Berube of Shanghai Has Been Unconditionally Released.

Washington, May 18. — Minister Schurman reported to the state department today that negotiations for release of the foreigners held by Chinese bandits appeared to be in progress between the bandit leaders and representatives of the Chinese government and that the prisoners might be released within two or three days.

BRIGANDS HAVE SHOT FIVE CHINESE CAPTIVES

Tientsin, May 18.—By The A. P.)—The Suchow bandits on Wednesday shot five of their Chinese and "would not hesitate one moment about shooting the foreigners", according to Marcel Berube, one of the prisoners who arrived at Lincheng yesterday on parole. The Chinese prisoners were murdered for not obeying an order, or for not obeying it quickly enough, Berube said.

"The patience of the brigands is becoming exhausted" the prisoner declared. "In three days the marched us thirty miles. Come of the captives still are without shoes and with their feet sore and swollen, marching over the mountain trails is torture.

"We are now encamped in three temples at the foot of Paotzuku mountain. From there we can plainly see the soldiers across the valley. The troops greatly outnumber the bandits and follow at the heels of the latter on each march we make."

Berube said that Major Robert Allen and Theodore Saphiere are suffering greatly from cut and bruised feet. He declared that G. D. Musso, wealthy Italian, another captive, is unable to walk as one leg is paralyzed. Senora Verea, he declared, still refuses to leave her husband and is bearing her hardships remarkably well.

Major Roland Pinger has been elected president of the captives' organization. The major is clad in one large pair of trousers and a dress jacket.

Mr. Smith, a Manchester, England, man more than 60 years of age, who came out to the far east on the trip for his health, is reveling in the adventure, according to Berube. Dressed in blue flannel pajamas and a straw hat and carrying a broken walking stick, Smith is irrepressible. On Sunday, said Berube, the aged Englishman nearly slipped over the edge of a chasm to his death, but was able to scramble back to safety.

Berube asserted that the soldiers had looted one of the bandit villages and that the captives had seen several other villages destroyed.

PRISONER UNCONDITIONALLY RELEASED BY BANDITS

Peking, May 18.—(By The A. P.)—Marcel Berube of Shanghai was unconditionally released today by the Suchow bandits, according to advices received here.

Marcel O. Berubé, the first foreign captive taken in the raid on the Shanghai-Peking express May 6th to be freed by the brigands arrived at Lincheng yesterday. At that time it was stated he was on parole and had been sent out with the bandits' ultimatum that if the Chinese troops besieging the bandits were not withdrawn by Tuesday all the American and British hostages would be summarily shot.

BANDITS ARE READY TO FORFEIT THEIR OWN LIVES

Shanghai, May 18 (By the A. P.)—Unless the foreign powers unite in forcing the Chinese government to realize that the Suchow bandits are ready to forgeit their own lives and those of their captives in their determination to have their demands met, "we are doomed," was the word received here tonight from Leon Friedman, one of the Americans held in the Paotzuku stronghold of the brigands.

WIDOW OF GIANT IS CHECKING UP HIS ESTATE

New York, May 18.—The widow of William Henry Auger, the eight-foot giant from Fairfield, Conn., took steps today to find out what became of the diamonds, bulldogs and bank pass books she believes were in his possession when he suddenly died here last November 30.

Mrs. Auger, who lives in Hoboken, N. J., and is administratrix of the giant's estate, alleges she has seen none of the wealth she knew he had when he died. Today she obtained an order from Surrogate James A. Foley directing Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Hurd with whom she says Auger made his home for five years when he was here, directing them to tell all they knew of the whereabouts of his effects.

Mrs. Auger alleges her husband kept all his effects at the home of the Hurds, and just before his death transferred to Hurd a large farm he owned at Fairfield. Since Auger appeared with the Hurds in "Jack the Giant Killer," Mrs. Hurd even took charge of his money, says the widow's complaint.

GREECE MORE DEFIANT IN DISPUTE WITH TURKEY

Lausanne, May 18 (By the A. P.)—Greece tonight took a more defiant attitude in the reparations dispute with Turkey—an attitude which threatens a rupture of the conference.

The Greek delegation issued an official declaration insisting upon a reciprocal renunciation by Greece and Turkey of all reparation claims. M. Venizelos, head of the Greek delegation, is regarded by the delegates to the conference as having thus played a card which is calculated to embarrass the allies by forcing them to support the Greek stand, as the allies originally had included in the peace treaty this mutual renunciation.

CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY CHARGE AGAINST K. K. K.

Chicago, May 18.—Answers charging a criminal conspiracy on the part of the knights of the Ku Klux Klan and seeking a perpetual injunction against the klan, were filed in federal district court today by the Tolerance Publishing Company and by Patrick H. O'Donnell, head of the American Unity League, an organization formed to oppose the klan.

The answers were filed in the klan suit in which a temporary injunction was issued recently by Federal Judge Carpenter enjoining the Tolerance Publishing Company from publishing a list of 12,00 names of persons said to be on the klan membership list in Indiana.

PLUNGED INTO WATER TO SAVE INFANT SON

Providence, R. I., May 18.—Mrs. Ada W. Martin plunged into the water at Washington Park Yacht club this morning to rescue her two-year-old son George, who ran away from his grandmother, scampered into the yacht club enclosure and fell into the water. Mrs. Martin mistakenly dived for a dark object in the water, but George D. Adams, a neighbor, saw the child's clothing eight feet below the surface and rescued the youngster by twisting a pole in the garments. The boy was resuscitated.

GIFT OF $500,000 TO Y. M. C. A. COLLEGE IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., May 18.—Announcement of a gift of $500,000 to Springfield Y. M. C. A. College by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Foundation in New York, was made tonight by Dr. L. L. Dogget, president of the local institution. The gift is made contingent on the success of the Springfield College Expansion Fund campaign for $2,000,000 which closes July 1, 1925.

BRYAN DECLINES MINOR COMMITTEE LEADERSHIP

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18 (By the A. P.)—William Jennings Bryan, developed today into a story petrel of Presbyterianism when he refused to accept the chairmanship of the committee on home missions of the 135th general assembly, tendered him by Dr. Charles F. Wishart, who defeated Mr. Bryan yesterday in the race for moderator.

His refusal threatens to precipitate a fight between the liberals and the fundamentalists which will overshadow the other work of the assembly.

A practice of long standing gives the second man in the vote for moderator the chairmanship of the important committee on bills and overtures, the steering committee of the annual meeting.

When Dr. Wishart made up his committee assignments last night, however, he selected Dr. Hugh Walker, of Los Angeles, third in the moderator race, for this post. The bills and overtures committee will pass on the protest of the Philadelphia Presbytery against the doctrines preached by Harry Emerson Fosdick, a protest in which Mr. Bryan is very much interested.

Having selected Dr. Walker for the post, the moderator, asked Mr. Bryan to select any other, and after some consideration the committee announced he would be satisfied with the vice moderatorship, but by the time he had received a decision Dr. Wishart had named K. Spencer Chapman, a Philadelphia lawyer, as vice moderator and sent the list to the printer, giving Mr. Bryan the minor committee leadership.

SEEKING RECOVERY OF A BATTLE SCARRED DRUM

New York, May 18.—Samuel Hodkinson, 80 years old, who lives at Grantwood, N. J., opposite Grant's tomb across the Hudson, appeared in magistrate's court today to recover an old, battle scarred drum that he carried at the head of the 82nd Ohio Volunteer Infantry during the Civil war, from Edward Kessler, to whom it was loaned last Memorial Day.

"I carried that drum under Grant and I think that Grant was the greatest general we ever had," he told the court. "That's why I live where I do. I carried and beat that drum under Grant until I was made a second lieutenant and I want it back."

Kessler explained that there was some mistake and that he would return the drum at once. Unless he did so, Magistrate Sweetser said, he would issue a warrant for his arrest.

Civil war veterans who filled the courtroom were pleased with the outcome of the case and Hodkinson promised that he would beat the old drum again next Memorial day.

GIRL SHOT BY AMBUSHED MAN IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, May 18.—Helen Mezzaros, seventeen years old, fired upon by an ambushed man armed with a revolver, was severely wounded in the back tonight. Her assailant, whose identity is unsuspected by the girl or police, escaped. Her condition late tonight was said to be fairly comfortable.

Miss Mezzaros is said to have received love notes that were unsigned, and she told police, they say, she could not identify any one who had designs on her life.

SENTENCES OF WAR FRAUDS CONVICTS COMMUTED

Washington, May 18.—Prison sentences of Paul and Fred Weil, Chicago, Ills., convicted of war frauds, have been commuted by President Harding to one-half their original length, it was announced today at the White House. The commutation is dependent on payment of the fines of both.

HARRY E. PETTEE MISSING; $300,000 SHORT IN ACCOUNTS

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 18.—Reports that Harry E. Pettee, until Wednesday president of the General Carbonic Gas company of New York, is missing and an overdraft of $300,000 has been discovered in his accounts with the company were confirmed tonight by Former Senator Edgar T. Brackett, company counsel. Pettee formerly was mayor of Saratoga Springs.

Pettee last was seen at his New York city home on Thursday, May 10. Senator Brackett said pencilled notes found in his private box in the company safe on the next Monday are said to have contained the information that he had met with financial difficulties.

Company officials indicated their belief that Pettee had taken his life, pointing to statements in the notes concerning Colonel Whittlesey, of "the Lost Battalion" who is believed to have taken his life at sea. Pettee's notes, Senator Brackett declared, contained the statement; "Whittlesey did the right thing."

PLANS FOR REORGANIZATION OF THE SOCIALIST PARTY

New York, May 18 (By the A. P.)—Plans for reorganization of the socialist party along prewar lines, with a view towards eventual creation of a powerful American labor party, will be mapped out at the national convention of the socialist party commencing tomorrow, it was announced tonight.

Otto Branstetter, executive secretary of the party, said the convention this year will be devoted entirely to problems of party organization. With this work achieved, he declared, the convention next year will formulate party planks and will nominate candidates for the presidential election of 1924.

"It will be," he declared, "a truly American party as the British labor party is British and it will allow all the groups with common economic interests and ideals to work together in the political whole, each element, however, to be autonomous."

SMALLER SALES IN THE RETAIL TRADE IN APRIL

Boston, May 18.—April was the first month of this year to show smaller sales in the retail trade of New England than in the corresponding month of last year, according to reports gathered by the federal reserve bank of Boston. Poor shopping weather last month and the fact that Easter buying came in March this year instead of a month later as in 1923 is held responsible for the decrease in Boston in April of this year. The sales of the Boston department stores during April were as large as they were in March of this year, however.

Better trade conditions were found in many cities scattered throughout New England than was the case in Boston. In fact, the combined sales of important department stores in these same cities which report to the bank were nearly 6 per cent. larger than in April last year.

William Strothers and William Thompson, who since May 1922, had been waiting trial as confederates of Monte Michael, a noted American bandit who was killed near Tampico a year ago, made their escape from jail at Valles, state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

ADDRESSED SUFFRAGE CONGRESS IN ROME

Rome, May 18 (By the A. P.)—Mrs. Herbert Ashby of England, newly elected president of the International Woman Suffrage alliance, addressed the suffrage congress this afternoon, and, speaking in English, Italian, French and German, expressed the regret of the whole alliance over the retirement of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt from the active presidency.

"I am sure," said Mrs. Ashby, "that we all will will rely largely on her counsel and assistance. I propose that Mrs. Catt be an extra member of the board, with full voting powers, and I hope she will not refuse the new president's first request."

When the congress arose to acclaim Mrs. Ashby as the new president, her eight year old son climbed to the platform and presented Mrs. Catt with a bouquet of carnations. Holding the hand of the fair-haired boy, the American suffragist leader voiced her thanks and said that both she and the boy would do all in their power to support and help his mother in her work.

Mrs. Ashby then spoke in Italian, conveying the homage of the congress to the Italian women, with the wish that their hope for enfranchisement soon would be fulfilled.

PIGGLY-WIGGLY PRESIDENT CONTINUES TO FIGHT

Memphis, Tenn., May 18.—"I am still fighting," declared Clarence Saunders, president of Piggly-Wiggly today, in announcing that threats of injunction proceedings had halted his plans to liquidate groups of stores in other cities to relieve "pool holders" of Piggly-Wiggly.

"I don't know what I will do next but I still am fighting," Saunders said. "I have asked the pool to give me until July 1. I have agreed that if I do not pay off every cent I owe out-of-town pool interests by that time, I will step out and turn the business over to them. They have given me no answer on my proposal for an extension of time. I do not know what they are going to do."

Mr. Saunders said 91,000 shares of Piggly-Wiggly stock, valued roughly at $4,500,000, held as collateral, were transferred to the ownership of the pool three days before its representatives came to Memphis for a conference.

This action, he said, was taken without notice.

FOUND WITH THROAT CUT BETWEEN TWO COMPANIONS

Rochester, N. Y., May 18.—Felice Celli, aged 41, aid to be a well-to-do resident of Claredon, Pa., came to this city late last night in the company of two other men to seek shelter under his brother's roof, declaring he was in fear of being slain. He would give no details.

This morning when the brother went to call him for breakfast, Celli was found dead, with his throat slashed from ear to ear. The body rested between his two companions who was asleep when the brother entered the room.

BRITISH MISSION IN MOSCOW PACKING UP

Moscow, May 18. (By the A. P.)—The British mission in Moscow, while still without direct orders to leave, began packing up this afternoon in readiness to depart for Riga.

Friday forenoon a number of cases were assigned at a short calendar session of the Windham county superior court held in this city with Judge James H. Webb on the bench. Two divorces were granted. Judge Webb suggested that things be speeded up as there were only five days of the present term left in which to hear cases. The calling of the docket was the first business of the session.

The following is the assignment of cases for next week: Tuesday, May 22, Mary E. Pike vs. Benjamin Brown, et al; John W. Bissonette vs. Victor J. Bissonette; James M. Wilcox appeal from probate will of Henry J. Wittlers. Wednesday, May 23, Victor Bachinsky vs. The Jones Auto Company; Louise Van Dorr vs. Charles Lorenson, D. Al. Cornelius D. Shea vs. Nellie Shea, ex.; Alben M. Sayles adm. vs. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.; Thursday, May 24, Nellie Annie Dorous, appeal from probate; Arthur King and Georgianna King Smith, appeal from probate; General Mortgage and Loan Corp. vs. Florence Jeppson, et als. The case of Gertrude A. Wardell vs. Town of Killingly which has been pending for a long time was declared off the list.

The four cases on the short calendar were continued. The first of the two uncontested divorce cases to be heard was that of Marie Eva Methe of Danielson, seeking a divorce from her husband, Ovila Methe. The couple were married some twenty-five years ago and not long after the union the husband began to abuse his wife. While they resided in Vermont his actions were so shameful that she left him and returned to live with her parents in Danielson, she claimed at their suggestion. A physician's signed statement was presented in which it was alleged that Mrs. Methe had received medical attention for injuries received at the hands of her husband. They had not lived together since 1910.

Charles Garand of Danielson and Charles W. Methe who was counsel for the plaintiff, testified to the reputation and acts of the defendant. Mrs. Methe was granted the divorce decree and given the custody of her son.

Clarinda A. Simard was granted a divorce from her husband, Arthur J. Simard of this city. She stated that they were married on February 5, 1899 and she alleged that her husband had mistreated her on several occasions, driving her from the house some ten years ago. They had one child, a daughter who is now married. Mrs. Simard now resides in Springfield and has worked in various places as a milliner, at one time in Taftville and later in this city. The testimony of Mrs. Louise Bourassa of this city and of Ovila Dumais of Springfield and brother of the libelant, was heard in regard to the contended separation of the couple.

In regard to the fact that matters of much interest will be taken up at the special town meeting to be held Saturday afternoon at the town hall beginning at 2 o'clock, it is expected that a large number of the voters will be on hand to express their opinions. The principal cause of the warning is that referring to the transportation of pupils from the outlying districts of the town to Windham High school in this city. The petition as presented to the selectmen and signed by Mrs. Healy and thirty other legal voters reads as follows: "To see if the town will vote to authorize and instruct the school committee to provide a means of transportation to and from the Windham High school of any pupil attending this school during the whole or part of reasonable school sessions."

The manner was taken up some time ago and presented to the school board but at that time no action was taken as the members did not feel at liberty to take action without the sanction of the voters.

The other clause in the warning is in regard to the construction of a new bridge on the Natchaug River on the North Windham Road where the Willimantic Wet Wash is located. It occurred to some of the taxpayers that as the bridge is quite narrow and there have been many near accidents due to the heavy traffic, it was high time that something should be done on behalf of the selectmen. It is thought that a large delegation will be on hand to vote in favor of the plan.

The remains of Mrs. Ellen Hoey were conveyed from the late home at 204 Fairview street, Friday morning to St. Joseph's church where a requiem nuptial high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. E. Beauregard sang the mass with Rev. Charles H. Kelley as deacon and Rev. John H. Ward as sub-deacon. The organ music was by Mrs. E. R. Porteous and as the body was being borne into the edifice, a quartette consisting of Mrs. Henry Mathieu, Miss Mary Mesbin, Arthur Roy and Walter Murphy sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and Mrs. Mathieu rendered "O Salutaris" at the offertory and Mr. Roy sang "Some Sweet Day" as a waiting hymn. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Fathers Clark and Kelly officiated at a committal service at the grave in the family plot.

The bearers were Henry Sylvestre, Constant Cavarnos, James Duffy, Robert Kelly, John Hoey and Joseph Donnelly. There were a large number of handsome floral tributes resting on the casket. Killourey Brothers had charge of the funeral arrangements.

The funeral services for Mrs. Jane Black were held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the funeral parlors of the J. C. Lincoln Company on Church street. The committal service was read by Rev. F. C. Williams, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Burial followed in the Willimantic cemetery.

The election of officers to hold office during 1923 took place at the annual meeting of the Brotherhood of the Congregational church and resulted as follows: President, Harry W. Standish; vice president, Doxen Van Zandt, secretary, Norman Hardick and treasurer, Kenneth Brault. Rev. George B. Gilbert, clergyman at the Episcopal church in Middletown, was the speaker of the occasion. A delightful supper was served by the Ladies' Aid society of the church.

Notices were posted Friday in the departments of the local plant of the Quidnick - Windham Manufacturing Company which carried the following information:

"The demand for our staple products having become light during the past few weeks, it is necessary for us to curtail production. Beginning this week and continuing until further notice will operate five days a week and close all day Saturdays." Signed The Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing Company, W. P. Knight, Agent.

The Senior Play Come Out of the Kitchen was presented to an appreciative audience Friday night in the auditorium of the Windham High school. Miss Dorothy H. Berry was the coach of the play.

Announcement was made Friday from Harvard College to the effect that the one-sixth of the boys in the graduating class of an approved high school would be eligible for entrance without taking college entrance examinations in the class of 1923 as the local school four boys are affected by the new ruling.

Engine Company, No. 1 was called Friday morning for a chimney fire in the home of Joseph Handfield on Monticello street. Three gallons of chemicals were used in extinguishing the blaze.

The Junior Catholic Daughters' dance was held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the town hall and was a decided success. Those connected with the entertainment were Miss Mary Hines, party, chairman, Miss Marie Tobin, Miss Cecilia Sullivan, Miss Frances Squires, Miss Emeline Bond and Miss Mary Rinder.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Chesbro and Eleanor Chesbro are entertaining a house party consisting of Mrs. Minnie Whittaker and daughter, Miss Frances Whittaker and Miss Martha Bowen all of Attleboro, R. I. and Miss Grace Dean of Shirley, Mass.

Mrs. D. Everett Taylor of Prospect street, Rochester, New York, the guest of Miss Alice Chase for a few days.

Miss Albert W. Peabody and Miss Olive are in New Haven for the week end.

The Lollypops of Gurleyville beat the Crackerjacks of Gurleyville by a score of 15 to 14 in a twelve inning, mazzar battle here at Gurleyville Thursday. The last part of the game was played by moonlight and a lantern.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. John Randall of Willimantic and her nieces, the Misses Avery of Rocky Ford, Colorado, who are her guests, were in town on Monday calling on relatives and friends at the Center and at the lake.

One day last winter when the ground was covered with ice and snow, Lester Thomas had occasion to go to Utley hill, but because of the condition of the road, found it difficult to make the ascent. He alighted from the car and subsequently managed to turn it around on the hill and return to town. When he arrived home he found that a valuable fountain pen and pencil had been given him as a Christmas present was missing. Recently he had occasion to go to Utley hill again, and find his pen at the place where he had trouble with his car last winter.

On the complaint of Dwight A. Lyman, grand juror, Stephen J. Harrington of Rumford, R. I., was charged before Justice Hubert P. Collins with reckless driving of a five ton Buick truck on the Hartford-Willimantic highway in the town of Columbia near the Andover line on May 9th. The specific charge was neglecting to drive to the right sufficiently on a hill in a turn in the road to give the approaching vehicle a fair and equal opportunity to pass. The result was that Harrington's truck ran into a Buick roadster driven by Charles Tiedman of Hartford, accompanied by a friend who were both thrown out by the collision Tiedman claimed that his car was badly damaged, and that he sustained a bruised arm and a cracked rib.

Harrington pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $10 and costs, aggregating $23.18, which he paid. A charge was also brought against Charles Tiedman for driving a motor without having a registration card in his car. He was defended by Judge Foss of Willimantic and plead not guilty. He produced evidence to show that the certificate was in a bag in the rear of the car and was acquitted.

Miss Annan, millinery specialist of the extension department of the Connecticut Agricultural college was at Yeoman's hall on Wednesday and conducted a class in hat making. Many ladies attended and were much pleased with the suggestions offered, and the result of their work.

Miss Marion Holmes teacher of the school at the center, Edna Edwards, winner of the speaking and spelling contests in Columbia and several others attended the speaking and spelling contest of the schools in this district which were held at the normal school in Willimantic on Tuesday. Edna Edwards took part in the contests of winners from the thirteen towns in this district, the winners of which will take part in the state contest to be held at Hartford in June.

Children's night was observed by the Grange on Wednesday last when the children of the Grangers gave a very interesting program under the direction of Miss Esther Granstrom, the lecturer.

The program was as follows: Song, Beatrice Collins; recitation, Signs of Spring, Amelia German; recitation, George La Bonte; song, I am Dreaming of You, Helen Field; recitation, Wescott Rice; recitation, Mabel Porter; recitation, About Doctors, Francis Sitkin; dance, Esther Kresewitz, Frances Sitkin, Mabel Porter, Amelia German; recitation, The Mystery, Juliette Henbequin; March for Mayday, girls of the Center and West street schools; recitation, Perfect Bliss, Frederick Hunt; recitation, About Boys, Frederick Bertsch; song, A Little Brown Home, Elaine Mupher; recitation, Suppose, Jasper Woodward; recitation, Dorothy La Bonte; song, Edith Isaman; piano solo, Elaine Mupher. Refreshments were served and were followed by dancing.

GALES FERRY

At the regular business meeting of the Village Improvement association on Monday evening held in the Country club house at 7 o'clock Walter M. Buckingham, treasurer, presided in the absence of the president, D. R. Povey. Nelson Parker, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. No report was made by the landscape department. The educational and entertainment departments were reported jointly by Miss Grace E. Povey, chairman of the latter department, who stated that Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman of the educational department, together with Miss Povey, were busy preparing for the annual birthday party of the association. The reports of the committee named at a previous meeting by President Povey to canvass the village as to choice of the several names suggested for the village streets were given by Mrs. Fanny A. Moithrop, Miss Caroline B. Freeman and Miss Laura A. Perkins. A motion was made by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, and seconded, that everyone in the village be urged to be present at the next meeting, May 28, to make a choice of names for the streets. It was so voted.

The Gales Ferry Pinochle club held their weekly progressive pinochle party on Tuesday evening at the Country club house. The first prize for ladies was won by Mrs. J. STAFFORD SPRINGS

The engagement of Miss Frances F. Smith of Hartford to Howard E. Tuthill, son of A. W. Tuthill of Stafford Springs has been announced. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur A. Smith of Brownell avenue, Hartford, and is a teacher in the Hartford public schools.

Mrs. Bessie L. Slater of West Stafford is visiting relatives in East Hartford.

Miss Ruth Chapin has gone to Lake Kushaqua, N. Y., where she will spend several weeks with relatives.

Miss Madeline Smith of Newport, R. I., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Quinn.

Dr. F. P. Batchelder of Boston is at home at the time and his wife was running the plant, it is said, and she was considerably burned in her attempts to get the better of the blaze. Officer Harvey Maynard arrested Kobie. Prosecuting Attorney H. H. Burnham put him under bonds of $500 which were furnished by John Godek.

The still, bottles of moonshine, and a large quantity of mash, were taken to the police station by Officer Maynard. Fire Marshal G. H. Prior determined to learn the real extent to which operations were being carried on, was a little burned by an explosion when he uncovered the main boiler. The police declare the whole outfit was a finely arranged contrivance, and it is believed it has been kept going night and day. Kobel is to have a hearing in the town court at 8 Saturday morning.

MACHINE HITS POLE; THREE ARE INJURED

(Special to The Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, May 18.—While rounding the curve from West Main street into Prospect street in his Buick sport car early Friday morning, Nick Kickopoulos, proprietor of the Liberty restaurant crashed into a telephone pole and badly damaged the radiator, windshield, mudguards, top of his machine and the engine. The driver was cut on the chin and Miss Doris Murray and Miss Annie Murray who were riding in the car at the time of the accident were injured. Miss Doris Murray received a bad gash over her left eye which required six stitches after she was taken to the Johnson hospital. Miss Annie Murray had her knee badly cut and her foot cut. Mr. Kickopoulos had two front teeth knocked out.

He was presented in the borough court Friday afternoon and was charged with reckless driving. He said he was going about 25 miles an hour. State Policeman Caron who happened to be driving behind the car which had the accident testified that Kickopoulos was going 38 miles an hour. Deputy Judge Taft thought that Kickopoulos did not use the care that he should have in making the turn so fast and imposed a fine of 25 and costs, a total of $7.18.

At the same session of court, Mrs. Mariano campo was fined 3 and costs of 9.61 for breach of the peace.

The Stafford high school baseball team defeated the Rockville high school team on Hyde park Thursday afternoon, 8 to 2.

JEWETT CITY

Charles H. Brewer of Taftville was presented in the town court Friday morning, having been arrested by Officer Vigard, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Judge F. E. Robinson imposed a fine of $100 and costs and 30 days in jail. Brewer paid $122.45, the jail sentence was suspended for a period of observation as to future deportment.

Thursday and Friday were of the especially fine sort of May days, with apple trees and shrubs in full bloom. Conspicuous among the new bird arrivals were a number of pairs of gorgeously colored orioles. Mr. Goldfinch was also noted and, with his handsome nuptial plumage of yellow and black, he is surely a handsome fellow. These two are old and regular inhabitants, but within the Main street bird show a transient of no little importance was noted, the Nashville warbler. He is on his way from Mexico to northern Ontario or Saskatchewan, where his mate will lay four handsome white and speckled brown eggs in the great wood. Probably the Canadian jay or the provincial squirrel will get away with the eggs or later the chicks. Then there will be divorce proceedings and back they will fly in the fall over 3,000 miles to Mexico for the winter.

Observers here seldom see the Nashville warbler. His bright yellow underparts and olive green back will declare his identity if one should happen to hear his strange note.

Those who have chanced to wander afield this week have reported the many shad bushes in the height of their bloom. It brought to mind the book owned by an older resident in which it tells of the shad blossoms being out, and then goes on to relate of a haul in the Quinebaug here, and says "we got 30 shad and one salmon." The shad bush was named because of its flowering when the shad "run." It is also called Juneberry and serviceberry. Records show that the Indians and early settlers here crushed the fruit by pounding, then made a sort of cake of the pulp.

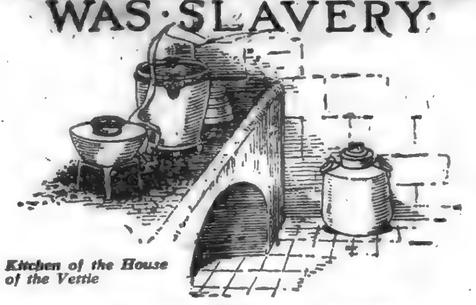
WHEN COOKING WAS SLAVERY



Kitchen of the House of the Vettie

A STORY OF OLD POMPEII

Centuries ago, when Pompeii and Olympia and Mycenae were in their prime, there was an ancient civilization that the world still holds in veneration.

But there was a canker in the heart of the civilization—the canker of slavery. Among these slaves were those who worked in the kitchens of the mighty.

The great people of Pompeii lived sumptuously in homes of exquisite beauty. They gave banquets that are the despair of modern hostesses.

Imagine a dinner at the house of the Vettie, which has been reconstructed from its ruins in Pompeii. Think of the beautiful inner court. Around it runs a paved court with classic marble columns. There is a gay garden in the center. From odd and unexpected places tiny streams of water trickle from little statues of bronze into cool basins. Marble tables stand among the flowers.

Conjure up a picture of a dinner at the house of the Vettie. Low couches are placed along the outer edge of the marble tables and the guests lie propped up on their left elbows with rich cushions to make them comfortable.

The diners can see the sunset glow in the sky. Off in the distance they see the great bulk of old Vesuvius, casting an ominous shadow over the city. Cool breezes invade the garden and rustle the leaves of the garden shrubs and vines. The little fountains furnish a delicate musical accompaniment.

The slaves bear the large silver platters of food. It was good to be a woman of high-standing in those days.

But there is a reverse side to the picture. Back in the hidden part of the Vettie's spacious house was a tiny room—its kitchen. Small, cramped and stuffy—it presented a compelling contrast to the classic beauty of the garden. Here was the crude stove. It was only a low stone structure, on the top of which charcoal was spread. The pots in which the food was cooked were on tripods and they were set right in the glowing coals. The cooks had to bend over this bed of fuming coals as they cooked.

This was in the home of a Pompeiian of wealth. Still more primitive were the stoves of the less fortunate.

Pompeii is gone. The old Roman civilization has given way to a newer one—and slavery is a thing of the past.

The stuffy kitchen has gone; the primitive stove has been discarded, and now cooking has become an art and a science. Cooking is no longer slavery. It is something that every true housewife loves.

But every true housewife has learned that her emancipation is accomplished by the aid of a Sterling Range. She knows that here is a cook stove that has been built with a keen eye to her comfort.

The Sterling Range is the range that never fails. It has been constructed scientifically. It has been thoroughly tested, and time and again it has baked a barrel of flour with a single load of coal.

It is a thing of household beauty. It is correctly proportioned, attractively finished. It has roomy cooking and oven space. It utilizes both coal and gas and has a combination hot water heater.

In fact, the Sterling Range is the great Emancipator of the modern woman, for it is within the reach of all. Every woman can profit by its economical and time saving features. Can if desired so arrange terms of payment with the Sterling dealer that the Range will practically pay for itself by the savings it effects.

The slaves of Pompeii were obliged to use the stove they had. You can escape kitchen drudgery by simply calling on the Sterling Dealer today.

JEWETT CITY FIREMEN FIND 20 GALLON STILL IN OPERATION

(Special to the Bulletin)

Jewett City, May 18—Members of the fire company, found a big 20 gallon still, in full blast, when they responded to an alarm at 22 Slater avenue at 10.45 Friday forenoon.

The damage to the building was less than $50. The whistle was sounded for station 24, and when the firemen arrived they found a woman inside fighting with the flames that ham started from the big oil burners under the boiler of the still.

A window sash was broken out during the firemen's operations, disclosing the still to the full view of the people that assembled. Many crowded up o the window to get their first glimpse of a still in operation.

Mike Kobie, lives in the tenement and is a fireman on one of the shifts of the Aspinook boilers. He was not

Big Fox Film at the Breed.

One of the new big Fox special pictures, My Friend the Devil, is to be shown at the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

William Fox has already given a host of fine super pictures to the great motion picture public and his specials for this year are, without question the finest that has been offered in picture houses. His Nero, his Monte Cristo, his Silver Wings, and others have won the applause of both New York and London.

My Friend the Devil is declared to be a strong, vital, dramatic story, a story that digs deep into the heart of modern life and helps to lead us on, through its example, to the road to happiness. It is the story of a great scientist who is an unbeliever —a man who thinks that science is greater than God; the story of an unfaithful wife—with a great climax in the discovery of the unfaithfulness at the time his daughter is to be married. Here we find the house divided" wrecked, but from the wreckage comes a belief and a gentleness that is as soothing to the mind of the viewer as the thrills of the previous scenes were tense.

It is said to be a story that will help to bring happiness into many homes and teach future brides and grooms to "look before they leap."

Of this picture one New York critic wrote:

"A powerful drama, splendidly acted by a superb cast. It features one of the most absorbing climaxes in the history of the silent art."

It is said to abound in dramatic situations. In the cast are Charles Richmon, Barbara Castleton, William Tooker, Peggy Shaw, Benny Grauer, Mabel Wright, Alice May, John Ravdall, Myrtle Stewart and John Tavernier.

Harry Millarde, who made Over the Hill, directed My Friend the Devil. It is adapted from Georges Ohnet's celebrated novel, Doctor Rameau."

Other pictures on the bill include Topics of the Day and an Educational comedy. Today's bill consists of Rex Ingram's production, Where the Pavement Ends, Pearl White in Plunder and the Pathe News. Continuous show today, 1.30 to 10.15.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Strand.

There are thrills and thrills for motion picture patrons, but perhaps the most interesting of these will be the thrills that come in rapid succession in Allan Dwan's production for Paramount, The Glimpses of the Moon, with Bebe Daniels, Nita Naldi, Rubye de Remer, David Powell, Maurice Costello and Charles Gerrard in the principal roles.

And these thrills will not be provided by hair-breadth escapes from alligators or dare-devil leaps over cliffs, but by the sheer beauty of the gowns worns by the three feminine players who have the leading parts in the picture. A list of the gowns worn by Miss Naldi, for instance, reads like the wardrobe list for an entire production. Miss Naldi wears a sable wrap and one of summer ermine, as well as several silk capes. Then there are three negligees, five evening gowns, five afternoon gowns and ten hats. There are several other gowns of fashionable design which Miss Naldi wears.

Of course, with all this gorgeous finery there is correspondingly beautiful jewelry. As an instance, Bebe Daniels' wedding gown is trimmed and edged with real pearls valued at $100,000. A necklace worn by Rubye de Remer in this wedding scene cost $68,000. The gems worn by Nita Nalui throughout the picture, in which she is the wife of a millionaire banker, would put to shame the collection of the average society woman of wealth.

The Glimpses of the Moon will be the feature at the Strand theatre Monday to Thursday. David Powell is leading man.

Short subjects make up the remainder of the bill.

Broadway Theatre.

Do you know any person who seems to be an irritable old grouch, but who really has a heart of gold? Do you know such a man; who calls his servants "fat-faced fools and idiots," but is nevertheless loved by those servants, who have grown old in his service?

If you do know such a person, then you know the human personification of "Grumpy," the famous stage character that has been brought to the screen by Theodore Roberts featured in the title role of William de Mille's Paramount production of Grumpy, which will be shown at the Broadway theatre starting Sunday. May McAvoy and Conrad Nagal are also featured with Mr. Roberts in this photoplay.

Critics who have seen the picture declare it is the veteran's greatest motion picture characterization; superior even to Mr. Roberts' Uncle Josh in The Old Homestead, lauded everywhere as the most lovable personage ever portrayed for the silversheet.

In Grumpy, Mr. Roberts is the central figure in the hunt for the robber of a valuable diamond. How he follows a clue supplied by a gardenia with a woman's hair wrapped around the stem, and finally brings the culprit to justice and brings two loving hearts together, makes one of the most fascinating picture stories ever told on the screen. Grumpy is based on the famous stage play of the same name in which Cyril Maude starred.

A Federated comedy and Hy Myer Travelogue are the other subjects.

Ed Wynn, The Perfect Fool.

A solid year in New York, three months in Chicago, two months in Boston, is the record to date for Ed Wynn, The Perfect Fool," and his unique musical offering which come here to the Broadway theatre for one night only, Wednesday, May 23. This comedian's entirely different style of entertainment is just the speedy, zippy sort for the tired business man and the busy housewife. The two acts and nineteen scenes of kaleidoscopic splendor and the bevy of bounding beauties delight the eye. The many musical gems titillate the ear while the ludicrous antics of The Perfect Fool incite the risibilities to the fullest.

Few choice seats are still left.

"Come Clean" at Bradley Theatre Putnam.

Prior to opening in New York, Come Clean, a new three-act comedy by Roy Milton, comes to the Bradley theatre, Putnam, Thursday night, May 24, under the management of Albert James, a young producer long associated with Winthrop Ames.

A notable cast appears in the production, including Betty Alden, Bruce Elmore, Laura Alberta, Frank Headick, Eleanor Ryan, and Louis Kracke. It has been staged by Edwin Maxwell, director of Music in West and Meron of the Movies.

The story concerns a cabaret girl who forsakes the bright lights of Broadway, and seeks rest and reformation in a small New

CHIPPIE GAW TO PITCH FOR NORWICH AGAINST WARE TEAM HERE SUNDAY

Chippie Gaw, former Buffalo International Leaguer and a pitcher who has demonstrated his ability on more than one occasion here, will pitch for the Norwich team Sunday against the Ware Town team. Chippie has been going strong this season and is even in better form than last year which is saying a mouthful for Chippie pitched some wonderful games last season. In four starts this season Chippie has been returned victor in every contest, three of them in the Hoston-Twilight League and the other against the Ware team last Sunday. He held the Ware sluggers to four scattered hits and beat them 2 to 1. If he can do that one Sunday he ought to surely duplicate again this week. Gaw replaces Boyce who has taken a manager's job with a Massachusetts team.

Another new face will be seen at second base in place of Danny Silva, former Pittsfield player. This will be Dave Hillis, of Dorchester, who last season played with the Rochester International team as a utility man. Hillis is an asset to most any ball club for he can play any position in the infield and also the outfield. While with the Rochesters he played first base, third and short and some of the time in the outfield. He finished the season with a combined fielding average of .925 and was hitting around the .270 mark. Hillis is fast on his feet and covers a lot of ground around the second sack and is a reliable and hard hitter. He is expected to ably fill the position made vacant by Silva.

Of course Gene Berry is no stranger to Norwich fans and they will be glad to welcome him back to the old town. When Berry was here before he came in the role of a pitcher, and a mighty good one, too, but Sunday he will play in left field and act as a relief hurler. Gene is no slouch of a hitter as will be remembered by fans who saw him play here last year both with and against the local team.

Ware is coming down with a firm determination to hand the local team a terrible walloping, but may be surprised at the outcome of the battle, for a battle it is bound to be when two such teams get to mixing it up on the ball field. Chet Nichols is a worthy opponent for Gaw and it would not be surprising to see the game develops into a real pitchers' battle. Both hurlers are good and don't doubt it. They have all kinds of stuff and know how to use it. Keefe will catch Gaw and Keefe is a real backstop.

The lineups for Sunday's game follow.

NEW YORK COMMISSION FORBIDS FIRPO-WILLARD GO

New York, May 18—The New York state athletic commission has forbidden the proposed boxing match between Jess Willard and Luis Angel Firpo, it was learned tonight, on the ground Willard's age was beyond the legal limit.

Tex Rickard, promoter of the bout, was said to be [illegible] it in New Jersey, probably at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

However, should Rickard be unable to stage the fight at the Yankee stadium, he has Boyle's Thirty Acres available in Jersey City. The match is slated to be held on or shortly before July 7. Willard came to terms several days ago, just before departing for California.

KAPLAN TO CHALLENGE KISBANE-CRIQUI WINNER

Meriden, May 18—Dennis McMahon manager of Louis "Kid" Kaplan, who last night knocked out Danny Frush of England in six rounds, stated here tonight that he would post a forfeit of $2,500 Monday with the New York state boxing commission for a chance to meet the winner of the Kilbane-Criqui bout on June 2.

Rickard refused to discuss the commission's decision tonight but it was said that the bout would probably be staged in the Jersey City arena on June 30.

William Muldoon, chairman of the commission also refused to comment on the reported action but said his personal view had not changed from what it always had been—that Willard should not be allowed to box in New York unless he proved that he was under the prescribed age limit of 38. Many experts have placed Willard's age above the 40 mark.

"BABE" ADAMS CELEBRATES WITH VICTORY OVER BRAVES

Boston, May 18.—Pitcher Charles "Babe" Adams of Pittsburgh, celebrated his 41st birthday by defeating Boston, 4 to 3 today. With two out in the ninth Gooch singled. S. Adams ran for him and reached third on a single by Barnhart, who pinch hit for C. Adams. A clean double steal tied the score and Maranville's single to left scored Barnhart with the winning run. Maranville was arrested last night for speeding in Brookline and spent some time in the town jail, but played his usual brilliant game today.

Before the game President Christy Mathewson of the Boston club presented Babe Adams with a floral tribute and Adams' teammates gave him a box of his favorite cigars. Score:

LUQUE SHUTS OUT GIANTS FOR FIRST TIME

New York, May 18.—Cincinnati evened its series with New York here today, Luque, the Cuban, shutting out the worlds champions by a score of 7 to 0. It was the first shut out suffered by the Giants this season. Luque held New York to five scattered hits. Bentley, New York's $65,000 pitcher, lost his third game in four starts. He pitched a fair game today, but his wildness helped bring about his defeat. Score:

HARRIS PITCHES ATHLETICS TO A TWO HIT VICTORY

Cleveland, May 18.—Philadelphia made it three straight from Cleveland today, winning 4 to 1. The first eight innings constituted a pitching duel between Harris and Shaute. The first two Indians to face Harris singled, producing one run, after which not another hit was made by Cleveland. Galloway stole home in the second after he had walked, stolen second and gone to third on Myatt's throw to centerfield. Score:

FREAK HOME RUN WINS FOR CARDINALS

Brooklyn, May 18.—Torporcer's freak home run that bounced into an alley way at the end of the right field stand in the sixth innings, after Flack had walked, cinched the game for St. Louis by 3 to 1 and gave St. Louis two straight in the series. Brooklyn's one run off Sherdel was due to a pass to Nels and Torporcer's fumble. Score.

JAIL HILLS TROUNCE PROFESSIONAL MEN

In a game featured by some heavy hitting the Jail Hill A. C. defeated the Professional Men 11 to 3 at the Fairgrounds Friday evening in the fifth game of the Norwich Twilight league. Doc Thompson was the hurler for the Profs and was going good until the fourth inning when he became completely demoralized and the Hillies secured eight runs. It was in this inning also that the Profs secured the majority of their runs getting five off Shea's delivery. Christy Mathewson was the heavy hitter of the game getting a double and the first home run of the league. Mathewson got his homer when his drive got away from the Hillies' centerfielder and rolled to deep field. The score:

EHMKE HUMBLES HIS FORMER TEAMMATES

Detroit, May 18.—Howard Ehmke, former Tiger, came back to Detroit, tamed his former teammates, 6 to 2 in ten innings, stopped George Dauss' run of six consecutive victories and wound up a busy afternoon with an argument with Manager Cobb at Detroit under the grandstand. Dauss, after pitching shutout ball for eight innings, weakened in the ninth when Boston tied the score, and permitted four hits in the tenth for four more runs. The Ehmke-Cobb argument is said to have been the result of a pitched ball by Ehmke that hit Cobb. The score:

BRITISH GOLFERS HAVE JUMP ON AMERICANS FOR THE WALKER CUP

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 18 (By the A. P.).—The United States was two down to Great Britain, with eight to go, at the conclusion of play today in the golf tournament for the Walker cup.

Of four two-ball foursomes played today, Great Britain won three of them. Until late this afternoon it seemed certain that each team would win two foursomes, but suddenly S. Davison Herron, with a lead of 6 up and 12 holes to go, began playing like a beginner, and not a very promising beginner at that. Herron dubbed drives, made miserable mistakes with his iron clubs and missed short putts until he broke the heart of his partner, George V. Rotan of Texas, who had been playing well, but without encouragement. What was worse than breaking Rotan's playing heart, Herron threw away the match, and the opponents of the American pair, E. V. E. Holderness and W. L. Hope, won on the home green before a gallery of four thousand.

To tie the British team for the trophy, the Americans tomorrow must win five of eight singles matches. They need six victories to win. A tie will enable the men from overseas to retain the cup, won at Southampton a year ago.

Robert Gardner, captain, and Maxwell R. Marston alone of all the Americans triumphed today. Their task was to beat Robert Harris and C. V. L. Hooman, and they found it easy. Neither Harris nor Hooman seemed able to take the shortest route between tees or cups, or, once they arrived on the greens, to make the ball drop into the tin without tapping it an immoderate number of times. The Englishmen lost by 7 and 6.

Great Britain's new champion, Roger Wethered, was the bright light of the first day's play. Paired with Cyril Tolley, he aided in crushing the American amateur champion, Jess Sweetser, and his partner, Francis Ouimet. Tolley and Ouimet played with fine steadiness and coolness and Wethered with a brilliance befitting a champion. But Sweetser was a load about Ouimet's neck. He sparkled one moment only to sink to mediocrity the next. Twice he even made the awful blunder of lifting his head, both times to see the usual result—a miss, short shot.

John Farquhar of San Francisco and Harrison R. Johnston of St. Paul were beaten 4 and 3 by John Wilson and W. A. Murray. The local players after gaining a lead of three holes in the morning round went out in 35 in the afternoon—a pace the American pair could not keep up with. Neville was able to meet the standard set by his opponents, but Johnston could not. His driving and putting were all right but when he got his iron club in his fists he went wild, and the British went ahead.

The gallery found its biggest thrill and also its most stunning shock, in the rise of Holderness and Hope, and the fall of their American opponents, Rotan and Herron.

Tomorrow Ouimet has an opportunity to avenge his defeat at Deal by Wethered. Dr. O. F. Willing, the Oregonian, who was left out of the foursomes, has been placed at the bottom of the singles and will oppose Murray. Fred Wright, Jr., who also was out of the foursomes today, will meet Holderness tomorrow.

The British are happy tonight. They feel that their victories today were won cleanly and that the Americans have only themselves to blame for losing.

WATERBURY HIT JOHNSON HARD WITH MEN ON

Hartford, May 18.—Waterbury hit Johnson hard with men on the sacks and won its first game of the season on the local field, 9 to 3. Howe was a pussie until the eighth, allowing only two hits up to that frame. Donahue with a triple, two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate, led the Waterbury attack. The score by innings:

Waterbury	2	0	1	0	0	2	0	3	—8

Two base hits, Donahue, (2); Kane, Hager (2), Schmehl; three base hits, Donahue.

DR. MAHER SHOULD SUCCEED HIMSELF.

Not until the first of July does the term of Dr. Stephen J. Maher as a member of the state tuberculosis commission expire. It is an appointment that rests with the governor and therefore need not be made before the adjournment of the general assembly. Nevertheless fears are already being expressed that it is the intention of the governor not to reappoint him for another term.

If such fears are based upon what can be regarded as the real intention of the governor there are the best of reasons for the surprise that is being expressed over such a possibility, and if it is not the intention of the governor to drop Dr. Maher it is certainly most unfortunate that he should have permitted any idea of that kind to gain circulation, for hitherto he has volunteered his determination to reappoint the commissioner even if it has not been done publicly.

Dr. Maher, who has served on the tuberculosis commission for twelve years, is an authority on the fighting of the white plague whose services the state cannot afford to lose. For ten years he has been at the head of the commission and it is during that time that remarkable development has taken place in the sanatoria of the state and gratifying progress been shown in the fighting of tuberculosis. Dr. Maher has made the subject of tuberculosis his life's study. He has traveled far and wide in his efforts and he stands so high in the work that any thought of his removal cannot fail to be regarded as direct! ygainst the best interests of the state.

Inasmuch as the governor has said that Dr. Maher was to be reappointed it cannot help being felt that the fears which are now being expressed are unfounded. If by any chance they are not it is certainly time for serious roflection on the part of the chief executive and his advisers.

In the making of appointments it is the best interests of the commonwealth that should get consideration. There can be no thought of dispensing with the experienced and the efficient. Dr. Maher should succeed himself, and let us hope that the governor hasn't budged from his once declared intention to make such an appointment.

PROPERLY CONDEMNED.

Possibly action by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, even when it has to do with extending advice to the general assembly, will get no attention, but there will be widespread approval of the action that was taken by the state body at its annual session this week in condemning the legislative practice of originating bills in committee and reporting them out without providing for a hearing on them.

It will not be contended that there is no justification for the drafting of bills by the committees. There are times when such action is called for, but in those instances provision should be made to give those who may be interested therein a chance to be heard. Snap legislation arouses opposition, and while there may be times when committee bills would receive no opposition at all there are others when it would and there ought to be some provisions against pushing through radical changes during the last days of a session when reliance is placed upon the committee report and the legislature itself devotes too little thought to what it is actually doing.

Bad features of committee bills as well as those of others can be pointed out in the house or in the senate, but inasmuch as it is the legislative policy to rely upon committee reports in most instances, under the impression that the committees have had hearings and decided the matters on their merits after hearing both sides, there is excellent ground for the protest that comes from the state organization.

What it has in mind was the conduct of the present general assembly, quite as much as those of the past. Bills have been put through the legislature on which no hearings were held, not because there wasn't time, but because they were committee measures and the impression always created by such action is that they wouldn't stand the scrutiny of a hearing. Whether that is so or not, failure to provide for hearings is justly condemned.

THE WRONG ATTITUDE.

When it was planned by the shipping board to send the Leviathan to Boston for its final decorations before being put into the transatlantic service there was no sulking on the part of that city or any attempt made at retaliation because the entire reconditioning of the vessel was not carried out in that city. And yet that is what might have been expected had Boston been disposed to act as New York appears to be doing over a pier for the largest ship afloat because the shipping board has sent another vessel, the Buchanan, to Newport News for reconditioning instead of to Brooklyn.

When the idea of changing the Leviathan over was first advanced the Boston navy yard was desirous of the work. It maintained that it could do it cheaper than any other yard and the employes were willing to work for nothing, if necessary to insure that end. It was a case where the navy yards could not guarantee a job for a fixed price and stand the loss if there was one. There wasn't any question but what it could do the work and it might have done it for less than others, but such estimate as it made could not be regarded as a bid to which it could be held.

That same situation has arisen concerning the Buchanan. The Brooklyn navy yard maintains that it could do the job for $400,000 less than the lowest bid of a private concern. It might do so and it might also cost the government $400,000 more than the bid that has been accepted. It is that uncertainty that made it necessary to send the ship elsewhere.

If we are going to stay in the business of running ships some change should be made so as to keep our government shipyards active, and get the benefit of the lower construction cost if it is possible. But it is not to the credit of New York city when it intimates that it will deny the Leviathan pier space in that city because another ship is to be rebuilt at Newport News. It's the wrong attitude.

THE CLEVELAND TRAGEDY.

Another schoolhouse horror, this time in South Carolina, serves to bring to attention the need of proper provisions for fire prevention as well as adequate means of escape should panic conditions prevail. The snuffing out of 73 lives came about as the result of a combination of circumstances that would not ordinarily prevail, but how many more such buildings with insecure oil lamps, no fire escapes and weak staircases there are throughout the country is not known.

When such frightful losses occur communities which have provided fireproof schoolhouses realize that they have wisely guarded against the possibility of any such deplorable situation. Needless to say that Cleveland, S. C., will not experience another such tragedy. But that is not the only community that should gather a valuable lesson from its experience.

Probably there are many other places where the view is taken that while this might happen in Cleveland, S. C., or Collinwood, O., it could not happen with them. It was not until this latter mentioned disaster that there was a demand for the changing of doors on schoolhouses and public buildings so that the doors would open outward.

Friday's tragic loss calls for the devotion of attention to the matter of fire prevention. There are plenty of ways in which it can be done. The important thing is to see that it is done before something of a serious nature happens. The lesson of Cleveland needs thoughtful reflection.

GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS.

At the meeting of the cabinet this week there came up the question of providing adequate buildings for departmental activities in Washington. It is not a new subject but one that has been permitted to be passed along from time to time until the day might come when the government would be less cramped financially.

As it is now there are not sufficient government buildings to house the various departments of the government. A number of bureaus are in leased quarters, the owners of which would prefer them to vacate that they might get a larger rent, while the expenditures for such leases promises to be endless unless some provision is made for new buildings.

The present may not be an auspicious time for advocating new government construction but out of all that might be advocated it is probable that many could be delayed without serious results though others would come under the head of what would be considered necessary for appropriations from the next congress.

When necessity and good business direct proper provision for the departments, it cannot fail to get attention if properly presented, especially if the plans are for substantial rather than elaborate buildings and the demands are reasonable as judged by the prevailing conditions. In the long run it would doubtless be much cheaper than paying rent.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It can be certain that things will warm up a bit on the Fourth of July if not before or after.

When rum runners fall out it is pretty soft for them if they are caught in the cradle of the deep.

The trouble with Germany is that it hasn't lost faith in its own method of settling the reparations question.

Last year's straws haven't been forgotten but there has been no pressing call for any kind thus far.

The man on the corner says: Those who have so much to say about delays are even more critical of opportunity.

The general assembly is having much more difficulty in winding up the 1923 session than was expected six weeks ago.

Any disappointment because May is backsliding weatherwise should be eclipsed by the knowledge that cherries will soon be ripe.

The Florida legislature has voted to ban the use of the whip on convicts. So far so good, but who is going to insist on the enforcement?

The New York restaurant which closes tonight because of the Volstead act cannot be convinced that the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law will work to its advantage.

The one great trouble with the president of an Ohio college who objected to police raiding a college dance and seizing liquor is that he hadn't made such a visit unnecessary.

The powers are demanding that the railroads in China be guarded. And the bandits of China are demanding that the representatives of the powers guarantee their reinstatement in the army. Does that mean the bandits hope to be made the guards for the railroads?

THE MAN WHO TALKS

That the faith of Mohammed is in the ascendant throughout the oriental world and regions bordering upon it is evident if the latest reports can be relied upon. Dr. Talcott Williams, an eminent authority on the Eastern question, having been born in Turkey of missionary parents, has written a timely article in one of our current magazines on this burning question. Dr. Williams lays stress on the fact that Christianity is inherently better qualified for world domination than the teachings of Mohamet. He also approves of the splendid, intelligent and self-sacrificing labors of the missionaries, but scathingly denounces the blundering policies of diplomatists who, plotted against each other, have been playing into the hands of the wily and "unspeakable Turk." He also has a just and startling word for the indifferent and sleeping home churches. He feels that we must strengthen the work in the Orient.

It is the part of sound business policy, whether public or private, to stop all needless leakages. Whatever loss comes through leakage is a dead loss. The pennies that slip through one's fingers almost unnoticed mean little at the time being, but the total is a big aggregate. Apply this to the needless wastage in our New England water supply. The slow melting of snow and ice in northern Massachusetts and farther north slowly lift up the streams to flood proportions and we see rivers like the Connecticut rushing madly to the sound, actually squandering water that will be almost priceless in the later summer and fall. We have alternate floods and droughts because we fail to conserve nature's mighty product. First we must preserve the forests that furnish the "sponge" that holds back much of the waters: secondly, we must build more reservoirs to hold back enough of the remainder to supply the needs of July and August.

From an economic standpoint, is it not wise to give the snakes a chance in spite of their widespread unpopularity? If we have any noticeable intelligence from a scientific standpoint, it is high time for us to get over this traditional Eve stuff about snakes being an enemy to mankind. To be sure, some snakes are poisonous as are some cows: so are some human beings. Where there is one person killed by the bite of a poisonous snake, there are a thousand killed by the bite of a poisonous man or woman. If you doubt this, ask any doctor, and he will tell you all about these human snake bites. But we don't propose to kill everybody because now and then someone has poisoned fangs. The value to a garden is as great on the part of a snake as a bird, perhaps even more so, because some birds destroy vegetation but snakes rarely do. Their onslaught upon destructive insects is enormous.

In these days when the demand for light is loud and insistent, we can hardly imagine that one hundred years ago there was bitter opposition to it. The Cologne Zeitung, the great German newspaper, which was not particularly religious during the World war, in 1816 published "seven arguments against street lighting, of which these three are typical": First, artificial lighting is an attempt to interfere with the divine plan which has preordained darkness during the night time. Second, illuminated streets will induce people to remain later outdoors, leading to an increase of ailments by colds. Third, horses will be frightened and thieves emboldened. According to this reasoning, as it was the divine plan that all people should walk, therefore all kinds of vehicles, trolleys and steam cars, "interfere with the divine plan," and that thieves would have a harder time in the darkness than in the light. But the world moves.

Is there a law regulating the hours for fruit venders to do business? If so, then the law is most emphatically a dead letter. But whether there is or not, those whose ancestors came over in the Mayflower might as well go out of business, if they are fruit dealers, because they can hardly keep up the pace that is set by those whose shops are open sixteen hours a day and seven days in the week. Better still, they wouldn't do it if they could. They have enough moral sense left to make a distinction between work and drudgery. They are old fashioned enough to feel that in life there is something besides the grub hook; that we are put here for some other purpose than to have our noses on the grindstone sixteen hours a day and seven days a week. The mess of pottage is quite important, but it is not everything. There are some still living who are not ready to sell their birthright for it.

Speaking about regulatory law, one is inclined to ask if there is not some provision on our statute books in regard to the use of firearms? It does seem a trifle strange that those whom we regard as the dangerous elements in our society seem to be amply supplied with them, while others who would never use them except for defensive purposes never carry them. This arrangement seems to meet the unqualified approbation of thugs, assassins, gunmen, burglars, highwaymen, bandits and all their dastardly relatives whose business it is to prey upon a defenseless society. Every issue of the daily press shocks us with the report of some tragedy by shooting on the part of those who smile at the impotence of our laws. This travesty on justice can be stopped by putting a few sharp teeth into our laws. Let us make this law-breaker understand, whether Sicilian bandit or American degenerate, that if he uses firearms unlawfully he will be put where he will never use them again.

One wonders if Governor Templeton was fully acquainted with the traveling conditions here in eastern Connecticut when he vetoed the bill authorizing the state road from Norwich to Haddam. If one studies a topographical map of the state he will find that the mountains and hills run generally north and south with only three outlets, one at Willimantic, another at East Great Plain, and the third as the hills flatten out near the sound. Traveling is congested at the two points of Willimantic and New London. Nearly every pleasant day a thousand automobiles cross the Groton bridge, and the same conditions prevail at Willimantic. By making use of the East Great Plain route, about midway between the two, it will greatly facilitate all Providence travel to the westward. Conditions certainly demand this road.

The congested condition of our highways on pleasant Sundays raises another query: Would it not be considered an act of unselfishness and generosity if those people who can claim their time as their own, and can use the highways one day as well as another, to leave the roads clear on Sundays for those who can use their machines on no other day? One can hardly call it pleasure to drive on any state road on a pleasant Sunday now. And as the number of machines is increasing rapidly not only inconvenience but the danger also is correspondingly on the increase. Let those who can just as easily find time for pleasure driving do so during the week and thus all concerned will be benefited. And, best of all, it would create a genial feeling between the well-to-do people and the poorer people which at present is not so conspicuous as to claim headline space in the Sunday papers. I believe that the laboper has a right to make this request of the capitalist.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The Renewing of the Spirit.

Thou sendest forth Thy spirit, they are created; and thou renewest the fall of the earth. Psalms 104: 30.

David, the royal Hebrew bard, clothes a sublime truth with a poetical garb. He traces life to its source —the Divine Spirit—who alone can impart life.

With the advance of time and the grand achievements of science, David's high conception of the Spirit's power has not been proved erroneous. Lord Kelvin made the declaration that science is the existence of creative power and intelligence. Life comes from Life, and the author of life is the Spirit.

"Thou renewest the fall of the earth." Here David beautifully ascribes the renewing in the realm of nature to the Spirit. The work of the tiller of the ground; the warm sunshine, the soft rain and the balmy breeze contribute toward making old mother earth, after the winter's blast, to look beautiful, and in due time to yield her rich fruits and ripened harvests. But back of all is the power of the Almighty Spirit. It is not theorizing to state that the very same Spirit creates and revives in the realm of the spiritual life. However men may differ in their creeds and opinions, one thing is sure—that their life is at a low ebb unless they are continually revived and quickened by Him who is able to kindle in the heart of man a flame of sacred love.

Oftentimes the remark is made that the spiritual life in man is not what it should be, and that the condition of the church as a whole is not what it used to be in former times. Grant such to be true, yet it is no reflection on the power of the Spirit, who is the same in His efficiency. Man is at fault for not conforming to the Divine laws. Nature is not stubborn, but yields to the laws of the Creator, and, therefore, the face of the earth is renewed year after year. When a man's heart responds to the voice of God a reviving influence is felt.

NORWICH MAN WAS FIRST PRESIDENT.

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., May 19.—George Washington was not the first president of the United States, though by good right and title "The Father of His Country."

Nor does that honor belong to John Hanson of Maryland, son of an immigrant Swede, whose heroic bronz statue is in statuary hall in the capitol, and whose portrait by Peale hangs in Independence hall in Philadelphia, where he held office as "President of the United States in congress assembled" eight years before Washington was inaugurated.

At the seemingly heretical statement that Washington was not the first president the school children of today will drew up their hands in scandalized horror, and their parents and others, even those who have been considered "sharks" on history, will protest that they "never heard of such a thing."

But this isn't iconoclasm, lese majeste, sabotage or betrayal of the saviour of his country. It is a historical fact, with original autograph manuscripts to prove it in the library of congress, even though history as she is taught allows (as James M. Beck, solicitor general of the United States and author of an important work on the organization of this government, points out) "the colossal figure of Washington to throw a great many worthy men like Hanson into the shadow of undeserved obscurity."

Right here let it be frankly stated that there is no attempt to foist John Hanson or any other man than Washington as first president of the United States under the constitutional government as it has existed since Washington took the oath of office, April 30, 1789. Maryland has boasted, and other students of early American political history have boasted that John Hanson was "president of the United States in congress assembled," under the first official government organized by the states through formal signing of the articles of confederation, antedating the constitutional government by eight years.

It was a different form of government, but it was the first government of the United States, through joint approval of all the then existing states. It elected its presiding officer "president of the United States in congress assembled" and he signed state papers as "president." Viewed in this light, there were ten "presidents" who held office before Washington's election.

If Washington wasn't first president, as American will always continue to believe; and if Hanson wasn't first president, as some few principally Marylanders, have essayed to contend —who was the first president?

It is well to bear in mind these salient dates:

The Declaration of Independence was adopted July 4, 1776.

The articles of confederation were signed by Hanson and John Carroll for Maryland, the last of the thirteen original colonies, or states, on March 1, 1781, the other colonies having signed on various dates in 1778 and 1779.

John Hanson of Maryland was elected "president of the United States in congress assembled" November 5, 1781.

The constitutional government was organized March 4, 1789.

George Washington was elected president of this new form of government, with the constitution as its backbone, April 9, 1789.

George Washington was inaugurated April 30, 1789.

Now it happened that on the date when John Hanson and Daniel Carroll signed articles for Maryland, which ipso facto gave the new nation its first real and duly authorized government of the United States, by common consent of the governed, Samuel Huntington of Connecticut was president of the continental congress which became the congress of the confederation.

This would seem to justify Connecticut in setting up a rival claim against that of Maryland, to the effect that Huntington of Connecticut and not Hanson of Maryland or Washington of Virginia was first president of the United States.

Samuel Huntington was born in Windham, Conn., July 3, 1731. He was admitted to the bar in 1758 and commenced the practice of law in Norwich the same year. He was a member of the colonial assembly in 1764. He was appointed crown's attorney in 1765 having been executive councillor in 1763. He was delegate from Connecticut to the continental congress from 1776 to 1781 and its president from September 28, 1779 to July 6, 1781, being its president therefore when Maryland signed the articles of confederation effecting the first union of the states by consent of all of the then existing states. When he retired in 1781 he received the thanks of the congress but was returned again for a short period in 1783.

Samuel Huntington was also a signer of the declaration of independence; superior court judge from 1774 to 1784 and chief justice in 1784; lieutenant governor of Connecticut in 1785 and governor from 1786 to 1796; until his death in Norwich, January 5, 1796.

There are, however, those who will argue that Samuel Huntington only chanced to be the "hold over president" from the continental congress and that he had not been elected president of the United States in congress assembled after all of the states had by their signatures agreed to the union.

It is interesting to note that the first man elected president of the United States in congress assembled after the articles of confederation had been signed by all of the thirteen then existing states declined to serve. This unique distinction in history is held by Samuel Johnston, who had previously been moderator of the revolutionary convention of 1775 and who later was elected as a federalist to the United States senate, serving from November 27, 1789 to March 3, 1793. Johnston was born in Dundee, Scotland, brought to this country by his parents in 1736, educated in New England and served the state of North Carolina in many important public offices until his death in 1816.

Johnston was elected July 9, 1781, but when he declined to accept the office Thomas McKean, a native of Pennsylvania but serving as a delegate from Delaware, were elected president the following day July 10, 1781. So that McKean was the first president elected and serving after the articles of confederation had been formally accepted and signed by the thirteen then existing states, which established for the first time a legal government for this new nation.

When the surrender of Lord Cornwallis' army at Yorktown October 19, 1781, virtually brought the war to an end which had won this new nation its independence, it was Thomas McKean who led the "United States in congress assembled" in solemn procession to the Dutch Lutheran church in Philadelphia where praise was given to God for the complete triumph of the American cause.

His was the rare privilege and proud distinction of leading in the founding of organized government for this great republic. While George Washington was the military leader under this first official government of the United States, John Hanson was the civil leader—the chief executive. As president, one of his last official acts before his retirement in 1788 was to receive General George Washington and present him to the congress then sitting in Philadelphia, where the official thanks of congress were given for the victory at Yorktown.

John Hanson's son was one of Washington's aides, and it was through the efforts of John Hanson that two companies of riflemen were organized and sent to Washington's aid, being the first southern companies to reach the commander-in-chief, at Cambridge, Mass., covering the 550 miles in less than 22 days without the loss of a man.

It was during the presidency of John Hanson that American arms triumphed over Great Britain.

The first important official act of President Hanson was to draft and transmit to King Louis XVI a letter expressing the gratitude of the United States as a nation for the aid given by France in the defeat of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Besides Samuel Huntington of Connecticut, Thos. McKean of Delaware, John Hanson of Maryland the other seven who served as president before Washington became the first president under the present constitutional government were: Elias Boudinot of New Jersey, Thomas Mifflin of Pennsylvania, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia, John Hancock of Massachusetts, Nathaniel Gorham of Massachusetts Arthur St. Clair of Pennsylvania and Cyrus Griffin of Virginia.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Prof. Patrick Geddes, who has come to America for the purpose of making a five months' study of colleges and universities on this side of the Atlantic, is an eminent British scientist and educator whose field of activity has extended from Scotland to India. While he has specialized in botany during the greater part of his career, he has attained prominence in other branches of science as well. His education was received at the Royal School of Mines, at University college, London, at the University of Edinburgh, and at various schools on the continent. In recent years he has actively been occupied in city improvement and town planning, at home and in India. He designed the plans for the university at Jerusalem and planned the university recently opened in Bengal by Tagore, the Hindu poet. At the present time Professor Geddes fills the chair of sociology at the University of Bombay.

Stories That Recall Others

Safe Offer.

John had no love for his wife's little pet dog, but one day when it mysteriously disappeared he offered $25 for its recovery.

"But I thought," said a friend, "you hated that dog like poison?"

"So I did," replied John. "I could not bear it!"

"Then why on earth did you offer such a big reward for its return?"

"I like to please my wife."

"Well, that may be, but it is more to bring the dog back!"

"I think not," answered John, "unless someone saw me bury it in the garden."

He Knew.

The class was studying the different parts of a letter. The heading, body and ending had been discussed. The greeting, or salutation, had not been mentioned. The teacher then said: "One part of the letter has not been mentioned. It is the part that is between the heading and the body. Who can tell me what it is?"

One boy who is a slow student, raised his hand. His answer was: "The neck."

SENIORS LEAD CLASSES IN ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN

Another week in the endowment campaign of Connecticut college at New London, reports a large increase in the sum raised. The total amount raised thus far is $36,711.67.

Of this amount, $12,819.32 has come in the form of cash during the past few weeks, $3,369.50 is in recent pledges, and $21,022.75 represents previous gifts obtained by students, alumnae and faculty members.

Among the classes, 1923, present seniors, still holds a substantial lead with a total of $3,210. The class standing is as follows: 1919, $637.50; 1920, $144; 1921, $187; 1922, $277; 1923, $3,210; 1924; $1,109; 1925, $1,-840; 1926, $2,384; faculty, $1,165.82; others, $1,365.

New Haven still holds a substantial lead among the 16 districts, while New London, New Jersey and New York city have vastly improved their showings. The standing by districts is as follows: Boston, $582; Chicago, $400; Fairfield, $575; Hartford, $485; New Haven, $3335; New Britain, $180; New Jersey, $1131; New London, $1,-762.82; New York city, $1,058; New York state, $175; Norwich, $389; Northwest and California, $25; Pennsylvania and Ohio, $585.50; Washington and the South, $80; Western Massachusetts, $193; others, $1,365.

JUDGE HINMAN GRANTS NEW LONDON APPLICATION

Judge [illegible] in the superior court here Friday handed down [illegible] application of the [illegible] of New London be made party defendant in the suit of Parmely Gordon and others against The P. Schwartz Co., of New London.

The plaintiff asked for $5,000 damages and an injunction against the P. Schwartz Co., to restrain that company from erecting a fence across Lane A, in front of the plaintiff's property, which it is claimed would prevent the plaintiff from having access to his property over the lane and the use of a railway siding.

In his memorandum Judge Hinman says:

"The defendants' answer places in issue the question of whether Lane A is a public highway, or if it was ever such, whether it has been abandoned, and this issue appears to be a principal one of the case. To this the city shows ownership of the fee of said lane is a proper party.

"Application granted on condition that the assignment and trial of the case is not thereby to be delayed."

We advertise only what we have and exactly as it is.

INJUNCTION AGAINST STRIKERS AT LORRAINE PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, May 18.—On the upper and lower gates of the Lorraine Manufacturing company's plant there was posted this afternoon copies of a temporary injunction restraining the striking employes from interfering with the operation of the plant or with the employes at work in the plant.

Deputy Sheriff William Casey on Friday afternoon was engaged in serving the notices of the temporary injunction granted at 12 noon, signed by George E. Hinman, a judge of the superior court for New London county, to the Lorraine Manufacturing company.

The union officials and organizers have been summoned to appear before the superior court at New London on the first Tuesday of June, 1923, to answer to the Lorraine Manufacturing company, of which Robert E. Steere of Westerly is the superintendent, at a hearing on the injunction. This company states that it ordinarily has 550 employes, half of whom are women; has $500,000 invested in Pawcatuck, and does not want to be interfered with in the pursuit of its line of business and enumerates specific instances of such alleged interferences.

OBITUARY.

Miss M. Ella Taylor.

Miss M. Ella Taylor, 71, died Wednesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Kemp, 5 Schussler road, Worcester, Mass. She was born in Norwich, the daughter of Cebra and Mary A. (Paine) Taylor. She has made her home in Worcester for the past 25 years and was a member of the Lincoln Square Baptist church. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. H. A. Alexander of Springfield and Mrs. Kemp, and one brother, Newell L. Taylor of New Haven. The funeral was held at 5 Schussler road Friday morning at 8.30 o'clock with Rev. Clifton H. Mix, officiating.

The body was brought to this city for burial in the lot in Yantic cemetery, where a prayer service was held at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Edwin A. Fitch

After an illness of about seven weeks during which time she was tenderly cared for by her children, Frances Swan, widow of Edwin A. Fitch, died Thursday night at 8.45 o'clock at her home No. 19 McKinley avenue.

Mrs. Fitch came from an old Revolutionary family, her forefathers being among the first settlers in North Stonington, the family name of Swan being written into the pages of history in that part of the state. Born September 27, 1836, the daughter of Ephriam and Julia Ann Grinnell Swan, she received her early education in that town. Later her parents moved to Preston and she attended the Noah Webster High school on Upper Union street, then located on the sight of the home now occupied by Edwin W. Higgins.

In Preston, on January 7, 1862 she was united in marriage with Edwin A. Fitch, a prominent grocer of Norwich. Mr. Fitch was prominent in politics and during the long illness of Mayor Crandall he acted as mayor of the city for about one year. Mr. Fitch died about 19 years ago.

Mrs. Fitch was one of 12 children and is the last of her immediate family, her brothers and sisters all having died before reaching the age of 21 years. She is survived by five children, George S., Frank A., Lillian F. and Ella M. Fitch, all of Norwich and Albert A. Fitch of New Haven, employed by the Malrin Corporation.

Mrs. Fitch loved her home, was an ideal mother and had many friends who will learn of her death with sorrow. Until her death she kept up an interest in her home and was able to read without the use of glasses. Those left to mourn her loss have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mrs. John H. Peck.

After an illness of about a year due to the infirmaties of old age, Sarah Marshall Waterman, widow of John H. Peck, died May 16th at her home in Glenridge, N. J.

Mrs. Peck was first married to Nemiah Waterman and several years after his death she was married to John H. Peck, whose grandfather for many years was a deacon of the First Congregational church at Norwich Town. Mr. Peck for many years was principal of the High school at New Britain and for some time resided in West Hartford.

Mrs. Peck continued to reside in West Hartford for some time after her husband's death, but not long ago, with her daughter, Miss Martha Tracy Waterman, she moved to Glenridge, N. J., to make her home.

She is survived by four children, Martha Tracy Waterman and Frank Waterman of Summit, N. J., by her first husband, and William H. Peck of Glenridge, N. J., and Harry Peck of Schenectady, N. Y., by her second marriage. There are also relatives in Norwich.

Mrs. Peck was a member of Rev. Dr. Wilson's Congregational church in Glenridge, N. J.

News of the death of Mrs. Peck came as a shock to her friends here where her family are well known.

COMMENDS NORWICH STREET WORK IN PAST YEAR

Clarence A. Munson, a representative of the New Haven Trap Rock company, who was in this city Friday, where he had opportunity to look over the work on the streets that has been done in the past year, declared that he believed the citizens had received more for the money expended this year than he had ever known before, and that the results in Norwich, for money expended, would compare favorably with any place he knew of.

Mr. Munson said that he had been coming to this city for the last ten years, in which his line of business naturally led him to become acquainted with what is done in street work, and he was convinced Norwich this year had made a record for amount of work done in proportion to money expended and for the speed with which it had been accomplished.

He commended a program of permanent street improvement, carried on from year to year, and in this connection spoke of the numerous small towns in Long Island which were adopting a policy of improving a certain proportion of the side streets every year. They were getting their dividends, he said, in the appreciation of property in the tax lists and the fact that gradually every town is approaching a condition of having all its side streets covered with concrete pavements, as well as the main highways which are taken care of by state aid.

DWELLING IS BURNED ON CANTERBURY TURNPIKE

The house occupied and owned by David Cohen, situated on the Canterbury turnpike was totally destroyed by fire about 9 o'clock Friday morning. Chief Howard L. Stanton received a call for aid about 9 o'clock and notified the Yantic pumper of the fire. The apparatus sideswiped the Yantic trolley in front of the Rock Nook home in Norwich Town, no damage of any extent being done to the machine or the trolley. The accident was caused by a traffic jam.

Arriving at the house it was seen that there was no water available so the firemen with chemical went to work and saved the three barns, a wagon house and chicken houses which were being threatened. Aided by neighbors of Mr. Cohen the firemen succeeded in saving all of the furniture from the house as well as the other buildings, this being commendable work.

The house was a two and a half story wooden structure of comparatively recent design and was known as the old Grant property. It is believed the fire started from a defective chimney. The building was probably valued at $5,000 which Mr. Cohen says is partly covered by insurance.

Lots of things even the gossip never hears of until the explosion comes.

SEVEN IN HOSPITALS AFTER CRASH OF AUTOMOBILES AT QUAKER HILL

As a result of an automobile smash at Quaker Hill shortly after 10 o'clock Friday evening seven persons are in hospitals in New London suffering from severe injuries. The injured people are Leon Duzenski of 466 North Main street, this city, his wife and 4 children, one an infant of 8 months and Edward Drzozowski also of Norwich. Mrs. Duzenski is at the Home Memorial hospital suffering with a fractured left thigh and extensive lacerations of the scalp. Mr. Duzenski, Mr. Drzozowski and the four children are at the Lawrence hospital. The infant is suffering from a bad wound on the head while the others have several lacerations and bruises.

The accident happened at the turn of the road at the foot of Quaker Hill when the car owned by William Curtin of New London collided with the car owned by Mr. Duzenski. The driver of the Norwich car claims that the lights on the Curtin car, which is a Hudson sedan used as a public service car, blinded him as he was rounding the turn towards Norwich. The cars met almost head on the Curtin machine being driven against the fence on the west side of the road and the Duzenski machine, a Buick touring car, thrown across the road by the impact. Both cars are badly wrecked, the New London car losing both front wheels, and suffering a twisted and broken frame and springs. The glass windows in the Curtin car were shattered but the occupants of this car escaped with only minor cuts from the flying glass.

The Norwich car is in bad shape, sustaining two broken wheels, a twisted frame and having the front axle driven under the machine. The windshield and front of the machine is also wrecked.

People living in the vicinity of the accident heard the crash and afterwards called the Lawrence hospital and the ambulance was sent to the wreck. Dr. John J. Donohue of Montville was summoned and attended the injured people. Sheriff Martin and Sheriff Tubbs of New London were also notified and investigated the accident and assisted in directing traffic around the wrecked cars.

AMERICAN LEGION POST ACCEPTS PARADE INVITATION

The regular meeting of R. O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion was held Friday evening in the rooms on Main street with Commander John A. Cunningham presiding. Considerable routine business was transacted following which there was a discussion on Memorial Day.

The legion voted to accept the invitation of Commander Orrin M. Price of the G. A. R. to participate in the parade and exercises on Memorial Day. Commander Cunningham urged the members to turn out in large numbers and to notify all ex-service men to come out and take part in the parade, thus paying a tribute to the Boys of '61 who gave their lives for their country. The legion parade committee appointed comprises Captain William R. Denison, chairman, Herman A. Bruckner, Past Commander William Anderson and Commander Cunningham.

It was also voted to decorate all graves of ex-service men on Memorial Day and the legion requests anyone knowing of a grave of a veteran which has not been cared for, to write to the legion and the committee will see that the grave is decorated this year.

A new entertainment committee has also been appointed and already is busy formulating plans for entertainments and other activities to replenish the treasury of the past.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The Sandpipers were entertained this week by Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson of Stetson street.

Mrs. Charles C. Smith and daughter of Pawtucket, R. I., are spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Powelson of Warren street.

Marius P. Johnson of Hartford was elected junior member of the Trinity College Senate for its next college year at a meeting of the class of 1925.

UNITED CHURCH WOMAN'S GUILD ANNUAL MEETING

Following what has been established as an annual custom, the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church held its third annual meeting Friday evening with a supper at 6.30 at the Community house on Church street. There was an attendance of 100 seated at the tables which were daintily decorated with clusters of apple blossoms and pink candles, arranged by the flower department.

An inviting menu that comprised sliced ham and tongue, potato salad, rolls, relish, strawberry shortcake with whipped cream, coffee and cake, was served by the social committee.

The president, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, called the business meeting to order at the conclusion of the supper and department reports were presented on the work of the year. The secretary's report by Mrs. Ernest L. Latimer was followed by the treasurer's report by Mrs. Harvey M. Briggs, showing a balance of $1,023.-30 on hand, with all bills paid.

For the programme committee, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins stated that the guild's success in reaching the goal set for the year had been because of the loyal cooperation of the entire membership in the programme outlined by the committee.

Mrs. Frederick W. Lester reported [illegible] department, that over $2,700 had been raised and that various boxes and barrels had been packed and sent to schools in the west and south.

On the girls' work Mrs. Joseph A. French reported an active Camp Fire and girls' group that had provided a Christmas dinner for a poor child and had packed Christmas boxes for children at Ellis Island.

On the young people's work, Mrs. W. H. Dawley reported an active, happy group of boys and girls who cooperated heartily with their leaders in the Sunday evening services which had been a feature of the year.

The reports of Miss Edith E. Young for the flower department and of Miss Mary Porteous for the buildings department were followed by the report of Miss Helen B. Zabriskie for the Sodalitas, who are the young women of the church who do missionary work, mostly social.

Mrs. Walter [illegible] reported that the hospital department had rendered a distinctive service to the Backus hospital in furnishing the room, which was opened for inspection on the first day last Saturday and is completely furnished and equipped along the latest lines.

The reports of parish districts was presented by Miss Elizabeth Huntington and was followed by the report of Mrs. William P. Wade for the social activities department, which has charge of the [illegible] arduous work of suppers and refreshments at each meetings the annual church meeting, the Christmas shop, the guild supper and at other times.

Following the meet Secretary Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A. presented The Bulletin trophy cup to the captain of the winning team and commended them on their splendid showing. Ribbons are to be given to the winners of the different events by the school principals next week.

The meet was conducted through the co-operation of the schools and Y. M. C. A. Among those officiating with the event were Miss Reynalds, J. B. Stanton, J. E. Murphy, F. Clapp, Edwin Hill, E. H. Davis, H. Ludlow and E. J. Fritz.

BELIEVE GOVERNOR MAY NOT REAPPOINT MAHER

It is reported in Hartford that there are indications that Governor Charles A. Templeton is not going to reappoint Dr. Stephen J. Maher of New Haven, who as the head of the state tuberculosis commission has won fame for Connecticut in the treatment and cure of the once-feared "white plague."

The strongest indication that the governor does not intend to reappoint Dr. Maher has come this week when the governor is said to have asked legislators from various parts of the state to suggest a "leading physician."

Dr. Maher's term expires on July 1, and confirmation of the governor's appointment by the general assembly is not required. He is understood to have stated that he will take no action on the appointment to the tuberculosis commission until after the general assembly has adjourned.

The statute under which the appointment is called for, provides that the commission shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be a physician who has had at least ten years active practice and is an expert in the modern treatment of human tuberculosis."

The term is for six years and the office carries a salary of $2,500 for each commissioner. The others are Arthur Reed Kimball of Waterbury, and Wallace S. Allis of Norwich.

Y. M. C. A. SWIMMERS ARE TO HAVE STUNT NIGHT

"Hot dogs," athletic movies, games and a dip in the clear, crystal water of the "Y" swimming pool, as well as some impromptu stunts, made up the programme of the Y. M. C. A. seniors' social night at the "Y" Friday night. A good crowd of seniors turned out for the stunt and plans are to have a series of senior evenings for the young men of the "Y."

Tonight (Saturday) will be "fun nite" for the gym boys and the boys who participated in the swimming campaign. There are to be stunts, games and movies, under the leadership of Physical Director Fritz and Howard Ludlow, one of the "Y" gym leaders.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

State Officer Merrill Keith was in Hartford Friday to obtain the signature of Governor Templeton on papers that will figure in extraditing Roswell Moffitt from Rhode Island, in which state he is now held in Kingston jail. When Moffitt is returned here he will be presented in a justices court in the town of Plainfield, within the limits of which, it is alleged, the crime of rape with which he will be charged was committed. There will be little delay in bringing Moffitt back to this state now that the extradition requirements have been met.

Touching boxers that come to Danielson from the large cities of New England that it is not a kick town where any kind of a performance will be accepted as creditable is one of the functions that the state athletic commission has demonstrated itself capable of, and it is not likely that it will be attempted again here in the near future. One example already made will be a lesson to boxers that they must fulfil their contracts or they get no money or may be disbarred from further boxing in the state. When an amusement promoter has built up a fine club that is drawing capacity houses at each exhibition it is well that there is official protection against the ruination of his business by a few unscrupulous men who want to get their money easy regardless of the fact that they cheat 800 or 900 people out of a good share of an evening's entertainment they have paid well to see. It can't be done in Danielson and it is not likely that it will be tried here again in the near future.

At the state armory Friday evening another of the service company dances attracted large attendance from local and sub-local territory. De Vito's orchestra of Waterbury furnished the music and this talented aggregation of musicians gave one of their finest programs, interspersed with novelties that held an appeal for the dancers.

This week end mention may be made of the fact that state police patrols are covering the highway that the heavy motor traffic looked for today and on Sunday may be kept within proper bounds and as many violations of the regulations as possible guarded against. Speeders are few in these days of patrolled state highways, but a few remain and will be watched for, as well as those who cut in and do other stunts forbidden in this state. The state police have abuses that have existed among motorists on the state highways of Connecticut and their vigilance during the season now open will be greater than ever.

Over 50 youths will enter into competition at the Brooklyn fair grounds today in the annual field meet of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. and representatives of high school and academies of the county. The first events are set for 9 a. m. and will continue throughout the day. This meet is open to the public and all who are interested in athletics and like to see a clear cut galaxy of study youths in action will be welcomed to the fair grounds, where there is ample space to accommodate all who come and acres of parking space for cars.

A book of 50 Old Fashioned Songs will be sent to you free if you will mail this advertisement to The Plaut Cadden Co., Norwich, Conn.—adv.

Dealing with industrial matters and in a form closely representing propaganda a pamphlet came to hand Friday morning. The pamphlet is clearly stated to be the output of a mill machinery company and published irregularly.

Two sentences from its three small printed pages stand out in direct contrast to each other, especially in view of the fact that they are part and parcel of the same argument.

Here they are—

"Unskilled labor is hard to find any many favor letting more foreigners to help out the scarcity."

"No wonder the Anglo-Saxon race is diminishing while the land is filling up with Polacks and Hunkies."

If capital hopes to win newspaper space in these modern days when every man seems to be suspicious of his neighbor, capital will have to employ more adroit writers than the author of the screed from which these two sentences are taken.

There can be little further of the ancient game of sitting on the fence in days as troublous and so fraught with industrial dangers as these. A man must line up with one side or the other, honestly following the dictates of his conscience, and stand out as a man and not an irresponsible propagandist.

Ridiculous, too, is the pamphlet's comment on the recent convention of the National Cotton Manufacturers' Association in Providence, which is described as a grand and glorious affair" and gave the lie to all prognostications which have formerly denied the possibility of good fellowship under prohibition. They who would return to the days of gin-soaked sires staggering home to starving children are well rebuked by the happy faces of countless robust and prosperous citizens, free from the dominance of Demond Rum".

In the first place manufacturers neither drink intoxicants nor have to go home to starving children, not so that anyone might notice it very much. The employees do all the drinking, it must be assumed. And in the second place Providence is the dryest city in the United States—ask anyone who knows.

Invitations have been received by Brooklyn relatives and friends for the wedding of Carroll Martin Lawton and Miss Alice Barbara Brenneke of Hartford at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Brenneke, 220 Fairfield avenue on May 26 at 4 p. m. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of Center church, Hartford of which the young people are members.

Tonight for the first time this season Wildwood park is to be opened and with good weather an unusually large attendance is anticipated. The plans for this season at the lake will be generally much after the plan on which it has been operated so successfully for several years by Manager P. J. Sheridan.

St. Alban's church of Danielson will be represented at the Laymen's gathering to be held in Norwich next Wednesday evening. Rt. Rev. Chauncey Bunce Brewster, bishop of Connecticut, and Rt. Rev. E. Campion Acheson will be in attendance and address the gathering.

Salvation Army workers will conduct a drive in this town and in Putnam during the coming week in the interest of their Home Service fund. They expect to obtain pledges of $1500 with which to carry on the work they are doing.

Mrs. M. V. Woodworth will have the members of the Ladies' Reading Circle at her home for a meeting next Monday afternoon.

The annual county convention of the W. C. T. U. is to be held at the Westfield Congregational church here on May 31.

PUTNAM

CAPT. REMI DELAGE DIED IN WORCESTER LAST NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, May 18.—Captain Remi Delage died late Friday afternoon at the City hospital in Worcester. He was fatally injured in the first few minutes of the morning of May 3 while riding in a Cadillac car with Alderman Honorius Magnan, who was instantly killed when the car struck an abutment at an underpass of the Norwich and Worcester road at Oxford, just north of Webster, Mass.

The body will be brought to this city tomorrow. Up until Friday morning Captain Delage was continuously unconscious for about one week.

Friends here were amazed Friday morning when P. J. Ryan announced that Mrs. Remi Delage had called him from the City hospital at Worcester and informed him that her husband, Captain Delage, who apparently had been at the point of death the past two weeks, had turned over from his back to his side at 9.30 a. m., opened his eyes, and inquired where he had been for such a long time. Captain Delage had been unconscious for a week and his death anticipated hourly. This remarkable, if only temporary, return to his senses amazed those who have been in close touch with the case and fully aware of the seriousness of the captain's condition.

Not too much hope was aroused Friday by his return to consciousness and exhibition of vitality that it was felt he no longer possessed. It was stated at the hospital that he appeared weaker than during the earlier part of the week and that his color was not so good as on Thursday.

Nine more eviction notices were served Friday by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer and County Detective William E. Jackson on families occupying tenements of the Manhasset company. This makes a total of 50 such notices served since the lockout was inaugurated and the evidence is that this procedure has caused more concern to what are termed the striking employes of the company than any other one feature of the industrial trouble. The notices mean that 50 families will be forced out of their present homes by May 28 unless some adjustment of the matter in dispute is arrived at prior to that time. No such number of eviction notices has been served in any labor trouble ever occurring in this corner of eastern Connecticut it was stated Friday by police officials who have had years of experience in such matters, and it is taken as indicating the determination of the company to be master of its own destiny in the present situation.

One family was removing from a mill company tenement Friday morning, when all was quiet about the big plant, as has been the rule since the present situation developed. It was stated Friday that a small increase in the number at work in the plant was noted when the help filed in for their morning labors. On the other hand, the strikers assert that their ranks are holding firm.

One set of eviction notices become effective next Monday, May 21. There were eight notices in this first group, and the city will be interested in what transpires when the first working day of the coming week arrives.

Many business and other interests of the city are concerned over the lockout which will have endured two weeks by next Tuesday night. The affair is without doubt injurious to the city's well being and all who are not directly concerned with it will welcome an early adjustment.

Mark E. Stinson, now principal of the high school at Baldwinville, Mass., is to come to Putnam as principal of Putnam High school, succeeding E. H. Snow, who has resigned to take a high school principalship at Ardmore, Pa. Mr. Stinson is married, 33 years of age, a graduate of Bates college and since his graduation in 1916 has had much experience in educational work, having filled principalships at Bristol, Me., and East Boothbay, Me. Prior to taking the principalship at Baldwinville a year ago he had been with the New Bedford Cold Storage and Warehouse company, in charge of the accounting department. He comes to Putnam very well recommended as an able educator.

Sylvester B. Butler of Terryville, this state, who was elected to the principalship of Putnam High school this week, declined to accept, although he was a prominent candidate, and it is believed here that additional salary inducement was offered him to remain in his present position.

As it is a Putnam baccalaureate for the retiring principal of Putnam High school, Edward H. Snow, the members of the senior class have invited him to make the annual baccalaureate address Commencement week. The action of the seniors is enthusiastically approved by other members of the high school, as the opportunity will afford Principal Snow an occasion for delivering a formal farewell before members of the school and parents of the members.

One of the biggest weddings of the June season in this section of the state will be that of Miss Mary Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Elliott of Thompson, to Charles Van Brunt Cushman of Washington, D. C., and Pomfret, which will take place in the Thompson Congregational church at noon, standard time, on Tuesday, June 26th. Owing to recent deaths in the family of both the bride and the bridegroom, the reception following the ceremony will be limited to the immediate families and the bridal party. The wedding will be performed by Rev. John N. Lewis, rector of St. John's church, Waterbury, and of the Westover school, Middlebury, of which Miss Elliott and her sisters are graduates. A dance in the bride's honor will be given on the night preceding the wedding.

John Macdonald, deputy motor vehicle commissioner, was a visitor in Putnam, his home city, Friday. Mr. Macdonald will take up his duties as state highway commissioner on July 1.

This is an important night in the affairs of those who love enjoyment, for it marks the opening of the 1923 dancing season and beautiful Wildwood park. Manager P. J. Sheridan of this city will be in charge again this year.

Charles T. Thayer, superintendent of the city's fire alarm telegraph system, has given warning that small boys and others who have been indulging in breaking glass and otherwise tampering with the fire alarm boxes will be severely dealt with unless this practice ceases at once.

Thomas Fitzpatrick, steeplejack, who makes his headquarters in this city, is going to Newport, R. I., in the near future to paint the spire of Old Trinity church. This spire is 180 feet in height, and on a famous edifice, where Mr. Fitzpatrick formerly has worked.

Next Monday Salvation Army workers with headquarters in this city will begin a drive that it is hoped will bring in $1,800 for the home service fund. It is expected this amount will be raised in Putnam and Killingly.

This is the day for the annual field meet of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. and high schools at the Brooklyn fair ground. Secretary J. H. Corlett said Friday morning that upwards of 80 entries have been received, so there is promise of lively contests in every event.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN STOLEN FROM PUTNAM GARAGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, May 18.—Southern New England was being canvassed by telephone from this city Friday morning in an effort to locate a fine Studebaker seven-passenger sedan stolen during the night from the garage of Guy Zito of Mechanic street, but up to early afternoon not a trace of the car had been obtained.

Unusual nerve was displayed by the thieves who made off with the machine, which cost just under $3,000 when Mr. Zito purchased it last November. Mr. Zito's garage is underneath his home, which is located on an embankment on upper Mechanic street. He is a public service operator and put the car away for the remainder of the night at 12.15 o'clock Friday morning. At 6.30 a. m., when he came down to get the car, he found it had disappeared during the night. Tire marks indicated that it had been taken away in the direction of Mechanicsville. The lock on the garage had been broken and the fact that the ignition lock was on did not seem to interfere with the plans for getting away with the machine, which evidently was pushed out of the garage without starting the motor and probably pushed along the state highway for some distance before means was taken for releasing the ignition and getting the car under way on its own power. The machine had just been overhauled and was in prime condition for a fast and long run.

Mr. Zito said Friday morning that he heard no unusual noises about his home during the night and had not the slightest inkling of what had happened until he went to get his car in the morning. Suspicion rests against a group of strange young men who were seen during Thursday loitering about the public service car stands at the railroad station. It is evident that whoever got the car kept close tabs on Zito's movements during the evening. The car was not insured against theft so if it is not recovered the machine will be a total loss to the owner.

One factor in the case seems to favor recovery. This particular model of car is very distinctive in type and not at all plentiful in New England having been on the market only a few months. It is a machine that would attract attention anywhere and could not be easily disguised.

CLARK'S CORNER

There will be a speaking contest by the children of the community Saturday evening.

Mrs. C. J. Bray has returned to New Haven after spending a week with Mrs. Navin.

Messrs. Morse and Bray returned to New Haven Sunday.

A very enjoyable sewing circle was held at Mrs. Colburn's Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Colburn and family of Mansfield and Howard Perkins of East Hartford were at Wesley Colburn's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. James and Roy James called at Modena on Sunday.

Robert S. Clapp of Worcester was at Modena several days this week.

"You Know You Belong to Somebody Else"

If there is any one thing that has made Nora Bayes popular, it's her way of singing her songs right at you. Sometimes she is full of burlesque, mimicry, laughter. Sometimes there's a sob in her throat, but always she's singing to you. "You Know You Belong to Somebody Else," Columbia New Process Record A-3862, is a waltz song with a bit of heart throb that Nora does deliciously. She sings it with a fine artistic sense, in a richly musical voice which records with delightful naturalness.

You'll be enthusiastic over this selection and you'll like "Dearest," the encore on the other side, as well. Both are Nora at her charming best.

But this record, from the June program, is only a sample of the good things in this newest Columbia release. All of the new records listed here are Columbia New Process Records—made with the wonderfully quiet surface that eliminates the annoying scratch and scrape of needle noise.

Tear out this list, take it to your Columbia Dealer and listen in on this delightful program of latest dance hits, newest songs and choice symphony selections.

All Columbia Records can be played on any phonograph.

Only in Columbia New Process Records will you find a positive freedom from distressing needle grind. The process is patented. No one else can produce anything even resembling Columbia's construction and improved surface.

There were no cases tried in the session of the Third district court this morning as the attorneys engaged in cases before the court now in session. Two cases were entered, Westerly Future Co., John. Ferguson vs. Frank Chimento, a book account; Edward Greenhalgh vs. Emma Moore, alias, a negligence action continued one week. The cases with the remainder docket were also continued to Westerly Lumber Co., vs. Gallagher, vs. Wilbert Clark; Thomas, John F. Gallagher vs. Walter C. Hiscox & Co.; Clarence E. Roche vs. Anna Benore vs. Marchese; Gardinier; Perrin Bros., John Jr., vs. Leonard Berth, J. Roche.

Knox, son of Philander Knox, ey of Philadelphia, have arrived in Westerly from Deland, Fla., to make their summer home at Riverview. Cottage, Watch Hill.

Miss Mabel S. Cook was the hostess at her home off Granite street on Wednesday evening to a miscellaneous shower party given Miss Alice E. Baker for her approaching wedding to Mose C. Lowry, late in June. Many beautiful presents were received, games were played and refreshments served.

Tug Westerly, Capt. Frank H. Robinson on Thursday morning towed the barge Dorothy May, McCaffrey master, to Stonington harbor. It was the intention to bring the barge Daniel of the same line loaded with soft coal up the river Friday morning but due to low tide it was impossible. In its place the schooner Altan M. Jagger, loaded with 300 tons of building sand from the Raritan river, New Jersey, was brought up to the Cottrell dock. Saturday forenoon it is expected that the Daniel can be brought up the river. Tug Westerly on Saturday afternoon goes to New London for Keeler barge Laura loaded with soft coal to be brought up the Pawcatuck river on Sunday.

Word received by Westerly friends of Joseph Capalbo, formerly operating a shoe repairing and bakery business in Westerly, who is now located with California friends.

The eighteenth annual convention of the League of Masonic Clubs is to be held in Boston, June 11-16. Convention sessions are to be held in the Copley-Plaza hotel. There are not many affiliated clubs in Rhode Island although the clubs are quite numerous in other states. The Westerly Masonic club was the first organized in this state.

William H. Pendleton died at his home, 261 Main street, May 16, aged 63 years and one month. The funeral took place from his late home, Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church, officiating. Mr. Pendleton has been in failing health since the death of his wife, Alice Josephine Barber, last December. The presences of many relatives and friends testified to the regard in which the deceased was held. Committal services at River Bend cemetery were in charge of Misquamicut tribe, No. 19, Improved Order of Red Men, in which Mr. Pendleton had been very active. The bearers all members of the Red Men, were Charles Austin, Howard Osborne, Reginald Perry, James McGarvie, William Minchen, and Frederick W. Boulter. Present from out of town at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Reynolds, Mattie Anderson, John Warwick, Lakewood, R. I., Mrs. John Pimer, West Haven, Archie P. Culver and Mrs. and Mrs. Lee S. Gavitt and family of Glasgo.

ELDERLY MAN DIES IN WESTERLY POLICE STATION

Westerly, May 18.—At one o'clock Friday afternoon Frank Bennett, 61 years old, died in the Westerly police station. Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown has since been endeavoring to locate a George Bennett, said to be the son of the deceased man. Later in the afternoon it was learned that a George Brigham might be the son in question as it was learned that Bennett was divorced and it was thought that his wife resumed her maiden name with her son taking that name. Word is awaited by the local police from Marlboro, Mass., that a son was reported working there as a lineman. The death certificate states that the cause of the demise to have been bronchial pneumonia.

JOHN ALDEN FLOUR

How to Make Gingerbread

Here is a recipe for deliciously crisp, spicy gingerbread. It is easy and inexpensive to make; all you need do is follow this tested recipe and use John Alden Flour.

Most New England cooks who have continued success in making gingerbread will tell you that they insist upon John Alden Flour for its purity, strength and economy. This is probably why their gingerbread is just as wholesome and nourishing as it is delicious.

Just as John Alden asked of Priscilla "Let me be ever the first, the truest and nearest," the millers of John Alden Flour are holding the friendship of the women of New England today by giving them a special flour of unusual quality.

This is shown by the fact that good cooks invariably think of John Alden when they are in need of flour.

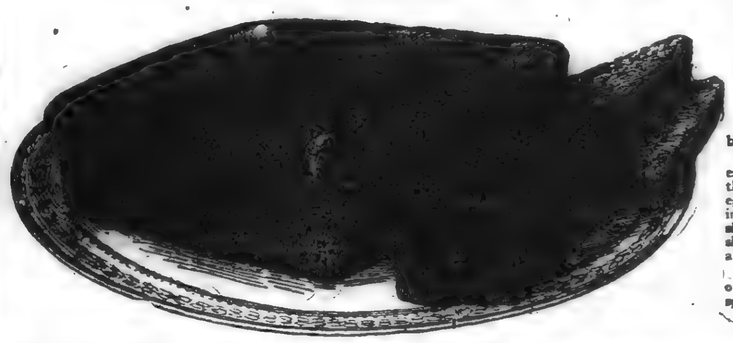
EAT MORE WHEAT



Gingerbread

1 cup sour milk,
2¾ cups John Alden flour,
¼ cup shortening,
1 egg,
1 teaspoon soda,
1½ teaspoon baking powder,
¾ cup sugar,
1 cup molasses,
1 teaspoon ginger,
½ teaspoon cinnamon.

All measurements are level. Sift the John Alden Flour once before measuring.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Mix the molasses with the milk and slightly beaten egg. Add the liquid to the dry ingredients, then add the melted shortening. Bake in a large shallow pan about 35 minutes in a moderate oven (375°).

If sweet milk is used, leave out the soda and use 5½ teaspoons baking powder.

DISEASES CARRIED BY SEED POTATOES

It has been found advisable for most of our growers to buy their seed potatoes each season from those who have raised them further north. This makes it impossible to practice seed selection and gain any of the advantages that may result from a personal contact with the preceding crop. One way of getting around this difficulty is, in part, the purchase of certified seed; another is the practice of seed treatment for specific infectious troubles; a third is the inspection of tubers and rejection of imperfect seed. It is the purpose of this bulletin to briefly discuss these measures in relation to producing a more perfect potato crop.

There are certain potato troubles, usually of the so-called physiological type, that are carried by the tubers to the succeeding crop, and yet are not visible to the naked eye. Mosaic, where the leaves early in the season have a mottled yellow-green appearance, and Leaf Roll, where the edges of the leaves curl up, are two of these. Spindle sprout is another that can only be detected after the tubers put out their sprouts, as fine, often needle-like growths. An unusual number of pointed tubers, not characteristic of the variety, may be indications of another trouble; while tubers that show when cut across, a network of brown lines (Net Necrosis), or brown patches (Internal Brown Spot), are indications of troubles which may or may not appear in the succeeding crop. Tubers showing indications of any of these should be rejected for seed. It is with diseases of this kind that certified potatoes have an advantage over uncertified, since inspections of the crop in the field and bin will usually reveal them if present, and have caused the rejection of the crop for seed if at all abundant.

Another type of diseases are those of a fungous or bacterial nature which are seed-borne, of which one class is susceptible to control by seed treatment and the other not. Let us mention the latter first. One of the most serious is the Late Blight. Infected tubers can be detected by the slightly sunken spots on the surface showing as a reddish-brown dry rot just beneath when cut open. Wilt, not usually a serious trouble in this state, is also carried by the seed, and is revealed by the blackened bundles when the tuber is cut open. Tubers showing either of these troubles should not be used for seed.

Lastly, there are those types of disease that yield to seed treatment. Of these, scab, familiar to all, is the most common and important. Black leg, a bacterial disease where isolated plants here and there in the field rot off at the surface of the soil, is another. Black Scurf, or Rhizoctonia, which shows on the surface of the tubers as dirt-like specks, is a fungous disease which acts something like the Black Leg in the field. Where trouble has been experienced with any of these, it is well to treat the uncut seed with either formalin or corrosive sublimate (a poison). Formalin is used at the rate of one pint (1 lb) to 30 gallons of water, and the seed is soaked for one hour. With corrosive sublimate, 4 ozs. are dissolved in hot water in a wooden container, diluted to 30 gallons, and the seeds treated for 1-2 to 1 hour. After treatment spread the seed out to dry if not planted immediately.

Seed treatment for scab has little value when the seed is planted on land susceptible to scab, as the treatment only kills the germs on the seed, and they can also carry over in the soil. Alkaline soils favor the infection from such germs to an unusual extent, so potatoes should not ordinarily be planted on land that has been heavily manured in the spring, and especially not on land on which lime or wood ashes have been used liberally in recent years. Some growers occasionally use infected or very susceptible soil by drilling in sulphur at the rate of 600 lbs. per acre, as this hinders scab infection, but too much sulphur may affect the yield.—G. P. Clinton, of Connecticut Experiment Station.

TENT CATERPILLARS SHOULD BE KILLED OFF NOW

Tent caterpillars promise to be even more abundant this year than last. These are the brown worms which make cobweb-like nests in the forks of the branches, especially of cherry, plum and neglected apple trees.

Orchards which have received regular sprayings as advocated by the league and the state college never show any caterpillar nests, as the small worms are poisoned by arsenic sprays. Where these insects have not been killed off, the nests will increase in size as will also the caterpillars, which will eventually strip the foliage from the trees.

These caterpillars should be destroyed by property owners and along their adjoining roadside within the next few days. There are several ways of accomplishing this, but the best is to use standard sprays or dusts containing lead arsenate. It is a custom to burn these nests out with a kerosene torch, but frequently this damages trees badly.

BRIEF FOR THE BEES.

Several fruit growers in the state have accused honey bees of damaging plums, pears, grapes and peaches by sucking their juices of ripened fruit. The beekeeper naturally resents hearing his charges classed with sheep-killing dogs and other "predatory animals"—but what about the facts?

L. B. Crandall, bee specialist for the extension service, is ready with an alibi. He says that the jaws of the honey bee are not made for cutting, but for moulding or drawing wax. It is practically impossible, he says, for bees to puncture ripe fruit. Wasps and hornets, however, have cutting mouth parts and can injure fruits.

It is admitted that, especially in late summer, bees are often seen sucking juices from the fruits, notably grapes. The bees, however, did not cause the damage, because some other force is first necessary to break the fruit skin. Fungus injury or hard rains may have caused the ripened fruit to crack. Some birds, especially the English sparrow, attack fruit. The grape berry moth, in some sections, does great damage.

After the fruit skin is broken, the bee will seek the sweet juices. Bees work during the warm part of the day, when discovery is most likely. The bee gets the blame.

On the other hand, bees are unpaid and often unthanked laborers in orchard or vineyard. Without them many a blossom would go unfertilized. The fruits from which they suck the juices must first have been damaged through some other source and are, therefore, of depreciated value. The honey bee should be acquitted of all charges with the hanks of judge and jury—so saith the beekeepers.

THE PINK SPRAY FOR APPLE ORCHARDS

The right time to apply this treatment is when the pink color shows on the unopened blossom buds. Some of the pests to be controlled at this time are apple scab, apple aphids, European red mite, tent caterpillar, canker worms, bud moth, case bearers, fruit tree leaf roller and leaf crumpler. Apple scab is a fungus and on susceptible varieties and in localities where it is serious the best remedy is to spray thoroughly with Bordeaux mixture. The tent caterpillar, canker worms, bud moth, case bearers, leaf roller and leaf crumpler are chewing insects which may be controlled with lead arsenate, one and one-half pounds of the powder in 50 gallons of water or of Bordeaux mixture. Aphids are sucking insects and will not be killed by lead arsenate and Bordeaux mixture, but may be killed by nicotine sulphate. This may be added to the Bordeaux, but when so mixed loses some of its insectidal value on account of the chemical reaction which takes place. Many growers prefer to omit it, but to make a separate application of nicotine sulphate, one-half pint in 50 gallons of water, if aphids are abundant.

Where apple scab is not troublesome, liquid lime-sulphur (1 to 1 1-2 parts to 50 parts water) in combination with lead arsenate may be used.

POETRY

RAOUL LUFBERY.
(Killed in France May 19, 1918.)

Raoul, Raoul,
World-ace-of Toul
Lufbery!
To our silent brave
Across the sea
A nation's honor this day to thee
Lufbery!

To our tri-color May-flower
Strange may seem
In a peasant's garden
Sleeps its last, long dream;
To a flower of France
Gave his all—Life's chance
For U. S. liberty
Lufbery!

Heeding the call of Lafayette
Swift to his Homeland—did not forget
Our nation, befriending France o'er the sea;
Lufbery!
Won a hundred conflicts
Cities bombed—crashed—fell—
Rattled victorious forty-three raids of hell—
Lufbery!

Until his flaming bird-torch high
Keeping the faith in Toul's grim sky
Plunged below—in this hallowed spot
Breathes his spirit-flower
"Forget-me-not"
Wafts a mystic message this day o'er the sea
From Connecticut's ace—writ in history
Lufbery!

Yea, down thru the ages
May thy voice e'er be heard
Screaming courage—strength
Thou eagle-bird!
Lufbery!
Tho a silent listener afar today
While we gather 'round Memory's shrine
Hear grateful America softly say,
"Raoul—Raoul, we are here."
—Mary Sayles.

SAME OLD STORY.

We get sad news of a coming end
From our returned globe-trotters;
They say: "We've gone too far to mend—
All civilization totters!"

Twas Adam coined that phrase; said he,
"A terrible pair of plotters
Old Satan and the serpent be—
And civilization totters."

And Noah voiced the self-same fear
When his ark rode the waters;
He sighed and said, as he dropped a tear,
"This civilization totters."

"What, what'll I do?" So King Tut cried
(He was one of our first what-what-ers),
"Go make me a tomb, and let me hide—
For civilization totters."

Yet good still governs the world today
And man stands on his trotters;
So let's take heart and be on our way—
Though civilization totters.
—George Weymouth, in Farm Life

HUMOR OF THE DAY

She—I'd rather dance than eat, wouldn't you?

He—Well, I think I eat best.—Life.

Helen—Of course you all talked about me as soon as I left.

Madge—No, dear, we thought you had attended to that quite sufficiently.—Boston Transcript.

"Weren't you awfully embarrassed, sitting through such a play with Charlie?"

"Oh, no, not at all. The dear boy didn't dream that I had the faintest idea what it was all about."—New York Sun.

Leonora—"I call that nerve."

Leonard—"What?"

"Mrs. Nextdoor sent over to borrow some of my dishes to use for a party she hasn't invited me to attend."

Teacher—"Who can tell me if spring is here?"

Little Tony—"Me, teacher! Papa found a fly in his soup."—Topics of the Day Films.

"Would you marry a man for money?"

"Not without careful inquiry," replied Miss Cayenne. "Some men get rich by such close economy that nobody can break them of the habit."—Washington Star.

Visitor (admiringly)—What a picture of innocence you little one is!

Mother—I hadn't noticed it. Dorothy, what have you been doing?

Hill—"I say, old man, lend me £5, will you?"

Dale—"What?"

Will you lend me £10?"

"I heard you the first time."—London Answers.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

TELLING KITTY O'GRADY.

So you'd play the lady, Miss Kitty O'Grady
You'd sit in the parlor as nice as you please,
An' wear your silk dresses, an' dote with your treses,
An' let your white fingers rise over the keys;
With your elegant manner, you'd strum the piano,
An' gayly warble a ballad or two.
Though work may be painful, don't act so disdainful,
Come out in the kitchen, there's dishes to do!

Come out to your duty, my proud, haughty beauty.
These hands would look finer now holding a broom.
I know it's a pity, but you can look pretty
An' powder your nose when you're done tending the room.
The parlor is cosy, but you're not a posy,
You're no pink geranium stuck in a vase.
Come out here, I need you! Don't think that I feed you
Just for the smile on your beautiful face.

'Twere better, my lady, to be an O'Grady,
Plain Kitty O'Grady who works when she must,
Than your time to be spendin' with cham an' pretendin'
An' know that your dreams will all vanish in dust.
'Tis truth that I'm statin', the work that you're hatin'
Will fall to you some day in spite of your prayers;
Though your smile is bewitchin', there's always the kitchen,
The kitchen of life with its duties an' cares.

The parlor can never be out in forever,
With a home of your own you will learn that is true.
An' the finest of places gets all of its graces
From the duttin' an' scrapin' the women folk do.
So don't be ashamed of the work pride is claimed of,
Don't think it beneath you an' turn up your nose,
For a lady's a lady, Miss Kitty O'Grady,
Even when into the kitchen she goes.

WHO WILL BE GREATEST IN SPIRIT LIFE.

Who will be greatest in spirit life?
Heathen an earnest trusting soul;
The thought floats away on the silent deep,
O'er billowy waves it doth roll,
Like the carrier dove, it seems to return,
And the message it cometh to bring,
Sounds clear and soft and sweet to one less,
As the songs of birdlings in spring.

Not Su who has gold and lands and wealth,
And cripples his fellowmen!
Not he who prays long prayers to God
And chants whenever he can!
Not she who has beauty and love of self,
But lives an indolent life,
Not the one who lives for self alone
In this world of toil and strife.

For greater, who liveth above
The power of wealth or fame,
In the Spirit life they count for naught,
Existing only in name.
But the man who lives with purpose grand,
Serves to do what good he can,
Who prays with his hands as well as his heart,
He who helps his brother man.

Will surely be greater and nobler by far,
No matter how humble his sphere.
Than he who has wealth and position so high,
He knows not the heartaches so near
But greatest of all, it seems to me,
Are Mothers, who faithful and true,
Have sacrificed life upon altars of love
True greatness to Mothers are due.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

RURAL DELIVERY: Thanks for card. Pleased to welcome you back.

ANASTASIA: Card forwarded as requested.

FATHERS SHOULD NOT BE IGNORED.

Dear Editor and Sisters: I have been thinking it was time for me to write again to the Social Corner.

I attended the last meeting of the Corner club at the Beckingham Memorial and enjoyed the meeting as usual. I have read many remarks and allusions to Mothers' day, and the suggestions that all wear flowers in honor and in memory of mothers —whether living or dead.

Now, with all respect to the mothers, I think the fathers should have an equal measure of notice. We do not hear of Fathers' day now, but I hope to see the day when two flowers will be worn, one for father and one for mother.

LOUISE.

BEING REAL.

Dear Sisters: Do you ever stop to think that the real test of a man or a woman is not the position held? Some small natured people are in large places, and it often takes a large-hearted person to fill a small place. "Riches and honor never, as it's sometimes said, "make a fool of a man." They do not. They only make it possible for him to indulge his real nature.

The real test comes in the way honors are accepted. Too often honors are like wasp stings they cause a huge swelling without real importance. If one is genuine, public acknowledgment of worth causes added humility instead. The first thought of the real man or the real woman is not: "How I can lord it over others!" but, "What did they see in me to thus honor? How can I live up to such confidence and liking?"

But it's mighty hard for any of us to be 100 per cent. real. Down in the corners of our hearts in the thought of self-satisfaction, self-esteem, it takes a fierce battle to conquer, hard to keep humble. But it pays. All sentiment aside, it's a good business proposition. No one really likes the self-exhausted soul. No self-respecting person wishes to be persecuted by or to listen to the self-praises of another.

Then, too, humility—not of the Uriah Heep variety, but that stamped with the mark of genuiness—is such a loveable virtue. Just to be one's real, with the same cordial charm, the same self-forgetfulness, the same desire to serve, the same thoughtfulness of others' liking and needs; this is to make ourselves indispensible in our own circle, and desired in others.

It pays as a business proposition. It pays as a personal aim.

Have read with keen interest the Corner letters of late. Why aren't there more of them?

GROWING ASTERS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It is hard to get up much enthusiasm over flower gardens this month but we must prepare and take what comes.

You who are fond of asters are probably looking for the early ones. The selection of seed will in large measure tell the size of the flowers, relatively, as some varieties naturally are larger flowered than others. As a rule the later flowering types have larger flowers than the earliest. Asters will thrive in any soil which will produce good vegetables, and they will repay any extra attention in the way of fertilizing. They also need cultivation all summer to be kept in unchecked and vigorous growth. Commercial fertilizer, particularly bone meal lend around them at intervals of two or three weeks, is a great help.

The addition of wood ashes or sprinkled lime when the bed is prepared is coming to be considered an essential. It not only adds valuable fertilizer to the soil in the case of the ashes and sweetens the soil and releases plant food in the case of the lime, but these two act as a check to the stem rot which has given aster growers no end of trouble during the last season or two.

The root aphis or plant louse also is troublesome but if the soil is rich, has been limed or given wood ashes, the pest is not so likely to give trouble. For August and later flowering it is quite as advisable to start the seed in the open ground as in the house or frame. The plants will be more vigorous in most cases. They may be sown until well into May to continue the succession of flowers until frost.

If asters are desired with long stems for cutting, they should be at least a foot apart in rows two feet apart. If for massing in beds for a sheet of color nine inches to a foot each way is the utmost they should be placed dependent upon the variety and its style of growth.

The succession of asters is about the following: Earliest of all, July. Queen of the Market and Royal types; August, Ostrich Plume and Victoria; September, Late Branching, Crego, and King types; September and October, American Beauty type.

DORIS.

GREETINGS FROM COMFORT.

To All Social Corner Sisters: I feel as though I was loosing ground if I don't keep in touch with the Social Corner proceedings. I did have such a good time at the last meeting at the Buckingham Memorial. Everyone seemed to have a smile as usual, from the least to the greatest. I have not been sick to be short in as the reason for not writing, but did not get a move on me as I ought to. I would promise myself every week I would write the next week, but the next would never come. I have been busy making braided rugs, the same as some of the other sisters. Was glad to hear from Aunty No. 1 and the different ways she made her rugs. They say we all have a hobby for something. Mine must be rug hooking. I have made a few out of bedtick, but it is some work to prepare the rags as the bedtick has to be cut on the bias and the edges put together and overcasted, and that gives a wavy effect. When woven, the rags are cut three-fourths of an inch wide. The rugs are nice for chambers and bath rooms as they can be washed. One sister asks for some and to leave rugs. There is a lady in Williamsette who has woven them. The name is Miss Martha Baldwin.

I hope Calla Lily finds her book. I know how to sympathize with her for I lost my diary of 1923 about three weeks ago. I don't think the Social Corner sisters know where it is, for no one has had it but myself. But it is mislaid some where, or lost out of my hand bag. Hope I find it where I put it.

I think Thirty-Two will not have many idle hours the coming summer if she helps to care for the eight hundred chicks and flower garden, and vegetable garden, too. I enjoy working in my vegetable garden more than anything else. When we have our own vegetables fresh from the garden we realize something for our labor and have the pleasure of being out of doors.

COMFORT.

WINDHAM COUNTY HIGH SPOTS.

Editor Social Corner: Am glad to see that Rural Aunty is renewing her youth. We old timers have got to do something to keep up with the younger set. I think that she is wrong about her home being on or near the highest point in Windham county. The Moosup sheet of the United States Geological Survey shows that a little southwest of her house the land is 50 feet above sea level. The Putnam sheet of the same survey shows that the land near the home of Rural Delivery (and by the way I see he is home from his California trip and hope he will write us about it) is 730 feet. The Connecticut Register and Manual for 1923 states that Snow Hill, in Ashford, is 1213 feet in height and Hatchet Hill in Woodstock is 1020 feet.

While all three of us—Rural Delivery, Rural Aunty and Historian—live in the same town, Rural Delivery towers over us in age and heighth of location. How many know that the highest land in New London county is Bear Hill (646 feet) in the northern part of the town of Voluntown?

Rural Aunty says truly that hers is a breezy place for while my home is a little lower than hers I get the same gentle breezes.

HISTORIAN.

CLUB NO. 3 MEETS MAY 22.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters and Brothers: After talking the matter over with a number of the members, we have decided to have a meeting of Club No. 3 in Grange hall, Lebanon, on Tuesday, May 22, and hope that each and all will leave off for the day and come. Bring the usual dishes and something for the dinner. If you are a member, come and make yourself one of us, and if not come and be made a member. We hope that all who can will come from the other clubs. Shall be glad to all the clubs will help to make this a reunion, it is so long since we have had a meeting. With best wishes to all, from

THE SAME ONE.

THE VALUE OF THE FIRELESS COOKER

Dear Corner Sisters: There is a proverb that bad news travels quickly, but haven't you noticed that good news seems to be reported quite as quickly?

We are prone to forget, just because of an old saying, the reverse side of the shield. Human nature does reveal often in that which is unpleasant. But I think you will find, in almost every community, many people who rejoiced when a neighbor or a friend has a big piece of good fortune. There are plenty to sneer; there are also plenty to praise.

The fact is we remember the sneerers and forget those who are glad on our account, and their petty jealousy or personal antagonism takes on an importance that it really never possessed. Let the jealous, unkind people alone. Forget them if you can. And perhaps to your joy they will eventually forget you.

Dear Social Corner sister who wrote about a fireless cooker, I will give you a few suggestions for fireless menus. I have planned some of which can be partly or wholly prepared in a modern fireless cooker. The time required for cooking by the fireless method is a little longer than by a direct fire, but there is the usual advantage that food left overtime in the closed compartment is not injured, nor can food be burned, as the heat is never increased.

I appreciate the value of my fireless cooker when the members of the family arrive for their meals at different hours. Food may be served to one and the remainder of it put back to keep warm for the next comer. Instead of fussing about a hot stove just before dinner guests arrive, I can prepare everything hours in advance and receive them with sweet temper and be perfectly serene. Did you know that ice cream, lemonade or frozen pudding, chilled fruit and similar cold food will keep their low temperature when stored in a fireless cooker.

It comes in handy when a large picnic is planned and the party is to go to the shore or woods by wagon or automobile.

In the accompanying menus it is assumed that breakfast menus or cereals will be put in the fireless over night and served hot in the morning whenever they are wanted.

Samp—Large hominy or samp requires such long cooking that the fireless cooker offers the only way to avoid undue expense for fuel. Soak the samp over night, and cook all day in the fireless cooker in salted water. Serve with butter, milk and pepper instead of potato.

Spanish chicken with d'Aube gravy, peasoup with frankfurters, cubist cakes, shrimps and rice, baked deviled clams, shirred eggs in a noodle case, are easily done in a cooker. Will send any of these recipes to the Corner if you haven't them and would like them. Will send them to the Corner if you just mention it.

I buy a shank weighing about seven pounds, put bones and all in fireless cooker at night. The next morning it is all cooked and has cooked to a perfect jell. I can the meat in jars filled up with stock and put my stock, that I have left in separate jars and can by the cold packed method. When you wish to use your meat it is already and as tender as chicken. If you wish to make celery, bean, tomato, or any other kind of soup you have your stock.

You see in the fireless there is no evaporation. Foods retain their full weight and all their flavors and nutriment, the heat penetration and no evaporation make the food tender. Then another advantage with food in the fireless is you do not have to watch, turn, stir or baste it, and when the food has assimilated the full value of the cooking heat, no further action takes place.

I cook my chicken in the fireless cooker before roasting it and should have put my turkey in but could not get it in the kettle.

My radiator is soapstone. I started to make a homemade "fireless" cooker, but the "man" of the house saw what I wanted and bought it.

L. T. H.: I just found out who you were. Am very glad that you called when you did as it seems you have had no other time.

Olga and Jennie: I was glad you enjoyed your call.

Fresh Rhubarb Canned: Fill sterilized jars with fresh fruit, cut in cubes, then pouring in fresh, cold water until every particle of air is excluded. The cans may then be sealed.

The storage I find is as essential as the canning. The jars should be wrapped in paper in order to keep out the light, the nplaced on shelves in a dark cold place, and left undisturbed until used.

KITTY LOU.

LEARN TO LABOR AND TO WAIT

Dear Corner Sisters: There are so many good writers in our Corner that I feel as if I want to sit back and read their letters, but this week Black-Eyed Susie sent me a sample of a beautiful crocheted edge and I want to thank her, so take this opportunity.

Black-Eyed Susie: That sample was lovely and I worked steady at it until I mastered it and everyone that sees it thinks it so pretty and odd. The best part of it is that it works along so rapidly and it is so effective! Many thanks and I will return the compliment by sending you a sample, too.

Ma of Green Gables: Your molasses cookie recipe has been tried every week now in my house and we (especially the children) like them so much.

The letters of the different sisters are so interesting. "Triplets," where is your pen?

Every time I read Kitty Lou's letters I feel like saying "Them's my sentiments." Your letter on the Easter time was so true.

If we look back over the years we can see how we're improved in this line or that line. We still have troubles and difficulties to deal with, but as we mastered this or that trouble we'll master our future cases. We'll probably never reach perfection here, but "still achieving, still pursuing, learn to labor and to wait" is a good motto. I remember an old gentleman once said "It's hard, but we've got to learn to wait.

Good wishes to all.

CHELSEA.

MOTHERS' INFLUENCE.

Dear Social Corner Chums: I wonder how many enjoyed Black Eyed Susie's letter Mother's day? I did for one and knowing her one knows it was from the heart for she is a nice person to meet. Although I have lost my dear mother on earth, I never forget her on Mother's day with a pot of white flowers where we placed her a few years ago. Now if I had a son like Susie describes I should lay the blame to the mother for allowing it to talk to me in its first talking day. Mothers don't have to take such talk if they don't want to. In the beginning make confidents and companions of your boys and girls when they are little. If you are to get new ideas, make them think their judgment is as good as your sister's or friend's. Ask them whether to get high or low shoes, flat or high heels, the same in rugs, etc. I did this with my son and see today what chums and how we consult each other in our business. We have no unkind remarks or words and live and work on a 50-50 basis and I enjoy every kindness and pleasure I give to him. On Mother's day I received a beautiful card which read, "Although some Mothers seem to change as glad years go and come, mine only grows each Mother's day, a one year dearer chum." With that were two electrical gifts and a neck chain. Do you wonder motherg with good sons are proud and happy with them? I don't, and its all in the start in bringing them up. Stop those first tiffle tricks they get in taking the bric-a-brac, books, magazines and tearing leaves and pulling off wall paper. That is the time to mould the child. When you say "No," stick to it. I remember once of a little girl who wanted to go some place and her mother said, "No, you can't go." She said to her chum, "Wait a minute, I'll go up and cry, then mamma will say yes," and she did. My sister has a picture motto in her room with my mother's photo in it. At the bottom it reads, "God couldn't be everywhere, so therefor He gave us Mother."

Aunty No. 1. I want to try and get that money to you. Also I haven't the H. F. D. of the other letter to send out so that is here yet.

Thanks to the editor for the yellow slip. I didn't think anything I wrote was worth pay or a prize. I try to keep my membership up and do my Social Corner duty.

Best wishes to all.

CALLA LILY.

CHERISHES THE CORNER MEETINGS.

Dear Corner Sisters, One and All: Once more I greet you through The Corner page. I love to help fill the page, but feel many times that my letters are not worth printing. It is a comfort to me to read the nice letters of others and especially of some of the old writers and very dear friends of mine; some of the days of long ago. I often think of the many pleasant gatherings which I have attended in the past with the sisters of The Corner, forming many new acquaintances as well as meeting old friends. Hope to be with you when the "good old summertime comes." It is very cheering to look out on the lovely green grass and hear the songs of the dear little birds. They come close to my door every morning and sing a sweet song to me, reminding me of my Heavenly Father's care as He has watched over them all the long, dreary winter. As the hymn goes, "As his eye is on the sparrow, so I know he watches me."

I have enjoyed reading the poetry from week to week. I send in some verses entitled "An Apple Orchard in the Spring."

Have you seen an apple orchard in the spring?
An English apple orchard in the spring?
When the spreading trees are hoary
With the wealth of promised glory
And the Maris sings its story,
In the spring

Have you plucked the apple blossoms in the spring?
And caught their subtle odors in the spring?
Pink buds pointing at the light,
Crumpled petals baby white,
Just to touch them a delight,
In the spring?

Have you walked beneath the blossome in the spring?
When the pink cascades are falling
And the silver brooklets brawling
And the cuckoo bird soft calling
In the spring?

If you have not, then you know not, in the spring.
Half the color, beauty, wonder of the spring.
No sweet sight can I remember
Half so precious, half so tender,
As the apple blossoms render
In the spring.

Hope this isn't so long that it will not be printed. Much success for The Corner.

U. C. E.

TIME TO START PRESERVING

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: The preserving season must not wait until the different kinds of fruit are ripe. It is possible now to put away vegetables for next winter.

Dandelions are already here, and soon spinach and asparagus may be procured at reasonable cost, or better still, from your own garden. Greens to be canned must be looked over carefully, and washed thoroughly. Blanch the greens in steam 15 or 20 minutes. Plunge them quickly into very cold water. Cut into convenient lengths and pack into jars. Add one level teaspoon of salt to a quart jar. Fill with boiling water. Partially seal. Process for one and one-half hours from the time the water begins to boil vigorously. Have water bath at least one inch above top of jar. Cover boiler while cooking. (If a steam pressure outfit is used, cook 50 minutes under 15 pounds of steam.) When done, remove jar and tighten seal at once.

Asparagus is canned as follows: Wash and prepare as for cooking. Bind stalks in small bunches as sold in the market. Stand one butt in steamer or kettle with two or three inches of boiling water. Cover kettle to confine steam. Cook two minutes. Lay asparagus down, cover and cook two minutes more. Plunge asparagus in cold water and remove immediately. It may be dipped two or three times, but must not stay in the cold water. Pack it in jar whole or cut in pieces. Do not crowd it much. Add one level teaspoon of salt for one quart jar. Fill jar with boiling water. Partially seal and process same as for greens.

Greens may also be preserved by salting. Use a stone crock with a cover. Sort and wash greens thoroughly. Put a layer of salt about one-fouth inch deep in the bottom of the crock. Shake water from leaves, but do not dry them. Put in a layer of leaves one and one-half inches deep, well packed. Add a layer of salt and then greens, repeating until crock is well filled. Put an earthen plate on top and weight it with a stone. Put cover on crock and keep in a cool place. Do not add water. The crock does not have to be filled at one time. These greens must be soaked several hours before cooking. Dandelions may be blanched five minutes and cold dipped to remove surplus salt and some of bitter flavor, before the final cooking for serving.

Best wishes for the Corner and may there be no lagging in its support.

PUSSY WILLOW.

GREATLY APPRECIATED GIFT.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I am sorry that for one reason and another we fail to fill the Corner page. Spring is passing swiftly by, and we have had but very few real warm spring-like days. It is very cool with us, no doubt owing to the fact that in the northern part of the state and in Vermont they are still having snow. But we hope from now on the air will grow warmer and crops will grow. The season is forward so the trees are only beginning to leaf out, but the grass looks fine, so think, fresh and green, and soon the buds and blossoms will appear and the air will be filled with the sweet fragrant scent.

Now I wish to thank all of the sisters who sent me cards, etc., to help to make my birthday pleasant, especially the sisters of Club No. 2, who handed together and sent me a gift which I appreciated, I assure you, and I thank you all heartily and sincerely.

I presume you are all looking forward with pleasure to the out-of-door picnics which will soon begin to be held by many of you.

Best wishes.

THE OLD DARK LANTERN SCHOOL HOUSE

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: This is my first letter to the Corner since our visit with Club No. 1 at their March meeting and I wish right here to express my appreciation of the hearty welcome extended to me by Theoda, her club companions and all the other good sisters. Was regretting to miss Cream Puff. Did you have a happy day? There was a nice dinner and a jolly good time all day and my only regret is that I can not visit with you more often.

Since that time have had company and been in the hospital for a minor operation, from which I am just beginning to get strong enough to think of doing some house cleaning. Then we have had a radio set installed and I find that very interesting. All this however has not prevented me from reading every one of your letters and scanning the page in vain for some I expected to see.

As the old red and white school house has been one of the subjects for some time, there is one I would like to speak of, the old Dark Lantern school house on Dark Lantern hill. There are hundreds of people now who know about this hill, but who a few years ago had never heard of it. And of all who travel over that hill I wonder how many ever once notice the little old school house about half way down the hill and on the right. It is now used as a dwelling house and is nearly hidden by trees and shrubs that have grown up. If it was ever red or white it was before my time for it has always been wood color to me. Have asked many why it was called Dark Lantern but have found no one who knew. If any of the Corner readers happen to know, please tell us all about it in the Corner page.

When I was very small I attended school there and have a nice little book now in which is inscribed "Reward of merit from her teacher—Chauncey Wright." I wonder if any who read this letter ever went to school here and if they remember the girl who used to come horseback some of the time on the old red Charlie horse with his white face and two white or watch eyes? Rode without saddle or bridle and was very generous in giving the rest of us rides and when the school bell called us inside Charlie was turned loose to go home when he pleased. In those days it made no difference whether the children lived one-half mile or two and a half miles from the school. Each one had to get there the best they could, and did it hurt them any? I think not.

Here is a recipe for a rhubarb pie which takes less sugar than the clear rhubarb and we like it much better.

Rhubarb Pie: One cup of rhubarb cut in small pieces, three-quarters of a cup of sugar, one egg, one-half cup of raisins, one cracker rolled fine, a little salt. Mix all together and bake in two crusts. When making your crust make enough so as to have a few tarts. Fill these with cooked rhubarb and on top of that put some marshmallow filling. Very good for a change.

Someone told me they were going to write under the name of Grass Patch. Are they fooling me?

Whirlwind: Hope to have the pleasure of meeting you at a Corner gathering before the summer is over.

Old Timer will be 83 years old in November, is nearly blind and otherwise afflicted and I know it would cheer her very much to receive cards and letters from the sisters.

Best wishes to all from

TWICE TWENTY.

PROGRESS OF LIGHTING

Dear Friends and Editor: Many thanks for my yellow slip, as it came very unexpectedly.

Here are some facts in regard to the progress of lighting:

The earliest form of lighting was a wood fire in a cave.

5,000 B. C.—Torches or lighted splinters were placed in holders of stone or clay.

300 B. C.—Lamps, made of brass or bronze, became highly artistic.

50 B. C.—Romans used rushes soaked in grass, forerunners of the candle.

300 A. D.—Phoenicians introduced candles in Constantinople.

1800—Gas lighting perfected but candle still most universal light.

1850—Discovery of petroleum revolutionising oil lamp lighting.

1879—Edison, apostle of light, produced incandescent electric lamp.

1885—Auer Von Welsbach produced incandescent gas mantle.

1896—Incandescent electric lights made with carbon filament in growing use.

1923—Incandescent electric light, using tungsten filment, in high state of perfection.

What will be the next?

I read of Jim's marriage and I wish him a long and happy wedded life.

Everything is looking green and full of life, although it is cool for this time of the year. Sunday I went to Poland Springs an dcould see Mount Washington loaded down with snow that shone like so many diamonds. Trust those on sick list are on the gain.

Best wishes to all.

GREETINGS FROM NECIA.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank all who so kindly remembered me on my birthday—Red Clover, C. E. S., Franklin Southwest, Red Rose, Scottie, Luella, Golden Glow, Student, Saville, Strawberry Cady, True Blue, Chocolate, Old Fashioned Mother, Mollie Larkin, Kitty Lou and others if there are any I have not mentioned.

I was certainly surprised with the gift from Kitty Lou as I did not think she knew the date.

Scottie: I was very sorry I did not see you either time you called. I was doing the Good Samaritan act. Hope you will find me next time. Chocolate has been on the sick list for the past week, but glad to say she is gaining now. That was where I was both times.

I want to thank you for what you brought us and I have them all planted in the garden.

Luella: So good of you to think of me.

Free Air: I do not know as I am acquainted with you, but would be pleased to be as your birthday and mine come on the same date. You are the first I have met so far. Would you send your address, please?

Hoping all the sisters are well and that I will see you at the next meeting. As ever

SISTER NECIA (May 13).

ANTICIPATING THE PICNICS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As I have been ailing for some time though it about time I wrote to help fill out the Social Corner page this week. I must tell what a nice time we had at the last meeting and hope to have the same. If not better, June 6, which will be our last meeting for the summer.

The for the picnics and what good times we do have. Hope Golden Glow will have one this summer.

Apple Blossom: The cars are still running out my way. Hope you have not forgotten the number.

I want to thank Social Corner Sisters Necia, Student, Mollie Larkin, Old Fashioned Mother, Saville, for the birthday cards they sent me.

Triplets: Saw you out my way the day after our meeting. Suppose you went to Maple street the same day. Hope they were pleased with the bags.

Best wishes to th eCorner.

STRAWBERRY, (May 16.)

TEACH ORDER TO THE CHILDREN.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Winter does not mean a season of rest, observed a weary mother. It means just an extra amount of picking up after the children who must spend more time in the house than at other seasons and must wear more clothing when they go out of doors. My children simply will not learn to be orderly. I have talked and scolded until I have given up and pick up things myself. What a pity this is for a mother to spend her precious time and strength and attention over a menial task that rightfully belongs to the children to do. The truth is that this mother provided no way for the children to practice caring for their own things. What is the use in telling a boy to hang up his cap if he cannot reach the hoop in the hall and closet. The first thing to do is to place plenty of hooks low enough so that the little ones can easily reach them. It then becomes a matter of pride to have these hooks raised as to be promoted to a higher row as the children increase in stature.

During winter a stout wire rack near the kitchen stove provided with a quantity of clothespins of the spring variety is useful for drying mittens and footgear. Snap each pair together with a clothespin and hang over the wire link. All these things would doubtless be helpful if one began that way at the very start, says the discouraged mother. I did not possess the foresight to do that. What can I do now to break down their habit of carelessness! A few experiences of kind make the children more thoughtful about leaving their possessions scattered about the house.

Putting things where they belong soon becomes a habit and orderliness becomes second nature even to little children.

PAULA. (June 7.)

SOME EXCELLENT RECIPES.

Dear Sisters: I am giving a recipe for a delicious eggless gingerbread. If this recipe is carefully measured and mixed and the ingredients well beaten it will prove very good: One-half cup shortening (butter and lard mixed or all butter), one-half cup of brown sugar, one cup molasses, one teaspoon baking soda, one cup hot water, two cups bread flour, two teaspoons powdered ginger, one teaspoon powdered cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon powdered cloves, one-half teaspoon salt.

Method: Cream shortening and sugar together, then add the cup of molasses (be sure it is not too strong, if so, dilute with water) and also add the one teaspoon of baking soda dissolved in the one cup of hot water; add the flour which has been sifted with two teaspoons of powdered ginger, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth cloves and salt; beat well. This is also very good with chopped, stoned dates added to the batter.

Cottage Cheese: Bring some fresh buttermilk slowly to the boiling point and pour into a thin bag to drain. When cool, squeeze out the whey thoroughly. Place the cheese in a dish and mash it well with a spoon, then add a little rich milk or cream, and mix until smooth and as thin as desired.

Currant Buns: One pint milk, one-half level teaspoon salt, one yeast cake, one cup cleaned currants, three eggs, two level tablespoons butter, five cups flour, two level tablespoons sugar. Scald the milk; add the butter, sugar, salt, while hot, and when lukewarm add the yeast, which has been dissolved in some of the milk, add three cups. Beat well for five minutes; cover, and stand in a warm place until light (reserving a little of the white) add currants and enough flour to make a dough stiff enough to knead and knead until like cream. (I usually knead it the same as my bread 20 minutes) or until the dough loses the stickiness, and let stand again until light. Shape into small biscuit, put stand in a warm place again until double in bulk, brush the tops with the white of egg mixed with a little water and sugar, and bake in quick oven about twenty-five minutes.

Toasted Crackers: Crackers which are a trifle stale are made crisp and fresh by heating in the oven. If placed on the top shelf of the oven they will brown slightly. These browned crackers are especially good with salad or with tea, cocoa or milk.

Sandwiches: Spread honey or jelly lightly on square graham crackers and place one or two marshmallows on each. Place in a pan and set in a moderate oven for about one minute (no longer) until the marshmallows are puffed or slightly browned.

Come Again Cakes: One tablespoon sugar, one-half cup of lard creamed together, one cup molasses, one-half cup of water, one-half cup shortening, two teaspoons soda (level) of one heaping teaspoon, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of ginger, a few raisins, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Method: Cream sugar and shortening together, add molasses, then water, sift flour, soda, salt, cinnamon and ginger together add these to the molasses, sugar and lard; beat until creamy, drop in a pan with a small spoon, put raisin in center. Don't think there is too much soda for they are delicious made just exactly like the recipe.

If you dip your spoon in cold water every time before you dip out your cakes they will not stick.

ETHELYN.

BACK FROM CALIFORNIA.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Having returned from California, the state of the Golden Gate, sunshine and flowers, we have decided to remain in New England for a while to come and will add our mite to the Corner page from time to time, when there is room for one more, as the department has a large number of good letter writers which is food for the Corner page.

It would be impossible for me to give a pen picture of the beauty of California, with all its oranges, lemons, strawberries and blackberries ready for market in the month of April. The people in the east little realize what there is in store for them if they had taken the trip of eight thousand miles we traveled by rail. The scenery is beautiful, far beyond expression, with the mountains and gorges along the Southern Pacific Sunset Route.

If space would allow me I could tell of many interesting sights we saw on our trip by the southern route returning by the northern route from ocean to ocean. While away from home one thing we surely missed was The Bulletin, with news from the Rose of New England, and the Corner page of the great family of writers who make it possible for the Corner page to live on and on.

Sunday was Mother's Day, observed throughout the United States, and should be the most observed day of the year. Our thoughts were not of struggle and conflict, but of love, of respect, of devotion to mother, one of the noblest influences upon men in every age. A boy or a man who loves his mother and gives her due respect will make a good neighbor, husband and father. Let us all remember Mother's Day and make it the best day of the year.

SHEA'S NEWS BUREAU

ARMORY SQUARE

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Stories of being marooned for over a year on an island in the Antarctic region, losing four of his companions, and finally being rescued by a whaling boat made interesting reading for the people of 50 years ago.

There were many other happenings of interest a few of which have been taken from the files of the Bulletin as follows:

Monday, May 13, 1873—Murray's big railroad circus was in town Saturday the big tents being pitched on Robbin's lot, Cliff street. The street parade was not large, nor was it imposing, but it filled the bill and both the afternoon and evening shows were well attended.

Mr. Swisler, the treasurer of the circus had some queer currency offered him during the circus, in exchange for tickets. One man passed up a roll of fifty of the old fashioned Bungtown coppers for a ticket, and a countryman wanted a ticket for a couple of dozen eggs. Not being in the housekeeping business Mr. Swisler refused the offer.

James A. King, the New London "Robinson Crusoe" was in town yesterday visiting friends. He is the only known survivor of the boat's crew of five, of the seal fishing schooner Franklin from New London. His boat landed in 1871 on Window Island, one of the South Shetlands, situated south of Cape Horn, in latitude 64. The men killed 4,000 seals there and went to St. George's Island leaving a record of their wheresbouts behind. The vessel returned to the island found the directions but after using guns, rockets, and other signals at St. George's Island and receiving no response the schooner returned to New London and long ago reported the loss.

The sealer Nile discovered King late last year in a hut on St. George's Island but his companions had either died or had been drowned by trying to make Window Island. King said he managed to live for over a year on Pelican flesh, and some biscuits left behind by the boat crew. King had been without a fire for many days and was nearly frozen when discovered.

Tuesday, May 13, 1873—The Norwich Lock Company organized in 1866 by Joseph Selden, James Brady, and Robert Kerr, stock valued at $25,000 and sold in the year 1871 to William A. Buckingham and William A. Aiken is now doing a big business and 150 men are employed there. Since the joint stock company was formed in 1873, capitalized at $150,000 the manufacture of locks has increase and today the factory on the Greeneville road is turning out one hundred dozen locks daily. The gates of patterns of which there are 2000 are all numbered and can be found at any time. The locks which can be used either on a right hand or left hand door are rated as good as any made in the country and or of the Mackenzie pattern.

Three thousand squire feet of new scenery is being painted in New York expressly for Maggie Mitchell's appearance in this city.

The shop of the Norwich & Worcester railroad is building a new locomotive for the road, also a large locomotive for the Boston, Hartford & Erie.

Ezra Geer who lives just over the line in Norwich Town took his gun one day last week and went out after a fox. He saw six of them and waited until they got in line and then drew bead and let drive killing all six. Only a few years ago Mr. Geer had killed a like number of foxes in the same locality.

Wednesday, May 14, 1873—The new postal cards have been received by Postmaster Bidwell. They come in boxes of 500 and can be bought at the rate of one cent each. Only a few have been distributed thus far but within a few days it is expected that many people will be using the stamped postal cards.

Local fishermen have been making fine catches of shad in the river during the past few days. Several of the fish caught have weighed between four and five pounds and the average run is over two pounds. One man near Greeneville took thirty big shad out of the river yesterday.

The steamer City of New York made her first trip yesterday. Every stateroom on the boat had been sold before 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

A Willimantic man who had been put in the local city jail has written the following on the walls of the cell: "Jug not lest ye be jugged".

New Bermuda potatoes are now in the market selling for $4 per bushel.

His Honor Mayor Greene and Edward Fay went trouting yesterday and returned with eight beauties weighing 14 1-4 pounds.

Thursday, May 15, 1873—William W. Higgins of Baltic street was agreeably surprised last evening when a number of his friends from Uncas lodge called on him in his new home. Escorting him and his wife upstairs the party down stairs got busy and when Mr. and Mrs. Higgins came down they found a Brussels carpet on the parlor floor and numerous other articles of furniture, all of which had been picked out by Mr. Higgins, supposedly for another man.

Ed Clark, the whip of the Wauregan stables has got his Landare back, and it is a fine one, too. It has a signal ball for the benefit of the driver, is upholstered in brown broadcloth, and is the finest turnout in the county. It cost about $1,500.

Mrs. N. E. Gibbs of 44 Broadway will be pleased to receive donations for the nurses training school about to be established in New Haven. Any young women wishing to train to become nurses can obtain information by calling at the home of Mrs. Gibbs.

Friday, May 16, 1873—Charles R. Burdick, the well known mail agent on the Norwich & Worcester railroad, was last evening presented at the Wauregan house, with a magnificent watch and chain, the gift of only a few of his numerous friends. The watch, an open face, from the celebrated manufactury of Edouard Perregux, Locle Suisse, bore upon its inner case the following inscription: "Presented to Charles R. Burdick, as a token of universal esteem, won by years of faithful public service, May 15 1873."

Mr. Lathrop of Uncasville lost a horse recently and advertised the fact in the Bulletin. The horse read the advertisement the following morning and realising that there was no hope of escaping returned home immediately. So goes the power of advertising.

Now that a monument has been erected in memory of the men who died for the country's good it has been suggested that a monument be erected in memory of the home guards.

Saturday, May 17, 1873—It is evident that when Maggie Mitchell comes to Norwich the entire city is out to meet her. Sale of tickets for her appearance at Breed hall next Monday night has been large and in order to accommodate everyone the limit for any one person has been set at 10 tickets.

Norwich people have been taking to the new stamped postal cards. Postmaster Bidwell received a supply of 4000 cards yesterday morning and before night the entire supply had been bought up. The new cards cannot be shipped rapidly enough to supply the demand.

John T. Clark exhibited a fine string of trout in his store windows yesterday. John however, refused to tell where he got the big fellows and this has made his fellow fishermen somewhat jealous.

Local people who have been in Willimantic nights remember how dark the streets have been. Forging to the front Willimantic has ended her dark ways by installing eighty oil lamps.

Col. Hiram Appleman is expected home soon from the south, greatly improved in health.

LEFFINGWELL

Roy L. Beard of the Old Homestead farm was a recent visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Amburn of Dunham street, Norwich.

Several from Leffingwell attended the Spiritual academy Sunday evening.

Six from Leffingwell were present Saturday evening at the Odd Fellows' dance in Norwich.

Sunday guests at the Old Homestead farm were Mr. and Mrs. C. Emile Goeffrey and Paul J. Goeffrey of Pine street, Norwich, and E. Stanley Patterson of Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

Tuesday evening a May basket was hung in Occum for Miss Olga Johnson. Miss Johnson was completely surprised and invited all in. A very pleasant evening followed with music, dancing and games. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clarence Amburn and Miss Johnson. Those present from Leffingwell were Fred V. Amburn, Roy L. Beard and Miss Elsie Beard.

Frank Rogers is carpentering on Fox Hill.

Frank Gardner of East Great Plain was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Ross.

H. H. Amburn is doing carpenter work in Massapeag.

ABINGTON

Clarkson Barnes of Yale college spent the week end with his cousin, C. K. Peal.

Miss Florence Cobb of Cambridge was at Mrs. John Stromberg's last week.

Dr. J. H. Hutchins attended the Shriners' banquet in Hartford Wednesday evening.

Robert Young of Boston was at Edward Peal's on Sunday.

Miss Mildred Stone has left for Maine, where she is planning to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fuller, who have been for some time in Norwich, are back in Abington.

The ruling of the legislature making it legal to fish three days a week at Alexander's lake is very popular with the fishermen in town.

Miss Grosvenor is home from Hartford.

The Ladies' Benevolent society will hold its annual meeting at Library hall Thursday afternoon.

Prof. Wain of the Hartford Theological seminary will preach at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

C. A. Sharpe spent Sunday at West Upton, Mass., with his aunt, Mrs. H. F. Pellett.

The usual Saturday night dance was held at the new music hall last week. There was a large attendance.

At the district speaking and spelling contest held at Putnam High school Wednesday afternoon, Abington grammar school pupils carried off two of the prizes. Irene Warner got first prize for speaking, reciting Lady Claire, by Tennyson, in a very creditable manner. Earle Geisler was 1? out of a possible 15 points in the boys' athletic contest.

The Pomfret kindergarten band played several selections. Eight towns were represented. The Hartford contest will be held June 5th.

Friends from Monson, Mass., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fay.

C. A. and C. M. Sharpe attended the supper held at the Putnam inn Thursday evening by the Northeastern Connecticut Fish and Game club.

Canton—The Cemetery Association appointed G. B. Fenn and J. M. Gladwin committee to consider improvements for their grounds. They have decided on a new fence and will paint and repair the fence on the other three sides.

POLICE OFFICER CAPTURES MAN AFTER CHASE THROUGH STREETS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 19.—Police Sergeant Nelson S. Smith did a good bit of work this morning when he nabbed an alleged crook who had operbeen looking for him for the larceny from a garage man without giving any equivalent either in goods or work. The man is one Julius Egnatosky, a Pole, and a slick one at that. He had a chum and associate, but the chum got away. Julius has been in the city a few days and in that time the Worcester police have been looking for him to the larceny of the $500. They wrote to the New London department and with the request for the arrest of Julius came the information that he had telephoned to his brother in Worcester asking that the latter should send to him a grip of clothing Julius desired that he might go to work.

So the police watched the post office expecting Julius to call for his clothing and the letter that accompanied it. Julius telephoned to the post office this morning bright and early for information as to whether the expected letter had arrived. He was told that it was in the office so he and Felix went to obtain it.

In the meantime the postoffice clerk, who was "in" on the plan of the police, notified the police station that Egnatosky was coming immediately to get the letter. Felix accompanied him. As soon as Sergeant Smith saw Felix he called him by name and took him into custody. He also realized that he must get Egnatosky also and that his only chance was to hand Felix over to someone who would hold him that Smith might nab Egnatosky.

The latter realized the drama that was on and took to his heels. Smith was after him in a second. Egnatosky bolted into State street with the officer in hot pursuit. Smith called on him to stop or be shot, but Julius continued, darting in between pedestrians who were on the street so that the officer dare not shoot. Then Egnatosky fled into Green street with Smith hot after him. The former durted into the alleyway next north of the vacant lot in front of the O'Leary restaurant and Smith had him, for he went into a pocket from which he could not emerge readily.

Smith then grabbed him and he was a prisoner. Novak ran up State street and through Washington where he was lost sight of, though he was followed immediately by Officer Ray in an automobile. A search of the town was made during the day, but Felix managed to get into hiding.

It was learned that the men have been stopping at a house of Mrs. Mamie Rabinovitch at 37 John street for several days and that they were working at Midway where there is a demand for labor.

It is said that the pair had a money-making machine for sale and a scheme of working it by which genuine money came from the apparatus, though the buyer did not get any of the cash. Letters found in the possession of Egnatosky connect him with the fraud.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has suspended the operator's license of H. C. Taylor. Taylor is employed as a driver by the Lyceum Taxi Service.

Walter T. Dugas of No. 50 Williams street, complained to the police last night that while driving his automobile in an easterly direction on State street, that his car was sideswiped by a commercial truck, owned by the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company and operated by Mander S. Payer of Howard street. Dugas stated that Payer evaded responsibility by not stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage occasioned. Today Payer appeared at the police station and made a report of the collision, stating that Dugas was responsible for the crash.

John G. Arnold of No. 395 Broad street complained to the police late last night that an automobile passed a standing trolley car from which he was alighting on Broad street, and at such a rate of speed that he was nearly felled by the machine. Arnold stated that he obtained the number of the auto and that inquiry at the office of the motor vehicle department at Hartford had brought the information that the machine was the property of Patrick Cosgrove of No. 7 West Colt street.

As a result of Arnold's information, the acting prosecuting attorney ordered Cosgrove to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer a charge of violation of the automobile laws. Cosgrove declares that he did not operate his machine Thursday night, nor did any one else for it was not taken from the garage. He also states that the number of the machine Arnold alleges that passed the trolley car is not his registration.

The military prisoners, Tibart Savoy, Henry J. Noel and Samuel S. Wentworth, were taken from the military prison at Fort Wright this morning and later were placed aboard a train en route to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, to serve terms for thieving. The prisoners were in charge of Corporals Ford of the 100th Co., of Fort Wright and Corporal Crotty of the 65rd Co., of Fort Michie. Savoy, Noel and Wentworth were convicted of the theft of a quantity of army blankets. They declare that they are innocent and the victims of a "frame up."

Frank J. Hoyell and wife, who have occupied one of the cottages on Ocean avenue, formerly owned by the late Richard Mansfield, have moved to the handsome residence Mr. Howell recently caused to be erected for him on that avenue.

Ensign Albert M. Martimeon, of Chicago, and Miss Lois M. Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Griffin, former residents of Ocean avenue, now residing in Springfield, Mass., were joined in wedlock yesterday afternoon, the nuptial ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents.

The deed of eleven feet of the Williams property between State and Meridian streets, which was given the city several weeks ago, by William W. Williams for the purpose of permitting the widening of that congested thoroughfare, was received for record at the office of the city clerk today. City Manager Barlow has already caused workmen to start the task of removing the series of elm trees that are located at the edge of the sidewalk to permit the improvement to be made. As soon as the trees are removed the sidewalk will be removed and the retaining wall of the property moved back to permit the required distance to allow the widening to be carried to completion.

Because Joseph Govosky, of No. 213 Shaw street, and employed in the foundry of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing Company, permitted a fellow worker to remain at the former's home, Govosky is now a prisoner at the police station where he is held awaiting trial for violation of the prohibition laws in keeping liquor for sale. Govosky was taken into custody this evening by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Patrolman Edward Daniels. Following complaint being made to the police by the wife of Grovosk's friend that the latter spent his time and money at Govosky's.

The woman did not know Govosky's name, but she accompanied the police to Shaw street and pointed out the house where, she declared, her husband was kept supplied in drink. When the officers entered the place, Govosky and the husband were there and a search of the place revealed a still of the wash boiler variety and a quantity of white mule. The latter was in three receptacles, one of which showed plenty of proof while two others only showed fifty proof.

Grovosky, who has a police court record, admitted the manufacture of the "booze."

It is announced that the East Lyme trolley company will withdraw its cars next week Wednesday and will put on buses to accommodate travel in that section over which the trolley cars have been operated, which was as far into Waterford as Keeney's Corner. The buses will follow a new route, going by way of Jordan village, Graniteville and Oswegatchie and making alternate trips each way. The town of Waterford contributes $1,800 a year to the trolley company now for the transportation of school children and this will go to the bus line.

Harry Shalett of Blydenburg avenue, Miss Edwin Jevlurski of Lyme, George Harnick of Montville and Mrs. Henry Adams and baby of Niantic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Mrs. Alice T. Clark, wife of Charles W. Clark, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her former home, No. 215 Vauxhall street. The services were conducted by Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church and were attended by a large throng of mourners. Interment was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

George D. Shurts, brother of P. Hall Shurts of Bristol street, died Tuesday at his home in Newark, N. J. The funeral was held this afternoon at the former home of the deceased.

The body of Clarence Penhallow, former employe of the ocean going barge, Virginia Palmer, and who was at one time employed as stage hand at the Lyceum theatre and who was drowned in New Haven harbor a number of months ago, was brought to New London last night and today was interred in Jordan cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The body of Rev. Michael J. Cray, whose death occurred Wednesday night at his home, No. 11 Gorton street after an illness of several years, tonight lies in state in front of the altar of St. Joseph's church and where vigil was retained throughout the night. Throughout the late afternoon when the body was taken to the church and all through the night hundreds of men and women passed by the casket in respect to the deceased priest.

New London Lodge of Elks is planning a more elaborate observance of Flag Day, June 14th, than ever before and it has always been the endeavor of the lodge to make the observance an impressive and interesting one. This year a committee has been appointed composed of Walter T. Murphy, chairman; George E. Fisher, Samuel M. Prentis, E. G. Abernethy, Joseph G. Harrigan, Harry Shalett and Alfred Redd. The committee is already making arrangements for the occasion and if its plans are carried out, the observance of the day, which is conspicuous in Elkdom, will be the most pretentious of any ever attempted by the local organization.

It is planned to have the band and a battalion of sailors from the U. S. Louisiana and the Fort Wright band and a squad of soldiers from the island forts, besides a battalion of sailors from the submarine base to participate in the ceremonies. It is also planned to have several hundred school children present and take part in the raising of the flag when it is hoisted to the top of the new sixty foot flagpole that has recently been erected on the lawn in front of the club house on Washington street. The entire program will have been completed within a week or ten days when it will be announced.

James Baird, a welder of Groton and Raymond Vallett of Bayonet street, both construction workers in the employ of the Connecticut Power company, were extensively and painfully burned this afternoon when a gas drip outfit exploded near a trench where the men were working on Huntington street, near Williams street. Baird was hurled into the trench with his clothing ablaze and Vallee's clothing also took fire. Fellow workers and bystanders rushed to the assistance of the victims and their burning clothing was extinguished, but not before they were burned about the face, neck and hands. Medical attention was given the men after which they went to their homes for additional treatment.

When the explosion occurred and the drip wagon, on which was located the huge gas tank took fire, a still alarm was sent to the central fire station, causing the Niagara and Nameaug engine companies and the Uncas Hose company to be summoned. The companies made a quick run and the firemen quickly subdued the fire, but not until the vehicle had been damaged.

The Spanish war veterans in New London and vicinity are to have a reunion and entertainment in this city on the 15th and 16th of June. The armory will be the place of assembling and there the entertainments and convention will take place. There are not as many of the veterans in New London, but they are energetic and patriotic and they intend to make their reunion a memorable one.

John Grain of Hartford, who was very badly injured at Uncasville Wednesday when a derrick boom hit him while he was at work is afflicted with punctured lungs and broken ribs. Notwithstanding that fact he is doing as well as can be expected. He has the right sort of grit and that will stand him in good stead during his affliction. While his condition is most serious it is believed that he will pull through and that he will get around again.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah W. Morgan, widow of James A Morgan was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her former residence, No. 118 Monument street, Groton and was attended by a large concourse of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Henry Hurlbutt, pastor of the Groton Heights Congregational church. Relatives and former intimate acquaintances of the deceased acted as bearers. Burial was in Starr cemetery, Groton.

CELERY.

Celery is a much neglected crop in the home garden and one which should be much more freely grown to make the ground pay dividends. It is not difficult to grow and a seed bed started now will give a crop next fall that will be very welcome. Celery likes plenty of moisture and fertility and delights in a heavy soil.

Make a carefully prepared seed bed in some corner of the garden now, pulverizing the soil finely and level it off. Sow the seed a quarter of an inch deep in rows two or three inches apart and keep the bed moist and shaded until the seedlings appear. A few rows will give more plants than can be taken care of in a small garden. The seeds are rather slow of germination and it will be three weeks at least before the seedlings are ready to handle.

Celery needs to be transplanted at least once to develop a compact, fibrous root system without which the thick, crisp stalks will not be produced. Save room in which to transplant the plants two or three inches apart each way, and by the time the lettuce or spinach is out of the way you can begin setting the celery plants in their permanent positions in rows convenient for blanching. They should be set six inches apart and at least three feet apart in the rows, hoeing the soil up about them as they increase in size until the tips of the leaves only appear. This blanching process should be done gradually and carefully until late in the summer, leaving some of the Care must be exercised not to get the soil into the heart of the plant. It also should not be hilled up on wet days.

The neatest method of blanching is to set board along the row, holding them on edge with stakes and supporting cleats nailed across the top at intervals. This saves a great deal of labor and the celery when harvested is in better shape and free from earth.

One who reproduces his father's peculiarities or characteristics. The phrase may be found as far back as 1626, in a play called "Dick of Devonshire." "Your father used to come home to my mother, and why may not I be a chippe of the same blocke out of which you two were cutte?"—Chicago Journal.

Technical Description.

It takes a business man to describe a costume to his wife. A map of commerce, after seeing a very taking dress on a very talking young lady recently, informed the partner of his joys that: "It was fine. The dress was made of some kind of cloth, with some sort of trimming. It was a sort of lilac or shrimp pink in color. She wore one of those hats you sometimes see on women, and altogether gave an effect that I wish you could have seen."

If familiarity breeds contempt, how is it that so many people are such great self-admirers?—Boston Transcript.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MAY LINDQUIST, 2814 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

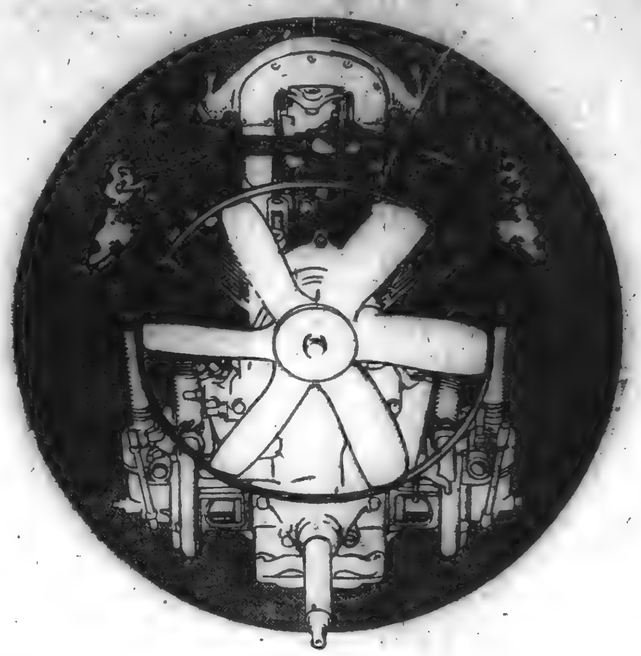
Standard of the World



The Supremacy of the V-Type Principle

In 1914, Cadillac first devoted itself to the manufacture of motor cars equipped with V-Type ninety degree eight-cylinder engines which would be Standard of the World.

Since that time, this Company has produced, with constant refinements, more than 150,000 V-Type eight-cylinder engines and not one of them has ever been replaced by the factory for any reason.

Moreover, in recognition of the supremacy of the V-Type eight-cylinder principle, and of Cadillac's position as its leading exponent, more people have purchased Type 61 than all other cars combined at or above its price range.

MARKET WAS HEAVY

New York, May 18—Selling pressure, exerted throughout the day on the chemical, fertilizer and cotton oil securities, resulted in further liquidation in the general list in today's stock market, more than a score of shares recording new low prices for the year. In a few instances buying support was encountered at the extreme low prices, and those shares made slight gains at the close.

Outstanding weak spots outside of the agricultural issues, included Famous Players, off 4 1-2, Dupont, off 5, American Writing Paper preferred, off 4, and Central Leather preferred, off 3. Sears Roebuck, which together with Montgomery Ward, registered new lows for the year, closed 5 1-2 points lower after dipping at one time 7 1-2 points below yesterday's closing quotation.

The smash in the chemical, fertilizer and cotton oil issues took in almost the entire list, the following, off from 1 1-2 to more than five points, registered new low prices for the year: Allied Chemical & Die, American Agricultural Chemical, common and preferred, Virginia Carolina Chemical, common and preferred, American Cotton Oil, common and preferred and Davison Chemical Co.

Heaviness of International Harvester and advance rumely was believed to be due to sympathetic selling of these stocks, many of which established new lows. Among the oils new low prices were recorded by Standard Oil of New Jersey, Middle States, Trans-Continental, Texas Co., Pierce Oil and Caddo Oil.

There were a few strong spots in the market, notably among the sugar and copper shares, the former influenced by reiterated statements as to the shortage of the Cuban crop and the latter by a better demand for the rod metal.

The local Federal Reserve bank announced the withdrawal throughout the country on that date will aggregate approximately $200,000,000.

Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent, trading in time money was somewhat more active with rates unchanged at 5 per cent. For the shorter maturities and a few loans being placed at 5 1-4 per cent.

A drop of 1 1-8 points in German marks brought the rate to .0020 5-8 cents or very close to the low record for all time of .0020. Demand sterling was steady around $4.62 1-8 and French francs were easier at 6.65 3-4 cents. Norwegian exchange dropped 18 points to 16.30 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, May 18—Bond prices continued firm in today's dealings, which were relatively small. Easy money conditions and continuation of the slackened offering of new bonds were perhaps the determining factor in the bond market. Some of the speculative issues followed the course of stocks downward.

Active U. S. government bonds, with the exception of the tax exempt 3 1-2s which receded 3-32 of a point, made small gains, again pointing to possibility that the British government is in the market to meet an early interest payment on its debt to this country. Foreign government bonds were somewhat irregular, Rio Grande do Sul 8s dropping 2, and Mexican 4s, 1 1-2. Czecho-Slovakian 8s were up 1.

Railroad mortgages continued in good demand, gains of a point or more being recorded by Pere Marquette 5s, Northern Pacific refunding 3s, and Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s. Copper and Sugar company liens followed the upward trend of these stocks, Cerro de Pasco 8s advancing 1 and Punta Alegre 7s, 1 1-4. Virginia Carolina Chemical 7s were depressed, losing 1 1-2 points.

Total sales (par value) were $9,351,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, May 18—Predictions of a warm wave led to a decided setback in wheat prices today. The market closed heavy, 1 1-8 to 1 7-8c. Net lower, with July 1.16 1-8 to 1.16 1-4 and September 1.14 1-2. Corn finished 5-8 a 3-4 to 1c down, oats 3-4 to 7-8c a 1c off, and provisions varying from 2.a 5c decline to 10 a 12c gain.

Prevailing favorable weather gave the wheat market a tendency to sag during the early dealings, but crop damage reports from the southwest, Kansas and Texas in particular brought about upturns which, however, failed to last in the face of the government forecast which suggested that a heat wave would develop next week and would follow showers over a good portion of the winter crop belt.

A report that Russia had sold a cargo of wheat to Germany for June shipment at a discount said to be equal to 15c under the price of No. 2 hard, F. O. B., at the Gulf of Mexico had considerable to do with emphasizing weakness near the close. The fact that crop damage reports were accompanied by but few orders to purchase counted also as a late bearish influence. Bulls appeared to make little headway with assertions that severe reduction of spring wheat acreage would be confirmed by government figures to be issued July 1.

Corn as well as wheat was bearishly affected by forecasts of a warm wave. Besides, enlarged offerings of corn to arrive at Kansas City from Nebraska were reported. Oats were ruled for the most part by the action of corn.

It was an irregular market in provisions. Lard declined with hogs and grain, but ribs advanced owing to talk of better cash demand for meats.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

UNITED WORKMEN.

A very pleasant open meeting of Norwich lodge, No. 12, of the Ancient Order of United Workmen was held in the Owls' hall, Wednesday evening, May 9, at 8 p. m., with a large number of members and friends attending.

The meeting was opened by a few words of welcome from the chairman, Past Master Workman Charles Bushnell. "Call Me Back Pal O' Mine," was very well sung by Brother Otto A. Heebner, ably accompanied by Sister Ida Heebner, after which a solo, "One More Day" was pleasingly rendered by Sister Susan M. McNeely. The chairman then introduced the principal speaker of the evening, Dr. Frank H. Wheeler, grand medical examiner of Connecticut. He spoke of the object and help to be derived from insurance in general and particularly or the fraternal insurance in which the company assembled was particularly interested, giving a very lucid explanation of the various options which the Ancient Order of United Workmen gives its beneficiaries. His address in brief is as follows:

"If you wish to surrender your policy, we will give you a certain amount of cash for it; that amount will depend upon the amount you have paid in. During the time of payment, it has cost us something to insure you. Supposing 1,000 men, 20 years of age, decided to insure themselves each for $1,000 for one year. We, the company, look up mortality tables, which in this state is the American Experience Table, how many are going to die. The beneficiary of each man is going to receive $1,000 during the year. It cost every single one of these men, those who die and those who live, $7 apiece during the year. Nobody knows who the seven are who are going to die. You would like to have as much insurance as you can. We will indorse upon your certificate, or policy, to the effect that that certificate is worth a certain amount of money, and you pay no more; when you die that amount will be paid to your beneficiary. If you do not wish this ;but do want the whole face, or value, of the policy as long as you can, we will give you what is called extended insurance; that is, you stop paying, we will carry on that policy, and if you die within a certain time, then the full face of the policy will be paid to your beneficiary.

"A twenty payment policy carried ten years costs a little more money because each one equals the other. The great element in life insurance is interest and that interest allows us to do a lot of things that we could not do without that interest. The one who takes out a 20 year policy stops paying at the end of 20 years; but the one with the whole life policy pays until he dies. These are what we call options; they are benefits of insurance. It is a benefit and a positive fact between the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and yourself that they will pay the amount of cash at the end of that certain period. They will extend it for that number of years which is stated in the policy. Look at your policy and see all these facts for yourself, as they are printed right on them. The policy at the end of ten years has a cash surrender. You are not only protecting those who are dependent upon you but are saving money. Although you are not paying anything, the cash surrender is increasing, not as rapidly as if you were paying, but it does increase.

"Doing business in the Lodging System way we are able to make our payments higher than any other company. We have our payment agencies right in your city. Our payments are based upon the monthly plan. If you want to pay it annually, we can give it to you cheaper; but it is easier for a person, generally speaking, to pay monthly.

"We will loan you money on your policy. You deposit your policy as collateral security and we shall be very glad to loan money to you. We are loaning money all the time. We have over $1,000,000 to our credit. You can borrow money if you are hard up. Let us know and we shall be glad to loan you some money. We have helped many families who were unable to pay their bills.

"This is a fraternal life insurance company, a feature that cannot be represented by any commercial order. When you join the order, you make a pledge to help and protect each other in sickness and in distress.

"We report as all other insurance organizations to the government officials, and once in two years a man from Hartford comes down to examine our books very carefully so that there is no chance of loss, no chance of crookedness. You may be sure that the officials in Hartford have their eyes on us as well as other insurance companies. Two years ago we wrote $400,000 worth of new insurance. At the beginning of this year we said we would get $1,000,000 worth of new insurance. We have at this time, only four months from the beginning of the year, already written $500,000 worth of new insurance. We have altogether over $1,000,000 of assets and the amount of insurance in force a little over $5,000,000. The Connecticut jurisdiction has proportionately as much insurance as any of the larger companies."

After this intelligent address, refreshments were served by the committee in charge, Sisters Ida Heebner, Susan McNeely, Brother Stanton Brown, and Past Master Workman Robert McNeely. A duet was sung by Sister Susan M. McNeely and Brother Otto Heebner. Deputy John Trant gave a very pleasing talk, during which he made many humorous remarks. As the concluding number of the programme, a solo entitled, "Until the Dawn," was sung by Sister Susan McNeely. The meeting broke up about eleven o'clock.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY

The regular meeting of Division 54, A. O. H. auxiliary, was held Wednesday evening in A. O. H. hall where two candidates were initiated before the largely attended meetings. Plans were made for a whist to be held in the hall this month with the committee of arrangements consisting of Miss Mary Fallon, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Nellie Quinn, Mrs. Margaret Coughlin, and Mrs. Nadolny. A social time followed the business session.

ODD FELLOWS, M. U.

The regular meeting of H. H. Osgood lodge, No. 6920, in Steiner Hall Friday evening at which Sylvester Tarbox presided had as an interesting feature degree work by the team from Loyal Samaritan lodge of Baltic under the leadership of Herman Bridlaw, which initiated two candidates in full ritual form in a very creditable manner.

The social committee reported everything in readiness for a good time at the next meeting, the first Friday in June when members are to invite their lady friends.

The first nomination of officers for the next six months took place as follows: Noble grand, William Bilal; vice grand, William Tarbox; elective secretary, Arthur Crooks; warden, George Hollingsworth; R. Rotchwell and J. McNeely.

Remarks by Bros. Addison Wodde and Barnes on good of the order along with cigars brought a pleasant evening to a close.

AUTOS IN COLLISION AT SECOND ST. CORNER

A Maxwell coupe, driven by Mrs. Laura F. McLennan, 24 Morse avenue Groton, was run into by a Ford sedan, driven by William J. Ryan of 27 Sixth street, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the corner of Second and North Main streets.

Mrs. McLennan was coming out of Second street from the Shetucket Co. mill and the Ryan car was coming towards the city at the time of the accident. Both the drivers reported at police headquarters, where Ryan claimed that his car had a front axle bent and other damages, while Mrs. McLennan's car showed a crushed in mud guard and hood on the right side of the machine.

TAFTVILLE

The House department of the Taftville Congregational Sunday school held a social in the lecture rooms of the church, Friday evening. The evening was pleasantly passed with games and vocal and instrumental selections, and refreshments were served. The superintendent, Mrs. Fred Ince, was in general charge of the affair.

Troop 3, Boy Scouts, held a meeting Friday evening in the recreation rooms of the Taftville Congregational church under the direction of Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis. The troop is organizing a baseball team and had a practice game after the business meeting. A number of the scouts are also planning to attend the summer camp at Beach Pond.

There was a bad brush fire near Reservoir No. 1 Friday afternoon, and the Ponemah Mills Chemical responded to a call for help.

Just arrived from Boston, misty knockabout hats, classy dress hats. Mme. V. J. Plante, Taftville.—adv.

Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue George H. Charbonneau has been a visitor in town this week checking up delinquents. He expects to finish work in the village next week.

John P. Plante of Norwich avenue is spending the remainder of the week at the Vergason farm in North Stonington.

While at work in the mule room of the Ponemah Mills, Oliver Lemire of Providence, street fractured one of his toes and is laid up for a short time.

A book of 50 Old Fashioned Songs will be sent to you free if you will mail this advertisement to The Plaut Camden Co., Norwich, Conn.—adv.

Mrs. Wilfred Pollard of Block Island, R. I., who is the guest of her father, Thomas Greenwood of South Second avenue, spent a short time this week in New Haven, where she attended a convention of registered nurses.

Frank McCormack of New Haven has been na recent caller in town on business.

Frederick W. Stone of New Haven has returned to his home in New Haven, after passing a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stone of South A street.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park Congregational church, will be the officiating clergyman at the Sheltering Arms service Sunday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Howe will be accompanied by Park church choir, which will provide the singing.

Friday was observed as teachers' visiting day, by the teachers of Town Street school, which was closed all day, thereby affording a holiday for the pupils in the several grades.

At the church night service of the First Congregational church, held on Thursday evening, the theme was The Conversion of Paul.

Having motored to Colchester on Tuesday, where they remained a few days with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Strong have returned to their home on Town street. Mr. Strong continued the journey on to Middletown, returning to Colchester that night.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer of West Town street has had as her guest for several days her sister, Mrs. Frank Case of New London. During the week several motor trips have been taken to nearby places, Mrs. Geer being accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Case, also Theodore Sterry of Norwich Town. Monday, the party motored to Waterford and were callers at the home of Rev. and Mrs. George H. Strouse, former Norwich residents. Tuesday a trip was made to Willimantic where a call was made at the home of Mrs. Lyman Main, also that of Mrs. George Rogers. Before returning to Norwich Town, Mrs. Rogers joined the tourists and enjoyed a ride nearly into Hartford. Friday, Mrs. Geer and her guests motored over the New London-Colchester turnpike this year instead of in the afternoon as has been done in past years.

This change will no doubt be welcomed by most people and it means a great saving to those in charge of arranging for the annual observance of Memorial Day.

As usual the mayor and members of the court of common council will view the parade from the Wauregan hotel and attend the exercises at Chelsea Parade in a body.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS TO HAVE MEDAL AWARDS

A new feature is to be added to the program of the New England citizens' military training camp this year, by the presentation of a set of seven medals to be known as the civilian aides' military medals, to the students in the red courses holding the record for general excellence at the close of the camp. Six of the medals will be of bronze, one for a student from each of the New England states, and one gold corps area medal for the student holding the highest record among the six bronze medal winners.

The medals have been designed by William T. Aldrich, who donates his services. They are hung on ribbons of blue and white, representing the First Corps Area colors. The medals have been approved by General Andre W. Brewster, commanding general, first corps area, and will be presented by him in person on the day of the final review.

The gold medal will be given by Pierpont L. Stackpole, civilian aide to the secretary of war, for the first corps area. The bronze medals will be given by the following state civilian aides, to be presented to the students of their respective states: Sabine W. Wood, Maine; Dr. Robert O. Blood, New Hampshire; Lynn D. Taylor, Vermont; J. W. Farley, Massachusetts; Royal C. Taft, Rhode Island; Honorable John L. Gilson, Connecticut.

It is expected that keen competition will prevail among the students for the procuring of these medals, and particularly for the gold medal, which proclaims the winner the gold mark graduate of the entire red course student body.

In addition, gold and silver medals for swimming and athletics will be presented by the war department, as in the two previous camps, as well as a set of bronze medals for the students of all courses, to be presented by the Military Training Corps Association, one medal for the student in each company who holds the best all around record for soldierly conduct. A large silver cup will also be presented by the association as a trophy for marksmanship.

Recruiting is now gaining impetus throughout New England, one thousand young men have already filed application blanks, the large majority of whom will receive notice of acceptance from the headquarters of the first corps area. Practically all of the private and high schools of New England have been addressed by speakers from the first corps area headquarters, who have brought to the attention of the students the many benefits and advantages to be gained by this method of citizenship training.

CAMP TIPPECAN SEASON ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED

Arrangements for the season for Camp Tippecan, the Boy Scout camp at Beech pond, Voluntown, were completed at a meeting of the Norwich council camp committee this week.

Twelve members were present including two new men who have consented to serve on this work, namely, J. Nelson Weymouth, and J. Lincoln Crawford, Jr. New tents and equipment were voted to be purchased and the camp staff secured.

Registrations are coming in and the camp booklet will be in the hands of every scout the first of the week.

An invitation was extended to the Rotary club to be guests of Camp Tippecan for a day during the season.

The matter of telephone and transportation was considered.

This country has over 2,000 fatal mine accidents a year and the United Kingdom one-half that number.

BARDO SAYS NEW HAVEN IS BACK TO NORMAL

That the New York New Haven and Hartford railroad is now, in respect to both motive power and equipment on the same basis as of July 1st, 1922, at the start of the shopmen's strike, thus showing that the walkout of the employees has been successfully combatted by the railroad was asserted at the annual meeting of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce by Charles L. Bardo, General Manager, during the course of an address which he delivered at a group meeting in Hartford this week held in connection with the annual meeting of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce.

More than 19,000 cars have been moved on the railroad within the past thirty-five days according to Mr. Bardo thus showing conclusively that the road is in a state of normalcy again. Twenty six per cent. of the striking shopmen have up to the present time, returned to work, and the places of the others have been filled by skilled workers. It was also said by the speaker that the abuses which in the past were responsible for a considerable amount of criticism on the part of the general public have been done away with.

"The trouble today," said Mr. Bardo, "is that we have had the railroads for many years and accept them as naturally as we do the food we eat and the air we breathe. They have become part of the general part of our every day life. We are likely to suffer, however, if this great transportation machine is not maintained in the highest possible state of efficiency. What the railroad ask of the public today is the same sympathetic report which was given many years ago, the opportunity to work out our problem in a way which will best serve the public interests.

"The opportunity to work out their own problems means much to the railroads at this time, and all we ask is a breathing space in which we can devote our entire attention to strictly railroad affairs. If, then, the problem cannot be settled, we can make no complaint. If matters are taken from its railroads its own way. At the present time the amount of business handled by the New Haven road as a whole is greater than any like period in the last six or seven years and probably greater than in any period of our history. If the roads are not molested by labor troubles or by other outside influences I confidently expect they will hand the public's transportation business efficiently and without serious difficulties."

Isidore Wise of this city presided at the group meeting of the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Shower for Mr. and Mrs. Jones

A shower was held last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hargreaves of Freeman avenue, in honor of the recent marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones of this city. The happy couple received many handsome and useful gifts and a general good time was enjoyed by all present.

MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT OF MEMORIAL DAY PLANS

Commander Orrin M. Price of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., has announced some of his plans for the Memorial Day celebration this year, among them the fact that Rev. C. H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, will deliver the annual Memorial Day address.

Major Charles A. Hugberg, grand marshal, has announced that following the custom in past years the parade will form in front of the Buckingham, march to Burnham square, countermarch over Main street to Washington square, up Washington street to the Chelsea parade, where the exercises will be held. At the close of the exercises the parade will again form and march down Broadway to Main street, thence to the Buckingham to be dismissed. The order of march will be given this year at 10.02 ,daylight time, it having been deemed advisable to hold the parade and exercises in the morning

SCOUTS ARE PREPARING FOR ANNUAL INSPECTION

Scout Executive F. A. Benton has been making preliminary inspections of each troop during the entire month and instructing them for the annual inspection to be held in the armory next Wednesday night, May 23, at 7 o'clock. Troops are expected to be on time in order to have their picture taken outside the armory by daylight.

Major Charles A. Hagberg, Scout Commissioner, Capt. W. R. Dennison, Gen. William A. Aiken, President A. L. Peale and Deputy Scout Commissioner Robert W. Otis will take part in the inspection.

One hundred per cent attendance is expected. Only one troop can win the Ferguson challenge cup.

BOY SCOUTS RESPOND TO FOREST FIRE CALL

Following the fire at the Cohen home on Canterbury turnpike sparks which had been blown from the burning structure by the wind set fire to Grant's wood and about four o'clock in the afternoon, Scout Manning sent in a call for Scout Executive Benton for aid. Twenty scouts responded and worked until the fire was extinguished. The fire worked its way nearly to the reservoir before it could be stopped. Troops sending scouts were: Troops 20 of Norwich Town, Troops 1 and 4 of the city.

Scouts in Memorial Day Parade.

Commander Orrin M. Price has invited the Boy Scouts as usual to participate in the Memorial Day parade and the invitation has been accepted. A large representation of scouts will march and a bugle and drum corps is being trained by Robert W. Otis and John Harris, the latter being scoutmaster of a colored troop, being formed at the A. M. E. Zion church. Scouts will serve water to the Civil war veterans at Chelsea parade.

Suit on $4,000 Claim.

Suit on the common counts on a claim for $4,000 has been brought against Julia Ryan alias Mrs. Patrick Ryan by Winifred Ryan, both of Norwich. The claim is dated the 14th day of May, 1923, and the suit is returnable before the superior court in June. An attachment has been filed on real estate on North Cliff street.

GIFTS AND BANQUET FOR SUPERINTENDENT RODIER

A banquet was held Friday afternoon at one o'clock at the Wauregan hotel by Connecticut divisional managers, district superintendents and the forces representing the Prudential Life Insurance company, given in honor of Ernest O. Rodier, superintendent of the Norwich district of the company, who has completed 20 years of service with the company.

The banquet was held in the dining hall at the hotel which was decorated for the occasion with flags and cut flowers. The affair opened with the singing of America, following which Superintendent Rodier welcomed the visitors to Norwich and expressed his thanks and appreciation for the honor tendered him in observance of his 20th anniversary with the company.

Among the guests were Divisional Manager W. S. Decker of New Haven, superintendents M. J. Leonard of the New Haven district; J. R. Maher of Hartford district; R. S. Tuttle and staff of six men of New London; P. E. Bonin and staff of six men of Putnam, T. F. Mullen and staff of five men of Willimantic, R. H. Mitchell and staff of six men from Westerly, and Assistant Superintendent E. J. Dennis and the Norwich staff of six men.

During the banquet the instrumental music was furnished by Prof. Hugh A. Kinder, who also favored with several vocal selections. After his address of welcome Mr. Rodier introduced Divisional Manager Decker, who spoke at length on the progress of the company and gave figures concerning the Norwich district. At the close of his talk Mr. Decker presented Mr. Rodier a certificate of Prudential Old Guard, emblematic of 20 years service with the company. The award also brought with it a gold charm set with a diamond. Assistant Superintendent also presented Mr. Rodier with a basket of roses, the gift of the local staff.

There were speeches by several of the superintendents and members of the Old Guard after which Superintendents Leonard of New Haven and Maher of Hartford made brief speeches and presented Mr. Rodier a gold fountain pen.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

KIDNEY TROUBLE BECOMES SERIOUS

"Suffered with severe headache, backache and pains in my legs and under my shoulder blade. My kidneys and bladder were in bad condition. I was weak and nervous and felt tired and worn out. Walking made me short of breath. Every morning my face and hands were bloated. Medicines failed to help my condition and doctors advised an operation," writes Maggie Nelson, Mossdale, Fla. "Fortunately I read about Foley Kidney Pills, tried them and got relief." Lee & Osgood Co.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Kind to Organ Grinder.

Well, the Shady Forest folk certainly had a lovely time listening to the old organ grinder's music and when he had played all his tunes over three times and a half, Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot gave him a lettuce leaf hundred dollar bill. Wasn't that kind of the old gentleman rabbit?

Then Professor Jim Crow, taking out his little Wisdom Book, and turning to page nine, said:

"Listen, my friends—
He who loves music will ever be kind . . . .
It soothes the cross baby to rest;
To the fife and the drum, the soldiers will come,
And the birds fall asleep in their nest."

Just then Grandmother Magpie perched herself on the old organ grinder and asked him if he had come from Italy. She was such a curious

It was addressed to Mr Lucky Lefthindfoot old bird, you know, but the organ grinder only answered:

"Me no talka da English," and throwing his old organ over his left shoulder, started off for the Miller's cottage in Pond Lily Dell.

As soon as he was out of sight, the little forest folk returned to their duties and the two little rabbits hopped into the Luckymobile and drove away.

By and by, after a while, not so very long, they came to a big red sign at a railroad crossing on which was written in large letters—LOOK OUT FOR THE LOCOMOTIVE. Then, all of a sudden, a bell began to ring and a train of cars whizzed by. As the last car passed, the conductor threw a package into the Luckymobile.

"What's that?" asked Uncle Lucky, picking it up and would you believe it, it was addressed in pink ink to:

Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot,
Lettuce Ave., Carrot St.,
Rabbitville.

Untying the string, Uncle Lucky opened the package and found it contained a picture of a lovely little bunny girl who had won a Little Jack Rabbit book in the Picture Coloring Contest in the Bunnyville Gazette.

"Isn't that nice!" exclaimed the dear old gentleman rabbit. "Let's go back to my house and hang her picture in the parlor window!"

So off they drove and after a while they came to his little white house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street, Rabbitville, and in the next story you shall hear some more about Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit.

$1,479,064,313.92 AMERICA'S CLAIM AGAINST GERMANY

Has Been Presented to the Mixed Claims Commission for Settlement—Government is the Largest Claimant, Asking $366,113,000—Largest Individual Claim is Made by Roger B. McMullen, $100,000,000 for Alleged Patent Infringement—Largest Lusitania Claim is $5,000,000—Many Prominent Americans Are Among the Claimants.

Washington, May 20 (By the A. P.).—America's bill of war claims against Germany amounts to $1,479,064,313.92, as it has been presented to the mixed claims commission for settlement.

The United States government itself is the largest claimant, asking for $366,113,000, while the smallest of the 12,416 claims filed with the commission is for $1.

Heading the list of claims by individuals are those growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine. They total $22,606,000 and may be disposed of first by the commission, Germany having already admitted liability but not in definite amount.

The largest individual claims are $100,000,000 by Roger B. McMullen for alleged patent infringements, and one by William J. Quillon for $96,000,000 damages from German submarine warfare. Other large individual claims include: Carl Schiller, $11,362,000, entitled "consequence of war;" George R. Mosle, $2,000,000, submarine warfare and consequence of war, and Arkell & Douglas, $6,550,000, consequence of war.

The largest Lusitania claim is $5,000,000 for the death of Fred S. Pearson, plus $300,000 for the death of Mabel Ward Pearson. Other large Lusitania claims include those of heirs or estates of the following: Charles Klein, New York theatrical producer, $1,767,000; Justus Miles Forman, $100,000; Charles Frohman, another former New York theatre magnate, $250,000; Alfred G. Vanderbilt, $250,000, and Samuel and Solomon Friedman, $342,000. Most of the Lusitania claims range from $10,000 to $100,000.

In size of claims the principal claimants are American insurance, oil, shipping and manufacturing concerns.

Many prominent Americans are among the claimants, the list including: John Wanamaker, $97,504 for war risk premiums; Thomas A. Edison, $10,423, for property in Germany; Ford Motor company, $376,000, property in Germany and war risk premiums; Herbert Hoover & Sons company, $100, property in Germany; Theodore H. Kaelbur, Baltimore banker, former minister to Belgium, $36,868, property in Germany; Carl L. Schurz, $35,520, property in Germany; Albert W. Morris, $6,000,000, property in Germany; August Belmont & company, $40,055, property in Germany; Baruch & company, $3,566, property in Germany; Charles Edward Russell, $1,344, submarine warfare.

George Sylvester Viereck, former editor of "The Fatherland," and prominent in pre-war agitation, has a claim filed for $13,000 for property in Germany. Charles J. Vopicka of Chicago, former minister to the Balkans, claims for $3,000 for property in occupied territory.

Among women, the largest claim is presented by Ruth S. Maguire, of $5,000,000 for war risk premiums and submarine warfare.

Thousands of individual claims are for property in Germany and in occupied territory, names of claimants indicating German ancestry or relationship. The Association of American Holders of Foreign Securities has an omnibus claim of $21,000,000 based upon depreciation of German security values.

Manufacturers of submarine apparatus are claimants for many millions, alleging patent infringement, for which the Submarine Signal company asks $1,899,000, together with that for $100,000,000 by Roger B. McMullen, and for $1,112,000 by the Synthetic Patents company. The Dupont powder interests of Delaware have claims for more than $425,000 for war risk premiums and property in Germany, the Sperry Gyroscope company asks $5,000,000, and the Lake Torpedo Boat company $1,000,000 for alleged patent infringement.

Probably the largest number and amount of claims is by insurance companies, for indemnities and war risk premiums. Included are: Globe company, $7,500,000; Chubb & Son, $5,644,000; Atlantic, $5,106,000; Federal, $4,695,000; Aetna, $4,670,000; St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company, $4,154,000; Boston Insurance company, $3,310,000; United States Lloyds, $2,109,000; Firemen's, $2,500,000, and Equitable, $3,430,000.

Shipping companies also are heavily represented among the claimants for damages from submarine warfare, war risk premiums and other consequences of the war. Among those are the Luckenbach Steamship company, $25,739,000; American Union line, $2,303,000; American Transportation company, $1,948,000; Barber Steamship lines, $4,000,000; International Mercantile Marine, $1,946,000, and the Housatonic Steamship company, $570,000. The sinking of the steamer Housatonic was one of the acts which culminated in America's participation in the war.

Among oil companies, the larger claims are: Standard of New Jersey, $13,920,000 and $7,443,000; Standard of New York, $2,818,000; Inter-Ocean, $3,000,000; Vacuum, $4,794,000; Sun, $710,9000; Huasteca Petroleum company, $100,000,000.

The Guaranty Trust company of New York has the largest bank claim, aggregating about $9,500,000, for property in Germany. Speyer & company have like claims of $310,000, and the National City bank, $410,000.

Among the packers, Swift & company head the list with claims of $33,400,000 from submarine warfare and war risk premiums. Edward F. Swift has claims for $20,500,000; L. F. Swift, $872,000; G. F. Swift, Jr., $195,000; Charles H. Swift, $313,000, and the estate of Anna M. Swift, $457,000; the Hammond Packing company seeks $9,176,000; Armour & company, $5,775,000; Wilson & company, $2,809,000; Plankington Packing company, $3,536,000.

Other claims include: International Harvester company, $10,572,000, and $3,465,000; American Smelting and Refining company, $2,755,000; Singer Sewing Machine company, $11,500,000; American Radiator company, $3,350,000; United Shoe Machinery company, $3,913,000; Southern States Cotton corporation, $1,000,000; Corn Products company, $1,890,000; Methodist Foreign Missions Board, $1,115, for war risk premiums, and the Russian volunteer fleet, $98,419 for war risk premiums.

ANDERSON ATTACKS DR. NICHOLAS M. BUTLER

Syracuse, N. Y., May 20.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, who is now abroad, was made the target of an attack tonight by William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League who spoke at a community meeting in Calvary Baptist church.

Dr. Butler, Mr. Anderson said, "has launched a new tirade against prohibition. There is a report that he has a secret reason for his venom.

"Will Dr. Butler ask the United States attorney for the southern district of New York to state publicly the amount of truth in the report that Dr. Butler's own personal plumbing has been ruffed sufficiently with respect to the enforcement of the law to intensify its evirth already in his disposition on this question?

"Dr. Butler knows what I mean, whether he will admit it or not, and there are others who know what I mean, even if wets are shielded where drys come in for undue publicity. And if Dr. Butler insists that he does not know and asks me to do so, I will tell the public what this report is."

The "new tirade against prohibition" referred to, Mr. Anderson said, was an interview Dr. Butler gave to the New York World shortly before he sailed for Europe.

Mr. Anderson quoted the Columbia head as saying in that interview:

"The prohibition mania is the most violent and obnoxious form of intemperance that I have ever known. Its spirit and its methods are those of the Salem witch burners of the seventeenth century. It has no regard for the constitution save the eighteenth amendment, and no regard for law save the Volstead act."

WOULD HAVE ALL OFFICIALS PLEDGE TOTAL ABSTENINCE

Kansas City, Mo., May 21.—To guarantee the enforcement of the prohibition law, a pledge of total abstinence for the president of the United States, his cabinet, members of congress and other public officials was urged by William Jennings Bryan in an address before the annual convention of the Southern Baptists here last night. Mr. Bryan also included members of the churches and faculties and students of colleges.

"There was a time when I supposed that law enforcement would never be a problem in this country," Mr. Bryan declared. "I thought it was the ideal of our government that the minority should acquiesce to the will of the majority."

BRYAN WOULD REGULATE MINISTERS, TEACHERS, PUPILS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 21.—(By The A. P.)—Presbyterians in "popular meeting" today unanimously endorsed a resolution presented by William Jennings Bryan, calling on the general assembly of the church in session here, to pass a resolution asking every Presbyterian minister and church member and the presidents, teachers and pupils in all of the denominations, schools, colleges, seminaries, to sign a pledge of total abstinence.

As outlined by the commoner, he proposes that every minister first sign the pledge, that every church officer and finally every church member. In the denominational colleges, he would start with the presidents, then the faculty, and finally put the pledge before every student.

The Bryan resoution, which he will present tomorrow to the assembly, of which he is a member, came as the climax of a mass meeting under the auspices of the Presbyterian committees on Sabbath observance and prohibition and public morals.

Prohibition violation, Sunday golf and baseball; Saturday night theatre going and the size of the Sunday newspapers were attacked by Mr. Bryan and other speakers, representing the Lord's Day Alliance. The hall, which seats about 2,500, was crowded.

STRIKE OF 10,000 PAINTERS HAS BEEN AVERTED

New York, May 20.—A strike of 10,000 painters in New York and 22 neighboring cities, which was scheduled to begin tomorrow, was averted today when employers met all union demands. The settlement was effected after a conference of three days.

Under the new agreement, the painters receive a wage increase of $1 a day and in addition were granted a five day week. The new wage scale will be $10 a day, it was said, to continue to Dec. 31, 1923. The remainder of the agreement continues to Dec. 31, 1924.

A board of arbitration, composed of one representative each from employers, building trades council, painters' union and interior decorators, was appointed to settle the employers demand for a clause forbidding sympathetic strikes.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM COUNCIL TO MEET TODAY

Washington, May 20.—The regular quarterly session of the federal reserve advisory system will convene here tomorrow, facing what is regarded by some officials as the most important programme for discussion that has been laid before the council in many months. The meeting, expected to last two days, will be behind closed dors.

The reserve board has made several public statements on the situation which were interpreted by some as warning against too rapid employment of credit and undue expansion in commerce and industry. The advisory council it appears certain, will go into every phase of the situation.

Shoe Workers' Strike In Brockton Expands

Factories May be Compelled to Close Down This Week—Strikers Now Number $5,300.

Brockton, Mass., May 20.—Nearly 2,000 shoe workers voted to join the strike here precipitated last week by the dressers and packers local. This brought the number of strikers to 5,300, according to available figures. Those voting today were the cutters, with a membership approximately 300.

It was said tonight that the Brockton factories would be compelled to close down this week, as the trades now involved in the strike represent essential processes of manufacture. The stitchers, a body with a large membership, held a mass meeting today and decided to take a strike vote at another meeting Tuesday night. Officers said these workers would join in the walkout.

In this city there are about 13,000 shoe workers. There are 22,000 in the so-called Old Colony district, which includes Whitman, Abington, Rockald, Bridgewater, Stoughton, South Braintree and Weymouth, as well as this city. The strike so far is confined to Brockton.

The cutters and skivers voted to secede from the Boot and Shoe Workers union, the controlling union organization here nad to have nothing further to do with the state board of conciliation and arbitration. They demanded restoration of a 10 per cent. wage cut made last year and and an additional 10 per cent. increase based on the existing scale.

Each local that has joined the movement has followed the lead of the dressers and packers in demanding this wage increase and asking for abrogation of an agreement between the boot and shoe workers' union and the manufacturers whereby all disputes are referred to the state board of conciliation and arbitration. Each has also voted to secede from the boot and shoe workers' union, which has controlled the labor in the factories for years and has contracts with the factories under which the latter may employ none but members of the union in good standing.

Unions now on strike are the dressers and packers, treers, edgemakers, lasters, cutters and skivers. Meetings will be held tomorrow to organize a new central organization to supplant to supplant the boot and shoe workers' union.

IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITION OF REPRESENTATIVE KITCHIN

Wilson, N. C., May 20.—Slight improvement in the condition of Representative Claud Kitchin, former democratic leader in the house of representatives was reported tonight by physicians in attendance. Mr. Kitchin, who has been a patient at a hospital here for several weeks is suffering with stomach trouble.

REVIEW SHOWS PRODUCTION MAINTAINED AT HIGH LEVEL

New York, May 20 (By the A. P.).—A steadier sentiment was apparent in financial and business quarters during the past week. For one thing, it was evident that the principal speculative markets were displaying a firmer tone, liquidation of a pressing character having ceased, and short selling having considerably improved technical conditions. Although extreme quietness prevailed during the greater part of the week, total sales on the New York stock exchange amounting to only about a half million dollars on Friday, this condition was considered a natural result of recent weakness, and some signs of a rallying tendency were noted.

For example, the copper market, which has been quiet for some time, and has been sagging in sympathy with prices at London, stopped in its decline and strengthened appreciably. Some quarters maintained that this market is now in good position to respond to a resumption of buying as old contracts run out. According to this view, the general reaction in prices is an entirely normal reflection of a halt between buying movements. Such observers expect commodity prices again to stiffen as preparations are made for the fall trade. In general, however, the feeling is that it is still too early to judge whether the recent reaction has quite run its course.

That the effect on the general level of the falling prices which have been holding the attention of the business community will be less than might be expected is argued on the basis of the behavior of the index published by the department of labor. The departments index for all commodities during April is unchanged as compared with March. Aside from a reaction in coal prices and in those of farm products, all of the individual groups of the index were higher. It was pointed out that the increases have taken place in those commodities in which labor costs play a large part, and it was assumed on this basis that recent wage advances will be a sustaining factor. In fact, it is claimed that it is haw materials prices which have reacted and that these reactions have come in response to uncertainty over the effect of higher wages.

Production meanwhile is being maintained at a level which approximates the best rate of the year.

ATLANTIC CITY CHAIR PUSHER ROBBED WOMAN

Atlantic City, N. J., May 20.—As Mrs. J. F. Boyle of Oswego, N. BONAR LAW HAS RESIGNED AS PREMIER OF GREAT BRITAIN

Action Followed Examination by Medical Advisers—King George Will Summon One of the Conservative Leaders to Form a New Cabinet—It is Generally Conceded That Marquis Curzon Will be the Next Premier—Perplexing Problems Will Confront the New Cabinet, Particularly Great Britain's Relations With France and Russia.

London, May 20.—(By the A. P.)—Andrew Bonar Law, the prime minister, sent his resignation to the king tonight because of ill health. He was unable to present it personally. Thus ends his brief, but eventful administration, and it ends with important and perplexing problems particularly Great Britain's relations with France and Russia, unsettled.

The king will summon one of the convervative leaders to form a new cabinet. It is generally accepted that Marquis Curzon will be the next premier.

The crisis comes upon the government in the midst of the holiday, when parliament is dispersed and new members of the government are in London.

Two days ago, when the result of Mr. Bonar Law's consultation with physicians in Paris became known. This end was foreseen, but the country was not prepared for it and will await developments with anxiety and regrets over the untimely dropping of a trusted pilot.

One consolation, it is generally conceded Mr. Bonar Law will have, is that he has no enemies and that no one will withhold from his sympathy. He accepted his high office with reluctance; he leaves it amidst unfeigned regrets on the part of both supporters and opponents.

Mr. Bonar Law's resignation was taken to the king at Aldershot by Colonel Waterhouse, the prime minister's private secretary, and Sir Frederick Sykes, his son-in-law, who motored from London. They had a lengthy audience with the king, who appeared much moved by the news of the aggravated condition of Mr. Bonar Law's health.

It is officially stated that the king has no intention of interrupting his visit to Aldershot. In any case, if necessity arises, he is only an hour's drive from London. According to present plans he will return to Buckingham palace Friday.

Up to a late hour tonight the king had not summoned any minister with respect to the premiership. Mr. Bonar Law's decision to resign came so suddenly that there was little opportunity for the king to communicate with the ministers.

Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, returned to London suddenly from the country Saturday night, and this gave rise to the belief that it was in connection with the premiership, but he returned to Chequers Court, the prime minister's summer residence, today without disclosing the object of his trip. Lord Curzon is at his seat in Somerset and is not expected to return before Wednesday unless summoned by the king.

While Curzon is looked upon as the likely successor of Mr. Bonar Law, Chancelor Baldwin is mentioned prominently. During the prime minister's absence from London he has combined the leadership of the house of commons with his other office. He is recognized as one of the ablest members of the government, is personally liked and has been more than once suggested as a possible premier should a vacancy occur. He is not credited with any special ambition for the premiership, however, although it is assumed that he would respond to anything like a general call from his party.

When approached at Criccieth tonight, Mr. Lloyd George said he did not wish to comment on Mr. Bonar Law's resignation at the moment. He added that he would reserve any comment until Tuesday, when he would address his constituency.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the labor opposition in the house of commons, said: "It comes as a great shock of surprise to me. The first thought one has is purely personal—sorrow for the serious condition of Mr. Bonar Law's health. I find it difficult to express the deep regret I feel that he should be incapacitated after so short a tenure of office.

Field Marshal Earl Haig, who was attending a dinner of the British Legion when he learned of the prime minister's resignation, said: "I am greatly grieved. Mr. Bonar Law was a great statesman; he did splendid work during the war. He is a fine broadminded, honest gentleman and a good Scotchman and all my sympathy goes out to him."

It was stated late this evening that Mr. Bonar Law's condition was slightly improved after his rest following upon the journey from Paris. Dr. Horder, his special physician, has gone to the country for a few days, and is not expected to return to London before Thursday. This would seem to suggest that the diagnosis of Mr. Bonar Law's disability has been completed, and in a way is taken to mean that the need of continued medical supervision has become less urgent.

BONAR LAW'S THROAT TROUBLE NOT MALIGNANT

London, May 20.—Mr. Bonar Law's throat trouble is not malignant. This, says the Times parliamentary correspondent, can be stated with authority, and there is every reason to hope that his health will in time be restored.

It is understood that he will not resign his seat in parliament and will thus remain a member of the house of commons, anyway until the dissolution of the present parliament. It is definitely decided that his political career is closed.

The next step is with the king, who alone decides upon whom to entrust with the formation of the new ministry. His decision probably will be made known Monday.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF SOCIALIST PARTY

New York, May 20.—The socialist party at the second day session of its annual national convention today unanimously rejected the appeal of the workers party, the American branch of the communist movement, for a "united front." A resolution adopted by the delegates charging the communist internationale with "having sowed hatreds and dissensions among the working classes," to the detriment of the socialist party.

The convention reaffirmed the socialist party's position in the favor of recognition of the Russian soviet government declaring that "differences in working class organizations never justify support of the common enemy."

Continued alliance with progressive groups seeking to bring about the formation of a national labor party was favored. James O'Neal socialist lecturer and writer, reported on the conference of these factions in Cleveland last September at which the formation of such a party was recommended in another resolution.

Eugene V. Debs, the party's candidate for president in a number of campaigns, arrived in the city today but did not attend the session. He was the guest at a banquet given by the delegates tonight.

MAY NOT PRESS CRIMINAL ACTION AGAINST DEFAULTER

New York, May 20.—Directors of the General Carbonic Gas Company may not press criminal action against its missing former president, Harry E. Pettee, alleged defaulter of $300,000, Henry W. Somers, newly elected president, declared in a telephonic interview from Saratoga Springs today. The directors will meet next Thursday to consider action, he said.

"I don't see anything to be gained by a criminal procedure," Somers said. "As far as the Carbonic Gas Company is concerned. I personally feel Pettee's personal creditors are more interested in his apprehension."

Somers said he did not believe that Pettee had ended his life or that there was a "woman in the case."

In conformity with a state wide bundle day campaign of the Near East Relief bundles will be accepted from Willimantic and suburbs on Tuesday, May 22 to the end of the month. The plea for assistance issued by the relief reads as follows: Old clothing, overcoats, blankets, shoes, everything that has the power to keep out the cold or offer protection is wanted.

The only hope these thousands of sufferers have lies in this organization. Clean out the attic, go through the clothes closets and see if you cannot make up a saleable bundle to help these destitute people. As it will be impossible to place a personnel for this work in the smaller communities, it is suggested that donors send small bundles of clothing by parcel post to the Near East Relief, state headquarters, 750 Main street, Hartford, and larger bundles ship to the Near East Relief, U. S. Army Base, Brooklyn, N. Y.

One may leave bundles at the Y. M. C. A. building as they have done for several years past.

William Carroll of No. 24, Mowry avenue, Norwich, will be arraigned in the local police court Tuesday morning, May 22, on the charge of reckless driving. Carroll was arrested about midnight Saturday night by Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria, who will testify that the accused was driving at a reckless speed through the city streets.

William Whiton and Arthur Treat, both local men were placed under arrest about 9.30 o'clock Saturday night by Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs, assisted by Police Officer Larvierre, and Motorcycle Officer Bombria after approximately five gallons of cider had been found in a wagon in which the men were riding. Whiton and Trea were proceeding along Bank street when stopped by the officers. Search of the vehicle disclosed several containers filled with allegede hard cider which is being retained for evidence. The pair will be brought before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson at Norwich later this week.

About 7 o'clock Sunday morning the local police department was notified that a disturbance was taking place at the home of Harry Bushura, No. 36 Ives street. When Lieutenant McArthur and Officer Larrieverre arrived on the scene they were told that three window panes had just been broken by a man named Joseph Arson. Arson was found in an intoxicated condition in the house and was escorted to the police station. He will appear in court Monday morning. The police are investigating the affair and further arrests may ensue.

NO ACTION TAKEN AT WILLIMANTIC TOWN MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, May 2.—The special town meeting held Saturday afternoon in the town building lasted but 12 minutes and the votes taken were cast in the taking of no action on either of the two clauses of the warning.

First Selectman Russell A. Andrews was chosen moderator and the call was read by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton to an audience of about forty voters.

The first clause was to see of the town would vote to authorize and instruct the school committee to provide transportation to and from Windham High school of any pupil attending the high school and residing within the limits of the town or pay the whole or part of the transportation at a reasonable cost. Eugene J. Randall made a motion that the meeting take no action on the question.

Things began to happen while the moderator was asking for action on the motion and Town Counsel Thomas J. Kelley walked into the hall and started to read a resolution providing that the school committee provide transportation for high school pupils living at a distance over two miles from the school within the town limits, to be carried by a regular stated mode of conveyance and not by private individuals at a moderate cost.

Having read the resolution Attorney Kelley began to explain the resolution, when he was interrupted by Mr. Randall who called out that there was a motion before the house and furthermore that the furnishing of transportation for children meant more city taxes. "Anyhow," said Mr. Randall, "I do not think it is Mr. Kelley's place to offer a resolution of the kind."

Mr. Kelley's reply was that he was unaware that there was a motion before the house but if there was he did not think that it should prevent him from having some voice in the meeting. He very pointedly stated that special town meetings were not held for the benefit of one individual or to hear the views of one individual. H. C. Lathrop questioned Mr. Kelley as to what sections of the town would be affected if the resolution was adopted. Randall remarked that if the resolution was adopted it would mean more work and criticism of the school committee. The meeting voted to take no action, one voice being heard in opposition.

Besides refusing to provide transportation for the town children to the high school the meeting also voted to take no action on the second clause which read as follows: "To see if the town would vote to authorize and instruct the selectmen of the town to erect and build an overhanging sidewalk on one side of the bridge across the Natchaug river, on the highway leading from Willimantic to North Windham." No discussions were heard on the matter. A motion made by Eugene Randall that no action be taken, was adopted with one dissenting vote.

HOW TO KEEP FIT AT 72

Sprightly Old Man Reveals the Secret

"I am 72 years old, and much more vigorous and active than most men of my age. I know that my excellent condition is due to the fact that I take two or three doses of Wincarnis every day, because I never felt as well before I began taking it. I used to tire very quickly and suffer from wakefulness and had to bundle myself up whenever it was damp or drafty. But since I began taking Wincarnis I have had the energy and endurance of a middle-aged man, sleep soundly and withstand the severest of weather. I have noticed that Wincarnis keeps my appetite keen and that it strengthens my nerves and heart. If my fingers tremble and my heart flutters or I feel symptoms of depression or weakness, a dose of Wincarnis gives me relief within a few minutes."

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Four young women riding in a Ford automobile had a narrow escape from serious injury Friday night when the car in which they were riding on the road between Staffordville and Hydeville was struck by a car operated by Allen McLagan and going toward Staffordville. The Ford car was being operated by Miss Agnes Pancless and she was accompanied by her sister, Miss Eline Pancless. Miss Florence Freeman and Miss Violet Campo. One wheel on the Pancless car was badly damaged and the car was turned part way around on the road. The running board and mudguard on the McLagan car were damaged.

Mr. McLagan was arrested by State Policeman Citron and ordered to report in the borough court Saturday morning. He was charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty to the operating while under the influence of liquor and not guilty to the charge of reckless driving. Miss Acnes Panciera testified that their car was proceeding moderately on the right side of the road when the McLagan car coming in the opposite direction crashed into them. The road where the accident happened is wide and there is ample room for two cars to pass. The road where the accident happened is in what is known as the Hydeville woods.

After hearing the evidence Judge Heald imposed a fine of $100 for driving while intoxicated and $25 for reckless driving, together with the costs, making a total of $135.88, which was paid by John McLagan, the young man's father.

Daniel Loreé charged with operating an automobile on March 29th while under the influence of liquor, was represented by Attorney W. A. King, of Willimantic. He demurred to the complaint and Judge Heald imposed a fine of $100 and costs. Mr. Loree took an appeal to the June term of the Tolland county superior court.

THE MAYONNAISE THAT'S "POSITIVELY DIFFERENT"

BIG DOCKET FOR NEW LONDON CITY COURT SESSION TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, May 20.—When the police court convenes tomorrow morning Judge Prince will have one of the largest dockets before him that has occurred in a long time. Tonight there were 15 cases awaiting disposition, and these comprise automobile violations, liquor selling, keeping a house of illfame, and its cuenning.

Edward M. Bray of Hartford was taken into custody this afternoon on Broad street for violation of the automobile law. He will be arraigned in the police court tomorrow forenoon. Bray was arrested by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock when the former was detected driving at a fast rate of speed at intersecting highways and not giving a signal.

Ezekiel Spitz, manager of the City Coal Company, complained to the police that one Sheros Vetter, an auctioneer, had committed a breach of the peace by abusive language and that he had also violated section 24 of the motor vehicle laws of the state in failing to show Mr. Spitz his license when the coal man demanded to see it. Vetter's machine had been in collision with the Spitz auto and Mr. Spitz blamed Vetter for the mishap. He demanded to see his operating license that he might bring the matter to the attention of the police department. Then, he says, Vetter abused him shamefully by calling him the vilest of names and using such language as would not be countenanced anywhere. The evidence was sufficient to convict Vetter had he not claimed that there were witnesses of the affair who would deny what Spitz claimed and who would disclose that Vetter offered to show his license to Mr. Spitz. To give these witnesses a chance to come forward the case was put over till Monday morning.

Frank Knight, a negro chauffeur from Colchester, was charged with operating an auto without having taken out a license so to do. Officer Roderick and he demanded that Knight should show him his operating license and that Knight could not produce one. Knight admits that he has claimed that a lady who was in the car with him possessed a license and that she would have shown it if it was demanded. That put a different phase on the matter and Knight was given a chance to show that what he says as to the woman's license is true.

William Walsh of Howard street, Miss Emma Cote of Phillips street and George Hatcock of Uncasville, were patients discharged at Lawrence Memorial hospital Saturday.

George E. Schreck, employed by the American Surety Company of Hartford, was taken into custody on a charge preferred by Traffic Patrolman John Courtney, charged with interfering with an officer and has been ordered to appear for trial in the police court Monday morning.

Schreck, one of two passengers in an automobile that was arrested when the automobile was held up by Officer Courtney on the corner of State and Bank streets and when the driver of the machine violated the law by refusing to stop when signaled to do so by the officer, attempted to explain the position to the officer and while doing so, Schreck is alleged to have assaulted the officer and informed the driver to start the car and go on without courtesy. The driver did so and it was then that Schreck was taken into custody.

Complaint has been made to the police because of the high speed attained by automobiles on Ocean avenue, one of the several avenues in the city, whose automobile drivers delight in "stepping on it." Because of the light amount of traffic on that avenue and also because of the many intersecting highways, residents have requested the police to put a stop to the speeding practice. One fellow named Brown was hailed to the police station when it was reported he had operated his car through the avenue at a speed of forty miles an hour. Brown denied the charge and he was placed on his freedom with a caution as to the speed at which he should operate his car hereafter.

Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe of the New London police department, who City Manager James E. Barlow attempted to oust from the position at the meeting of the city council last Monday night, claiming that the veteran officer was no longer competent to fulfill the duties of the position, resumed his duties as head of the night force tonight. Lieutenant Beebe stated tonight that he feels almost as strong as before he was taken ill by neuritis several weeks ago and believes that now that he is at his post again his strength will return rapidly with the activity he will undergo in the performance of his duties.

Mrs. Josephine Klumberg, residing at 11 Pearl street, this city, will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Matthewson at Norwich Monday forenoon to answer to a charge of having and operating a still at her home. Josie was not outside of any three-mile limit even for she was only two blocks away from the police station. She would have been unmolested now but for accident that sent the police to her home in search of Felix Novak, a fellow wanted for a swindling scheme in selling counterfeit-money machines. Somebody gave the police a "tip" that a fellow supposed to be Novak was at the Klumberg house so the police went there. They found no trace of Novak, but in hunting about the house they discovered the still in operation. Mrs. Klumberg admitted that she was making a beverage for her own consumption and that of her husband, who is employed at the plant of the Ship and Engine company in Groton. She holds that she has a right to make the stuff and that she will claim that right in court. The stuff tested only 5 per cent of alcohol. It is understood that the police department had received anonymous letters claiming the Klumberg house was a place where the prohibition laws were being violated, but the persons who wrote the letters kept in the dark and the police officers do not know who the writers are.

The operator's license of J. F. Murphy of No. 10 Alger Place has been suspended by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins S. Stoeckel. Murphy was formerly connected with the revenue department at New London.

James Andrews of No. 33 Elm street reported to the police Saturday his garage on Prest street was entered Friday night and a battery stolen from his automobile.

Anna C. and Esther C. Carey have sold a house and lot on Thames street to Harry H. and Mary R. Knowlton.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins E. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of H. C. Taylor to be suspended by the Groton Taxi company, which was suspended earlier in the week to be returned.

Mrs. Henry G. Keeney and daughter, Miss Beth Keeney, the latter assistant city clerk spent the week-end with relatives in New Haven, making the trip by automobile.

An automobile, owned by A. Scher & Co., and operated by Joseph Vivian of No. 120 Shaw street, struck and slightly injured John Zezeck of No. 161 North Bank street Saturday afternoon at the corner of Main and Douglass streets. An examination of the youngster by a physician revealed that the victim had sustained injuries no more serious than slight cuts and bruises. The boy was playing with companions and darted into the street just as the machine was about to pass.

The funeral of Rev. Michael J. Cray, whose death occurred several days ago at his home, No. 11 Gorton street, took place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large throng of mourners. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William Keefe of Torrington, assisted by Rev. John Fitzmaurice of Waterbury, as deacon, Rev. John McCabe of Jewett City, sub-deacon, and Rev. William Finn of Hartford, master of ceremonies.

The bearers were Edward and William Lezarde and Harry, George, James and Frank Kennedy, nephews of the deceased. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Crowley.

Summer cars were operated for the first time this season today by the Connecticut Company. The cars were run on the main line and carried a large throng of Sunday visitors to Ocean Beach.

An automobile, owned and operated by Henry Verkade of No. 2 Crocker street, struck an unidentified man on Montauk avenue Friday night. The victim, who escaped with bruises, refused to reveal his name.

An automobile owned and operated by Edward J. McEnaney of No. 17 Alger street and a car owned and driven by Charles Facas of No. 35 Church street, were in collision Saturday afternoon in Bank street. Both cars were damaged, but not extensively. Facas was complained against by McEnaney, the latter asserting that the collision was due to Facas' failure to give a signal that he was about to stop. As a result of the complaint, Facas was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and defend a charge of violation of the automobile laws.

A five-ton automobile truck, owned by the government and a part of the equipment at the submarine base, crashed against a high wooden fence on Main street, near the corner of Crystal avenue, Saturday morning, the fence being considerably damaged, but the truck escaping disfigurement. The operator of the truck attributed the accident to a failure of the steering gear to function properly.

J. T. O'Connell was ordered today to appear in the police court Monday by Patrolman Edward Daniels for violation of the automobile laws for speeding, the alleged law infraction occurring on Montauk avenue yesterday.

Motorcycle Officer John Cavanaugh today detected two autoists speeding on Broad street and ordered both violators of the law to appear in the police court Monday morning. One of the autoists was Gleason Allhouse of Granby, who was operating a truck on Broad street and the other was Silvino P. Radiconi of No. 4 School place, Mystic. Radiconi was also operating his machine on Broad street at rate exceeding that allowed by law.

Santos Ballestrini, a youth of No. 21 Smith street, was taken into custody by the New Haven police this afternoon as a runaway. The New London police were informed of the arrest of Ballestrini and communicated with the boy's parents, who will arrange for the return of the young man.

Susie Saunders, residing at No. 111 Potter street, was arrested this morning by Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond, on a charge of conducting a house of ill fame. The accused was arrested following complaint of Fred Peltier of No. 57 Lewis street, who alleged that another resident of the house, Clara Rivers, had robbed him of a gold watch valued at $60 and a $10 gold piece attached to the chain and used as a charm.

Peltier was also arrested as a frequenter of the place and on a charge of breach of the peace in attempting to gain entrance to the house by force, Joe Prater was taken into custody on complaint of the Saunders woman. Neither of the trio could furnish a bond for their appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, so they were locked up pending the holding of court.

Peltier alleges that he went to the home of the Saunders woman late last night and while in the company of the Rivers woman, his watch was removed from his vest that was suspended from a hanger in one of the rooms. When he failed to recover his property he proceeded to the police station and lodged complaint against the Rivers woman. Detective Hammond was assigned to the case and with the apprehension of the proprietress of the place, Peltier was taken into custody and Prater, who had been endeavoring to gain admission to the house following Peltier's complaint was arrested.

Jessie Maynard and Anna Bennett Kennedy Erickson went to the Hartford rooming house, No. 96 Green street about 2 o'clock this morning in an intoxicated condition. After gaining admission to the place the couple were so boisterous that the proprietor, Joseph Birenbaum, could not induce them to leave the place and he complained to the police against the couple. Patrolmen Clarence Wells and David Nagle were assigned to the case and arrested the pair.

Mrs. Clitilda Frausini of No. 93 Smith street was taken into custody this afternoon when a squad of police in charge of Sergeant Nelson Smith swooped down on the place and raided it, the officers being armed with a search warrant issued by Judge Victor Prince on information lodged with him by Sergeant Smith that liquor was being sold at that place. A quantity of home brew, alcohol and home made wine was seized and with the raid having started a party of fifteen or twenty drinkers was broken up. Mrs. Frausini was held in bonds of $300 for her appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, Antone Manghi becoming surety on the bond.

Sergeant Smith, accompanied by Patrolmen Frank Linehan, Frank Philopena, Augustus Ray and Edward Daniels went to the Smith street house by automobile and reaching the place, the officers surrounded the entrances. Mrs. Frausini peered through one of the windows when she heard an alarm at the door and observing the officers, she attempted to destroy the liquor and refused to admit the raiders. The door was forced and the home brew beer and several receptacles containing the wine were found, while buried in the yard was found a five gallon can partially filled with alcohol.

Charles R. Maynard, a painter, who claims to have a residence in Providence, but who has been employed in New London about two months, was found very drunk on Howard street by Officers Braxton Hill and was arrested. Maynard gave Hill a tussle to get him to the police station and in fighting the officer he bit him on the hand so that a surgeon was sought to cauterize the wound.

Maynard claimed a good reputation and his employer was in court to substantiate what he said. Maynard was fined for his indiscretion. Edward Gunda was also fined for intoxication. He tackled the same sort of fighting fluid that Maynard tried.

GRUNBY MUST ANSWER DIAMOND THEFT CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, May 20.—Frank Grunby, alias Harry Nelson, now serving a prison sentence in Pittsburgh, will be brought back to New London within a few days to answer a charge of diamond theft. Grunby is concluding the sentence imposed in Pittsburgh and will be re-arrested when the prisoner is liberated by Detective Sergeant Charles Hammond, who will leave New London Monday supplied with extradition papers and a warrant for the return of Grunby to this city.

Grunby entered the store of N. M. Ruddy last August and requested to be showed some diamonds. He was given a tray of the stones to inspect and while the attendant's attention was temporarily taken from the prospective customer, Grunby secreted one of the stones about his person and left the store, it is claimed, making an excuse that he would return after he had made a decision to purchase.

After Grunby had left the store a short time it was discovered that a stone was missing from the tray. The police were notified, but all trace of him was lost until Grunby was arrested and sentenced in Pittsburgh for the crime of larceny.

MACHINES CRASH AT MYSTIC — TWO HURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

Mystic, May 20—As the result of an automobile accident which occurred here Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock on Dudley street hill Mrs. Myra Archer and her little son received severe bruises and lacerations.

The Dodge sedan owned and driven by Frank Castagna of Mystic was proceeding down the hill and Mrs. Myra Archer of Westerly was about to make the blind corner at the foot of the hill when the two cars came together. Both cars were badly damaged, the Ford car being towed to a local garage for repairs.

Mrs. Archer was taken to the home of Mrs. Dudley where she received medical treatment by Dr. Allyn of Mystic.

Hamden—A new mark was set as a record for the number of visits made by the local visiting nurses during the past month, and according to the report offered at the meeting of the directors of the Public Health and Nursing association the local nurses registered 778 calls for the month.

Broadway Theatre.

William de Mille's superb Paramount picturization of the stage success, Grumpy, was shown for the first time to an enthusiastic audience at the Broadway theatre last night.

Theodore Roberts has the role of Andrew Bullivant, an irascible but big-hearted old man, called Grumpy. He favors the marriage of his granddaughter, Virginia, and Ernest Heron when the latter proves himself worthy of her. But, as fate decrees, Ernest is intrusted with a valuable diamond, which is stolen from him at the Bullivant home, and he cannot face his employers. Chamberlain Jarvis, who is the robber, hopes to win Virginia. But Jarvis had not counted on interference from Grumpy, who follows clew after clew. A gardenia is the evidence necessary for convicting Jarvis, but there are three of them. Which is which? The solution is brought about in a most interesting manner.

The role of Virginia is admirably played by May McAvoy, while Conrad Nagel is the unjustly accused Heron. This production finds Theodore Roberts at his best. The comedy is well worth seeing.

At St. John in Cleaning Up also scored and a Hy Mayer Travelogue completed the bill.

There will be the usual five acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville at the Broadway the last half of this week, including William Duncan in When Danger Smiles.

The Strand.

When Edith Wharton wrote her famous novel, The Glimpses of the Moon, a story of the means, manners and mode of living of the rich, little did she think, perhaps, of the expense and trouble she was going to cause Paramount when it undertook the job of translating her story for the screen.

In a novel it is easy to move characters from Lake Como to Venice, thence to Paris and St. Moritz, Florida and New York with a few sentences, but erecting such settings for a motion picture is another thing.

Allen Dwan's Paramount production of The Glimpses of the Moon, which will be on view at the Strand theatre today, is just one lavish setting after another in which piquant Bebe Daniels, statuesque Nita Naldi, Rubye de Remer, David Powell, Charles Gerrard and Maurice Costello move in the portrayal of the characters of this many angled drama.

For the Altringham villa in Paris there was built a drawing room of the Louis XV style, a picture gallery done in French Gothic, a music room of Marie Antoinette mode, and a beautiful hallway that occupied more than half of the huge studio stage.

The Vanderlyn palace in Venice, wherer much of the action of the story takes place, is an exact reproduction of the interior of an old Vermtial palace and is of Italian renaissance style of architecture. For rare beauty of setting nothing that has been done at the studio has surpassed the room in the Gillow home in New York where Susan Branch's "million dollar" wedding takes place.

A section of the Venetian canals was constructed in the studio for the exterior scenes in Venice. Eighteen inches of water flower through the street on which gondolas were propelled. A lodge at St. Moritz and a street in Passy also were built for scenes in the picture.

In addition to all of these scenes, Mr. Dwan took his entire company to Miami, Florida, for three weeks, where beach and yacht scenes were filmed. And this is not the half of it. All the characters had to dress to fit their lavish and costly surroundings, which necessitated the purchase of a score of expensive gowns for the women principals.

Larry Semon's latest comedy, The Agent, and a News Weekly will also be on view.

"GOLDEN KEY" PAGEANT TONIGHT AT SLATER HALL

The presentation of the Golden Key by the Norwich Americanization Institute at Slater Hall tonight is an event of so vital importance that no citizen of Norwich can afford to miss it.

The play is written by the well known writer, Josephine Thorpe of New York city, and has ben given there with overwhelming success.

The one hundred or more local talents of Norwich are to be gratefully thanked for their laborious work in the preparations of The Golden Key.

Beside the play itself you will also have the pleasure of listening to special local mixed quartets singing behind the scenes and also the much-talked Norwich Harmony Quartette which is about to begin their tour throughout the country, will give one of their best selections.

ERRORS IN FIRST INNING GIVES WARE VICTORY OVER NORWICH TEAM

Once again Ware conquered Norwich on the baseball field. The team from the little Bay State town came to Norwich Sunday and was presented a 9 to 4 victory by the Norwich team. The first inning was a heartbreaker for local supporters of the team for in this inning three runs were given Ware by errors, again in the third inning another run was presented to the visitors and in the ninth a fifth was the donation of the local team. But even with all the costly errors there was some good hitting and some fast fielding and on the whole it was a good game to watch.

Dave Hillis, former Rochester player, contributed largely to the fielding sensations and Lester Lee playing in the outfield made a number of spectacular catches. Gene Berry was the hitting sensation of the game getting a triple, a double and a single on four times at bat, sharing the hitting honors of the game with Mickey Flaherty, the Alligator backstop.

The first inning which sent gloom into the hearts of the Norwich fans started off with Kamyck hitting the first offering of Chippie Gaw high into the air over third. Spillane was set under the ball and made a miserable muff of it letting Kamyck get safe. Bennett singled and Lafortune filed out to Lee. Then Putnam hit close to the second base and Hillis let the ball go through his legs with a wonderful chance for a double play staring him in the face. Kamyck scored on Hillis' error. Bowen hit safely scoring Bennett and Putnam. The next two hitters went out on foul flies to Bengen. However the local hopes rose when with two out Berry singled. Lee followed suit and Nichols filled the bases by passing Hillis. Eddie Hart, former Waterbury first sacker singled scoring Berry and Lee.

Ware was held scoreless in the second inning while Norwich tied up the count. Bergen the first man up was passed but Gaw forced Bergen at second. Spillane fanned and Faulkner advanced Gaw with a single. This brought up Berry again with two out. Berry drove one along the right field foul line for two bases scoring Gaw. This ended the scoring for the locals until the final frame.

Ware stepped out in the lead again in the fourth inning. After Putnam had filed out to Lee. Bowen hit for two bases and White advanced him on a hit that Hillis was barely able to knock down but made a wild throw to first in a vain attempt to get the runner. Bowen scoring. Flaherty scored White who had gone to second of the throw. This was Flaherty's second hit. This ended the scoring for the Alligators until the ninth inning.

The local team threatened in the eighth inning when Berry the first man up tripled to left center. Fast fielding by Bennett, Kamyck and Nichols on the next three men held Berry on third.

In the first half of the ninth inning Kamyck doubled and went to third on Bennett's single. Gaw hit Lafortune filling the bags. Putnam was also hit by Gaw forcing in Kamyck. Bowen hit a long fly to Clabby who made a pretty shoe-string catch but Bennett scored on the throw in. Gaudstte was safe on Hart's error. White hit a long fly to Berry who made a perfect throw to the plate catching Lafortune.

The final score for the locals came in the last half of the ninth when Massey was sent in to bat for Clabby. Massey was passed and went to second when Bergen hit to White scoring on Gaw's two bagger. The next two men filed out ending the game. The score:

ALL INSURANCE TEAM SLAUGHTERS RIVERVIEW

The All-Insurance team of Hartford pounded West of the Riverview club for 13 hits Saturday afternoon winning by a score of 13 to 5. West was liberal with his passes issuing nine to the visitors. CHAPMAN TECH TRIMS ACADEMY TEAM AGAIN

Chapman Tech again proved too strong for the Academy team when on Saturday at the Academy campus the New London boys walked away with an easy victory, 9 to 4. The Academy team played good ball for the first few innings and then blew up, especially the outfielders who each made one costly error. These outfield errors accounted for the bulk of the scoring.

The Academy started off and in two innings piled up four runs only to lose them through erratic playing. Ellie Siegal, the Academy pitching star, fanned 10 of the New London batters and should have won his game if given any kind of support. The score:

YANKS WIN PITCHING DUEL FROM WHITE SOX

Chicago, May 20.—Sam Jones of the Yankees had the edge on "Red" Faber, the White Cox veteran today, and New York won the first game of the series, 3 to 2. Jones had wonderful control and was backed up with perfect support. After the White Sox had counted a run on doubles by Sheely and Mostil, Schang tied the score with a homer into the right field bleachers. Chicago staged a ninth inning rally but scored only one run on doubles by Mostil and Kamm.

RED SOX LOSE CLOSE GAME TO INDIANS

Cleveland, May 20.—With Summa on second in the fifth inning today and two out, Pitcher Quinn of Boston passed Catcher Myatt purposely so as to get at Coveleskie. The latter singled, scoring Summa with the run that gave Cleveland victory, 1 to 0. The game twice halted because of rain, finally was called while Cleveland was at bat in the eighth. In addition to driving in Cleveland's winning run, Coveleskie held Boston to six hits and had 10 assists.

WESTERLY HIGH TAKES CLOSE ONE FROM STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, May 20.—In a close, interesting and exciting baseball game played Saturday afternoon on the Vose Park diamond Westerly High were the victors over their Stonington opponents by a score of 5 to 0. The outcome of this game, always in doubt, and not settled until the last player had been retired promises the baseball fans of Westerly, Stonington and vicinity a full value in baseball thrills, when these teams again clash Memorial Day afternoon at Stanton Park in Stonington, so that the nearly 1500 fans, who witnessed Saturday's game may even pass the 2000 mark. Stonington has loomed up greatly in eastern Connecticut baseball in the last year and started off the present season by defeating Chapman Technical by the close score of 4 to 3. These teams are to again meet next Wednesday so that there is assurance that the Brown and White will continue to be kept in condition. Up to Saturday's game Stonington had not lost a league game until her measure was taken by the Blue and White. Some idea can be obtained of the closeness of Saturday's game by the inning score, Stonington starting with a goose egg, Westerly collecting one run in the first, Stonington adding three big ones in the second, Westerly one more in the second and the tying run in the third, goose eggs on the tied score for Stonington, in the third, fourth and fifth, Westerly grabbing the lead by one in the fifth, Stonington tying again in the sixth and not until the eighth did Westerly nose out her opponent by an added run in the eighth, Stonington being blanked in the last two innings. In the sixth inning Catcher Lennihan of the W. H. S. was injured by a foul tip breaking his mask, which cut his nose. The work of Umpire Edwards was impartial and no arguments marred the progress of the game. School spirit evinced itself in the songs and cheers of the rival cohorts and a perfect day contributed its final touch.

WINDHAM BEATS MIDDLETOWN HIGH TEAM, 4 TO 1

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, May 20. — Windham High registered a 4 to 1 win over the Middletown High baseballers on the Recreation Park field Saturday afternoon and thereby kept her slate clean with two victories and no defeats. The locals scored one run in the second stanza on Burr's double, a wild throw by Derby and a one-baser by Wilmarth but the visitors made it one all in the next session when La Motta was passed, pilfered the keystone cushion, went to third on an out at first and scampered across the platter on Denman's single. The Thread Cityites won the game in the fourth with three counters on two timely bingles, a disastrous misplay by Captain Mullen of the Asylum City team and Storrs' sacrifice bunt. Both hurlers pitched in mid-season form. The visitors staged a double killing in the seventh, Denman banging Haggerty's attemped bunt and pegging to Fitzpatrick at first for the second out. Score:

Carrigan Goes to Waterbury

New Haven, May 20—Tom Carrigan, pitcher on the New Haven Eastern league team for the past two seasons, has been sold to the Waterbury club of the same league, it was announced tonight. Carrigan will report to Waterbury tomorrow.

BROWNS TAKE EXTRA INNING GAME FROM SENATORS

St. Louis, May 20—St. Louis broke its losing streak of four straight games by defeating Washington, 2 to 8, in 10 innings here today. It was a see-saw affair with the Senators knocking Shocker out of the box for a two run lead in the ninth, but the Browns tied the score in their half. Washington put across a run in the tenth, but the locals tallied two in their half. Walter Johnson forcing in Jacobson, who was hit by a pitched ball, by giving Schulte a base on balls. The score:

TILLMAN WEAKENS IN THE TENTH; BRASSCOS WIN

Waterbury, May 20.—With the score 8 to 8 and one out in the tenth inning here today in the game with Pittsfield, Long, of the locals hammered one of Johnny Tillman's offerings almost to the fence in right field for two bases. Curtis hit a single to left—his fourth safe blow. "Jiggs" Donahue, clean-up man of the Brasscos, drew a base on balls, mobbing the mattresses. Thereupon Kane scored Long with a sacrifice to Baker. Pittsfield led during most of the game, though the locals outhit them, 18 to 7. Four errors by Curtis and three by Schaufel at critical moments enabled the visitors to score frequently, while a neat double play by Leary and Stapleton cut off a rally by the home team in the eighth.

Score:

Pittsfield	0	2	1	4	0	1	0	0	0	0	—8
Waterbury	2	0	4	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	—9

Two base hits, Curtis, Kane, Leathers, Long. Three base hits, Donahue, McCorry, Long.

GIANTS SLAUGHTER CARDINAL PITCHERS AND WIN EASILY

New York, May 20.—The New York Nationals hit four Cardinal pitchers here today for a 14 to 4 victory. Young, Kelly and O'Connell leading the attack with four hits each.

Of the twenty hits, the world's champions made, only three were for extra bases and these were doubles by Young, Kelly and O'Connell.

CONNECTICUT AUTO ACCIDENTS

Not exactly what would be considered a gratifying report is that which is put forth by the department of motor vehicles for the second week in May, except that it is looked at from the standpoint that there are more automobiles and therefore the same number of accidents as for the corresponding week of last year means that the number of accidents has not grown with the increase in [illegible].

Figures are given by the motor vehicle department for seven cities of the state and the total shows an average of 20 a day of a sufficiently serious nature to be reported to the department. The commendable decrease in the accidents in the larger cities was offset by the increase in the smaller ones and the jump ahead of about 50 per cent in Hartford.

Auto accidents in large cities are numerous, but from the Connecticut figures that are presented they are by no means confined to the big centers. Connecticut is producing a greater number than it ought to for it is to be realized that the report doesn't begin to cover them all, but whether the comparison is made for the entire state or for only seven cities it serves to present the fact that the users of the highway are not using that degree of care that they should for their own protection or that of the other fellow.

What is desired is to see the number of accidents decrease even though the cars increase. It cannot be done if greater carelessness is going to prevail. It can only come about through a proper handling of machines, a reduction of speed to the point where safety can be insured and the earnest desire on the part of drivers to make the necessary contribution to a greater freedom from accidents.

It is an effort in which all should be anxious to have a part. No one may desire to figure in an accident but the time to reflect upon that point is before one occurs rather than after crawling out from under the debris. Nothing is gained by the inclination to take changes and the advantage which some seem to strive for at this point or that very seldom amounts to the snap of your fingers and yet too often large property losses [illegible] and deaths are frequently the result.

DETROIT'S MUNICIPAL RAILWAY.

Municipal ownership efforts continue to come in for special attention. Just now particular attention is being attracted by the report that has been made by Detroit in connection with its municipal street railway which has been in operation one year. That was acquired as the culmination of a fight of a decade against the traction company and now in addition to paying off a million on the purchase price the report claims that it has made a profit of a million, which is not represented in cash but in the extension of the lines.

It is natural for such to be regarded as no small accomplishment especially when it is realized that the fare has been five cents with an additional cent for transfers. But when such a report is made it always sets in motion an analysis of the situation by those who understand the inside. It is possible to paint a rosy situation but that doesn't tell what is being covered up.

In this financial statement Detroit seems to be doing its bookkeeping much on the line of some government departments. In the first place it makes no allowance for the large amount of taxes that the private corporation would have paid to the city, and if another claim is correct there has been no allowance made for depreciation, an amount in a corporation of that size that might easily wipe out the entire profit that is claimed. When it is realized that the equipment is not new this depreciation item is of much importance and if no allowance is made for it now a strange idea of the condition of the system is bound to exist from year to year if judged by the ordinary methods of bookkeeping.

When other laws are pointed out such as bad assets and the failure to do much work that must be undertaken by or charged up to that department an entirely different complexion is given to the financial statement. One year is not time enough in which to determine whether the municipal street railway is going to be a success or a failure, but proper judgment of that period can hardly be reached without considering all the factors entering into it.

ALIEN PROMOTERS.

The claims have been made that Great Britain and Holland were closing the doors to American capital in their oil fields, that exploitation was being restricted entirely to nationals. Even though there have been details of such claims by these countries it was because of what appeared to be such an attitude that former Secretary Fall of the department of the interior put forth what he considered the same policy by this country. His view was that if Americans were denied the opportunity to develop oil fields in other countries, the subjects of those countries should not expect to have the freedom of this country to drill for oil.

The change of view that has developed as the result of the denials seems to have its reflection in the action of Secretary Falls' successor, Secretary Work, who has given his approval to the leases held by the British and Holland capitalists which had been terminated by his predecessor. He does this on the ground that the leases do not cover government land, but land which has been turned over to the Indians and is therefore not the public domain, and he makes that distinction in pointing out that the aliens are still prevented from obtaining leases on government owned land.

If we are going to insist upon the open door it is perfectly evident that we should practice it. If our nationals are going to be discriminated against we cannot be expected to do otherwise than adopt a similar policy when we have the chance. That we do not desire to get unfair advantages or to be unfair seems to be clearly indicated by the action we have taken. Our one care must be to see that our leniency doesn't work to our disadvantage.

THE VISIT TO ALASKA.

The coming visit by the president to Alaska is by no means entirely for pleasure and neither is it a political whirl about the circle. The president will make a number of speeches during the two months that he is away and it is only natural that the country should want to hear from him on certain matters concerning the state of the nation.

Endeavors are being made to reach a solution concerning some of the problems that prevail in Alaska. It is a big territory full of great resources. Its development is bound to continue in increased ratio as the years go along. It is therefore important that its administration should be done on the most efficient basis. Just what that would be may vary in the opinion of many. That it is possible to get a much better idea of what is called for by being on the ground and getting a first hand grasp of the situation is easy to understand.

That is what the president and four members of the cabinet plan to do on the Alaskan trip. At the present time there are 135 different activities being directed by 35 bureaus and departments. That they clash and overlap is not surprising. That there can be simplification and better cooperation is not improbable.

Likewise some ideas different than those that can be gotten from reports are vital in connection with the policies that should be advocated for that region as concerns its development, transportation facilities and encouragement to new settlers. Likewise it is possible to get a better opinion as to whether restrictions on this great storehouse should be increased or decreased.

It is no wonder that Alaska expects much from the coming visit of the president. It promises to be a vacation that will be beneficial to the country and the chief executive at the same time.

BONAR LAW'S RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Bonar Law as the British premier will occasion no great amount of surprise, except that it comes just at this time. It has been apparent that he was not in good health for some little time, and it has been apparent that he was getting no greater support than was needed at critical points. It is, however, his state of health that forces him to lay down the reins of premiership and retire.

When it became necessary for him to devote several weeks to efforts to recuperate his weakened condition it was apparent that his premiership would be measured by the success of that effort. When specialists were called a greater seriousness was apparent and the resignation indicates the disclosures of the examination.

Premier Law has long been a leader in British affairs. He was admirably fitted for the task of holding together the conservative element in parliament. As the successor of Lloyd George he has not made a spectacular premier but his resignation from ill health has a far different significance than it would have had it resulted from lack of confidence.

Speculation will now be rife as to his successor. It is a most important position to fill, and the problems that confront a premier even at home, if it were possible to eliminate the foreign problems, are by no means insignificant. There is still the aftermath of the war to contend with and Great Britain is a central figure in whatever involves the rest of Europe.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Demand for hosiery is said to be exceptionally dull. Probably making plans for the barefooted season.

Another golfer has died on the links. This game is getting to be as fatal for some as football is for others.

When the legislature overrides a veto it believes in doing so in a manner that leaves no doubt of its intentions.

There are a few who are trying to tell the world the straw hat season is with us. The rank and file are as yet unconvinced.

Those who observe a sugarless Monday cannot expect to accomplish anything if they double Tuesday's ordinary consumption.

The man on the corner says: How long will it be before the trolley company is requested not to stop its cars at Franklin square?

Now it appears that those were not poison pen letters in New York but poison typewriter letters. No chance that it was a faded ribbon.

When the statement is made that "Plants are busy throughout New England" it doesn't refer to garden truck. The weatherman keeps them at a standstill.

Considering the part they played in the coal shortage and high prices the past winter the railroad shopmen can expect little public support in their demands for higher wages.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Use fine wire for sewing buttons on heavy overcoats.

Stand potatoes in hot water a few minutes before baking to hasten the process.

When darning a large hole, sew net over the hole and darn through the net.

Asparagus and shrimps, marinated with French dressing, make a delicious salad.

Add a little turpentine to the water with which you clean your carpets. It will eliminate danger of moths.

A sugar bag tied over your broom is as good as a dry mop for brushing down the walls and floors.

A light coat of varnish, put on once every few months will lengthen the life of your linoleum and keep the design intact.

If moles are wrecking your garden, put a few castor bean seeds in their runways. They will leave them then.

A hotwater bottle should be never filled to its full capacity. If the bottle is placed in a bed to warm fill it three-quarters full.

To run a rod through the hem of a curtain place a thimble over the end of the rod and it will slip through readily.

Before you fry the breakfast bacon soak it in cold water for three or four minutes. It will give it a much more delicate flavor.

When a very crumbly or new loaf of bread is to be cut, dip the bread knife in hot water first. This will make slicing much easier and prevent the slices breaking up.

If the boiled frosting is too thin fill a pan with hot water. Put it on the stove and while it boils put the pan of frosting in, stirring constantly until it is of the desired thickness.

If a tray of Japanned ware becomes spotted dip a woolen cloth into sweet oil and rub the spots as hard as possible. For ordinary soil, wet a sponge in warm water and then wipe with a soft cloth.

To give a room which has long been closed a pleasant odor, while airing it, put some ground coffee in a saucer with a small piece of camphor gum in the center. Light the gum and as it burns it will also consume a certain amount of the coffee and produce a pleasing odor.

KITCHEN TABLE.

Since much of your work is done at the kitchen table, you should have it at just the correct height. If too low, have it built up, or if too high, shorten it. Your table makes a great deal of difference in the way you feel at the end of the day.

WASHING WINDOWS

Add a spoonful of kerosene to a pan of very hot water when washing windows, mirrors and picture glasses. Dip a clean cloth in this, squeeze dry and rub the glass surface, then wipe dry. No polishing will be necessary.

TO REMOVE SOOT.

When your cooking pans and coffee pot have become black and sooty on the bottom. Set them in a shallow vessel with a little water in which a teaspoon of soda has been dissolved. Heat the water to the boiling point and they can easily be made clean and new looking.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

If you are thin, you must expect a certain amount of trouble in keeping the elbows pretty. You can make them plump by rubbing them with warm cocoa butter every night.

If there is a tendency to stony hardness or brittleness in the finger nails a slight soaking nightly, or every second or third night, in hot water, with or without the addition of the alkali is advisable, the nails being subsequently smeared with a plain ointment, such as cold cream or vaseline, which should be left on overnight.

The elbows must be treated with cold cream or with olive oil. This will keep the skin so soft and smooth that it is less likely to take up the same amount of dirt. If you are stout so that the elbows are round and smooth you will never have very much trouble wit hthem. But if you are tall—underweight—the skin over the elbows will seem to be stretched and loose and to fall into all sorts of ugly lines and wrinkles.

For large hips the best exercise is to stand with the hands on the hips and bend forward as far as possible a dozen or more times, always keeping the spine straight. Follow this by bending first to the left, then to the right, a dozen or more times, keeping the body from the waist down as motionless as possible. This can be followed by what is sometimes called a trunk circling exercise, which is a combination of the two above, a swinging round and round of the whole upper half of the body.

A POTENT BEAUTY AID.

An authority on matters of beauty and hygiene has this to say of dancing as a practical aid to beauty: "Dancing keeps the body young and supple. And when we say that we do not mean the ballroom dancing which goes on hour after hour often in hot, illy ventilated rooms and halls, but the dancing that may be practiced alone, perhaps in a room with windows open. This is often as good as the systematic exercises and twice as interesting. Dancing with the whole body, using the arms and hands to express emotion, is something that every woman and girl should practice if she wants her figure to keep on being graceful and young.

LED BY FANCY.

Young children may be inspired to clean personal health habits through stories in which fairy toothbrush, elfin hairbrush, little dwarf nailfile, brownie clothesbrush and old troll blacking brush are the cheif actors. These fairy folk may go through a story continued from day to day that will enthrall the children into a great fondness for them, if mother is imaginative and allows her imagination to have full sway for the entertainment and benefit of her children.

RIBBON FEATHERS.

Ribbon feathers for the summer hat are distinctive and easily made. Two shades of narrow blue ribbon, two shades of lavender or of rose may be used. Each piece of ribbon should be wired with fine lace wire its entire length, the length of each piece of ribbon varying from three inches to ten inches. These wired ribbons are fastened on to a heavy wire which is closely wrapped with the darker ribbon. You may use few or many of the ribbons according as you wish a long slender feather of a full, heavy one.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Some of the smartest turbans are made of velvet and organdie, as well as figured crepe and velvet.

Organdie, of course, is the material for the ruffled version and linen or gingham for the plain model.

For summer cottages curtains of plain cotton fabrics are decorated with designs of flowers or fruit in gay colors.

Very large hats of organdie, self trimmed, are to be featured for midsummer. They are charming for wear with organdie trimmed frocks.

A bouffant frock of pink taffeta has many streamers of rose-colored satin ribbon embroidered in crystal leaves and satin roses.

One black satin gown which achieves unusual elegance is trimmed with bands of red and green silk heavily over-embroidered in gold threads.

Picture frocks of black taffeta or satin are embroidered with medallions of bright colored silk or appliqued designs of gay taffeta or velvet.

The small cloche hat of georgette crepe in beige or gray is usually accompanied by a veil which ties in a bow and allows wide streamers to depend from the side.

Suits of camel's hair cloth are a good investment, for they may be worn for town or country with equal appropriateness. Sometimes they are embellished with bands of braid or grosgrain ribbon.

At present the small hat of black suede or black felt, untrimmed save for flat ribbon pleating or a feather fancy is very smart. Black milan hats are also popular. The black hat is increasing in favor as the colorful season advances.

For children there is no more popular type of frock than the line or pongee smock with matching bloomers, embroidered in cross-stitch or peasant embroidery.

There is a subtle matching of colors today where least expected. The predominant shade in an Egyptian girdle will match the hosiery. Or the bright lining of a brown cloak will match a bit of ribbon twisted around the brim of the hat.

There is a decided trend toward moire effects today, although moire materials are far more pliable than in other days. Satin back crepes come in the moire effect and in splendid colorings. Moire ribbon is much used on hats.

IN PLACE OF BOUDOIR CAP.

Soft satin ribbon wrapped round the head twice and tied on the right side in loops with long ends hanging over the shoulder, keeps the hair in place and is more girlish and intriguing than the stereotyped boudoir cap. One can match one's negligees by having a number of such ribbons of different colors. Two yards are necessary.

INTEREST IN COTTON.

Interest in cotton dresses has been stimulated recently. Jobbers are very active and are placing orders for linens, ginghams, voiles, organdies and ratines. From a retail standpoint it is still very early for any substantial volume of orders to be placed where lines have been shown. But wholesalers appear very confident that this will be changed as soon as weather conditions permit.

SETS OFF PLAIN GOWN.

Collars and cuffs, which come now in sets are the last word in daintiness and effective adornments for a plain frock. A favorite material is suede in a creamy or sand tint, ornamented with black satin bows. Often the suede has an elaborate perforated pattern.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

When working on light material use drab or some dark shade for basting. In this way the basting threads are always readily seen and you know when you have removed them.

When stitching chiffon or georgette or any very thin material where there is a tendency to pucker, place a piece of paper under the goods and stitch under both. When the paper is removed the seam will be perfectly flat.

If you thread your needle before breaking off the thread from the spool you will have no annoying tangles to bother with.

When mending or sewing delicately tinted fine lawn or lace it is always a difficulty to get fine cotton to tone. Try dyeing a few needlefuls of "100" or even "200" white cotton in a little tea, poured into a sauce. The "dye" may be regulated in depth by adding a few drops of warm water, should a very pale shade be required.

Fine sewing silk may be tinted in the same way. Remember that silk takes a dye more readily than cotton, and that tea of the same strength will dye silk a deeper shade.

HANDKERCHIEF SHADES.

Colored handkerchiefs are utilized as shades for electric lamps. To make such a shade it is only necessary to cut a hole in the center of the handkerchief, insert the bulb with the glass or metal shade and the silk will fall into graceful lines.

The color is in keeping with the decorative scheme of the room, but amber and rose silk handkerchiefs are especially popular because they shed the softest light. A fringe with tassels at the four corners makes an attractive finish, or the corners may be folded back and a motif of beads, flowers or embroidery added.

RIBBON FRINGE IS NEW.

Narrow double-faced black satin ribbon is exquisite on black georgette, swinging from the underarm seam of the sleeves and edging the draping of the skirt. Fringe made of two-tone ribbon, peach on one side and gray on the other, charmingly decorates a dress of gray georgette crepe made over peach silk, giving the glow of sunlight through fog.

DONE WITH RIBBON.

Last year's skirts can be given the uneven effect so stylish by hemstitching a piece of scalloped ribbon to the bottom of the skirt. Novelty ribbons with scalloped edges are being sold in the large department stores. They are very attractive and great time savers.

FOR BLOWING BUBBLES.

If puzzled as to what to do with the restless youngster on a rainy day, give him the wooden part of a handle used for carry parcels. It will make a splendid pipe for blowing bubbles.

IF RUG CURLS UP.

If your rag rug curls up on the floor, sew a small weight such as tailors use for coats on each corner and it will lie perfectly flat.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Miss Frances Fleming, prominent Kansas City society girl, has been elected a director of one of the leading banks in that city.

At the age of 43 years, Mrs. William Geotsch, of Ethan, S. D., is the mother of eighteen children.

Mlle. Marguerite Massart, of Brussels, is the first Belgian woman to be awarded an engineering diploma.

The United States war department has only one woman diversion chief, Mary S. Nixon, in charge of records and files.

Turkish women are fond of smoking, and derive their pleasure from a vaselike pipe, with a tube for a stem.

Hair-dressing is the leading occupation of women in Japan, no less than 250,000 of them being engaged in this line of work.

PAINT SPOTS.

If there are paint stains on your clothing saturate the spots with a mixture of equal parts of ammonia and turpentine and then wash out in soapsuds.

TO KEEP ICE CREAM.

If there is ice cream left over and you wish to keep it, soak an envelope of gelatine in water a few minutes, dissolve it in boiling water and when cool, beat it into the ice cream. Turn into a mold and put it on ice to chill.

RECIPES.

Rhubarb Pie: Two cups rhubarb cut in half inch pieces, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 egg, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon soda, pie crust.

Mix dry ingredients. Add to rhubarb and mix well. Add egg slightly beaten. Mix, turn into a pie pan lined with dough, cover with top crust and bake.

Orange Crullers: Beat two eggs until thick and lemon-tinted, add gradually one-half cup of sugar, stirring constantly. Sift together two cups of sifted flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, one and one-half teaspoons of cream of tartar and three-fourths teaspoons of soda. Add to first mixture alternately with one-half cup of thick cream. Add the grated rind of one orange. Roll part of the dough at a time into a sheet one-half an inch thick. Shape with a small doughnut cutter, measuring one and one-half inches in diameter. Fry in deep, hot fat, drain on brown paper and when cold or when packing the lunch box roll each cruller in powdered sugar before wrapping in waxed paper.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Gen. Luis Terrazas, who before the revolutionary period was known as the wealthiest man in Mexico, and one of the wealthiest men in the world, is ninety-five years old today. Gen. Terrazas was governor of the State of Chihuahua for a number of years. At one time he was the largest individual land owner in the world. His estates in western Mexico comprised more than 15,000,000 acres. He owned several hundred thousand head of cattle, horses, sheep and goats. Some of the richest mines in Mexico belonged to him. He and his son-in-law, Enrique Creel, long a prominent figure in Mexican affairs, controlled the banking business of a large portion of the republic. His total wealth was estimated at unwards of $200,000,000. Practically all of his possessions were lost to Gen. Terrazas in the successive revolutions that swept over Mexico, and since then he has been fighting to regain a part of his fortune.

Wives of Famous Men

Alice Barnham, Wife of Robert Bacon

A marriage of convenience, which nevertheless proved quite successful, was that of Robert Bacon, famous judge and favorite of Queen Elizabeth, and Alice Barnham, comely young daughter of a wealthy alderman. Bacon had previously given his heart to another woman, who had rejected both it and his suit. However, he had contracted some debts which were troublesome and it was uncertain whether he could obtain any aid from the queen, who was now laboring under the infirmities of old age, so he decided to restore his position by matrimony.

In Miss Barnham it seems that Bacon found the right person, for she was not only wealthy and good to look upon, but was possessed of a kindly nature and a sweet temper. She was much attached to her wise and rather calculating suitor, who spoke of her thus moderately:

"I have found out an alderman's daughter, a handsome maiden to my liking." They were married with pomp and ceremony and settled down to a life of ease and comfort, unruffled save by the troublesome parents of Mrs. Bacon, who were constantly embroiled over something or other. Otherwise, however, their domestic life, entered upon with calmness and precision was a perfectly smooth one.

Stories That Recall Others

Bessie's Ambition.

Bessie, age six, and sister, age fourteen, were walking toward the car line. As they passed a very inviting spot sister said: "Bessie, this is the place where my Girl Scout troop once took a hike. When you grow up will you be a Scout?"

"Oh, no," replied Bessie gravely. "When I grow up I will be a lady."

Literally Construed.

Mabel, who has a reputation in the family for conscientious obedience, was sent by her mother to the grocery with instructions to "hurry back." After a long absence she reappeared with the desired articles.

"What have you been doing all this time?" asked the mother severely.

"I was playing with Mary," was the explanation.

"Well, didn't I tell you to hurry back?"

"Why, mamma," was the aggrieved answer, "I did hurry back. I met Mary when I was going. You didn't say to hurry going."

ATTORNEYS PASS VOTE AGAINST BLACK ENDORSEMENTS

A meeting of the New London County Bar association, held here at the superior court Friday morning, passed resolutions declaring against slackness in endorsing applicants for examination Attorney William H. Shields, president of the association, presided and Judge Lucius Brown was clerk.

The resolutions passed were the same as those recently voted by the bar of Fairfield county as follows:

Whereas it appears that the petitions of applicants for examination have been endorsed by attorneys whose acquaintance with the moral character and conduct of the applicant has obviously been such as to render their endorsement of little value either to the applicant or to your committee; and

Whereas such endorsement does not furnish the proper basis for action by your committee contemplated by the rules and tends to a demoralising effect upon applicants;

Now be it resolved that the clerk be and he hereby is requested to call the attention of all members of the bar of this county to this condition and to ask their cooperation against its continuance, and further notify all applicants that endorsements of their applications will not be acceptable to the committee on admissions unless founded upon actual acquaintance of their sponsors with them, of such character and standing as to insure knowledge of moral character.

Seven young men gave notice of their intention to try the bar examinations in this state. They were vouched for by attorneys of the county and their intentions were sanctioned by the meeting. They were the following:

John J. McGarry of New London, member of the graduating class of 1923 of Georgetown Law school.

Henry Harris of New London, member of the graduating class of 1923 of Boston University Law school.

Loue E. Stockwell of Worcester, graduate of the Harvard Law school.

Jacob Sherb of New London, graduate of the College of Law, Syracuse University.

Russell H. Corcoran of New London, member of the graduating class of 1923 of Fordham Law school.

Harry C. Brogan of Groton, member of the graduating class of 1923 of Yale Law school.

Charles R. Walsh of New London, member of the graduating class of 1923 of Yale Law school.

Upon the motion of Attorney Keefe it was voted to ask the judges to assign more judges for this county at their yearly meeting.

About 30 lawyers and 11 laymen attended the bar meeting.

OBITUARY.

Chauncey B. Woodworth.

The long and model life of Chauncey B. Woodworth came to a close at 11.30 o'clock Friday night at the Massachusetts Homeopathic hospital in Boston. Mr. Woodworth went to the hospital on May 14th for treatment for an infected throat and died while under observation by the doctors. Dr. Pollock, formerly of the Norwich state hospital, is in charge of the institution where Mr. Woodworth went for treatment.

Mr. Woodworth was born in Montville March 26, 1846, the son of the late Thomas Woodworth, for years a contractor in Norwich, and Mary Dolbeare Woodworth. The family came to Norwich when he was but 2 years of age. After attending the Free Academy, he was a clerk for two years in the Cranston grocery store on Thames square. Afterwards for many years he was bookkeeper and clerk in the store of Cardwell & Wait. In September 1881, he accepted a position as accountant with the Norwich Savings Society and was with this institution until he retired in 1918, giving up all business. For 25 years he was stamp clerk for the Norwich Board of Underwriters.

Mr. Woodworth was a member of Somerset lodge, F. and A. M., and of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, where for 11 years he had been superintendent of the Sunday school, and at various times had filled all church offices.

In Norwich Oct. 7, 1872, by Rev. J. M. Paine, he was united in marriage with Sarah E. Huntington, who survives him with a sister, Miss Abbie J. Woodworth, also of Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in a quiet manner on Oct. 7, 1922, at their home, 156 Laurel Hill avenue.

In life Mr. Woodworth had filled every position entrusted to him in a manner above reproach. His honesty and willingness to aid a fellow man made for him a host of friends. His joy was his home and he was a most devoted husband and brother. In the death of Mr. Woodworth the community has lost a faithful and trusted citizen. To the members of his family left to mourn the loss of a husband and a brother his many friends extend their sympathy.

Undertaker Gager went to Boston Saturday and returned to Norwich on Sunday with the body, burial to be in this city.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Charles Baral.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral of Alice Elizabeth Lasch, widow of Charles Baral, held Saturday afternoon at the home of Fred Grenier at 169 Palmer street. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

The service was conducted by Rev. Thomas H. M. Ockford, rector of St. James' church, Poquetanuck. Burial was in the family plot in Poquetanuck cemetery, where a committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Ockford.

Arrangements were by Church & Allen.

Mrs. Baral died on May 16th at 169 Palmer street after an illness of one year. She was born in Germany on Oct. 4, 1850, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Lasch. Most of her life had been spent in this country, her home for some time having been in Poquetanuck, where her husband was overseer in a mill. Mr. Baral died Oct. 28, 1919, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel Whitmarsh, of Yantic.

Surviving are the following children: Mrs. Samuel Whitmarsh of Yantic, Andrew Baral of Yantic, Mrs. Irving Robbins of East Douglass, Mass., Mrs. Herman Steinbough of Dayville and Mrs. Fred Grenier and Charles Baral of Norwich. There are 17 grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and other relatives.

Mrs. John H. Peck.

Funeral services for Sarah Marshall Waterman, widow of John H. Peck, formerly of Yantic, were held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at her late home in Glenridge, N. J. The body was brought to this city Saturday evening.

There was a service at the family plot in Yantic cemetery Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey officiating. Relatives and friends attended the service, coming from Glenridge and Summit, N. J., Hartford, Willimantic and New Britain. The floral tributes were beautiful. Friends and relatives acted as bearers.

Local arrangements were by the Henry Allen & Son company.

Xens Society Meeting.

The Xens society met Friday evening at the First Baptist church, and in the absence of President Mrs. Edward Crowell the meeting was in charge of John B. Oat. Considerable routine business was transacted and the committee in charge of the public supper recently served by the society reported a good sum had been realized for the treasury. All members are expected to be present at the next regular meeting, when plans will be made for the annual picnic.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served. Each member had brought something to place on the table and ice cream and soda water were also served. The meeting was one of the most enjoyable of the year.

D. T. SHEA DECLINES REAPPOINTMENT AND PRESENTS HIS RESIGNATION

D. T. SHEA.

D. T. Shea, a member for the last 10 years of the gas and electric commission of this city, has declined a reappointment by Mayor Milo R. Waters and has presented his resignation to the mayor, which will be read at the adjourned meeting of the common council tonight (Monday).

Mr. Shea was appointed for a five-year term in 1913 by Mayor T. C. Murphy, and was reappointed by Mayor Allyn L. Brown for another five years from May 1, 1918. For the past seven or eight years of his term he has been president of the commission, giving much time to the important duties of the office.

In his letter of resignation Mr. Shea presents an interesting resume of the great growth of the business of the city gas and electric department, answering some of the criticism that has found expression at various times. His letter follows:

Hon. Milo R. Waters, Norwich, Conn.:

Honorable Sir: In view of the fact that you have so diligently sought my continuance in office as a commissioner of the gas and electrical department and in view of the fact that my term of 10 years ended May 1st, and no new appointment has been made, I feel, for good, sound and sufficient reasons, best known to myself, that I should ask to be relieved as soon as my successor may be appointed.

Upon retiring from the gas and electrical commission, I wish to say to Your Honor, your common council and the citizens of Norwich who are stockholders of the gas and electrical plant, a few words that might express my opinion regarding our plant.

To prove my opinion, I shall quote a few figures taken from the city's reports, put in plain language, for it has been said that the average person cannot realize the facts from the yearly reports of your plant, written as they are in bookkeeper's terms.

First of all, it is only fitting and proper that I say a few words in appreciation of the valued assistance received from the other members of the commission, the helpful support of the various common councils, and the almost universal support of the voters of the city of Norwich. Without this support, our task would have been difficult, if not impossible. My only regret being that this support was not more pronounced at the time. Let us look for a moment at the reasons for this feeling of hesitancy which has possessed our citizens in the past, and even now causes some few to have doubts as to the worth and efficiency of our plant.

Three main causes seem to inspire this feeling:

First—"The plant is a failure."

Second—"The value of the plant is worthless."

Third—"The plant should be sold."

Is the plant a failure? By no means. In the days of private ownership electricity was sold for 17 1-2c per KWH at a time when coal was bought for $3.50 per ton delivered at the plant, oil cost 3c a gallon, coke was an almost worthless by-product, and wages were one-third of what they are today. Today electricity is being sold for 12c per KWH, coal is costing $9.50 per ton, oil 7c per gallon, coke $13 a ton, and wages are three times what they were. The price of gas in 10 years has increased about 47 per cent., but remember its manufacturing costs have increased approximately 200 per cent. It is true the price of gas is not as low as we would like to see it, but that is due to the extraordinary expense of transforming a system intended for lighting purposes only into one which takes care of domestic and commercial demands. We see on every hand convincing evidence that the gas industry is destined to a greater prosperity and to perform a more useful service to this community and with increased volume and improved methods of production now being installed there is indication that the price will be lower.

At the time of the purchase of the plant by the city an annual business was being done of $106,000, whereas the department this year has closed its books with an annual business of $664,000. Surely this does not look like failure. Moreover, whereas there may have been interruptions in service and inadequate supply, we are proud to boast that they have been more frequent in the past than at present—and with improvements and extensions continually being made, they have ceased to cause anyone serious annoyance.

Is the plant worthless? Again I answer "No." Whether it was prudent for the city to buy the plant or not does not enter into the question—we have it now. Let us see what it is worth.

Electrical experts base their valuation of a plant on its gross annual earnings, estimating the worth at three times the same using this as a basis, the plant when purchased, doing an annual business of $106,000, was worth $318,000; using the same basis, at the present time, with an annual gross business of $664,000, your plant is worth $1,992,000. Surely this is no trifling value and should prove to the citizens of Norwich and to the stockholders that their plant is one to be proud of and one in which they have a valuable asset.

As regards the matter of selling the plant and purchasing gas and electricity from a private corporation, it is my opinion that this should not be done. Surely not, when our plant shows a net profit this year of 7 per cent. per year on an investment of two million dollars.

In 10 years the bonded indebtedness of the plant has been increased from $702,000 to $958,000, which is practically offset by $49,000 set aside for a sinking fund, $88,450 cash on hand and approximately $40,000 excess of bills receivable over bills payable, making a net indebtedness of $780,550, an increase of 11 per cent. Whereas the gross income has gone from $142,000 to $664,000, a gain of 344 per cent.

A decade of progress and development, when your plant during which its business has grown steadily and its earnings have increased consistently is the record of your plant. Do not render fruitless the labors of these years by depriving yourselves of the benefits to be derived from this rebuilt, modernized plant of yours.

My final advice to the citizens of Norwich is "Get better acquainted with your plant, know the facts and be proud of it, take an interest in its operation, co-operate with its management, advise them of their shortcomings, and reap the full benefit of your investment."

Cease to worry about your investment, for as I have shown above it has ceased to be a source of worry. As long as you have five citizens of Norwich on your board of commissioners who realise that "a public office is a public trust," as long as you keep politics but of the management of the plant, and as long as an efficient manager and competent forces are employed, just so long, barring accidents, will your plant prosper and maintain the profits it now shows.

Again I thank you for the [illegible] you wish to confer upon me. I must say it is with a feeling mingled with regret that I feel forced to decline to further serve upon a commission that has given me their unanimous support for so many years.

Sincerely yours,

DANIEL T. SHEA.

The resignation of President Shea leaves the commission membership consisting of James L. Case, vice president, Martin E. Jensen, Fred A. Fox and Clarence E. Carpenter.

TWO DAY CELEBRATION OF HEBREW PENTECOST

The festival of Shabuoth or the Hebrew Pentecost observed by Orthodox and Reform Jews, began at sundown Sunday and ends for Reformed Hebrews the following day and for the Orthodox on Tuesday evening. The holiday is also known as the Feast of Weeks, and was observed in ancient Palestine as a harvest festival. The ritual consisted in the offering of first fruits, and is celebrated by decking homes and synagogues with branches and owers. It is also associated with the giving of the law on Mount Sinai during the journey of the children of Israel from Egypt to Palestine.

The Palestine Foundation Fund (Keren Hayesod) announces that during the synagogue services Monday and Tuesday, addresses will be delivered by rabbis and other speakers on the progress which is being made in the restoration of Palestine, as a national Hebrew homeland. Rabbi Joseph N. Rosenberg will be the speaker at the Brothers of Joseph synagogue on West Main street and Rabbi Max Stamm at the United Brethren synagogue on High street. This will be in connection with the big mass meeting on June 3 in the Community house on Church street at which Dr. Leon Matzkin of Paris and Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist organization of America, will be speakers.

CALLS IT PROPAGANDA IN REPORTS ABOUT MAHER

Stories in various newspapers of the state, to the effect that he planned to appoint some one other than Dr. Stephen J. Maher, of New Haven, to succed Dr. Maher on the state tuberculosis commission Saturday, drew comment from Governor Charles A. Templeton.

The governor was asked: "What is there to this report, that you do not intend to reappoint Dr. Maher, governor?"

"Propaganda,' the governor replied. "Reports purporting to announce what I am going to do or what I am not going to do are frequently given out in an effort to force my hand. Such reports are not authorized by me. The report concerning Dr. Maher is entirely unauthorized as far as I am concerned. I will neither confirm nor deny it. I will make the appointment of tuberculosis commissioner in due time, and when I make it, it will be for the best interests of the state. Any attempt to force my hand in the matter will be unsuccessful."

Split Switch in Franklin Square.

The Laurel Hill trolley due at Franklin square at 4.30 o'clock Sunday night split the switch in front of the Chelsea Lunch and it was necessary to send for the work car to put the rear truck back onto the iron. The accident occurred when the motorman endeavored to take the switch to go to Boswell avenue. The front trucks took the turn but the rear trucks continued on the Greeneville line and left the rails. There was only a slight jar, none of the passengers being shaken to any extent.

Near East Bundle Days.

In response to the appeals that have been made by the Near East Relief for discarded, but serviceable clothing for the children of the Near East, many bundles have been shipped to the state headquarters of the Near East Relief, 730 Main street, Hartford.

Mr. Kazmier is arranging for big community Bundle Days in all the larger communities of the state, where bundle stations will be established. He is appealing to those people outside these to send in their gifts of old clothes to state headquarters by parcel post.

NEW LONDON KEEPS UP IN AUTO ACCIDENT RECORD

One hundred and forty-nine accidents of a major nature occurred in the seven principal Connecticut cities last week, according to the weekly report of the statistical bureau of the department of motor vehicles. New London, Hartford and Meriden are pointed out as having extremely bad records for the week, while Bridgeport is commended for appearing at the foot of the list.

New London, considering its size, car registration, made the worst grade with ten automobile accidents serious enough to require a report in the state capitol. Three of these resulted in injury to pedestrians, a fourth resulted in three occupants of an automobile being injured, and seven resulted in major property damage.

Hartford had forty-nine major mishaps, thirty-five resulting in damage to automobiles, ten in personal injury, and four in both personal injury and car damage. The ten injuries were all to pedestrians.

Meriden had eleven major accidents and one fatality. The total of twelve is an unusually large number for a community the size of Meriden.

Bridgeport, with but thirteen major accidents, shows the effect of concentrated efforts of the police and the other agencies in the city interested in preventing the loss of life and property. For the same week last year the Park City had thirty-three serious accidents. A comparison shows an exceptional improvement.

Last year there were one hundred and forty major accidents in the seven principal cities for the second week in May, exactly the same number as for the second week in May this year.

Detailed report for last week—

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Theodore Frelinghuysey Bailey, veteran of the Civil war, died Saturday afternoon about 1.30 at his home on Bread street. He had been in failing health for a long time and seriously ill since January of 1922.

Mr. Bailey was born in Little Compton, R. I., April 7, 1847, a son of James H. and Hertilla B. (Taylor) Bailey. He spent his youthful days in that Rhode Island community and was among the very patriotic young men fired with enthusiasm to enter the Union armies before he really was old enough to carry a gun.

Nevertheless he realized his ambition on his 18th birthday, when he enlisted in Company H, Second Rhode Island Volunteers and was sent out for what proved to be a three months' period of service. After enduring many hardships attendant upon the rigors of army life in Civil war days—exposure and going without food for long periods at a time—he was honorably discharged from the service on July 13, 1865, as the great conflict drew to a close.

After the war Mr. Bailey went into the west. He lived for a time in Kansas, where he was first married to Miss Josephine C. Thomas, who lived only about three years thereafter. Later Mr. Bailey located in Denver and traveled extensively in western states before coming back to New England, his parents in the meantime having come to Danielson to make their home.

In Danielson on Christmas day, 1883, Mr. Bailey was united in marriage in Danielson with Miss Effie F. Hutchins, the ceremony performed by Rev. Charles Dockham, at that time pastor of the Advent church here. He has since made his home here and was among the borough's most respected citizens. For years Mr. Bailey was in the employ of the Jacobs Manufacturing company.

Mr. Bailey is survived by his wife and the following children: Mrs. Leach, Wauregan; Mrs. Frank M. Jones, Forestville, Conn.; Mrs. Walter I. Chase and Miss Lillian E. Bailey, both of Danielson. He also leaves seven grand-children and a brother resident in San Francisco.

For many years Mr. Bailey was one of the prominent figures in the activities of McGregor post, G. A. R., of which he was twice commander as well as having filled other offices in the post. His death will be a sad loss to the dwindling ranks of Civil war veterans with whom he has been associated for so many years.

A book of 50 old fashioned songs will be sent to you free if you will mail this advertisement to The Plaut-Cadden Co., Norwich, Conn.—adv.

Next Sunday will be observed in villages of the town of Killingly as Memorial Sunday. As has been the custom for many years patriotic organizations of Danielson will assist in the observance of the day at South Killingly and at other communities in the territory. During the present week graves of the honored dead will be marked by new flags of the nation for which they fought and on Sunday those same graves will be decorated with flowers, as a testimonial that the present generation does not forget the heroic service rendered more than half a century ago and the benefits of which are still apparent, as they will be, it is hoped, to generations yet unborn.

The principal service in Killingly next Sunday will be at South Killingly. The G. A. R. and the W. R. C. and other patriotic organizations will assist in making it as impressive as usual. Scores of citizens, too, will join in this tribute to the heroes of an earlier day and the whole tribute will be a lesson in patriotism not likely to be lost on all in a day when patriotism is incident to having a good time and getting those who will worry about the nation and those who assisted in making it hold its present place in the history of the world.

Announcement was made Sunday by Frank Barber of the Casino Amusement company that the next series of boxing bouts to be staged in Danielson, probably early in June, will be for the benefit of the Nurses' home fund of the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam. Every penny over and above expenses obtained at the next show will be turned over to the director of the campaign for the fund mentioned, and if all do their parts in this enterprise this fund, overshadowing receipts from any other boxing card, should amount to several hundred dollars.

Right now a campaign is underway in Eastern Windham county and under the direction of John J. Whitehead of Putnam to raise $20,000 for the nurses' home. Thompson, Putnam, Pomfret, Woodstock and other towns are doing their level best to make the drive a success, so Killingly will aid by the boxing card, as well as in other ways. As Danielson has become a live boxing center, the effort is already assured of success, but this certainty may be increased by the interest of the community in the matter.

Throughout this territory thousands of people reveled on Sunday in the glories of the most beautiful day of Spring, White Sunday, the day of flowering trees and shrubs and green fields carpeted with violets and other pretty flowers. Along country roads, in shady nooks, by brooksides and in other appealing places motorists parked their cars and lent themselves to the enjoyment of a few glorious hours at nature's shrine. Few days in any year are so filled with the joy of living as was Sunday. From far and near this beautiful territory attracted those who love a few quiet hours—and they found sanctuary in eastern Windham county, rapidly becoming a Sunday playground for people of at least three states.

That Wildwood park is going to be more popular than ever this year was attested Saturday evening—when the season's opening occurred. The pretty resort was the Mecca of several hundred young people who love to dance out in the open under as charming conditions and beautiful surroundings as any resort for miles around affords. About every community for miles around was represented at the dance and the parking space was well filled with scores of cars in which patrons of the park came to enjoy the evening's offerings.

It was demonstrated once more on Sunday that a traffic officer is needed at the junction of Reynolds and Broad street, where the new state highway to Providence, always crowded with traffic on a Sunday, crosses Broad street, another busy thoroughfare, at right angles. There will be expense attached to putting a traffic officer on duty at this point, but it is a measure of safety and precaution that has been wished upon hundreds of communities with the marvelous growth of motor traffic and may be the means of saving lives before late fall puts an end to the rush of the year's driving. No Sunday passes without near escapes from serious accidents at this point. Such good luck cannot be expected to endure forever and the placing of a traffic officer at this point, though it does cost money, will be a good investment in the interest of safety and in making Danielson recognized as a place that does things to protect the interests of those who come here at a week end to spend their money and enjoy all the borough has to offer.

A large number of members of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., attended service at the Baptist church Sunday morning, Rev. J. W. Houck preaching the sermon.

Rev. John Roux, M. S., D. E. Jette, Venerand Chartier and others left here early Sunday afternoon to attend the laying of a cornerstone of a new church in Hartford.

Ruth A. Benedict of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

Today (Monday) is the last day for paying taxes to Collector George A. Williams unless one is willing to incur the penalties that are attached for non-payment.

The funeral of Patrick Malley was held from his home in Pomfret Landing with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville, Rev. Ignatius Kost being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were James Fitzgerald, Edward George, Eugene Alvord, Frank Noon, Thomas Malley and James Malley. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Commercial Course: Ina Mae Aldrich, Joseph Bove, Grace Ida Buell, Alice Flavel Clapp, Ruth Alma Cohen, Florence Adella Danforth, Hazel Irene Greene, Clarissa Phiania Griggs, Sophie Pauline Harrison, Ethel Evelyn Hughes, Arthur Louise Jette, Clara Elizabeth Keller, Rose Mae Kempton, Christine Cecilia Murray, Elizabeth Smith Rafferty, Elizabeth Putnam Rich, Myrtice Eldridge Warren.

The death of Captain Remie Delage of the Putnam police force, announced in the press Saturday morning, was not unexpected, but it was a general topic of conversation in the city where he had been in the public eye for the past year and a half. He came to Putnam about 19 years ago and had made a large circle of acquaintances and friends by his bubbling good nature, his genial way and his ready smile. It was but a short time previous to the accident that caused his death that he battled his way back to life from a serious stomach trouble and had hardly fully recovered from the effects of this illness when the accident occurred. Previous to his election as captain of police, Mr. Delage was for some years a chauffeur for the H. K. H. Silk company, a part of his duties being to drive for the company's agent, the late John G. Johnson, who died but a few months ago.

Sister Amet of this city has sailed for France. For nine years she has been attached to St. Mary's parochial school, and has been given a leave of absence that she may visit her parents in France. She will also visit Sister Madeline Amelie, who before taking orders was Miss Bernadette Dupre of Putnam. Sister Amet will return early in the fall.

Putnam clerks are to be given a half holiday during the months of June, July, August and September. The stores in the city will close at noon the first half holiday falling on June 7th.

The second week of the lockout of employes of the Manhasset Manufacturing company came to an end Saturday and the mill closed at noon until Monday morning, claiming that they had made some gains in the number of employes during the week and that the plant was operating at about 70 per cent. capacity. The men who are out maintained their picket line Saturday morning and claimed to have made an actual count of those entering the gate and that the count showed a further decrease in the number going to work. However, it appears from public observation that the differences are no nearer a settlement than when the trouble began. The men appear to be firm in the stand for a 7 per cent. increase in wages, and on the other hand the mill officials are making no move so far as known to adjust matters, only stating that they will treat with the men individually if they return to ask for their old jobs.

Charles Seder has sold his home on Grove street to Leon Walker. When possession is taken Mr. Walker will remove from North Grosvenordale, where he has lived for many years, to this city.

Large numbers of the younger set were at Wildwood park Saturday night for the first dance of the season. The pavilion was taxed to capacity, as the weather conditions were ideal for dancing out of doors.

The interior improvements at the Arcanum club, South Main street, are nearing completion. The dwelling house purchased from the town of Putnam has been remodeled to suit the needs of the club, with a fine large room for billiards and pool, and with a reading room in which there is a fireplace for use in the winter months. The exterior of the building is to be painted and repaired before the work is completed.

Prosper Vegiard of Putnam was elected president of the Northeastern Connecticut Fish and Game club at the organization meeting held Thursday evening following a banquet at the Putnam inn. The event was attended by 82 lovers of hunting and fishing, and it was under auspicious, enthusiastic circumstances that the new sportsmen's club came into being.

Besides Mr. Vegiard, the following other officers were elected: Vice president, Percy Baker of Pomfret; secretary, Dr. William Saretzki of Putnam; treasurer, Carl Sharpe of Abington; executive committee, G. Byron Morse of Putnam, Dr. James H. Hutchins of Pomfret, Irving Paine of Woodstock, Alexander Maitland of Thompson. Two other members, one from Ashford and one from Eastford, will be chosen later. Each of the executive committee members will be chairman of a town committee of his own selection which will have charge of the distribution of fih and game supplied by the state.

When the program at the Putnam inn was concluded everyone adjourned to the Bradley theatre, where, through the courtesy of Jake Alpert, four reels of moving pictures were screened depicting the work of the state fish and game commission in raising pheasants and rearing trout and other species of fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Weaver of Thompson announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Weaver, to George Hislop Bathgate of East Lyme. The engagement was announced at a luncheon given for 18 by Miss Weaver's sister, Mrs. Louis Marshall Ream, at Carolyn Hall, the home of Mrs. Norman B. Ream in Thompson.

Miss Weave is a graduate of Miss Howe and Miss Marot's school. Mr. Bathgate is secretary of the Niantic Manufacturing company and is well known in the textile trade in the eastern part of the state. The wedding will take place some time in the fall.

At the luncheon given by Mrs. Ream for her sister on Wednesday the following were present: Mrs. James Bathgate of East Lyme, Mrs. Robert Hall of Hartford, Mrs. H. Allen Cooke, Jr., of New London, Miss Dorothy Atwood of Wauregan, Mrs. Arthur B. Lapsley and Mrs. Luis de Flores of Pomfret, Miss Rosamond Danielson of Putnam Heights, Miss Mary Elliott, Miss Augusta Elliott, Mrs. H. Wynans Burnett, Mrs. Arthur Mills, Mrs. Lowes, Miss Olney, Miss Sheldon, Mrs. Sherman Whipple of Webster, Mrs. Charles Weaver, Mrs. Ream and Miss Weaver. The table was decorated in white sweet peas, and places were marked with tiny bride's cards. Bridge followed the luncheon.

Emile Breault of Thompson, has recently graduated from the carpentry department of the Trade school and accepted a position at his trade in Webster, Mass.

Plans and specifications have been made and contract signed for the building of a garage at the Quinnatisett Country club. The club will provide transportation for the boys to and from the school each day. This work will mean excellent experience and the boys have been busy getting out the mill work and expect to start construction the first of the week.

Special activity in the textile trade emphasizes the value of training in textile processes as carried on in the textile department where boys may secure practical training in such processes as weaving, carding, spinning twisting, windink, and academic studies.

Special summer courses for boys of 7th, 8th and high school grades in the various trades will be given at the school beginning June 25th.

WESTERLY

"The Reason of the Coming of Christ into the World—Why He came," was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church, at the morning service on Saturday.

Sunday at the Calvary Baptist church the subject of the sermon by Rev. Lewis A. Walker was "Baptist Progress in Rhode Island." Rev. and Mrs. Lewis A. Walker are deegates to the Northern Baptist convention to be held May 23 to 30 in Atlantic City, N. J. Delegates to the number of 5,000 from 35 states are to be present. Former Pastor Rev. J. L. Peacock, now president of Shaw university, of Raleigh, North Carolina, is also a delegate from Calvary Baptist church. Rev. A. L. Davis is to occupy the church pulpit May 27 in the absence of the regular pastor.

Whit Sunday was observed at Christ Episcopal church yesterday. At the eight o'clock morning service the class confirmed a week ago received their first communion. The subject of the morning service was "Christ as Human and Divine." No evening service was held as Rev. G. E. Foon completed his mission service at Coventry Center, R. I.

At the Broad Street Christian church Rev. A. L. Schoning of Yale Divinity school had for his morning topic, "The Second Mile" in the evening, "What Have You." Rev. Schoning's sermons have had favorable reception. On this (Monday) evening a church meeting will be held and a regular pastor chosen.
